PREFACE

This third volume of the Vedic Variants deals with the inflectional forms of nouns, adjectives, and pronouns. The general plan and purposes of the Vedic Variants series have been set forth in the preface to Volume 1, The Verb (1930) Volume 2, Phonetics, appeared in 1932

Except for a prehminary and incomplete collection of materials, Bloomfield's relation to this volume does not go beyond the formulation of the original project. On the other hand, I have had the benefit of active assistance from my friend and pupil Dr. Murray B. Emeneau, who supplemented Bloomfield's lists of materials by extensive additions of his own collectanea, and prepared a preliminary draft of the entire book. I hope that it may be possible for him to continue this cooperation in future volumes of the series; this volume has benefited greatly by his industry and acumen I have, however, worked over the entire book in the most intimate way, and the responsibility for its final form is wholly mine.

During correction of the proof, we received Hanns Oertel's valuable monograph, "Zur Kapiṣṭhala-Kaṭha-Saṁhiṭā" (SBBAW.ph.-h Abt., 1934, Heft 6). We felt able to make only the most important additions from its materials; these are indicated by references to "Oertel" followed by a page-number. They include all appropriate variants not previously noted by us.

The publication of this volume, as of its predecessors, has been made possible by the very generous financial aid of the Linguistic Society of America and of the American Council of Learned Societies Devoted to Humanistic Studies, to both of which we are deeply grateful.

FRANKLIN EDGERTON.

ABBREVIATIONS AND SYMBOLS

The standard abbreviations used in this volume are the same as in its predecessors VV = Vedic Variants; the numerals 1 and 2 after VV refer to the first and second volumes Vedic texts are referred to by the abbreviations used in the Concordance RVRep = Bloomfield's Rigueda Repetitions.

The asterisk * indicates a variant reading in one text when the mantra occurs in that same text with the reading for which this variant is a substitute; that is, it calls attention to the occurrence of both forms of the variation in the same text

The dagger † is used to call attention to a quotation which needs to be corrected in the Concordance.

CHAPTER I

INTRODUCTION AND SUMMARY

§1. This volume of the Vedic Variants deals with the inflection of nouns, pronouns, and adjectives, and aims to include all variations in the inflected forms of such words in the repeated mantras of the Veda, except as indicated in §9 The material falls into two divisions, which we call formal variants, and syntactic and stylistic variants Under formal variants we include all variations between what are intended as equivalent forms for the same case, number, and gender. Under syntactic and stylistic variants are included the rest, that is variations in case, number, and gender. The latter are, as was to be expected, much more numerous than the former.

FORMAL VARIANTS

- §2. The formal variants constitute a kind of addendum to the third volume of Wackernagel's great grammar, which, we need scarcely say, has been constantly consulted by us and has been of infinite value. Students of that masterly work will find, we hope, that it is supplemented and at times corrected by this book.
- §3. We begin with variation between the dual endings ā and au in all declensions (Ch II) They are fairly numerous and interesting, but reveal nothing new in principle. Next (Ch. III) the variations between the feminine endings at and ās in the dative and ablative-genitive singular, which put this important matter in a somewhat new light. Not only may at forms be used as ablatives as well as genitives, but also ās forms as datives; the latter fact has so far as we know, never before been specifically recognized.
- §4. Coming now to formal variants in the a declension specifically (Ch IV), we take up first the nom pl in $\bar{a}s$ or $\bar{a}sas$, which is largely a matter of meter. The same is true of the more numerous variations in the neuter plural \bar{a} and $\bar{a}ni$, and of the relatively few interchanges of the instr. pl. in ais and ebhis. The abl. sg. endings $\bar{a}t$ and (a)tas interchange but rarely, and so far as we have noticed only in pronouns and pronominal adjectives. Still rarer, and somewhat dubious, are the interchanges of \bar{a} and $ay\bar{a}$ in the fem. instr. sg

- §5. The next chapter (V) is a long one, and takes up variant forms of the short and long a declensions. That there is much interplay between these declensions has long been recognized, but the extent and variety of these interchanges as here revealed is surprising and goes farther at a number of points than has been shown by any previous treatment. Next comes a much shorter but still fairly lengthy chapter (VI) on variations in the short and long u stems, also with interesting results
- §6. In the r declension we find little except variations between long and short r in the gen pl, and one or two shifts of ablaut in the stem final. Such shifts of ablaut form the first part of the section dealing with consonantal stems. It is followed by a section dealing with the interplay of vant, vāns, (v)as, and van stems. Next a section on n stems; the principal variations here are in the neuter plural (a and \bar{a} , partly phonetic in character; very rarely \bar{a} or a and $\bar{a}ni$), oblique cases with and without intermediate ('euphonic') a; instrumentals in $n\bar{a}$ for $mn\bar{a}$ from mn stems; and loc sg. in an or ani, largely a matter of meter. This chapter (VII) is concluded with a few miscellaneous variants dealing with heteroclitic stems and the like
- §7. The short chapter (VIII) on diphthongal stems does not contain much of general interest. That on adjectives and numerals (IX) is also brief and not very important; it contains chiefly shifts between fem adjectives in \bar{a} and $\bar{\imath}$, and nominal and pronominal forms from pronominal adjectives
- §8. Our formal variants conclude with a chapter (X) on the forms of pronouns Except a few sporadic and miscellaneous variants listed at the end, they all concern interchange between enclitic and orthotome pronouns, acc, dat, and gen sg and pl Meter is apt to be concerned in them, and in the case of the acc sg forms also certain phonetic aspects, which have already been referred to in VV 2

SYNTACTIC AND STYLISTIC VARIANTS

$9. These are much more numerous than the formal variants We have found shifts between every one of the eight cases and every other, as well as between each of the three numbers and genders and every other. In these sections we usually group nouns, adjectives, and pronouns together, without distinction since it is obvious that as a rule the principles governing shift of case in noun forms are just the same as in adjective and in pronoun forms. The lists are in general as complete as we could make them by repeated and intensive search

However, in the variations in number we have included complete lists of pronoun variants only when there is no change of person or stem. That is, we have tried to include all shifts between pronouns of e.g. the 1st sg. and 1st pl. and between 2d sg. and 2d pl, but not of 1st sg. and 2d pl or vice versa. To have included the latter would have swollen the lists out of all proportion to the value of the additional materials for our present subject; in so far as they have a bearing on number, this bearing is sufficiently illustrated by the examples we have included.—In a few other cases, all specifically noted, we have given only examples, rather than complete lists, of formally similar variants occurring in the same passage

- §10. As was to be expected, there are great differences in the frequency of interchange between the various categories. Certain of the cases—such as vocative and locative—hardly ever exchange, while others—such as nominative and accusative—exchange very frequently. Case variations as a whole are much more numerous than those of number and gender, and number variations much more numerous than those of gender.
- $11. Roughly speaking we may think of these variants as falling into two main categories. One group consists of those in which the variation has an immediate relation to the meaning of the two varying morphemes. Thus, first, we may find the substitution of one construction for another. where both are equally possible, without change of meaning, or with so little change that the meanings are essentially identical For instance. after certain prepositions and certain verbs different oblique cases may be used without difference of meaning. Or a double dual may vary with a pair of singulars Or a noun may vary in gender, and consequently its form, or the form of a modifying adjective or pronoun, may vary, without difference in meaning. Or the difference of meaning may be a very slight one, such that similar changes occur in considerable numbers in Vedic tradition, as is the case with instrumentals and datives like the following: the RV. pada sam tam sincatu radhase 'may he sprinkle ' it unto bounty' is changed in KS., in the like context, to sam tat sificatu radhasa 'may he sprinkle it with bounty,' which means virtually the same thing There are very many cases of this sort among the interchanges of case, and they constitute one of the most interesting and important results of this volume. They show interplay between the various case forms to a hitherto unsuspected extent.
- $12. There are all possible gradations between absolute equivalence and marked difference of meaning in connection with such shifts of form On the whole, we recognize it as our duty to seek for differences of meaning, however slight, when different morphemes are used. But the important lesson of our materials is not the differences between variant syntactical usages; these were pretty well understood before It is rather the surprising extent to which they play into one another. Constructions which at first sight seem to have nothing to do with one another turn out to be practically interchangeable on an astonishing scale. Who would think a priori that there could be any relation between the instrumental, of either accompaniment or means, and the final dative? Yet we find a large number of cases like that quoted above, in which the two are virtually synonymous. And we shall find that this is no isolated instance.

§13. The second large group of these variants consists of those which have no real relation to the syntactic uses of the variant morphemes, out whose interest consists in the light they throw on the processes of Vedic tradition. They illumine the ways in which the whole stock of mantra material was reworked in the course of centuries, but do not illustrate points of Vedic grammar.

Transfer of epithet

§14. Probably the most widespread of the processes here referred to is that to which we have given the name of 'transfer of epithet' A change in number, gender, or case, or in two or all three of these, may signalize the application of an epithet (whether noun, adjective, or pronoun) to a different person or thing in one text from that to which it applies is another Thus. RV 10 125 3cd reads tam mā devā vy adadhuh purutrā, bhūristhātrām bhūry āvešayantīm In the repetition of this in the AV 430 2cd. avesayantim is changed to avesayantah original means 'the gods have established me (Vāc) variously in many places, me of many stations, bestowing abundantly.' The epithet āvešayantīm here agrees with the object. Vāc In the AV. it is made to agree with the subject, the gods. 'introducing (installing) me abundantly,' or 'making me enter into many things' By this alteration the AV substitutes a nominative for an accusative, a plural for a singular, and a masculine for a feminine, yet obviously the change has no bearing on the syntax of case, number or gender It interestingly illustrates the psychology of the Vedic traditionalists; whatever may have been precisely in the mind of the composer of the original form (this is a problem which may be left for exegetes of the passage), the AV. has a secondary lectio facilior, the meaning of which is simple enough, evidently the AV. reductor stumbled over the recondite meaning of the passage in its Rigvedic form. See Edgerton, Studies in Honor of Maurice Bloomfield, 126

- §15. Only slightly different is a case like the following. $tasmai\ devõ$ amptāh (AV amptam) $sam\ vyayantām$ (AV. tu) AV. TS MS. ApMB, 'let the gods provide for him nectar' or 'let the immortal gods provide for him' (objects supplied from the preceding line). Here one of the two variant forms, in this case we believe the original one (that of AV.), contains an independent noun, not strictly speaking an 'epithet' of any other word, which in the other version is 'transferred' as an epithet to the word $dev\bar{a}(h)$. The reverse of this, in which the older form of the variant presents an 'epithet' which is given independent construction in the secondary form, also occurs (an example is found in the next paragraph) Such variants as these are also included by us, with a slight stretching of the term, in the category of 'transfer of epithet.'
- §16. Transfers of epithet are extremely common, and are found as between each of the three genders and numbers and almost every two of the eight cases. Often the variation involves more change than that of the word-ending alone; the variant forms may be really different words, as in asmabhyam indav indrayuh (SV. indriyam) RV. SV; here the RV. indrayuh is an epithet of the subject of the verb (pavasva); SV changes it into indriyam, object of that verb. Since such variations really concern Vedic psychology rather than grammar and syntax, variants of this sort are included in our lists of 'transfer of epithet.'

Form attraction or assimilation

- §17. The process described as 'transfer of epithet' involves in many, perhaps most, instances attraction in form (case, number, or gender) to another word in the context. We have, however, restricted the term 'form attraction' or 'assimilation' in a technical sense to a different group of variants. In them a word, without being made to refer to a different person or thing in such a way that the process can be described as 'transfer of epithet,' nevertheless suffers a change in form by attraction or assimilation to an adjacent word in the context. Such variants are fairly frequent as between different cases, and we then describe the process as 'case attraction'. They are much rarer as between different numbers and genders.
- §18. The word exercizing the attraction may be a name or epithet of the same person or thing to which the variant word refers, as in yajñasya (AV. cittasya) mātā (SMB. mātaram) suhavā ms (AV no) astu

- AV TB. SMB (preceded in SMB. by ākūtīm devīm manasā prapadye): 'I do homage with my mind to the goddess Ākūtī, the mother of the sacrifice, may she be easily invoked for us.' So SMB, construing the epithet 'mother of the sacrifice' with the accusatives of the preceding pāda, while the other texts make it agree with the subject in its own pāda; but both refer to the same personage.
- §19. Furthermore, however, the word exercizing the attraction may not refer to the same entity as the attracted word. In such cases the result is a real difference of meaning as well as of construction. In the following formula we have two such attractions, each in a different text hanga yajña (TB yajñam) indriyam (VS 'yaih) VS MS KS TB. The original form was clearly that found in MS KS. "(They praised Indra,) his strength, with oblation, at the sacrifice' In VS indriyam is attracted to the case of hanga' with oblation, with powers' In TB yajña is attracted to the case of indriyam: "(They praised Indra) with oblation, (praised) the sacrifice, (his) strength' (§473) Such changes as these are easy enough in the ritualistic language of the Vedic mantras, which are much more interested in impressive sound than in sense. They occur between most of the cases
- §20. Special attention may be called to a particular type of case attraction, in which one form of the variant contains a relative pronoun, most often in the nominative case (the defining or 'articular' relative), as in tam kravyūdam ašīšamam AV, yah kravyūt tam ašīšamam Kauš, 'I have appeased the flesh-cater' (§396) Here, if we regard the AV form as older (which however can scarcely be regarded as certain), the change is a sort of converse of case-attraction, the assimilated form being the older But such instances can hardly be separated from the following, where the assimilated form, without the relative, is clearly secondary tam u stuhi yo aniah sindhau sūnuh satyasya yuvūnam AV; tam u stuhy antahsindhum sūnum satyasya yuvūnam AŠ, 'praise him who is within the waters, the son of truth, the youthful' (§394)

Phrase inflection

§21. The third type of variation which seems to us to illustrate the underlying psychology of Vedic tradition, rather than the grammar or syntax of the language, is that to which we have given the name of 'phrase inflection'. In it a phrase is lifted out of its original context and used in a different one, which requires a different form or construction for one or more of the words. Sometimes it is a single pada which is borrowed and adapted to a new context, perhaps in the same vicinity, as when AV. 4 34. 6b ksīrcna pūrņā udakena dadhnā, 'full of milk, water, and sour milk,' is repeated in the next stanza with pūrnān for pūrnā(h). The stanzas are otherwise different; in the first the nom. case agrees with the nouns in the preceding pūda, ghṛtahradā madhukūlāh surodakāh, while in the second the acc. agrees with the preceding acc (caturah kumbhāns caturdhā dadāmī) The same sort of adaptation to new contexts occurs much more often in passages which are not so closely associated.

§22. A somewhat different type of 'phrase inflection' is illustrated by the following: āyuşmatīdam (ApMB. HG. āyuşmān idam, MG. once āyuşmann idam) pari dhatsya vāsah AV. SMB ApMB PG. HG. MG. (bis), 'O long-lived one (or, being long-lived) do thou put on this garment.' In some texts the epithet is masculine, here the Aryan boy at the initiation ceremony is addressed. In others it is feminine; these address the bride at the marriage rite—An entire stanza may be thus adapted to a new material context (as distinguished from the different verbal context concerned in the variant quoted above), and such 'phrase inflection' is a very fruitful source of variation in number and gender, while case variation is usually associated rather with the type of the preceding paragraph. Yet the two do not differ much in essence and it is impossible to draw a sharp line between them. They include a great many variants which the Vedic ritualists would call ūhas or vikāras

Miscellaneous variants

$23. It should finally be said that, among the variations in case particularly, there are not a few that are miscellaneous and unclassifiable. Generally they involve rather sweeping reconstructions of the variant passage, with substitutions of different words and other drastic changes. For the sake of completeness we have tried to include even these, and indeed many of them have considerable interest, and throw light on the mental operations of the ritualistic traditionalists, and at times on the exegesis of individual passages.

Arrangement of the materials

§24. In arranging the 'syntactic and stylistic' variants (as distinguished from the 'formal variants', §1) we have decided, after some hesitation, to follow strictly the classifications suggested by the forms themselves We shall begin with the variants of each case with every other case, whatever their nature, and then follow with the variants of the three numbers and the three genders This involves separation of the variants of the types last described, cases of 'transfer of epithet', 'form attraction', 'phrase inflection', and miscellaneous, into thirty-odd possible divisions (not all showing actual examples), so that e.g. variants involving 'transfer of epithet' appear separately under variations of Vocative and Nominative, Vocative and Accusative, Vocative and Instrumental, and so on through the list. Of course, such variants may be said logically to belong together, for they illustrate the same aspect of Vedic literary psychology, and nothing else. In principle it makes no difference what case-forms, number-forms, or gender-forms are involved

§25. Despite this objection, we feel that it was impossible for us to do otherwise than follow the lines of formal variation line can be drawn between the categories at certain points attraction or assimilation often seems to have been a contributory influence in bringing about a syntactic shift, which nevertheless occurs elsewhere without any such contributory influence Some types of 'phrase inflection' are closely similar to, and should certainly not be separated from, certain syntactic variations. For instance, the shift between a vocative of direct address, usually with a second-person verb, and a nominative of indirect statement, typically with a third-person verb, is a genuine syntactic variation. Yet it occurs also, and quite often, in cases where a formula is lifted from its original context and adapted to a new context, and where the change of case is precisely due to this fact, so that we have a genuine and typical case of 'phrase inflection' (see §329) By consulting our Table of Contents and the Index of Subjects it will be easy for any one interested to bring together all the instances of 'transfer of epithet' etc

SUMMARY OF SYNTACTIC VARIATIONS

§26. We shall now proceed to summarize very briefly the contents of the syntactic chapters, and to indicate the most important results that bear on Vedic grammar and syntax. In this summary we shall ignore the variants dealing with 'transfer of epithet', 'form attraction', and 'phrase inflection'. We shall begin with brief accounts of the most important and interesting ways in which each of the eight cases varies with the others, and follow with corresponding statements on variations of number and gender

Vocative and other cares

§27. Variations between the vocative and other cases usually rignalize shift between direct address and indirect reference, as in materiama adite ($G. oth) sarma yacha ($G. yansat) AV. TS MS KS TB. TA $G ApMB., 'like a mother grant, O Aditi (Aditi thell grant) protection unto him' (§§322, 326). However, in variants with the nominative, the latter may be appositional to a 2d person subject, so that direct address is found in both forms. Thus, a tigha mitraraddiamah (AV. ona) AV. KS TB † Ap$ †, 'approach increasing friends' or 'approach, O increaser of friends' (§§323, 331)

§28. Similarly also with other cases in variation with vor Thus, a vocative of direct address may vary with an accusative of indirect reference: reā yāmi maruto brahmanaspatim (SV. *te), derān (SV devi) avo varenyam RV. SV. MS. KS, 'with a hymn I approach the Maruts, Brahmanaspati, the gods, for excellent aid' or 'I approach [you], O Maruts' etc (§343). Or else both forms may contain direct address: namasyāmas tvedyam (KS. *ya) jātaredah RV. MS. KS. TB., 'we pay homage to thee, the worshipful one, O Jātavedas (to thee, O worshipful J)' (§348).

$29. With the instrumental, where both forms have direct address, a second subject may be expressed by an associative instr or by another voc., as in mo sā na indrātra (TS.† indra) prisu devaih (KS derāh, TS MS. deva) RV. VS TS MS KS. SB., 'O Indra along with the gods (and ye gods, or O god!)' (§353). On the other, hand the instrumentality thru which a result is expected may be indirectly referred to in the instr or directly addressed in the voc: jagatyainam (AS °ty cnam) mksr ā vešayāmah (°mi, °ni) TS. MS KS AS., 'O jagatī (by means of the jagatī) may we (I) settle him in the tribes!' (§354).

§30. Likewise with the dative both these types are found: agnayc (AV. Kauś agne) samidham āhārşam (ahārşam) AV. Kauś AG. GG. SMB ŚG PG. HG ApMB, 'O Agm (for Agni) I have brought firewood, for the great Jātavedas'; kṣayadvīra (TS °vīrāya) sumnam asmc te astu RV. TS. (§§358-9)

§31. And with the genitive, the shift between direct address and indirect reference is found in ghrtavatī savitar (MS. KS. 'tur) ādhipatye (TS. 'tyath) TS MS KS AS, 'in [thy] overlordship, O Savitar' or 'in Savitar's overlordship' (§363); while direct address is found in both variants in brhaspatisutasya ta (KS. om ta) indo (KS. MS. inda). TS. MS KS, brhaspatisutasya deva soma ta indor (VSK. inda)... VS VSK. $B. (§365).

Nominative and other cases

- §32. Perhaps the most characteristic way in which the nominative may vary with other cases in general is that in which one variant form has an independent statement, with subject nominative, which in the other form is compressed into syntactic dependence, as a rule on an adjoining sentence, the nominative being replaced by any other case. Thus, with the accusative. nirtim tvāham pari veda visvatah VS MS SB, nirtir it tvāham pari veda visvatah (sarvatah) AV TS KS, 'I know thee completely as Nirti' (§393) Or the dependence may be created by the insertion of an active verb iyam vedih paro antah pṛthivyāh RV. AV. VS SB AS LS, vedim āhuh param antam pṛthivyāh TS KSA, 'this altar is the extreme limit of the earth' or 'they declare the altar (to be) the extreme limit of the earth' (§392). And notably we find a group in which the independent nominative is put in a relative clause tam u sļuhi yo antah sindhau AV tam u sļuhy antahsindhum AŠ, both meaning 'praise him who is within the waters' (§394)
- §33. With the instrumental: gavā te krīnāni TS. ApŚ: iyam gaus tayā te krīnāni MŚ, 'with a cow let me buy of thee' or 'here is a cow, with her' etc (§418)
- §34. With the dative. tasmā etam bharata tadvašāya (tadvašo dadth) RV. (both), 'bring this to him who desires it' or 'bring this to him, he desires it and is generous' (§425).
- §35. With the ablatīve: mṣno (viṣnoi, viṣnos) sthānam ası (MS MŚ sthāmāsı, KS sthāmnah) VS TS. MS KS ŠB TB ApŚ MŚ (§433). In KS connected syntactically with the following, ita . vīryam abjnot.
- §36. With the genitive: agnīsomayor aham devayajyayā cakşuşmān (vṛtrahā) bhūyāsam TS ApŚ, agnīsomau vṛtrahanau tayor (vṛtrahanāv agnīsomayor) aham devayajyayā vṛtrahā bhūyusam KS MŚ (§445).
- §37. With the locative. krie yonau (KS krio yonir) vapateha bījam (vījam) RV AV VS TS MS. KS SB, 'in the prepared womb (the womb is prepared,) scatter here the seed' (§450)
- §38. With the vocative (§338): tişihā ratham (rathe) adhi tam (yam, TB yad) vajrahasta (TB °tah) RV VS SB TB Instead of 'O vajrahanded', TB says 'since (thou art) vajra-handed'
- §39. Otherwise most of the interchanges between nominative and other cases either belong to general classes like 'transfer of epithet' or 'phrase inflection' (§§14-6, 21-2), or are matters of alternative syntactic expressions for what is essentially the same idea. Thus, the same thought may be expressed in an active or transitive form, with accusative of direct object or goal, or in an intransitive or passive form, with the accusative changed to a nominative, as in (om) agnim tarpayāmi BDh, 'I gratify Agni,' but agnis trpyatu SG., 'let Agni be gratified' (§373).

- §40. Similarly, the instrumental of agent or means expresses that which performs an action, and so in intransitive or passive expressions may vary with another expression in which it is made the subject of an active verb, in the nominative, as in ya īm vahanta āśubhih RV, 'who travel by horses,' but yadī vahanty āśavaḥ SV., 'when horses carry [him]' (§408). And in the same way, with a verb denoting origin, the ablative of source with a passive expression is the equivalent of the subject nominative with the corresponding active, in asmād van tvam ajāyathā .JB. AG. Kauś, 'from him thou wast produced,' asmāt tvam adhi jāto 'si VS. ŚB TA. KŚ. Karmap., same sense, but ayam vai tvām ajanayad ..ŚŚ., 'he verily has begotten thee' (§432).
- §41. In a rather more intricate way, but fairly commonly, the dative of purpose varies with a nominative (usually then an epithet of the subject), as denoting something desired for or attributed to the subject. Thus, pade-pade pāsinah santi setavah (AV. °ve) RV. AV. KS ApS., 'on every spot are snare-bearing bonds (snare-bearers for a bond)' (§420).
- §42. Other variations are related to specific aspects of the syntax of other cases and will be treated in dealing with them below.

Accusative and other cases

- §43. The accusative may be used in forming adverbs, of such loose and general meaning that they may vary with corresponding forms of practically any other case. Thus even with the nominative, the nominative form being then of course an adjective, as in subhūh svayambhūh prathamah (AŠ ŠŠ °mam) VS. ŠB. AŠ. ŠŠ., where the word 'first' has essentially the same meaning and application whether it be in form an adjective agreeing with the subject (VS. ŠB.), or an adverb (AŠ ŠŠ), §404.
- §44. The instrumental varies in such cases especially easily with the accusative, being used in quite the same adverbial way, as in ghṛtācy asy upabhṛn nāmnā (VSK nāma) VS. VSK. ŚB. (and others, §471). Here both mean simply nomine, 'by name.'
- §45. The final dative may also be substantially equivalent to an adverbial accusative, as in tam (MS. tan) mā devā avantu šobhāyai (MS °yi) TS. MS. TA., 'may the gods aid me unto splendor (splendidly)' (§487).
 - §46. The locative is used as well as the accusative in forms that are

vaguely adverbial. tena devă devatăm agra (VS MS. KS. agram) ăyan AV. VS MS KS: tapară (TS tayā) devă devatăm agra âyan TS TB TA. MahēnU, 'by this (by tapas) the gods attained to podhood in the beginning (agre or agram)' (§530)

$47. The accusative of goal, which develops into, and cannot clearly be distinguished from, the purely syntactic accurative of 'direct object', is found varying in one way or another with every other oblique case. Naturally the psychology of the passages varies to some extent with the instrumental and accurative, the variation is specially apt to occur when the verb may be felt as connoting the idea of 'ioining', which suggests the associative instrumental, as in sunam linged abhi (AV. anu) yantu (MS kīnāšo abhy ctu) rāharh (AV TS, rāhān) RV. AV. VS TS MS. KS SB, 'prosperously let the ploymen (ploymen) go along with (after) the draft-animals' ($167). But there two cases also interchange where no notion of 'joining' is present, as in pra knatru (SV smasrubhir) dedhuvad ūrdhvathā bhūt (SV odhā bhut at) RV SV, 'shaking (with) his beard' (§469). Or the 'inner', 'cognate', or 'resultative' accusative varies with an instrumental of manner or means: ghrienārkam abhy arcanti valsam AV, tam arkair abhy arcanti valsam TB., 'they sing with ghee a song (sing with songs) unto the young' And tasmā indrāya havisā (TB havir ā) juhota MS TB (and others, §466), 'offer (with) oblation to Indra here'

§48 So the final dative or the dative of the interested party may vary with the accusative of goal; kāmena mā (TA. me) kāma āgan (TA āgāt) AV TA, 'by love love has come to (for?) me'; sā paprathe prthivī pārthivāni (KS MŚ °vāya) KS TB ApŚ MŚ; 'this earth spread out unto the earthly (regions)' or 'so as to reach the earthly (region)' (§§478-9) Many other cases will be found below under accusative and dative variants, but in perhaps the majority of them the psychological difference is greater between the two variant forms

§49. With the ablative we find strict equivalence only after prepositions (ā 'until' with acc = abl., §494) But with verbs of separation the two things separated (one acc, the other abl) may change places, as in iyam duruktāt (PG "tam) paribādhamānā ŠG SMB. PG ApMB. MG, 'this (girdle), guarding (its wearer) from slander' or 'warding off slander (from its wearer)' (§493).

§50. With the genitive, equivalence to the accusative shows itself chiefly after certain verbs which may govern both cases, and after nouns with verbal force. Thus, verbs of eating and drinking show objects in either case, as also in the locative: papuh sarasvatyā nadyāh

(MS °lyām nadyām, KS ApS. °tīm nadīm) Vait. KS. ApS. MS., 'they drank (of, or in) the Sarasvatī river' (§§501, 544).

§51. Verbs of offering take acc, gen., or instr. of the thing offered: tasmā indrāya sutam ā juhota (TB ApS. juhomi) VS. VSK MS. KS. SB. TB. ApS. MS., tasmā indrāyāndhaso juhota RV., tasmā indrāya havisā (TB havir ā) juhota MS. TB. (§502).

§52. Verbs of ruling, of knowing, and of robbing, see §§503-5

§53. Nouns with verbal force: mām an valā bhava HG., agner (AV. palyur) anuvratā bhūtvā AV. TS. KS. TB. MŚ. ApMB. (§506).

§54. As to the locative, its use as virtual equivalent of the accusative of goal is very familiar; a striking instance is yasya virtam (virte) pasavo yanti sarve, yasya virtam (virte) upatishanta āpah, §$523, 526, 'into whose control go all cattle, under whose control enter the waters' Here a minority of texts, and different ones in the two cases, substitute a loc. virte for the acc. virtam, altho motion is surely implied both times. There are, however, many cases of such variants where the loc. may be interpreted as denoting position, in contrast with an acc. of motion; see our detailed discussion below, §$523 ff. We shall also find there that verbs of placing, dhā and its group, govern acc and loc. interchangeably, altho often one may plausibly argue some psychological difference in the variant usages (§$533 ff.). With various prepositions, too, the two cases are at times nearly or quite equivalent (§$539 ff.).

Instrumental and other cases

§55. An important general class of variants between instrumental and other cases concerns the associative instrumental, which may theoretically vary with any other case in this way, that in one form two parallel nouns are put in the same case (any case whatever), while in the other form one of them is replaced by an associative instrumental. That is, 'A. and B.' is the equivalent of 'A. along with B' Such variants actually occur with voc., nom., and acc Thus, with the vocative, mo sū na indrātra (TS † indra) prisu devaih (KS. devāh, TS. MS deva) RV. VS. TS. MS. KS. SB. Originally, 'O Indra along with the gods!'; in KS. at least, 'O Indra (and) ye gods!' (§353).

§56. With the nominative, yavā (MS. yavair) na barhir bhruvi kesarāni VS MS. KS. TB, 'the hairs on his eyebrow are like barley and sacred straw (like sacred straw together with barley)' (§412)

$57. With the accusative, rūpair apinšad (TB.* rūpāni pinšan) bhuvanāni višvā RV. AV. VS. MS. KS. TB. (both) N., 'he shaped all beings along with forms', or 'shaping forms (and) all beings' ($459)

- §58. The associative instrumental is by its nature related to the meaning of bahuvrihi compounds, so that in theory we may expect an associative instr., either of a karmadhāraya compound or a separate uncompounded word, to vary with a bahuvrihi compound agreeing with the noun with which the instr. is connected, in any case whatever. We actually find such variants with nom. and acc only, so far as noted. Thus, nom, tripād ūrdhva ud ait puruṣaḥ RV. ArS VS TA, tribhiḥ padbhir dyām arohat AV, 'with three quarters (Puruṣa) went aloft (mounted the heaven)' (§413). Acc., rākām aham suhavām (AV. °vā) suṣṭutī huve RV. AV. etc, 'I call on Rākā of (with) good call, with fair praise' (§470).
- §59. Verbs of joining, and their antonyms denoting severance or separation, show a curious blend of constructions involving the associative instrumental in interchange with accusative, dative, ablative, and locative Even the genitive also becomes involved if we add nominal expressions equivalent to verbs of joining; and dat. and loc vary with each other (§645). Details will be set forth under the various rubrics; here we shall content ourselves with a group of variants which illustrate the several types:
- añgāny ātman (añgair ātmānam) bhisajā tad aśvinā, 'the physician Aśvins joined his limbs upon his body (self)' or 'his body with his limbs ' See §462.
- sam mā sjjāmy adbhir (apa) osadhībhih, perhaps 'I unite myself with (unto?) waters, with plants 'See §460. Acc. and instr.
- tvaşţā rūpeṇa samanaktu yajñam: tvaşţā rūpāni samanaktu yajñaih, 'let Tvaṣṭar umte sacrifice with form (forms with sacrifices)' Here the acc and instr. interchange doubly, the result being substantial equivalence (§461.)
- susambhṛtā (°te) tvā sam bharāmi, 'I unite thee with (unto) good union.'
 Dat. and unstr.; §560.
- samuesane tanuas (°vā) cārur edhi, 'in joining of (with) thy body.' Gev. and unstr., with a nominal expression. The dat is also used §§455, 560, 578.
- sam devānām sumatyā (sumatau) yajnījānām, '(bring us) together with (to, in) the favor of the sacrificial gods' Loc and instr; §605.

 —The following curious case may also be noted here:
- samjagmāno (°nā, °nau) divā (diva ā) pṛthivyā (°vyāh), 'uniting with heaven and earth' or 'uniting from heaven and earth.' Abl and instr.: $576
 - $60. The above contain verbs of joining; verbs of separation are more restricted, and with them the most characteristic constructions are the abl. of separation or the associative instr (by analogy with verbs of joining).

tebhir no adya (tebhyo na indrah) savitota visnuh (tebhyo asmān varunah soma indrah), se vi muñcanlu, 'may free us from these (fetters of Varuna)' or the like; §573.

§61. But note also the following, where two accs vary with an acc. and an instr. (for abi.):

vi kumāram jarāyunā (vi garbham ca jarāyu ca), se bhinadmi, 'I separate the child from the afterbirth (the embryo and the afterbirth)' (§459).

§62. An instr still felt, apparently, as associative, the without clear expressions of joining, varies without marked difference of meaning with the acc, dat. and loc:

pra rādhasā (rādhānsī) codayāte (°yate) mahitvanā, 'let him promote us with favor (unto favors), with might' (§469)

sve dakşe (svair dakşair) dakşapiteha sīda, seated here in (with) thine own powers' (§603)

§63. The instrumental of means may vary with any other oblique case. The means whereby an end is obtained may also be regarded as its source or cause, and so be expressed by the ablative, or, with nominal forms, by the subjective genitive. With expressions of gratification it may exchange with the objective genitive It may be felt as the occasion, the sphere within which the action takes place, and so be put in the locative. And finally, with nouns meaning 'something in the nature of a boon or desirable object or quality' (§556), it very often interchanges with a final dative, as expressing the result rather than the There is in this last interchange a slight shift in psychology, but from the point of view of Vedic thought it is very slight, as may be seen from such an example as the following, which is typical of many: pra no rāyā parīnasā (SV. rāye panīyase), followed by catsi vājāya panthām, RV SV. KB, 'break forth a path for us by riches and plenty (unto wonderful riches), unto strength' Here the RV original has a dative in the near-synonym vājāya, which has doubtless caused SV's alteration to the dative raye But we shall see (§558) many cases where no such assimilatory influence is found

§64. With the ablative of source or cause yas te visas tapasah (TB. °sā) sambabhāvuh AV TB, 'what clans have sprung up from (by) thy tapas.'—bhuvos tvam indra brahmanā (MS °no) mahān RV TS MS KS AS, 'become thou great, O Indra, by (thru, as a result of) our holy words' (§§569, 571)

§65. With the genitive the instr of means exchanges in various ways. After expressions of gratification an objective genitive varies with it in justam develver (AV devānām) uta mānuṣebhih (AV. mānuṣāṇām) RV AV, 'accepted by (pleasing to) gods and men' (§579). The subjective genitive may be its equivalent with nominal (participial or quasiparticipial) forms, as in āpo devāh prathamajā rtena (AV rtasya) RV AV., 'the divine waters, first-produced by (first-born of) the rta' (§580). And with verbs of offering, the partitive gen (as well as the acc, §466) may vary with the instr., as in tasmā indrāyā hanṣā juhota MS, tasmā indrāyāndhaso jūhota RV, 'to Indra here make offering with oblation (make offering of the soma)' (§582)

§66. And finally the locative, as expressing the occasion or sphere of activity, may vary with an instr. which seems often, the not always, to be felt as expressing the means, as in marutām prasave (VS. ŠB. "vena) jaya (TS jayata) VS TS MS. KS ŠB MŠ, 'in (upon, by) the impulse of the Maruts conquer' (§§593, 601).

$67. The instrumental lends itself easily to use in adverbial formations of many sorts. No sharp distinction can be made between such forms which contain temporal or local force (instr. of time and place). and others which are more vaguely adverbial, denoting manner or attendant circumstance of various kinds We saw in §44 that the instr and acc. interchange in this latter way Some variants of instr and dative come pretty close to this, as kāmena (TS MS kāmāya) ivā prati (TS om prati) grhnāmi AV TS MS KS PB TB TA AS ApS, 'I receive thee with (unto) affection', i.e. 'affectionately', which is about all that is meant by both forms (§558) Worth mentioning is the following, in which instr, dat, and loc all are used, with little difference of real meaning apām uta prasastişu (RV. †prasastaye, AV VSK °tibhih) RV AV. VS VSK TS MS KS SB (§§558, 601, 690), 'unto (by, in) praising of the waters [O horses (gods), are (be) ye strong]' An instance of instr and loc would be sa raye sa puramdhyam (SV. odhyā) RV SV. AV JB, preceded by so ghā no yoga ā bhuvat. 'may he stand by us in our work, unto riches, in (with) liberality' ($603) The last word means virtually liberaliter; note the parallel dative raye §68. In adverbial or quasi-adverbial forms denoting time the instr.

§68. In adverbial or quasi-adverbial forms denoting time the instr. varies with abl, gen., and loc Thus, yad ahnā (and rātriyā) pāpam akārşam TA MahānU, yad ahnāt (and rātriyāt) kurute pāpam TAA.

(on the latter forms see §575);—madhu naktam utoşasah (KS. °sā, TS TA °sī) RV. VS TS MS KS SB TA BrhU MahānU. Kauś Here it seems fairly certain (see §584) that all three forms mean 'at dawn'; the only question is whether uşasah, which varies with both instr and loc, is gen sg. (as we think probable) or acc pl

§69. In sımılar forms with local meaning the ınstr. varies with abl. and loc: ayam paścād (MS paścā) vidadvasuh MS KS (§575).—adhi kşami vişurūpam yad astı (MS † āsta) RV AV. MS TB, adhi kşamā višvarūpam yad asya ArS; both kşamā and kşami 'on the earth' (§598).

Dative and other cases

§70. The dative of purpose often denotes something attributed to. or desired for, some other entity in the context, and may vary with a form which has the construction natural for that entity. Thus the variant form may be nominative, in apposition with the subject, as in pade-pade pāsinah santi setavah (AV "ve) RV AV. KS. ApS., 'on every spot are snare-bearing bonds (snare-bearers for a bond)' (§420) similarly the accusative, as in mahyam suro abharaj jyotişe kam AV. 'to me the sun brought (it) in order to light,' mahyam jyotir abharat sūryas tat KS, 'to me the sun brought that (as) light' (§486). Of almost the same nature is the following variant in which, after a verb of ruling, the 'object' required is genitive instead of accusative, so that we find gen. and dat varying: kşayantam rādhaso (TS. °se, KS. śavase) mahah (TS. KS mahe) RV. SV VS. TS. MS. KS SB, 'ruling over (unto) great bounty (strength)' (§628) Elsewhere the gentive form of the variant is dependent on another dative of purpose, with which the dative form is parallel: raye (ApS rayo) agne mahe tva [danaya samıdhīmahi] SV. ApS, 'we kindle thee, Agni, unto great riches, unto giving (unto great giving of riches)' (§629). With the instrumental, also, the dative of purpose often varies, but here the psychology is rather different; the same thing (regularly a boon or desired quality) is felt alternately as means or as desired result: sarasvaly asunod indrıyaya (LS °yena) VS MS. KS. SB. TB. SS Vait. LS, 'Sarasvatī pressed (the soma) for (by) strength' (§558)

§71. The loose use of the dative of indirect object or of the interested party, the 'to' or 'for' case, makes it possible to use it in variation with almost any other oblique case after various verbs and verbal nouns. Thus after verbs of motion acc. and dat. are used to express the goal (cf. §§478 ff.): kāmena mā (TA me) kāma āgan (āgāt) AV. TA, 'by love love has come to me' The loc is also used in the same sense and frequently interchanges with the acc (§§523 ff); with the dative it is not in common interchange in this meaning; perhaps the clearest case is the following with a verbal noun: develop (ApŚ deveşu) havyavāhanah RV ApŚ, 'bearing the oblation to the gods' (§646)

§72. With verbs of giving and placing, especially da and dha, the loc and dat are in specially close relations, on which see §§639 ff. and VV 2 §101 The simple $d\bar{a}$ is not used with the loc of the person: otherwise the constructions of da and dha are or may be identical. Even this exception disappears with some compounds of $d\bar{a}$, as in tam devebhyah parıdadamı ApS, tam devesu parıdadamı vidvan AS. MS. 'I give him over to the gods' Moreover the acc comes into contact with both dat and loc in connexion with such roots as dha, which may govern either acc of person and loc of thing ('set in') or dat (loc?) of person and acc of thing ('establish for, give to'), as in svargam me lokam yazamānāya dhehi Vait, suvarge loke yazamānam hi dhehi (and dhehi mām) TB ApS. (§482) And with noun compounds containing dā or dhā, an adnominal genitive may vary with a dative dependent on the verbal force still felt in the root devebbyo (VS. devānām) bhāgadā (TS °dhā) asat VS TS MS KS t, be he a giver of portions to the gods' (§619).

§73. Verbs of saying, offering, and various others are construed interchangeably with dat and loc: develops (devesu) mā sukrtam (nah sukrto) brūtāt (etc.), 'declare me (us) virtuous to the gods' (§647).—prthivyām (KŠ °vyā) amrtam juhomi. AŠ KŠ ApŠ, 'I offer nectar to the earth' (§650).

§74. Verbs of joining show especially the instrumental (§59) in variation with other cases. But as we saw that both dat and loc vary with instr, it is not surprising to find them varying with each other, as in aprive praticular muñca tat (muñcatam) AV. Kauś, dviṣadbhyah praticular muñcāmi pākam (pāpam) SMB BG ApMB, '(I) fasten this (eyil, bond) upon the enemy' (§645). And as the gen was seen to vary with the instrafter nouns of joining (§59), so also with the dative: samveśanas (°ne) tanuvai (tanve, tanvaś, tanvā) cārur edhi, 'in joining of (with) thy body (uniting to thy body)' (§578). Here all three cases, instr, dat, and gen, interchange

§75. With the ablative the relations of the dative are more specialized, indeed practically restricted to verbs meaning 'remove' or 'free' With them the dative of the interested party easily interchanges with the ablative of separation, as in sa sutrāmā svavān indro asme (asmat), followed by ārāc cid dveṣaḥ sanutar yuyotu ("ta), 'may Indra, well-saving,.. keep very far away from (for) us all hatred' (§612). The original form of this (RV) has the dative, only the secondary AV. (and MS) the very natural ablative.

§76. Even the gen. is found in exchange with the dative after verbs in a couple of cases, which to be sure strike us as rather anomalous; see §§632-4 below.

§77. With the gentive, however, the dative varies chiefly after nouns and adjectives rather than verbs. Among these one prominent group consists of adjectives meaning 'pleasant' and the like, with which the loc. is also almost equally frequent: juşlo vāco (vāce) bhūyūsam 'may I be pleasing to Speech' (§616); [priyam mā kṛnu] uta śūdra utārye (śūdrāya cāryāya ca), 'make me dear to both Śūdra and Aryan' (§654).

Ablative and other cases

§78. The ablative as the 'whence' case expresses source, cause, or place from which, and in various ways may interchange with any other oblique case. Thus in expressions of origin it may vary with the instrumental of means or the locative of position, since the source of anything may be regarded either as the instrument which produces it, or as its original and typical location. So, yās te višas tapasah (TB °sā) sambabhāvuh AV. TB, 'what clans have sprung up from (by) thy tapas' (§569).—karkandhu jajāe madhu sāragham mukhāt (MS mukhe) VS MS KS TB, 'jujube and sweet honey were produced from (in) his mouth' (§660). Also an adnominal gentive may replace the ablative in similar phrases: tato mā yajāasyāšīr āgachatu MS KS ApS, 'from it may blessing of sacrifice come to me'; tasya māšīr avatu vardhatām AS, 'may its blessing aid and increase me' (§656)

§79. Similar ablatives vary with instrumentals and locatives where no idea of origination is expressed, at least clearly: bhuvas tvam indra brahmanā (MS °no) mahān RV TS. MS KS AŠ, 'become thou great, O Indra, by (from, as a result of) our holy word' (§571)—tāh (VS. SB. pra) parvatasya vişabhasya prṣṭhāt (TS KS. prṣṭhe) VS. TS. MS KS. SB, '(the ships proceed) from (upon) the back of the mountain bull' (§661)—apām yo madhyato (KS madhye) rasas . KS. TB, 'the sap that comes from (is in) the middle of the waters' (§664).

§80. With expressions of separation, the ablative seems to us the natural case, but it may interchange with the instrumental (by analogy with the antonymic verbs of joining, §60), with the dative of the interested party, and with an adnominal genitive. So, tebhir no adya (ApS. tebhyo na indrah) sawtota visual KS ApS, tebhyo asmān varunah

soma indrah Kauś., 'may free (vi muñcantu is the verb) us (today) from these (fetters)' (§573)—sa sutrāmā svavān indro asme (asmat), followed by ārāc cid dveṣah sanutar yuyotu (°ta), 'may Indra keep very far away from (for) us all hatred' (§612)—mā parā seci mat payah (no dhanam, nah svam, me dhanam), 'let not the sap from me (our, or my, wealth) be poured away' (§656)—Furthermore the accusative may vary with the ablative after such verbs, according as the entity in question is treated as the thing removed or that from which something else is removed. iyam duruktāt (PG °tam) paribādhamānā ŠG SMB PG —ApMB MG, 'this (girdle), guarding (its wearer) from slander' or 'warding off slander (from its wearer)' (§493)

- §81. Unusually lively are the relations of the ablative with other cases after prepositions and prepositional adverbs. Thus \bar{a} in the sense of 'until' governs either acc or abl. (while in the sense of 'from' it governs only the abl., but may vary with an acc in the other sense): $\bar{u}rjo$ (intending $\bar{u}rdhvo$) $m\bar{a}$ $p\bar{a}hy$ odrcam MS, $\bar{u}rdhvo$ $m\bar{a}$ $p\bar{a}hy$ odrcah TS (and others, \bar{a} + udrcam or udrcah 'until the end of the sacrifice'), §494. And, with different meanings, pari with acc interchanges with pari with abl. (1 c.).
- §82. The prepositional adverbs paras, avas, avak govern either instr or abl. without difference of meaning (§574) The preposition para in the sense of 'from' regularly governs only the abl, but one variant shows abl varying with gen dual (§657) In somewhat different senses, the prepositions adhi and antar govern either abl or loc (§665).
- §83. Adverbial forms with abl. endings vary with instrumental and locative adverbs, sometimes we can still feel the force of the 'from' case in the abl form, but sometimes not, the form having paled out to an indifferent adverb: āre (TS ārāt) te goghnam (TS °na) uta pūruṣaahnam (TS °na) RV. TS. (§667). Here ārāt, like āre, can only mean 'far away', not 'from afar'.—ayam paścād (MS. paścā) vidadvasuh MS KS (§575)

Genitive and other cases

§84. The partitive genitive may be used as the virtual equivalent of an appositional noun, which may then replace it in another form of the same passage, taking the case of the word on which the genitive depends. In theory, such partitive genitives might therefore vary with any other case. Actually we find them varying with vocative, nominative, accusative, and instrumental. So, tvam uttamāsy oṣadhe RV VS, uttamo asy oṣadhīnām AV, 'thou art most excellent, O plant (most excellent of plants)' (§367).—subhūr (svayambhūr) asi (nāmāsi) śreşlho raśmir (raśmīnām) , ' the best ray (best of rays)' (§439).—imam mā hɪnsīr ekaŝapham (also, dvipādam) pašum (TS. KS pašūnām) VS. TS MS. KS ŚB., 'this whole-hoofed (two-footed) animal (one of animals)' (§515)—vasantena (grīşmcņa, etc) tvartunā (KSA.—nām) haviṣā dīkṣayāmī TS KSA, 'I consecrate thee with the spring (etc) season (of the seasons), with oblation' (§581)

§85. In a somewhat similar way, a descriptive or possessive genitive may vary with an appositional or adjectival form which agrees in case with the word on which the genitive depends in the other variant. When, as often happens, there seems to be reason for supposing that the genitive is more original, we may suppose that case-attraction has been Indeed, this may sometimes be assumed even when the reverse is the case, that is when the assimilated form is historically older in the variant passage; for case assimilation is certainly a very old phenomenon, and may easily have been replaced in individual instances by a phrase containing a descriptive or possessive genitive. Such variants occur especially between genitive and nominative, accusative, and locative. So, vrsāsy ūrmih TS. TB., vrsormir asi MS KS MS., vrsna ūrmır ası rāstradāh VS. SB., 'thou art a bull-wave (a bull's wave) ...' (§440) -avyo (SV PB avyam) vāram vi dhāvati RV, SV, PB, 'he (soma) flows thru the sieve of wool (the woolen sieve)' ($509).—asyā (MG †asyām) nāryā gavīnyoh (MG °nyām) AV MG, asyām nāryām gavinyam RVKh ApMB, 'in this woman's two canals (in this canal of the woman)' or 'in this woman, in her canal' (§672)

§86. With the dative of purpose, especially in infinitives, such assimilation may fairly be called regular; but here also dependent genitives may vary with the assimilated dative form. And we find the same variation with ablative infinitives. See Delbruck, AIS §$54, 103, 232b, and our §$629, 659 below: rāye (ApŚ rāyo) agne mahe tvā (dānāya samidhīmahi) SV ApŚ, 'we kindle thee, Agni, unto great riches, unto giving (unto great giving of riches, note that this is the secondary reading) '—tat tvam bibhrhi punar ā mad aitoh (ā mamaitoh), ' until my return' Here also the assimilated ablative mad is the original reading (TS, while the secondary AŚ MŚ have mama, gen.).

§87. The genitive is acutely described by Speyer (VSS §62) as 'hauptsachlich der adnominale Casus'. A large number of its variations with other oblique cases (not nom or voc.) have this trait in common, that the gen. is broadly adnominal, the other case (acc., instr., dat., abl., loc.) broadly adverbial. That is, the gen is definitely dependent on a noun (whether we classify it as objective, subjective, descriptive, possessive, or partitive makes little difference) The variant case is usually also dependent on the same noun, but is differently felt, it is governed by a verbal notion felt in the noun. So perhaps most clearly with the acc, as in mām anuvratā bhava 'be faithful to me', cf agner (patyur) anuvratā bhātvā 'being faithful to Agni (to her husband)' (§506). Or again in the acc and gen after nouns of agent in tar, as dātā vasūnām (vasūnī), §507

- §88. With the instrumental, an adnominal gen describable as objective varies with the associative instr after nominal expressions of joining, and with an instr of means after nominal (and apparently even verbal) expressions of gratification, while a subjective adnominal gen may also vary with an instr. of means depending on a passive participle or its equivalent. So, samvasānam (SV °no) nivasvatah (SV °iā) RV. SV, 'fellow-dweller of (with) Vivasvat' (§578).—juştam devebhir uta mānuṣebhih (AV devānām uta mānuṣānām) RV. AV, 'accepted by (pleasing to) gods and men' (§579)—yan me (mayā) manasā vācā [kṛlam], 'what (has been done) by me (on my part; as if 'my deed') with thought or speech' (§580)
- §89. Rather varied also are such instances of adnominal gens varying with dats, we quote an example or two at random: developyo (VS devānām) bhāgadā (TS °dhā) asat VS TS MS KS †, 'be he a giver of portions to the gods' (objective gen), §619—(eşa sya te madhumān indra somah,) vṛṣā vṛṣne (SV °nah) pari pavitre akṣāh RV SV, 'this honeyed soma, the bull, has flowed thru the sieve for thee, the bull (thru thy, the bull's, sieve)' (possessive gen), §621
- §90. With the ablative tato mā yayāasyāsīr āgachatu MS KS ApŚ tasya māšīr avatu vardhatām AŚ, 'from it may blessing of sacrifice come to me' or 'may its blessing aid and increase me' (possessive gen), §656—agnir etu prathamo devatābhyah SMB., agnir aitu prathamo devatānām AG etc, 'let Agni go (come) first from among the gods (first of the gods)' (partitive gen), §656
- §91. With the locative: asmākam (TS asmāsu) santv āsişah VS TS MS KS SB SS, 'let blessings be ours (be in us)' (possessive gen), §671—ahrh sayata upaprk prthivyāh (TB °vyām) RV MS TB N, 'the dragon lies clinging to the earth' (objective gen), §676
- §92. Special mention may be made of the gen after adjectives meaning 'pleasing' and the like, which varies especially with the dat (§77), but also with the instr (§65); the loc is likewise used (§77) but we have noted no case of its variation with the gen

§93. In addition to its adnominal use, however, the gen is also used with not a few verbs, and often varies with other cases, particularly the acc. Thus after verbs of eating and drinking the acc. and the (partitive) gen (occasionally also the loc) are found: papuh sarasvatyā nadyāh (MŚ. *tyām nadyām, KŚ ApŚ *tīm nadīm) Vait. KŚ ApŚ. MŚ, 'they drank (of, or in) the Sarasvatī river' (§$501, 680). So after verbs of offering, the (partitive) gen. varies with the acc and instr (§$51, 65). Verbs of ruling and of intellectual activity also govern either gen. or acc (§$503-4), and verbs of robbing either two accs. or acc of the person and gen of the thing (§505).

§94. With verbs of gratifying the gen interchanges with the instr: tena ttrpyatam anhahau TB ApŠ, tasya ttrmpatam ahāhāhuhū svāhā ŠŠ (§579)

§95. The dat and gen vary after verbs only rarely, and probably as a result of the general tendency to confusion between these two cases (§614, and for examples after verbs §§632-4). On the variations of loc. and gen. after verbs, also sporadic, see §§680-2.

§96. In adverbs of time there is one variant, madhu naktam utoşasah (°sā, °si), which appears to involve the gen. in relations with both instr. and loc (§§68, 584), and in adverbs of place we find a gen varying with the (apparent) loc dive-dive, §678

§97. As to the gen after prepositions, we find it once replacing the regular abl. after pari (§657), and once varying with the loc. after antar (§677).

Locative and other cases

§98. The locative is commonly thought of as the 'where' case' Somewhat more scientifically it may perhaps be defined as denoting fundamentally the sphere within which, or that in relation to which, something exists or takes place—Its meaning is, in any event, broad enough to permit it to exchange on occasion, with little difference of meaning, with all the oblique cases, from accusative to genitive—To begin with the ablative, which expresses the source of anything, this may also be conceived as its original or typical location, and so be put in the locative karkandhu jajāe madhu sāragham mukhāt (MS mukhe) VS. MS KS TB., 'jujube and sweet honey were produced from (in) his mouth' (§660). Or, śwam prajābhyo 'hinsantam (ahins') prthivyāh sadhashād (TS. MS KS 'sthe) agnim ('gnim)—khanāmah ('mi) VS. TS MS KS SB, 'we (I) dig forth from (in) the abode of earth Agni ...' (§664) §99. More familiarly the locative tends in the opposite direction; it inclines to denote the final rather than the original location, and so varies with the accusative (or dative) of goal, often as we think (cf §523), tho by no means always, with no difference of meaning, as in yasya vratam (vrate) paśavo yanti sarve, 'into (not in') whose control go all cattle' (§526) Or with dat, mahyam vātah pavatām (°te) kāme asmin (AV kāmāyāsmai) RV AV TS KS, 'the wind shall blow (blows) for me unto this desire' (§646)

§100. With neither 'final' nor 'original' tinge, but simply as denoting the general sphere, that in (any sort of) relation to which something exists or takes place, the locative varies with instrumental, dative, or genitive. The instr. may be one of means, manner, or accompaniment. So, sam u yāh kumbha ābhṛtāh and sam yāh kumbhebhir ābhṛtāh, 'brought in a pot (with pots)' (§600)—apām uta prasastişu ('taye, 'tibhih), 'in (by, unto) praising of the waters [become ye strong, O gods (horses)]' (§601)—rāyas poṣena (poṣe) sam iṣā madema, 'may we revel with (in) increase of riches, with food' (§603)—sve dakṣe (svair dakṣair) dakṣapiteha sīda, 'be seated in (with, or by) thine own power(s)' (§603).

§101. With the dative, the locative in this sense interchanges in dependence on both noun and verb forms. Thus quite standardly with adjectives meaning 'pleasing' and the like (for other cases used with them, gen and instr, of §88, 65). suprīto manuṣo viŝi (SV viŝe) RV SV, or priyam mā brahmani (°ne) kuru 'make me beloved to (with, among) the brahman caste' (§654). And with various verbs, such as hu 'pour (in, upon)' or 'offer (to)', prihivyām (KŚ °vyā) amṛtam juhomi AŚ KŚ ApŚ, 'I pour nectar on (offer to) the earth' (§650). Or ci 'pile, build' sahasrākṣa (°kṣo) medhāya (medha ā) cīyamānah, 'piled up at (for) the sacrifice' (§651)

§102 So with the genitive The person or place at or near which something is located (loc) may also be conceived as its possessor, or as that upon which its influence is exerted (objective gen) Thus, mayy āśīr astu mayı (mamāšīr astu mama) devahūtih, 'may prayer and divine invocation be in me (be mine)' (§671)—nanāndari samrājāt bhava, and nanānduh samrājāy edhi, 'be queen over (of, in relation to) thy sister-in-law' (§676) person (his person with his limbs)' ($536).

$105. The use of the loc after verbs in veriation with other cares has perhaps been sufficiently illustrated under the other cases. marily we may recall its interchange with the gen (and nee) after verbs of eating and drinking ($93) and some others ($680-2); and with the dat (§73) after various verbs. With the arc, it varies after a verb of beating, aghnanah paninoran and urah palaurar aghnanah, 'brating upon their breasts with their hands' or 'beating their breasts and thighs (?),' §545 The person or thing spoken about (not to) is put in acc or loc with a verb of speaking, pratipraethatah palau (MS pasum) samvadasva ApS. MS. ' spenk about the victim with (the slaughterer)' (§543), this contrasts with the classical usage in which the person addressed may be put in acc or loc (as well as dat) after verbs of speaking, doubtless an extension of the goal construction classical usage, however, is found with dat and loc.: derebbyo (decegu) mā sukriam (nah sukrio) brūlāl (etc.), 'declare that I am (that we are) righteous to the gods' (§647) —After a verb of fighting an 'inner' acc varies with a loc: (lvayā) vayam samghālam-samghālam (samghālesamghate, samghatam, omitting the 2d form) jesma (jayema, samjayema), 'may we (by thee) conquer (in) every fight' (§546).

§106. In adverbal expressions of time, place, and manner the loc. seems to be used in interchange with practically all other oblique cases. So, with acc: tena devā devatām agra (agram) āyan, tapasā (tayā) devā devatām agra āyan, 'by this (by tapas) the gods attained to godhood in the beginning' (§530)

§107. With instr. especially in place and time expressions, in our opinion (cf. §594) without any essential difference of meaning: maghāsu (aghāsu, maghābhir) hanyante gāvah (gāvo grhyante), 'in the (asterism) Maghās (Aghās) cows are slain (taken).' §596 —madhu naktam utoşasah (°sā, °sī), see §584 (also gen).—adhī kṣami visurūpam (kṣamā viśvarūpam) yad asti (asya, asta), 'on the earth

§109. With gen, see §96 —Dative variants have not been noted.

§110. After prepositions: with acc., after adhi. acha. antarā (§§539-42); with abl, after adhi and antar (but with difference of meaning, §665), with gen., after antar (§677).

§111. Finally, we have noted a very few cases where the loc seems to be used in a way approaching the absolute construction, and varies with a regularly governed accusative. We might expect to find any other case varying with the quasi-absolute loc just as well, but have not noted any others; nābhā prthivuāh samıdhāne agnau (TS. odhānam agnim, MS KS, odhāno agnim) VS TS. MS KS. SB (followed by rāyasposāya brhate havāmahe), 'when Agnı is enkindled at the navel of the earth, we call upon (him)...' or 'we call upon Agm enkindled

Number

§112. A large majority of the variations in number concern cases of what we call generalizing singular and plural We have included under this head all cases in which singular and plural interchange without any clearly intended difference in meaning, as well as cases in which the singular is generic, while the plural seems to refer more particularly to No line can be drawn between the two various specific instances Thus in such a variant as asmān rāya uta yayñāh (KS † yazñah) sacantām TS KS ApS, yuşmān rāya uta yazñā asaścata MS, 'let wealth and sacrifice(s) attend us (wealth and sacrifices have attended you)', no one can say that the plural yajñāh really means anything different from the generic singular yajñah, 'sacrifice' in general (as an institution), and on the other hand one could not deny that the plural may have concentrated the attention more on the various specific acts Such instances are very numerous: §§685 ff Of essentially the same sort are the (also very common) variations between singular and plural pronouns, particularly of the first person (§§722 ff). many of which refer either to the speaker alone or vaguely to him and his associates; but the use of a plural rather than a singular pronoun certainly does not prove that he is really including other persons than himself, as in agne dakşarlı punihi nalı (TB mā) RV TB., 'O Agni, protect us (me) with powers.' Here the chances are that RV. means 'me' as well as TB., but there is no way of proving it. Such variants belong psychologically with the variations in number of verb forms treated in VV 1 §§344 ff., and like them show in not a few cases more or less inconsistency with the context in one or both forms (§723). Thus śraddhe śrad dhāpaycha nah (TB. mā) RV. TB; here the context in both forms contains a 1st plural verb, so that mā of TB is mildly inconsistent with its context.

§113. In our chapter on gender (cf. §807) we shall see that the neuter singular is not infrequently used in forms which are indefinite or abstract or collective in force, and varies with more definite plural epithets of the same or different gender (§727). A good example is Lyslapacyāś (TS KS. 'yam) ca me 'krstapacyāš (TS KS. 'yam) ca me VS. TS. MS. KS. (preceded by osadhayas ca me vīrudhas ca me), '(plants) which ripen under cultivation and not under cultivation' or 'that which ripens' etc. To the same general category belongs the use of substantive pronouns m the neuter singular in variation with pronouns agreeing in number and gender with the predicate (§730), as in tad (VS. tā) āpah sa (VSK. tal) prajapatih VS. VSK TA MahanU., 'that is the waters, that Prajapati.' Neuter singular adverbs also belong originally to the class of indefinite neuters, and vary either with adjectives or with plural adverbs which presumably must originally have been more definite in meaning (with some noun understood), as ın nīcād uccā svadhayābhı pra tasthau Ppp. TS. KS, nīcair uccaih svadhā abhi pra tasthau AV. Here nīcād and nīcair, uccā and uccaih, are synonymous (§734.)

§114. When two or more nouns are used in correlation, we occasionally find adjectives variously put in the singular, then agreeing formally with only one (as a rule the nearest) of the series, or in the dual or plural, agreeing with the whole group. There is little real difference in the meaning, cf §§735, 757; and the same kind of variation has been noted in verb forms, VV 1 §§353 ff. Thus, candrena jyotir amrtam dadhānāh (°nā), sukram na jyotir amrtam dadhānā (°nāh); here dadhānā agrees with Sarasvatī, the nearest subject, while dadhānāh includes her and the Asvins. Or, yasya dyaur urvī prihivī ca mahī AV, yena dyaur uyrā prihivī ca drāhā (TS drāhe) RV. VS. VSK TS MS KS, here the final adjective is singular, agreeing with prihivī alone, in all but TS., which makes it dual, including dyaur.

§115. An elliptic dual or plural may vary with a singular referring only to the first of the group Both may be followed by a complementary singular referring to another member of the group, as in mitral (SV mitrās) pānty adruhah RV. SV (preceded by yam maruto yam aryamā) Here mitrās means Mitra, Varuna, and Arvaman, and arvamā is a complementary singular ($733) So also ubhāv indrā ($B indro) udithah sūrvaš ca VS. SB, where indrā can only be elliptic (= Indra and Surva), §747. In other cases an elliptic dual plus complementary singular may vary with a double dual, as in dyāvā hotrāva prthivī (°vīm). §746, or such a double dual may vary with two singulars, whether the two form a devatā-dvandva compound as in indrāsūrā nanavan visvakarmā TB but indrah sūrah prathamo visvakarmā AS (§749), or whether the two duals are separated by other words as in visnum agan varunam pūrvahūtih AV, msnū agan varunā pūrvahūtau (MS °tim) VS MS etc (§748). The normal Sanskrit dvandva compounds, of both types (dual and neuter singular), are likewise found, the former varies with equivalent double singulars, as in mayı dakso mayı kratuh, mayı daksakratü (§750), and the two types vary with each other, ksutnipāsābhyām (and °pāsāya) svāhā (§751).

§116. In the case of certain parts of the body, and also some other entities (§§752-3), it is possible to think of them either as dualities, with regard to their two component parts, or as singular units. So the nose is either singular or dual (referring to the two nostrils) apānena nāsike (MS °kām) VS MS. With certain other parts of the body, as well as other entities, either dual or plural is possible, as in the case of the constellation Phalgunī, which is made up of two pairs of stars, and so may be either dual (referring to the two pairs) or plural (referring to the total of four stars): phalgunīr (TS. °nī) nakṣatram TS MS KS (§754-5).

§117. There remain many number variants which show more real and definite change of meaning in the different forms. By simple multiplication or division, a singular entity may be made dual or plural, or vice versa, as in tasya te datām yasya (and yayoh) prāno 'sī svāhā, tasya te dadātu yasya prāno 'sī svāhā, tasya te dadātu yasya prāno 'sī svāhā, all modulations in a single passage of TS (§§740, 767-70). Such modulations may occur in repetitions of the same context, or in adaptations of old material to a new context, in which case they constitute what we call 'phrase inflection' (§§739, 764-6). They include many ritualistic ühas and vikāras. There are also not a few instances of 'transfer of epithet' from one entity to another (§§737-8, 762-3), as in variations of case, and some instances in which, without proper 'transfer of epithet', we seem to note external assimilation of form which consists in change of number (§§741, 773-7). These are of the same sort as the corresponding variations in case, and call for no comment

Gender

- §118. Real change of gender in nouns is a well known phenomenon in Sanskrit, and is sufficiently illustrated by the variants. It may appear in different forms of the noun itself, that is in shift between endings characteristic of different genders, or in change of the gender of modifying adjectives or pronouns Some of the variations in gender revealed by the variants have not been recorded previously not anticipate them here (see §§783-802), but may call attention to a fact which has not been clearly brought out before, that some of these shifts appear to be mere nonce-phenomena, and due to assimilation to words in the context Thus in the mantra vyomā (TS. vyoma) saptadasah (sc stomah) VS TS. MS KS. SB. KS MS. $794. the stem vyoman, regularly neuter, appears to have masculine gender in all texts except TS. We have no doubt that the original form of this variant presented the word as if masculine; but it seems to us equally clear that this is due to assimilation to the gender of the predicate saptadasah It hardly justifies us, therefore, in attributing real variation in gender to the stem vyoman And this is by no means an isolated instance, as the sections mentioned will show.
- §119. Of a different sort are variations between names of male and female animals and persons, where the change merely indicates that some texts have in mind a male animal or person, others the corresponding female (§§779–82).
- §120. A small but interesting group of cases shows variation between distinctively feminine forms and others which are, at least in appearance, masculine, the referring to feminine entities. Thus it has long been recognized that the anomalous yuşmās, acc pl of the 2d personal pronoun, is a feminization of the regular yuşmān, which has common gender the its ending presents a masculine aspect (§803). Contrariwise, agent nouns in tar have regularly a corresponding feminine stem in trī when applying to feminine entities, but at least one variant presents the masculine (really 'common') stem in tar under such circumstances (§805).
- §121. We have seen above (§113) that the neuter gender, especially in the singular number, often has a sort of indefinite force. Even when a masculine or feminine entity is referred to it may be used in such a sense, as in indrasya (and viṣṇor) dhruvo'si (dhruvam asi), 'thou (O knot, granthi, masc) art Indra's (Viṣnu's) firm one (firm thing),' §808. Such usage is particularly common with pronouns, demonstrative or relative, as in substantive pronouns (§§113, 812); sam tam (KS ApS. tat) sincatu rādhase (°sā) RV. KS. Vait ApŠ, 'let him besprinkle that unto (with) bounty'. Here the pronoun refers to soma-drops (drapsa, anšu, mase) and hence has masculine gender in RV, but once, in repeating the mantra in the same context, KS uses the neuter tat, 'that (thing)', tho still having the same reference (§809)—But an indefinite masculine may also vary with such an indefinite neuter, when the unspecified entity is conceived personally instead of impersonally (§§810-1). This is particularly common with negative expressions, such as ahir jaghāna (dadarša) kam (kim) cana, 'the serpent has slain (seen) no one (nothing).'

§122. We regard the common use of neuter forms in adverbs as belonging to the indefinite neuter. Such adverbs are often found in variation with adjectives of any gender, and also—more rarely—with adverbs of other genders (usually feminine); in the latter we assume that originally some definite noun must have been understood with the adjectival adverb (see §§813–24).

§123. The agreement of pronouns shows some interesting variations as to gender. Thus when a pronoun refers to a series of nouns of different genders, it may agree with the nearest noun in gender, or with the gender of the greater number of the nouns, or else it may be masculine (really 'common') gender if the series includes both masculines and feminines (§825). Also, when the antecedent and the predicate of an anaphoric pronoun are of different genders, the pronoun may agree with either (§826),—aside from the possibility of the use of the indefinite neuter in a substantive pronoun, to which we have alluded above

§124. Gender variations are related to the peculiarities of compound nouns: first, in the case of dvandvas, which may appear either as neuter singular or as dual (or plural) with the gender of the final member (§751), and further, in the case of karmadhārayas varying with bahuvrīhis based upon them The karmadhāraya, naturally, keeps the gender of its final member, while the bahuvrīhi takes the gender of the noun it agrees with (§829)

§125. There remain a considerable number of cases in which variation in gender is due to the application of the variant word to different nouns. Either one noun may be substituted for another of different gender, resulting in change of the gender of its epithets (§§831-3), or without such change in actual language, epithets may be understood to apply to different entities which are not expressed, with the same result (§§834-9). In some such cases the mantra is taken from its original context and adapted to a new one, resulting in what we call 'phrase inflection' (see §§846-51). Or again, without change of context, an epithet may be 'transferred' from one entity to another; these 'transfers of epithet' are of exactly the same sort as the numerous similar ones involving change of case, and call for no special comment [§§840-5).

Dedicatory expressions

§126. Expressions of dedication of some offering or homage to some deity or power are, of course, very common in the ritual language of the Veda, and the great variety of their syntax deserves special mention. The deity addressed may be expressed by a nominative, subject of a verb meaning 'be gratified' or the like, which verb may be expressed or understood, or by the nominative of a secondary adjective meaning 'belonging to' such and such a deity; by the accusative, object or goal of a verb expressed or understood; or by a dative or genitive. The thing offered may be expressed by the nom, acc, instr., or (after verbs of offering) gen. A few examples may be quoted here:

(om) agnim tarpayāmı: agnıs tṛpyatu, §373.

CHAPTER II

DUALS IN AU AND A, OF ALL DECLENSIONS

§127. We do not include here, of course, variations in which $\bar{a}v$ varies with \bar{a} followed by hiatus before a vowel, since these are variant sandhi forms, both standing for au, on them see VV 2 §§885 ff. We treat here as \bar{a} forms before vowels only those in which \bar{a} is fused with the following vowel.

§128. In the RV. in general, and especially in its oldest parts, \bar{a} is found before consonants and in pause, au before vowels Contrast §221 below; in the locative of i stems au, not \bar{a} , is regular in pause Before u vowels this au is represented in the RV by \bar{a} , before other vowels by $\bar{a}v$ (for the usage of other schools see VV 2 l. c). We divide our materials into the two classes of (1) au: \bar{a} before consonants and in pause, (2) before vowels See most recently Wackernagel 3 p 45 ff, and for the primary materials Lanman NI. 340 ff, 574 ff; also Sommer, Festschrift Streitberg, 253 ff., where ingenious attempts are made to explain the cases of 'irregular' \bar{a} before vowels.

§129. In a couple of cases the following word varies, so that \bar{a} is followed by a consonant, au ($\bar{a}v$) by a vowel, in accordance with the original distinction:

abhayam mitrāvarunāv ihāstu nah (AG °varunā mahyam astu) AV. AG. §130. Flagrantly at variance with the rule is the double case in the next variant, which also changes the word after aświnā (°nau); but this time aświnau occurs before a consonant, and that in RV itself (to be sure in a late hymn, 10. 184 2c); while AV has the ā form before a vowel—both contrary to the rule Furthermore RV. ends the pāda with devau, instead of regular devā, and is followed by all later texts (two substituting ubhau) except AV, which introduces the regular ubhā (Hence, possibly, the assimilatory change in the ending of the preceding word in AV, whose meter suggests a pronunciation with histus, aświnā ubhā) garbham te aśvinau devau (AV aśvinobhā, PG. HG. aśvināv ubhau) RV. AV. ŚB. BrhU SMB. ApMB. HG MG. PG.: garbham yonyām aśvināsyām AVPpp 13. 2. 4c (Barret, JAOS. 48 38).

§131. The remaining cases require little individual comment—Almost all show the ending before consonants or in pause—Final position in the pāda is always treated as 'pause', \bar{a} is here regular even when the next pāda begins with a vowel with which the final \bar{a} is fused in the sanihitā writing—The \bar{a} form characterizes the RV and its school texts, KS also shows it in most of the variants, but there are exceptions. The cases before consonants and in pause which concern RV, besides those above mentioned, are:

caturalşau pathıralsī (AV pathışadī) nṛcakṣasau (AV TA °sā) RV AV TA This is the only exception, except that noted in §130, to the rule among the RV variants. It is noted by Lanman 576 The hymn (10-14) containing it is Atharvanic (rather than 'late'), yet, curiously, the AV. itself (supported by TA) has the 'regular' form. Note that all three texts are irregular in the preceding caturakṣau. Dissimilation or assimilation of ending as between these two words? Even tho the hymn belongs by its subject matter to AV. rather than to RV, the RV. form is, a priori, more apt to be original. Edgerton, Studies in Honor of Maurice Bloomfield, 124

These forms are however probably mere corruptions; the presumption is that the unknown (and perhaps artificial) name of a meter here found is meant for a single word. The variant therefore hardly belongs here] find it hard to avoid assuming the reverse substitution, ās with dative function. These are listed §152, we believe that they have not been specifically noted before. In connection with them particularly, however, the possibility of syntactic rather than formal confusion must be borne in mind; quite similar instances of other gen forms with dat functions will be found below in the section on variations between dative and genitive. Inevitably there are some borderline cases which are especially doubtful; in the last analysis all the variants found here and in the syntactic section on dative varying with genitive must be considered together.

§140. We include here pronominal as well as nominal forms, since they are obviously identical in nature and cannot be separated.

§141. The substitution occurs in no RV, SV, or AV. passage shows a varying frequency in the YV. texts. VS. shows it in about 20 variants, more than any other texts; very often VSK. disagrees with VS TS has about 15 cases; KS. only one, and MS perhaps no entirely The school texts of VS and TS follow their samhitas certam case In general, then, it is the Vaj. and Tait. schools where the change is common. They also show the reverse change (as in dative function). which is rare, almost unknown, in MS and KS. Our results confirm the approximate correctness of Caland's view, AO. 5 49-51, notably his statement that MS KS. do not use ai for as; but KSA has at least one case, adıtyaı pājasyam, §143 That VSK. regularly prefers ās accords with Caland's findings for SBK. It is perhaps noteworthy that it is the relatively late and secondary YV. schools which show this interchange in both directions, whereas the more conservative MS and KS. do not favor it.

§142. We begin with forms used in genitive function. The following are noun forms from ā stems, and seem reasonably certain: undrāgnibhyām chāgasya vapāyā (KS. °yai) medaso 'nubrūhi KS. ApS.

MS 'Assign to Indra and Agmi (part) of the goat's omentum and fat.' Also, agmīṣomābhyām chāgasya vapāyai medaso 'nubrūhi SB. ukhāyāh (TS. 'yai, MS KS 'yām) sadane sve VS. TS. MS KS. Preceded by antar agne rucā tvam. 'Within the firepan, in thine own seat' The parallels point to a genitive with antar, not a genitive of 'equivalence' as Keith takes it There is no sound evidence for a gen of 'equivalence' in Sanskrit, while the use of a gen with antar is proved by BR s. v.; a very clear case is VS. 40 5

agnes tvā mātrayā jagatyai vartanyāgrayanasya vīryena (KS jagatyā vartanyā) devas tvā savitotsrjatu (etc) .TS. KS.: agnes tvā mātrayō jāgatyā vartanyā devas tvā savitonnayatu .MS.

krūram viveda, TA kr° cakūra) martyah (KS. martah). 'No mortal has attained (comprehended; TA. accomplished) the savagery of thy self, O Agni' So Caland on ApS Whitney (note on AV.) suggests that it may mean 'succeeded in inflicting a wound on thee,' which would make it possible to interpret tanuvai as a true dative (of interest); but this seems less likely to be the sense tasyaı (MS. KS tasyā) vān mātyā (TS mātī) VS TS. MS KS. SB. 'Its, the mind's, daughter, speech'

§146. Less certain are the following cases of genitives First, from nominal \bar{a} stems:

asyā janatāyāh śraisthyāya svāhā MS: asyar janatāyar śraisthyāya ApŚ. 'For preeminence over this folk' But this may be the 'assimilated' dative with following dative of purpose, cf Speyer, Skt. Synt. 66 supra, Delbrück, AIS 149 (Quoted in Conc also under agne balada. ..)

§147. From i and ī stems, in the following the alternative to genitive construction would be a dative of possession or interest; see next section: adityā (VS. TB SB adityai, VSK aditer) bhāgo 'sī VS. VSK TS MS. KS SB. MS.

§148. From pronouns These, like the preceding group, might perhaps be construed as datives of possession or interest. The dative of possession is however not common in the oldest lenguage and seems to disappear later. For this and other reasons, particularly in view of the established use of ai forms as genitives, we consider these also very probable cases of genitive forms. It must be confessed that at times the decision is delicate:

8151. Genitives in as as datives We have referred above to the few but interesting cases in which fem at : as forms vary in dative construction. These, to be sure, might be taken merely as cases of the growing tendency for the gen to absorb the functions of the dative. to be signalized below (88614 ff) Yet the parallel cases just discussed make it obviously likely that the identity of the two endings in sandhi before vowels and their consequent confusion in abl-gen. function has something to do with these cases At least they deserve separate grouping, apart from other dative-genitive variants. They are either dependent syntactically upon namah, svāhā, or the root vidh, none of which seem to be regularly construable with the genitive; or else are used as datives of purpose It is particularly to be noted that the as forms are found chiefly in Vajasanevin and Taittirīva school texts, which are also those in which at in genitive function is favored. Evidently this confusion of endings, in both its aspects, is characteristic of these schools But one or two cases, textually doubtful, occur in MS.' too.

§152. The variants are:

yā te agne rudriyā tanūs tayā nah pāhi tasyās (MS KS. tasyai) te svāhā TS MS KS

yā ta ışur yuvā nāma tayā no mṛda (MS tayā ndhema) tasyās (MS tasyaı) te namas TS MS.

tasyai (TS tasyās) te den hansā ndhema TS MS. KS AS. ŚŚ N. Keth's note takes tasyās with hansā, rendering 'oblation for you' But tasyās can mean 'you' only by virtue of going with te, from which this interpretation most implausibly separates it. Keth ought to render: 'To thee, goddess, let us offer with her oblation', a monstrosity which his translation avoids by simply omitting tasyās. It is better frankly to recognize that tasyās is used as dative, or else to consider that the gen here replaces a more usual dat (cf. §634).

tasyās (MS tasyar, KS † tasmar, read tasyar) te devīstake vidhema havisā vayam VS TS MS KS SB TA Keith makes the same suggestion as in prec. q. v.

- prānasya tvā paraspāyai (MS °pāya, v. l. °pāyās, p p. °pāyāh) cakşuşas . MS. TA (and ApS pratika as before). In these three adjoining formulas only a dative of purpose can be intended: 'for the protec-' Note that TA has 'pāyāh twice and 'pāyai onceall in the same passage. VS. has only one of the formulas, in which it uses the dat of a neuter stem opa- (§801), equivalent to opa-This same neuter form is read thrice in MS. s p, but once the v. l *pāyāh occurs (curiously, in the one case in which TA. has the regular dative form opāyai), and its p.p. reads opāyāh in the two cases which it repeats at all

STEMS IN A

- 1 Nominative and vocative plural in ās: āsas
- §153. Among the variants occur only forms of a stems, to which āsas was originally restricted. In general āsas is more ancient, or hieratic and archaizing; ās is younger or more popular. Since the variation involves a difference of a syllable in the length of the word, the meter is often concerned in it. But other changes may result in making both forms metrical, and it may be difficult to say in such cases whether these other changes were responsible for the change between ās and āsas, or vice versa. At times the familiar ās is allowed to replace āsas in defiance of the meter, without compensatory change. But conversely a later text, in its passion for 'hifalutin' language, sometimes puts in an unmetrical āsas for original ās.
- §154. We begin with variants both forms of which are metrically more or less defensible, and first with those in which we take āsas to be the original reading, secondarily altered to ās:
- yena devāso amṛtatvam ānakuh RV.: yena devā amṛtam anv avindan AV. dhruvāsah (TB ApŚ dhruvā ha) parvatā ime RV. AV. KA. TB. ApŚ. SMB. MG Here TB. ApŚ compensate for the lost syllable by the patch-word ha.

- devāso (and, devās tvā) dadhire purah RV. (both). The RV. itself uses a patch-word; the older form was certainly āsas.
- visve devāso adhi vocatā nah (TS me) RV. TS: visve devā abhi rakṣantu (Ppp * °tı, KS anu tiṣṭhantu) meha (AV.* also tveha, and pakvam; Ppp mām iha; SMB ApMB. HG paścāt) AV (ter) Ppp. KS † SMB. ApMB HG. Add to VV 1 §116.
- ā yāta pıtarah somyāsah (HG. somyāh) AV. HG.: eta pitarah somyāsah SMB. GG. VıDh: parā yāta pıtarah somyāsah (HG. somyāh) AV. HG · paretana (TS KS ApŚ. pareta) pitarah somyāsah (TS. ApŚ. somyāh) TS. MS. KS AŚ ApŚ MŚ. Cf. VV 1 §256
- ye devānām rivijo yajñiyāsah (and rivijo ye ca yajñiyāh) AV. (both). As between these two, it seems clear that yajñiyāsah is older, the other showing evidences of patch-work. But even it is certainly

- secondary to: ye devānām yajniyā yajniyānām RV. The AV. introduces rivijo, exalting the priests at the expense of the gods.
- §155. Next a group in which the ās forms seem older, āsas being as a rule due to conscious archaizing:
- tubhyam sutāsah somāh SV.: tubhyam somāh sutā 1mc RV. The SV. in its eagerness for archaism has crowded out 1mc, and left a pāda which is metrically bad.
- asmān (MS, KS TS † asmān) u devā avalā haveşu (MS, KS, bhareşv ā) RV, SV, TS, MS KS : asmān devāso 'tala haveşu AV, †
- mā trā dabhan yātudhānā durevāḥ (Ppp. durerā yātudhānāh) RV. AV. Ppp: mā tvā dabhan durevāsah kasokāh AV.
- punar agnayo dhişnyā (ŚŚ °yūso) [yathūsthūnam kalpantām (AV yathūsthūma kalpayantām ihawa, ŚŚ. yathūsthūnam dhūrayantām ihawa)]
 AV. ŚB. BṛhU. ŚŚ.: athate dhiṣnyūso agnayo yathūsthūnam kalpantām ihaiva svāhū HG.: atho yathæme dhiṣnyūso agnayo yathūsthūnam kalpayantām ihaiva MG: ime ye dhiṣnyūso agnayo yathūsthūnam iha kalpatām (read °ntām) AG. The ŚŚ reading is archaizing and metrically harsh, tho possible. HG. MG. AG. all treat the formula as prose, but all have the archaizing ending
- ete pūtā vipascitah RV .: te pūtāso vipo SV.
- ye antarikşa uta ye (Kauś °kşe ye ca) divi śrītāḥ (Kauś °tāsaḥ) Kauś. MG. In different contexts. Pronouncing the a of antarikşe, MG. makes a good jagatī; eliding it, Kauś makes a good trīstubh. Kauś wins a hieratic ending only by allowing a rather unhieratic elision (cf. VV 2 p. 420 ff), and is forced to make a further change of uta to ca.
- §156. In the following variant two adjoining adjectives vary in both readings, the longer and shorter endings interchanging in the two forms: harşamānāso dhṛṣitā (TB. dhṛṣatā) marutvaḥ RV TB. N.: harşamānā hṛṣitāso marutvan AV. The ms. of Ppp has rṣamāṇāso rṣadā marutvaṁ, emended by Barret, JAOS. 35. 60, to hṛṣamānāso dhṛṣatā (for which dhṛṣitā or hṛṣitā would seem at least equally possible) marutvan
- §157. We now come to cases in which one or the other reading makes distinctly bad meter. In most of them āsas is metrically better, and as a rule certainly original:
- yatra devāso (KS devā) ajuşanta višve VS. KS. ŠB MŚ.: višve devā yad ajuşanta pūrve TS The latter patches the meter while using the shorter ending If KS. were original (tho metrically poor), the hieratic devāso of VS etc would also be an attempt to patch the meter: but on the whole this seems unlikely.

§158. Much more rarely the original form has $\bar{a}s$, and the archaizing change to $\bar{a}sas$ spoils the meter:

ye stha traya ckādašāh (ŚŚ ekādašāsah) KS ŚŚ This is réally prose and so should not strictly be counted here; but its cadence simulates an anuştubh pāda in KS, the presumably original form śuddhā bhavata yajñiyāh AV · śuddhā bhavantah śucayah (N. bhavanto yajñiyāsah) pāvakāh AV. N Cf. also abhūma yajñiyāh śuddhāh AV Since pāvakāh must be read metrically pavākāh, the line is tristubh and the AV reading is correct Very likely N. intended it as jagatī, reading pāvakāh, and altered the preceding case ending to fit its conception of metrical requirements

§159. The following variant is prose, as is also the first quoted in the preceding paragraph:

āmanasya devā (MS deva) ye putrāh (KS putrāso) MS KS

2 Neuter plural in ā or āni

§160. The ending $\bar{a}m$ is, of course, originally borrowed from n stems (Wackernagel 3 p 105), where both \bar{a} and $\bar{a}m$ are prehistoric (Indo-Iranian, ibid p 277), and are equally familiar in the Veda. It is a curious fact that, nevertheless, the variants reveal practically no shift between \bar{a} and $\bar{a}m$ in n stems; the only possible instance noted is $panim\bar{a}(m)$, in $m\bar{s}v\bar{a}$ dev $\bar{a}n\bar{a}m$ etc., §164; and cf. §269.

§161. Of our variants nearly all are metrical, and in general the meter is reasonably good in both forms, despite the difference in number of syllables in the two variant forms; the shorter ending is generally accompanied by a patch-word or other difference of reading. Altho \bar{a} is certainly older and more hieratic than an (half again as common as ant in RV.), the variants show no clear preponderance of originality in other. The alteration may be in either direction; indeed not infrequently both endings are found in both forms of the variant, but in different words, as in:

brahmajuethā sambhrlā vīryāni AV.: bra vīryā sambhrlāni TB samvopavanto duritāni višvā RV, MG: samlobhavanto duritā padāni AV at Irāmanto duritā padām (N. duritāni visvā) AV. N.

$162. Sometimes the different ending goes with a different meter: and there is no clear reason for attributing greater originality to either: indrasya rocam pra krtani virya RV .: indrasya nu viryani pra tocam

- [achidrā uśijah padānu takşuh TS.: achidrośijah kavayah padānutakşişuh, em from ms padāni takşişvat, KS]
- §165. The converse of the preceding is shown in a group where $\bar{a}ni$ seems to be the older reading Presumably \bar{a} is here due to conscious archaizing in a secondary text With \bar{a} often goes a patchword which preserves the meter:
- kṣāmad devo 'tı durıtāny (TA MahānU devo atıdurıtāty) agnıh AV. TA MahānU.

- §166. We come now to variants in which one form is metrically poor It happens, a little surprisingly, that the metrically superior form seems always to be historically older, there is no apparent case of secondary correction of the meter. We begin with a few cases in which the original has \bar{a}_i , and $\bar{a}ni$ is metrically bad:
- hınva (Vast hınvā) me gātrā (KS gātrānı) harıvah TS KS. ApS MS Vast
- aşiau satā yan mitam tad vadanti SB. aşiau ca satānı [samvatsarasya, inserted in Gaastra with all but two mss] muhürtän yān vadanti GB
- §167. In the rest the $\bar{a}m$ ending is original and metrically superior. The form in \bar{a} is in several instances clearly due to haplology, these (the first two) are treated in VV 2 §808
- viśvāny anyo (AV viśvānyo) bhuvanābhicaşte (AV. MS. bhuvanā vicaşte) RV AV MS TB

- agnir vrirāni janghanat RV. SV etc In Svidh. occurs the pratīka agnir vrireti, i e apparently, vrirā-iti Perhaps a corruption.
- §168. Finally, a few variants in which one or both versions are prose. The first is particularly interesting, in it TS and PB are prose, and

SHORT AND LONG I STEMS

§175. Out of a mass of miscellaneous variants concerning i and ideclensions, there stands forth with overwhelming force a large group showing confusion between forms proper to the four declensions which are primarily and regularly feminine, viz. the short i feminines (type aati), the monosyllabic 'radical' $\bar{\imath}$ stems (type $\hat{sr\bar{\imath}}$), and the two derivative $\bar{\imath}$ declensions (types $dev\bar{\imath}$ and $v_{\bar{\imath}}k\bar{\imath}$). We shall begin with these, in Their treatment in Wackernagel 3 pp. 134 ff. 163 ff.. §§176–213 which see for the extensive earlier bibliography, is in general excellent. While our materials do not perhaps reveal much that is new in principle. they nevertheless supplement Wackernagel on many points, and they emphasize rather more than his treatment the interchanges in various directions Occasionally they suggest that forms in which Wackernagel sees other influences may well be due to simple confusion between the declensions (cf. notably §189).

§175a. No very distinct school tendencies seem to us to be shown by the variants. Yet we would call attention to the behavior of the Taittiriya school, which in certain groups of variants seems to show a sort of perverse desire to differ from the regular usage Thus, the endings $\bar{\imath}bhis$, $\bar{\imath}bhyas$, and $\bar{\imath}bhy\bar{a}m$ from short i stems (similarly $\bar{u}bhy\bar{a}m$ from short u stems, §230) seem to be characteristic of this school (§§188-9), while conversely it shows some tendency to prefer short i forms from $\bar{\imath}$ stems (see notably §§198-9). Nor are these sections the only ones which contain examples of such perverseness in the Tait. school We have noticed like conditions in this school on other points; cf VV 2 passim, notably §§767, 946.

1. 7 forms from i stems

§176. We shall begin with variations between short and long i forms and first those in which apparently original i stems present \bar{i} ($dci\bar{i}$ or $vrk\bar{i}$) forms From the phonetic standpoint these cases have been treated in VV 2 §§526 ff.

§177. Nom sg in is from i stems. Here a striking group of cases concerns lengthening of the i in the nom sg of i stems, resulting in forms like $v_i k \bar{v}_i$. While some of them are more or less dubious, they are too numerous and on the whole too well attested to permit doubt of the reality of the phenomenon, which so far as we can see happens not to be recorded by Wackernagel (cf. his p 135) In every variant the $\bar{\imath}$ is secondary historically:

- §181. Dat sg in yai from i stems The extension of devi forms to the i declension in the dat, abl., gen, and loc sg was so common and persistent that it is familiar even in classical Sanskrit, where it also applies to the monosyllabic i stems (type śri); cf §209 for Vedic variants of this declension We shall also find, in §209, a case of a $vrl\bar{\imath}$ noun showing a dative of the $dev\bar{\imath}$ type. It is worth noting that no $dev\bar{\imath}$ nouns occur among the variants with dative forms borrowed from the rival $\bar{\imath}$ and \imath declensions, but there is one isolated instance of an abl. sg of $vrk\bar{\imath}$ type from a $dev\bar{\imath}$ stem, §210

§182. Among the dative forms here collected, there is little clear indication of relative age, but if anything the older texts seem unexpectedly to prefer the yai ending. (To be included here is also the variant yatra bhūmer [bhūmyai]... §143 above, where bhūmyai has gen function) Most of the variants are prose; once yai (monosyllabic) seems intended to make meter out of what is a prose formula in the other texts:

§183. A couple of infinitive variants in e:ai may be added here, altho they are probably not really comparable. The origin of the ai of certain infinitive forms is really unexplained, that -dhyai is formed by affixing the dative ending (IE *ai or *ei =) Skt e to a stem final *dhya or * $dhy\bar{a}$, as commonly assumed, is hardly more than a placebo, and still less likely is it that the frequent ending -lavai (with double accent, on stem and ending both) is from a stem *tava or * $tav\bar{a}$, since the parallel and similar -tave obviously belongs to stem tu (see below, §238) But whatever be the history of these forms, the important point for our purposes is that from RV. on the infinitive of this type is always dhyai, never dhye except in the isolated TS occurrence of our first variant; and this is likely to be a mere phonetic simplification of ai to e (VV 2 §705). The other variant which follows is even more dubious:

te te dhāmāny uśması gamadhye TS: tā (VS. ŚB. yā) te (RV. KS. N. vān) dhāmāny (RV. KS. N. vāstūny) uśması gamadhyaı RV. VS. MS. KS. ŚB. N. Two mss of KS also have gamadhye.

§184. Abl.-gen. sg in yās from i stems What has been said on the datives in yai applies equally here. §188. Instr, dat-abl. pl $\bar{\imath}$ -bhis, -bhyas, from $\bar{\imath}$ stems Regarding $\bar{\imath}$ in these forms, it is to be noted that the p p of TS. reads short i where the s p has $\bar{\imath}$, suggesting that $\bar{\imath}$ was interpreted as (originally rhythinic) lengthening of quasi-final \imath (this lengthening is regularly abolished in the pada-pāthas, VV 2 §428) This lengthening seems specially common before labial consonants (VV 2 §464 ff, 515 f, etc.) It may be noted, however, that the other conditions favorable to such lengthening, which include the vowel's being followed by a single consonant, exist only in the instr plur (-bhis). The general influence of the $\bar{\imath}$ stems, so common in other case forms, seems to us an amply sufficient explanation of these forms also; other pada-pāthas do not seem to support that of TS; and we are not inclined to see influence of the law of rhythmic lengthening here—The variants in this and the next section seem to suggest a preference for $\bar{\imath}$ in the Tait, school; so also with \bar{u} for u, §230; cf. §175a rtūn prstībhih (KSA prstibhih, ms bhr°) TS KSA. Macdonell and Keith, Vedic Index 2 359, take pisti for an ī stem, but the usual theory (e g Wackernagel 3 p 136) that makes it an i stem is more plausible.

§189. Instr-dat-abl dual in ībhyām from i stems. The forms akṣībhyām and śronībhyām are in our opinion in no wise different from the plural forms of the preceding section. We cannot agree with Wackernagel 3 pp 54 f, 303, who regards them as directly based upon the nom dual akṣī, śronī If other ī forms from short i stems were unknown, or even rare, this suggestion might be considered. But since just the opposite is the case, we see no reason to look for any more specific motivation of these dual forms. Note that the stem śroni even has a nom dual śronyau, following the (vrlī, or later) devī declension (§185).

2 i stems of uncertain quantity

§190. So far we have dealt only with what we believe to have been originally short i stems, attracted towards i declensions. The reverse process is at least equally common, especially with devi nouns, but also with $vrk\bar{i}$ and monosyllabic ($\hat{s}r\hat{i}$) types The confusion is in a few cases so old and profound that we really do not know which is original Thus the question of takarī or or is left doubtful by Wackernagel (3 p 186), and we can add nothing to his statement except that in the following variant AVPpp, according to Roth, has tagarim vi te bhinadmi takarīm (KS °rim, AV, mehanam, Ppp tagarim [Roth]) AV. TS KS ApS.

§191. The most familiar case of this sort is the notonous osadhi or odhi Lanman (NI 371) classified it doubtfully as a devi noun Wackernagel (3 p 186) contents himself with stating the broad facts, as follows, the sing (lacking in RV, family books) has only a forms in the Veda (to W's single exception from AV, we can add another from ApMB, §192) In the plural RV and AV, have i forms except in the nom (voc), where auas and is interchange. Both types are found later, but i forms predominate in classical Sanskrit

§193. As to the nom pl, the forms augs and is are not metrically equivalent and in metrical variants (which include all but one of those here noted) this needs to be borne in mind. In nearly all of them is is the older form, historically, and in most it is also favored by the meter As a rule later texts substitute ayas, often without any attempt to patch the meter.

We must apparently take vāmī: vāmīr as nom. sg fem, and anu as adverbial; dhā middle with retas, as commonly with garbham 'Lovely in the sight, may I receive all seed, lovely furthermore (or, again) in the sight', MS KS: 'lovely in the sight of thee, O Agni, that art all, possessest all, hast virile power, furthermore may I receive all seeds', TS.
- bajābojopakāšinī HG.: khajāpo 'jopakāšinīḥ ApMB. In VV 2 §381 it is suggested that ApMB may have a vrkī form. But two good mss read 'nī, which may well be intended. A plural would also be conceivable.

§208. The nouns \hat{sri} and $lak\bar{s}m\bar{\imath}$, nom. sg Two variants in the same passage concern these two words, the one a monosyllabic $\bar{\imath}$ stem, the other originally a $vrk\bar{\imath}$ noun, so that both should have noms in s, and do so in Classical Sanskrit, where $lak\bar{s}m\bar{\imath}$ is the only $vrk\bar{\imath}$ noun which regularly retains the old s ending This is undoubtedly due to the influence of the synonym $\hat{s}r\bar{\imath}$ (Wackernagel 3 p. 171 f). Nevertheless the $dev\bar{\imath}$ form, without s, of $lak\bar{s}m\bar{\imath}$ is known in the Veda (ibid. p. 175). In the Mahān U form of the following variant not only is $alak\bar{s}m\bar{\imath}$ read without s, but it has even caused the neighboring $\hat{s}r\bar{\imath}(s)$ to lose its s, producing a $dev\bar{\imath}$ nom sg from a monosyllabic stem, which is nowhere recognized in our grammars (cf. Wackernagel 3 p. 172). All mss of Mahān U seem to agree, and the comm supports the form:

śrīr me bhajatu TA: śrī me bhajata MahānU Followed by. †alakşmīr me naśyatu TA: alakşmī me naśyata MahānU.

§209. Dat sg in ai (of $dev\bar{\imath}$ type) from $vrk\bar{\imath}$ and $\acute{s}r\bar{\imath}$ nouns. The $dev\bar{\imath}$ ending in this and other oblique cases is well known as an alternative form in Classical Sanskrit with monosyllabic $\bar{\imath}$ stems. So in the Vedic $vrk\bar{\imath}$ nouns, ai may replace e, of Wackernagel 3 §88c. The shift has its phonetic aspect, on which see VV 2 §705. We find one or two variants of each class.

§211. Loc sg in $y\bar{a}m$ and $\bar{\imath}$. We find one stray variant in which AV. shows $\bar{\imath}$ against RV. $y\bar{a}m$. Wackernagel 3 pp 168, 170, admits only $y\bar{a}m$ for $dev\bar{\imath}$ nouns and only $\bar{\imath}$ for $vrk\bar{\imath}$ nouns. He does not allude to this variant case; the stem occurs only here, so that there is no evidence for its original declension. On it of Bloomfield, The Atharvavcda p 49.

5. Other variants concerning i and ī stems

§214. Stems in i and in. Leaving now the interchanges between the feminine i and $\bar{\imath}$ declensions, we take up next a few cases of apparent confusion between i and in stems. In the first two cases clear in stems are provided in secondary texts with nominatives in is, as if from i stems (cf. Wackernagel 3 p. 279 infra). In the other two cases here quoted, contrariwise, the SV. substitutes nominatives in $\bar{\imath}$ for RV. is; the SV. forms are taken by Benfey as from in stems:

§215. Highly anomalous is the following gen. pl. mahinām of VSK. If textually sound it must apparently be due to the influence of in stems; even a short i stem of any gender should have i in this case. But since it seems necessary to take it as a feminine, its anomaly is increased; for mahinām could not pass for a gen. pl. fem. even from an in stem:

mahīnām (VSK. mahinām) payo 'si VS. VSK. TS. KS. ŚB. KŚ. ApŚ. MŚ. ŚG.

6. Alternative case endings within the same declension

§216. Instr. sg $\bar{\imath}$ and $y\bar{u}$. We come now to variants which show different case endings within one and the same declensional type, that is, cases in which no 'foreign' influence from a different i or $\bar{\imath}$ declension is to be assumed. And first interchange between the old instr. ending $\bar{\imath}$ and the later $y\bar{u}$. The first concerns a dev $\bar{\imath}$ noun, the rest short i stems: airibhyām duydham bhişajā sarasvatyā (MS. °vat $\bar{\imath}$) VS. MS. KS. §217. Instr sg. i and $y\bar{a}$. See Lanman NI 380 for the conditions under which i normally appears, namely at or near the end of a pada. We find variants only of svasti with " $ty\bar{a}$ The former is original in the first, and probably in the second; in the latter, however, it is adverbial and need not be felt as instr. Cf. Wackernagel II. 1 p 123, III p. 146 supra.

§218. Instr. sg. $in\bar{a}$ from fem. nouns, and $y\bar{a}$ from masc. nouns. Here we find two cases (the first in the list) in which nouns which are regularly fem have the masc ending $in\bar{a}$, and conversely two nouns usually masc have the fem. ending $y\bar{a}$. To be sure $y\bar{a}$ was not originally restricted to the fem, and Wackernagel 3 p. 147 regards MS. $kikid\bar{v}y\bar{a}$ in our third variant as older than the RV. $vin\bar{a}$. To us this seems most unlikely; it is rather a late and secondary confusion, either of form or of gender (on change of gender see §§783–802):

CHAPTER VI

LONG AND SHORT U STEMS

§224. The conditions here are different from those of the i and \bar{i} stems in several respects. In the first place, there seems to have been no \bar{u} declension originally corresponding to the $dev\bar{i}$ type. Stems in \bar{u} were either declined like $vrk\bar{i}$ (polysyllabic stems, type $tan\bar{u}$) or like $\hat{s}r\bar{i}$ (monosyllabic stems, type $bh\bar{u}$). Forms analogous to $dev\bar{i}$ begin to occur quite early, to be sure; in the case of $tan\bar{u}$ nouns, as early as the RV itself. But these are rare in RV, and are to be regarded as secondary. This analogical influence, incidentally, never extended to the nom sg, which in \bar{u} stems always ends in s, even in later Sanskrit. In oblique cases of the sing it is extended also to \bar{u} feminines, as in the i declension.

§225. As in the case of i and \bar{i} stems, there is considerable interinfluence between long and short u stems. But here the matter is complicated by a tendency which manifests itself quite early (already in RV) to develop a parallelism between masc, and neut stems in short u and corresponding fems in \bar{u} . (See Wackernagel 3 §666b, 68b. 101) This appears both with u and \bar{u} stems. The former are original. nally of common gender, and remain optionally so thruout the history of the language: the fem stem may be like the masc But \vec{u} nouns are mostly fem to begin with Hence at an early time adjectives in u (a very common type) tend to develop fems in \vec{u} , by the side of those in u, or also in $v\bar{v}$ (following the devi type; see below, §297) Conversely root stems in \bar{u} when used in composition, and even derivative (fem.) nouns of the tanū type when so used, begin very early to develop masc and neut forms in short u We have noted above (§178, end) a single variant which seems to show a like tendency in i stems, which has heretofore not been noticed But adjectives in i were always relatively rare, and probably for this reason such a tendency never acquired much scope; whereas the very frequent u-stem adjectives afforded a wide field for its development. Hence, in distinction from the interchange between i and \bar{i} stems, that between u and \bar{u} stems is usually found to be connected with this distinction of gender More concretely, it most commonly means that an original u stem shows fem forms alternatively with \$\vec{u}\$ for \$u\$, or an original \$\vec{u}\$ stem shows mase, or neut, forms afternatively with u for u. To be sure, there are cases which go beyond these limitations. For instance, even uncompounded if fems, show forms of the u declension (Wackernagel 3 §101a, and §232 below). And root-nouns, and even other nouns, in short u sometimes follow the \bar{u} declension even in the mase, or otherwise avoid the short u inflection (§227 ff), these \bar{u} forms are however regularly secondary in the variants containing them.

1. $\bar{u}$ forms (normally fem.) from original u stems

$226. We shall begin with interchanges between long and short u forms, and first with stems which (at least as masculines or neuters) are originally short u stems. The u forms which occur are normally fem.; but occasionally secondary texts show them in masc forms.

$227. Nom sg. in us from u stems. The first variant concerns a fem adjective, so that u is as normal as short u The others, however, are mase; the \bar{u} is here clearly secondary, the older form being u. phalgūr (KSA. °gur) lohttornī balakṣī (with varr , §206) tāh †sārasvatyah Wackernagel 3 p 194), and one of a compound of this stem, a mase adjective in which uh (two texts) varies with uh (one text; cf ibid). Nearly all the forms are of masculine or neuter gender, as is to be expected Only three cases are represented nom sg, dat sg, and nom pl. In the two latter the phonetic moment of a: u before v plays a rôle; sec VV 2 §§601, 604, and above §229

He says nothing about the form $sumnay\bar{a}$, which seems to us a more likely instance than any other. This isolated form is commonly considered an instrumental, from an otherwise unknown stem $sumnay\bar{a}$. It occurs only once in RV. (in the variant here quoted, 10–101–4), and the AV. variant has sumnayau. AV 7–55–1 has $sumnay\bar{a}$ (the only occurrence in AV and apparently the only other one anywhere), and Whitney notes that there a locative seems required. To us it seems almost certain that $sumnay\bar{a}$ is loc to the familiar stem sumnayu. §249. Loc sg. in vam (?): vām One variant contains a form which can only be intended as a locative of tanū, and which appears according to well-established tradition as tanvam in two sūtra texts, while a third has the regular tanvām. Caland in his translation of ApS adopts tanvām from MS; we should probably follow him but for the fact that AS. certainly read tanvam, as well as ApS (the AS. comm repeats the form);

this seems to us to make it certain that the form tanvam is no mere scribal error. The preceding adjective visvabhrti, which can only modify tanvam, makes it equally certain that the form is meant as a locative. No such form, with short a before m, is recognized in any grammatical authority. We know of only one other place at which it might with some plausibility be assumed, this is AV 19. 37. 2, varca ā dhehi me tanvām, here SPP reads tanvām with the comm and one ms; cf. Lanman, NInfl 412. Another way out in this case would be to take tanvam as acc (cf. §380, and on two accusatives with verbs of placing §535) (Lanman I c mentions also AV. 19. 55. 3 tanvām, suggesting that tanvām be read, but here the acc. is quite possible as object of puṣcma.) While we have no explanation for the form, we find it impossible to deny that at least in the ApS. AS form of the following variant, and perhaps also in AV 19. 37. 2, tanvam is used as loc sg. of tanū:

§252. Most of the few variants concerning this declension are cases of genitive plurals. In this case form TS, has only short r (Keith, HOS. 18, cxli, cxlviii); the variants show the same form sporadically in TA, and MS. It should be noted that ApS, according to Garbe's text (which reports no variants) fails to follow TS in this respect m its two variants. Is this due to editorial carelessness?

2. Consonant stems: variant ablaut forms

§255. We find first a group of cases concerning real or apparent variation in ablaut grade of consonantal stems. Most often the vowel a, of normal (guṇa) grade, varies with \bar{a} which on its face is vriddhi grade, tho it may be actually due to secondary analogy of one sort or another. The same guna form in a may also vary in weak cases with zero grade. We begin with a case of nom. sg. masc. of a stem in -sad, lengthened to $-s\bar{a}d$ in two texts. It has been noted in VV 2 §499 that the grammars do not recognize ablaut in this stem:

viśvā āśā dakşınasat (AB AŚ °sāt, ŚŚ dakşınatah, LŚ dakşınadhak) VS MS. AB ŚB TA AŚ. ŚŚ LŚ. Apś.

§256. And once we find what appears to be lengthening of the a in the nom. of a participal stem in ant If correct, this would doubtless be caused by the analogy of mant and vant stems But it occurs in an unpublished part of MS and is suspicious (VV 2 $\S503$):

§257. Nom-acc neuter forms are normally made from the weak stem, but occasionally strong forms are found by analogy with the masc. The variants contain two compounds of pad appearing in RV. regularly as pad, but in later texts as $p\bar{a}d$, and one case of an s stem See Wackernagel 3 pp 235, 288.

Cf. VV 2 §502 [šarmā (TA. °ma) saprathā āvīne KS TA.: šarma yachātha saprathāh

AV But all mss. of AV "thāh, which should be read; VV 2 $502] $258. The acc sg of mase s stems normally has short a. But in one variant the KS ms reading shows \bar{a} . Wackernagel 3 p 182 denies this lengthening to other s stems than uşas, and von Schroeder emends the KS to short a, but of Whitney §415b, 2, 3 We see no reason for refusing to recognize the KS form with \bar{a} , tho we do not doubt that it is analogical and secondary; it may be metri gratia, see VV 2 §502, visām agnim alithim suprayasam (KS °yāsam) RV KS.

§259. The stem $ay\bar{a}s$ normally shows no ablaut, the \bar{a} being always long. In some secondary texts, however, weak case forms are made with short a, on the analogy of as stems. So Neisser, ZWbch d RV s. v., convincingly. Geldner, VSt 3, 122, n. 5, and Wackernagel 3 p. 282, derive the form $ayas\bar{a}$ from the different stem ayas, 'iron', which in some occurrences seems to us clearly impossible:

§263. In a single variant ApMB may possibly show a nom pl masc form of a participle with weak instead of strong stem, a kind of confusion which is more extensively found in Prakrit. That a nom is intended seems to us virtually certain (cf. the following ulsamānāh which is perfectly parallel). To be sure the state of the text of ApMB. is such that almost anything is conceivable; cf. Winternitz xvii. And, as W. suggests, the true reading might be vahato—ulsamānāns, with both epithets acc, going with grhān in the first pāda ırām vahanto (ApMB. vahato, MG vahantī) ghṛtam ukṣamāṇāh AŚ. ApŚ. AG ŚG ApMB. MG., 1rām vahantah sumanasuamāṇāh HG.

§264. Finally, from mant and vant stems are occasionally formed nom-acc. pl neuter forms with lengthened \bar{a} . Among the variants they occur only in RV, and are replaced in SV by the 'regular' forms with short a Cf Whitney §454c (the statistics are incomplete), and Wackernagel 3 p. 258 f:

ava dronāni ghīlavānti sīda (SV. vanti roha) RV. SV.

mīleva sadma pašumānii (SV. °manti) holā RV. SV.: pari sadmeva pašumānii holā RV.

3. Interinfluence of stems in vant, vans, (v)as, van

$265. The similarity in form and meaning between formations of this sort has led to various confusions, some of which established themselves as regular elements in Vedic declension. This is most strikingly true of the vocative forms of vant and vāns stems (Wackernagel 3 pp 258, 301). It must be assumed that the original voc endings were van and vas respectively. But in the Rigveda vas is used almost exclusively from vant stems, by analogy with the vāns stems. Conversely, in later Sanskrit, beginning with the AV., van is used in the voc. of vāns stems, by analogy with the vant stems which in post-RV. times had this ending, the analogy was assisted by the nom sg masc vān, which coincided with the ending of vant stems. We find a considerable number of variants between vocatives in vas and van from vant stems, and one (the first) from a vāns stem. In all cases where the chronology is clear, vas is the older reading:

The stem sv-avas, an s stem in which the preceding v is radical, not suffixal, is once, in RV itself, drawn into the vant (or vāns?) declension, showing a nom in vān (Wackernagel 3 p 287). In the other variant a perf. pple in vāns shows in a secondary reading a nom in vā, as if from a van stem (perhaps aided also by as stems? followed by v, so that vas would appear as va. Wackernagel 1 p 332, 3 p 300 supra, has noted this variant, he seems to think that external sandhi (before v) may be concerned in the form in va, but he recognizes the unquestionable occurrence of van forms from vans stems elsewhere, and we see no reason to doubt that va is such a form

§268. Aside from one or two van forms, mentioned in the preceding sections, and one case of different ablaut grades noted in §260, most of the variants concerning n stems fall into four groups, neuter plurals in a, \bar{a} , and $\bar{a}nn$, oblique cases of the singular with and without the vowel a in the stem; instrumentals singular of man stems with $n\bar{a}$ for $mn\bar{a}$; and locatives singular in an and ann variations between ām and ā (or a), both being common endings of n stems in the nom-acc neuter pl, and this variation being common in a stems, which took over the ending āni from n stems (§160 ff.). Strange to say, we have found hardly a single clear case. The lest is exercidenam janimām rideān Kaub, which seems rather agric parallel to, than a genuine variant of, riseā detānām (TS, ristām deta) jarrinā weakt AV. TS. KS. (§164). Otherwise we find only variants in which the shorter form is probably intended as singular, varying with a plural in ām, such as:

§270. Among neuter plural forms of n stems we find, therefore, chiefly variations between \bar{a} and a, where the long vowel cannot be regarded as rhythmically lengthened (VV 2 §459 f., Wackeringel 3 p 276). In each of our variants short a of RV, is replaced in AV, by \bar{a} ; the variations are all noted in Lanman NI, 510:

- §274. Loc sg in an: an On this see Wackernagel 3 p 273. The ending an is characteristic of older and hieratic language—It also differs from an in being a syllable shorter; the majority of our variants show the form at the end of tristubh-jagatī pādas, so that either ending makes good meter—In these variants, where the longer ending ani is found in RV, the surrounding pādas are jagatī, so that the RV reading matches them, in such cases the substitution of an is apparently due to conscious hieraticism. In other cases the ending ani is secondary and introduces a jagatī pāda in an otherwise tristubh verse—It is shown by Wackernagel, following Eggeling and Caland, that the Kānva recension of the Vājasaneyin school prefers ani, against Mādhyamdina an; but if such variants occur in mantras, we have not noticed them, so that our variants happen to show no trace of this
- §275. The cases in which the variant word ends its pada (tristubh or jagati) are the following. Four times out of six the ani ending is secondary. In all except the first the secondary ending (whether ani or an) makes the pada metrically inconsistent with its context, at least in certain texts.

- mā samsīlsāthām parame vyoman (AB. AS. vyomani) VS. MS. KS. AB SB. TB AS. ApS. Here the stanza is otherwise jagatī; the AB AS. reading seems to be a (secondary) patching of this pāda to make it consistent
- grīvāyām (KS grīvāsu) baddho apılakşa üsani (MS. apipakşa üsan) RV VS. TS MS KS SB N.

- §276. The next two variants are prose; chronological priority is not very clear:
- apām tvā bhasman (MS KS bhasmanī) sādayāmi VS. TS MS KS. SB. It is possible that MS really read bhasmant (see v. Schr.'s note).

ApS. PG: te nah pāntv asmin brahmany asyām purodhāyām asmin karmany MS. The preponderance of texts seems to point to older ani.
- §277. Thrice the hieratic ending an is introduced secondarily to the detriment of the meter:
- tam ātmani (TS ātman) parı grhņīmahe vayam (MS. grhņīmasīha) TS. MS KS
- śucih śukre ahany ojasīnā (MS ahann ojasīne, KS.† śukro ahany ojasye, AŠ 'hany ojasīnām) TS MS KS. AŚ. Clearly ahanı is required by the meter
- jyeşthasya dharmam dyukşor anīke SV.: jyeşthasya vā dharmani kşor anīke RV. Benfey is certainly right in regarding dharmam as merely a way of writing dharman (note that a dental consonant follows).
- §278. Otherwise both forms may be real metrically, if final y in any (before a vowel) be pronounced as a consonant; or other changes accompany the shift and make the meter sound:
- yat te asmın ghora āsan juhomı KS: yad adya te ghora āsan juhomı MS.: yasyās ta āsani ghore juhomı AV.: yasyās te asyāh krūra āsañ juhomı TS. ApS: yasyās te ghora āsan juhomı VS SB.

- §279. As an addendum to the n declension, we may mention an isolated curiosity which concerns noun formation rather than inflection: dhāmne tvā KS: dhāmyai tvā ApŚ. The latter is due to attraction to the forms which follow in the series of formulas, viz sanyai, nityai, śaktyai, bhūtyai.
- §280. The Concordance erroneously reports a voc sg. variant of a neuter n stem:
- [vācaspate vidhe nāman (AS Conc nāma, but text nāman) KS AB TA AS SS]

- §281. Stems in an and i, type asthan: asthi. On these see Wackernagel 3 p 302 ff The variants show shifts between the two forms of the stem in the nom-acc pl (strong stem), and in the weak cases, both those with bh endings and the 'weakest' forms Sometimes the accent—regularly recessive in the i stem but on the stem final in the an stem—reveals the secondary character of one form

Wackernagel 1. c. 311, Oldenberg RVNoten on 1 70 8, both of whom are inclined to deny any loc $\bar{u}dhar$ (not to speak of $\bar{u}dhas$). It seems, however, impossible to construe the form in the following variant otherwise than as loc. It is very possible that $\bar{u}dho$ ($\bar{u}dhas$) is the true reading of all texts, for most MS mss read $\bar{u}dho$ 'dr'

The older forms (stem $panth\bar{a}$) are replaced in secondary texts by those from stem panthan, sometimes (in the first quoted cases) clearly to the detriment of the meter; but usually this is patched up by other changes. DIPHTHONGAL STEMS sa nah sındhum iva nāvayā (AV nāvā) RV. AV TA. For other related formulas see Debrunner, Festschrift Winternitz, 7.

§290. Coming to the stem div (dyu), we find a single anomalous genitive dyaus for dyos, one acc pl. divas varying with dyūn; and a considerable number of acc sg forms divam: dyām The gen. dyaus occurs only in MS, for dyos of all other texts No v. l. is quoted This is a much clearer case than any of the other alleged instances of dyaus as abl.-gen, on which see Wackernagel 3 p. 224 infra, with references:

sūryo rūpam krnute dyor (MS. dyaur) upasthe RV. AV. VS MS. TB. Possibly a phonetic hyper-Sanskritism, cf VV 2 §732

§291. The accusative variants, both singular and plural, concern the extension of the stem div outside of its proper range, see Wackernagel 3 p 220 The one case of acc pl is:

atī didyūn (MS dyūn, TS KS TB ApS divas) pāhi VS. TS. MS. KS SB. TB ApS. The accent in TS TB. is divas, not the Rigvedic divas

§292. Otherwise only acc sg dyām varying with (secondary) divam is found. This shift is frequent. While divam is already common in the RV itself, the only variants concerning RV. have dyām in that text. This form is probably dissyllabic in RV. in all the three following cases; read dyām in the first, diyām in the second and third (and prthvīm in RV. in the third, of. Edgerton, Language 10.252). tad aslabhnā uto divam (RV. uta dyām) RV. SV ArS.

- §293. In one AV. variant the reading dyam seems probably secondary, and intended to patch the meter in a changed form of the mantra where the meter requires a monosyllable:
- dwam (Ppp. dyām) antarilsam ād bhūmim AV. Ppp· dwam samudram ād bhūmim AV. The latter is probably original. It occurs in a Rohita hymn, and is very appropriate to the context, which deals with the sun's defensive activities. The other, with antarilsam for samudram, is magical rigmarole, describing the wearer of an amulet; after divam, antarilsam follows so naturally! We assume that divam samudram was changed first to divam antariksam; and that then Ppp tried to correct the meter by substituting dyām (here, if a monosyllable, contrary to Sievers' Law) for divam.
- §294. The remaining cases concern YV texts, and are chiefly prose, or if metrical, meter seems to play no part in the shift. Nor is there much clear indication of priority, KS, apparently the oldest YV text, prefers dyām in a number of cases, but not unanimously:

§295. The stem diva for div (dyu) is according to Wackernagel (2.1 pp. 109, 113, 146, and 3 p. 220) found in the Veda only in compounds. On dive-dive see §678. Tho this is a matter which does not strictly concern the theme of this volume (but rather Noun Formation), we record here in passing a clear case of locative dive in KS.; no other interpretation is at all possible:

2 Sporadic pronominal form variants

§315. Besides the variations between orthotomic and enclitic forms, only a few sporadic formal variants occur among the pronouns. Among the personal pronouns, the old form tubhya for tubhyam is found once in PG, HG reading tubhyam The PG. form is noted in Wackernagel 3 p 459:

tubhyam (PG. mama tubhya) ca samvananam PG. HG.

§316. The Rigvedic locative tve occurs in a number of secondary texts (only KS reading tvayi) in the following variant, which shows that we must modify Wackernagel's statement, 3 p 462, that there are no new occurrences of tve after the RV.:

āruroha tve sacā (KS. tvayy apı) KS. TB. AS. Vait ApS. MS

§317. The Rigvedic dual form yuvabhyām persists also in TS N. in the following variant, only KS. using the later yuvābhyām (if the edition is right; but the best ms. of KS. has yuva°!). Wackernagel 3 p. 464 says that yuvā° is used exclusively outside of the RV. except for one AS. passage (Whitney 492b). Evidently this statement is true only if we understand it to apply to new passages, not repeated from RV: athā (KS adhā) somasya prayatī yuvabhyām (KS. ed. yuvā°, v. l. yuva°) RV. TS. KS N

§318. An anomalous form written yuşmān before a vowel (i e. yuşmān? or yuşmān?) seems to be intended as a genitive in the following.

- athā nah (TS athāsmabhyam, AV adhā nah) sam yor arapo dadhāta (MS *tana) RV AV VS TS MS. KS N tad asme sam yor arapo dadhātana RV

- na parā 119ye kataras canainoh (AV. canainayoh) RV. AV TS. MS KS AB
- §320. Once TA. uses a wholly anomalous form $am\bar{\imath}$, for AV $am\bar{\imath}$, as nom dual fem. of asau No other form than $am\bar{\imath}$ for this case, in any gender, has been noted elsewhere, and this form of TA is ignored in the grammars. It is particularly strange to find it used as a fem (the noun is tārake), if it were masc, we might assume a use of the plural for dual. The comme interprets by $am\bar{\imath}$ but offers no remarks, and we can think of no explanation, unless the influence of $dev\bar{\imath}$ nouns $am\bar{\imath}$ we subhage $dv\bar{\imath}$ TA · $am\bar{\imath}$ we $dv\bar{\imath}$ subhage AV

CASE, NUMBER, AND GENDER

CHAPTER XI

VOCATIVE AND NOMINATIVE

§321. The vocative and nominative case forms are, in the dual and plural numbers (and sometimes also in the singular), formally distinguishable only by accent and consequently only in accented texts. We have tried to include cases where this accentual distinction is preserved, along with other cases in which a difference of stem or ending appears. It would have been clearly improper to include here instances from texts in which no accents are written, if the forms are identical, merely because our interpretation (however obvious and certain it may appear) makes a particular form vocative in one text and nominative in another. Since, however, the Concordance does not record accents, so that these variations can only be got from the original texts, it is likely that our collectanea are not complete in this regard.

Direct address and indirect statement

§322. As might be expected, a large proportion of the variants concerns shifts between direct address and third-person statement, of the sort treated from the point of view of verb forms (with shift between second and third persons) in VV 1 §§292, 327 ff For example: matevāsmā adzte (SG. adztrh) šarma yacha (SG yansat) AV. TS. MS. KS. TB TA SG ApMB, the a mother grant, O Adıtı, (Adıti shall grant) protection unto him. This sort of change requires no comment, unless perhaps this, that the direct-address form of the variant need not necessarily contain a second-person verb, tho it most commonly does. For ınstance: svasā (ŚG sakhā, ApMB priyā) devī (HG ApMB. devānām) subhagā mekhaleyam SMB. ApMB. PG SG. HG: sīvā devī subhage mekhale mā rısāma MG Here MG. changes the statement of 'fact' (really a magic formula implying a strong wish that it may be a fact) into a direct prayer, in which the personified power addressed is put in the vocative; but instead of saying 'protect us from harm!', the phrase 'may we not be harmed' is used. This of course means the same thing.

§323. In VV 1 §§293, 332 we have already seen that the case of the subject and the person of the verb in such variants are sometimes incongruous The lists there given will be found only partly duplicated by our lists below. The conditions are different when one approaches the subject from the point of view of the variation in case nominative referring to the subject in a sentence of direct address can not necessarily be called a syntactic incongruity. It may easily be an appositional nominative, modifying the subject, as in: ā tistha mitravardhanah (AV. ona) AV. KS. TB.† ApS.†, 'approach increasing friends' or 'approach, O increaser of friends!' Here and in many similar cases both forms of the variant contain direct address, and usually a 2d personal verb: yet the nominative may fit as well as the vocative and is frequently the original form In such cases it often appears that the change (in either direction) is due to form-assimilation to an adjoining Thus: somam piba vrirahā sūra (TS. TA Mahān U. °han chūra) vidvān RV. VS TS. MS. TA. MahānU., 'drink the soma, O hero, being the wise slaver of Vrtra' or ' . O heroic slaver of Vrtra, being wise'. Of course the Taittiriva texts must be secondary, and no doubt the following vocative sûra helped the change to prirahan, yet their sense is quite as good as that of the original. But as much can hardly be said for the TS. reading of the following, which shows the reverse change (nom. instead of voc.), also under the influence of surrounding forms, but yielding a much less satisfactory result since the name of the god Indra, who is addressed, does not go well as nom, in apposition to the subject of the verb: sajosā indra (TS indrah) sagano marudbhih RV. VS. TS. MS. TA. Mahān U. AS, 'O Indra, in association with the band of Maruts' or 'm association with the band of Maruts, being Indra'. This pada immediately precedes the one quoted above, so that TS. has substituted a nom for the voc. indra, while putting the voc. virahan in place of the nom.

§324. The last quoted instance may fairly be called a case of syntactic incongruity, since the nom indrah of TS. is not really construable in an intelligent way. Other cases in which form assimilation to adjoining words seems to have determined the shift, and in which direct address is found in both forms of the variant, are quoted in §§335-6. In §333 will be found variants which shift between direct address and third-person statement, the case of the subject being in one form of the variant incongruous (voc with 3d person or nom with 2d). Sometimes three of the four theoretical possibilities are found in the same variant, e.g.: madhvā yajāam nakṣati (VS. TS nakṣase) prīṇānah (AV. prai°), followed by: narāšanso agmh (VS. TS. KS agne), AV. VS. TS. MS. KS. Here AV. MS (probably original) have 3d person verb with nom. subject; VS. TS. have 2d person verb with voc. subject; only KS.

is inconsistent, having 3d person verb with voc. subject—It might be suggested that KS. contains a blend of the other two forms. But more probably KS represents the first change from the original reading (of AV. MS.), and VS. TS have a further changed based on KS. and designed to correct its poor syntax

§325. It should be noted that not a few vocative-nominative forms differ only in the lack or presence of a final visarga—a very slight phonetic difference. They are collected and related to similar phonetic shifts in VV 2 §380

§326. We shall list first the variants in which a nom. with 3d person verb varies with a voc with 2d person. This is the simplest type, and requires no comment, the shift in either direction is extremely natural and common.

To make this meaning fit, Indra must be made the object of this verb, the subject being now the worshipers, the resulting first half verse is: ā no riśrāsu haryam indram samatsu bhūsata, cf VV 1 p 199. But since rytrahā cannot (like havya indrah) be made accusative without metrical change, it is made voc, with very awkward supplying of an unexpressed verb, and rcīsamah then follows it
- agnir yaşledam namah KS.: agne yaşlar idam namah TS TB 'Agni is the sacrificer, this homage (to him)': 'O Agni sacrificer, this homage (to thee).'
- §331. Perhaps in this same group may be placed the following rather puzzling variant:
- tasyās te devy adīta (Kaus adītī) upasthe MS. KS Kaus upasthe te devy adīte gnim TS Followed in Kaus by annādāyānnapatyāyā dadhat, for which the others have versions containing ādadhe (1st person), see VV 1 p 211. In all except Kaus there is a direct address to Adītī, thru whose intervention the desired result is expected, tho a first person verb is used In Kaus Adītī seems to be made the subject of the 3d person verb; but note that Kaus retains te, which apparently can only refer to Adītī! In fact Kaus is hardly capable of intelligent interpretation.

§332. Similar variants used in different contexts ('phrase-inflection') are:

sahasrākşo amartyah AV · sahasrākṣāyāmartya AV. In the second passage a verse of homage, with direct address, is accompanied by the voc. of the deity addressed, the preceding pāda is namas te rudra krimas.

- ašveva citrāruṣī [mātā gavām rtāvarī, sakhābhūd asvnnor uṣāh] RV. SV.: [vayam hi te amanmahy, āntād ā parākāt]] ašve na citre aruṣi RV. The latter is secondary; see RVRep 63.
- abhūn mama (KS. nu nah) sumatau nisvavedāh TS. KS. PG.: bhūyāsma te sumatau nisvavedah MS.† In the latter a direct address See VV 1 p 218
- ındra somasya pītaye RV: ındrah somasya pītaye RV.: ındrah somasya pītaye vṛṣāyate RV. A 2d personal pronoun accompanies the voc yajıştham havyavāhana RV.: yajıştho havyavāhanah RV. Again a pronoun accompanies the voc
- §333. We come now to variations between direct address and indirect reference in which either the voc. or the nom. seems incongruous in one form of the variant, as in narāšanso agnih (agne), §324 Other cases of this sort are:
- agne (TS. KS. agnır) manyum pratınudan pareşām (TS KS. purastāt) RV AV TS KS. In the next pāḍa RV AV. TS have pāhi, KS pātu All are consistent except TS, which has nom with 2d person verb, cf VV I p 231.

- dyāvāpṛthwī urv antarikṣam AV TS: dyāvāpṛthwī uro (VSK † urv) antarikṣa VS. VSK. MS KS. ŚB Context of AV. different from all the others; there a simple third-person prayer. In the rest either (as in MS.) directly addressed to the deities, altho there also the verb is third person because the deities are not conceived as the direct agents (the following pāda is brhaspatir no hanişā vrdhātu TS MS), or, as in VS. VSK SB., the following pāda (brhaspataye hanişā vrdhema) contains a first personal statement In TS the nominatives, if not a direct reminiscence of the AV form of the variant, would be due to assimilation to brhaspatir, subject of vrdhātu in the next pāda. Keith understands them as exclamations $334. We now come to variants both forms of which contain direct address, and generally a second-person verb Nevertheless in one form a nominative appears where the other form has a vocative Either may be the original form, since a nom in apposition to the 2d person subject is often as easy to construe as a voc, in the example given in $323, ā tiştha mitravardhana ("nah), it is hard to say which reading was the older. We shall quote first a group in which the nominative seems to be the original form and the vocative secondary:

pavamānah (SV °na) samtanım eşi krivan RV SV. A slight tendency for SV to prefer the voc. referring to Soma may perhaps be detected in this and the following; cf VV 1 §328

aprosivān grhapatir (SV °pate) mahān asi RV SV

śuddho mamaddhi somyah (SV somya) RV SV sarūpavarsā ehi MS sarūpa vīsaun āgahi SV JB

- §335. In some cases the change of case form seems to be due to the definite assimilatory influence of a neighboring word; see §323. These deserve special listing, the following are those in which the nom. seems to be the older form and the voc secondary:
- somam pıba vrtrahā sūra (TS TA MahānU. °hañ chūra) vidvān RV. VS TS MS. TA MahānU. §323
- nucerur ası nucumpunah (TS TB nucankana, MS. KS nucunkunah) VS. TS MS KS. SB TB LS. Preceded in all by avablıtha nucumpuna (etc, voc in all). Doubtless the nom. is original and the voc assimilated to that of the preceding pada
- samjagmāno dīvah kanh (SV. LS. divā kave) RV SV. LS. Preceded by rdhāk soma svastaye It is likely that the voc. soma had something to do with the change to voc. kave. The next pāda begins with pavasva, 2d person, which may also have helped.
- agner agne puro agnir (KS.† KapS [Oertel 73] agne, TS.† TB.† puro-agnir, cpd) bhaveha VS TS. MS. KS. KapS SB. TB. The orig. seems to be TS TB. ('harbinger of Agni', Keith); the second voc. of KS KapS. is apparently assimilated to the first agne
- §336. In the rest the nominative seems to be secondary. We shall put first those cases in which form assimilation to a neighboring word seems to have operated, as in the preceding section; note that they are very much more numerous than the opposite shift:
- sajoṣā ındra (TS. ındrah) sagano marudbhıh RV. VS TS. MS TA. MahānU. AS. §323
- ulso deva (SV. twice devo) hiranyayah RV. SV. The surrounding noms have been responsible for devo.
- nist savasas pate (SV. patrh) RV SV Preceded by tram indra yasā asi parasva devāyuşak (SV. deva āyuşak) RV SV. PB. Benfey translates deva as voc; it is accented deva If this is correct and it is a nom, it might be explained by assimilation to āyuşak if that is a nom.; but Oldenberg, RVNoten on 9 25 5 considers it a neuter adverb

- dyāvāpṛthivī uro (VSK.† urv) antarikşa VS. VSK. MS KS SB.: dyāvāpṛthivī urv antarikşam AV. TS The TS. reading belongs here, see §333.
- agne sadakşah satanır (KS † °nūr) hı bhūlvā TS. KS.: agnıh sudakşah sutanır ha bhūlvā MŚ The verb is 2d person in all, the nom of MŚ. is attracted to the following noms.

- subīrana srja-srja šunaka ApMB: suvīrunah srja-srja HG Preceding pāda ends with suvīrunah, which certainly caused the change (it may be a mere corruption in tradition)
- sakhe (AV sakhā) sakhāyam azaro zarımne RV AV In the latter attraction to the case of ajaro
- vrīhīnām medha (MŚ medhah) sumanasyamānah TB. ApŚ MŚ Preceded by tasmın sīda Attraction to the following nom in MŚ
- §337. In the rest a nominative is secondarily substituted for a vocative, in an expression of direct address, without any apparent assimilatory influence of surrounding forms:

- indra (MS indrah) sradhām anu hi no babhūtha RV. KS. MS. In the latter, 'thou hast presented thyself as Indra'
- punar āgāh punarnava (AV. punarno; AV. * ovah) RV. AV. (both)
- names to astu sīsara (PG sīsaro lapetāpahvara) PG † 1. 16. 24, ApMB HG. The nom of PG is hardly interpretable; indeed one is almost tempted to suppose that sīsaro is meant for voc (of an otherwise unknown sīsaru). It must refer to the same individual as to (a kind of dog demon).
- agne ghrienāhula (KS °tah) AV VS TS. MS KS. Ap$ In AVPpp (Whitney on 6 5 1) ghriebhir āhulah Ppp and KS are awkward and secondary, the nom must be taken as predicate to the subject of the preceding verb [ud enam (Ap$ asmān) u'laram (VS TS. KS. °rām, Ap$ °rān) naya]
- rālrı (TB °rī, KS v 1 °rīh) stomam na ngyuşc (KS † TB. °şī) RV KS TB In all preceded by upa te gā wākaram, vrnīşva duhitar dirah The nom must be taken in apposition with the subject of rrnīṣia.

- andra kratvā (MS andrah krtvā) maruto yad vašāma RV. MS. KS. Perhaps the direct address to the Maruts (maruto, voc.) in the same pāda made the redactor of MS. feel that the voc andra must be got rid of. The nom is however clearly inferior; perhaps 'When we, O Maruts, acting as Indra, desire '(?). On the original of Oldenberg, RVNoten, on 1. 165 7. In VV 2 §380 we have called the nom 'hardly construable' agne (MS agnir) deveşu pra vocah (MS voca) RV. SV. MS. TA.

Vocative and nom of independent statement

- §338. In a few cases the shift between nominative and vocative marks more radical changes in the relation of the word so changed to adjoining words. Thus, a vocative epithet may be developed into a separate clause or sentence (cf. §§32, 38). The first step in this direction is traffic and any contract that we have the contract of th
- tisthe rathem (TS rathe) adhi tam (VS. SB yam, TB yad) vajrahasta (TB °tah) RV. VS SB. TB Here TB, introducing a conjunction yad, makes what was originally a vocative epithet into a syntactically separate, the still dependent, clause: 'since thou art vajra-wielder' instead of 'O vajra-wielder!' The awkward reading of VS. SB is intermediate and paved the way

- §339. Note also the ApS variant developy havyavād asi, under developy havyavāhana etc §329; and the following, which show the final result of this tendency:
- kāmyāsı PB. MS. GG: kāmye MS
- agne prāyascitte SMB. PG ApMB HG.: agne prāyascittir ası SG Similarly with vāyo . and sūrya (āditya)
- agne grhapata upa mā hvayasva KS. ApŠ MŚ. agnaya upāhvayadhvam Vait: agnir me hotā sa mopahvayatām ŞB Parallels rather than reai variants?
- adhvanām adhvapate pra mā tīra svastī me VS: adhvanām adhvapate svastī me PB: adhvano adhīpatīr asi svastī no SS.

Transfer of epithet

- §340 There remain, aside from textually dubious or corrupt variants, chiefly some cases of 'transfer of epithet' That is, the variant word is transferred from one person or thing to another, which involves change of case. Cf §14 above:
- tava śravānsy upamāny ukthyā (SV. °ya) RV SV In RV. the adj goes with śravānsi, in SV. with Indra.
- śrātās ta ındra somā vātāpayo (KB TA vātāper, KS. SS. vātāpe) havanasrutah MS KS (9. 8) KB TA SS. In MS vāt° agrees with somāh, in the others with Indra, either with the voc indra or with the pronoun te and the adj. havanasrutah
- satyasya dharmanas patī (ApŚ pate, Vait MŚ satyasya dharmanā, AŚ. parī satyasya dharmanā, PG parī sakhyasya dharmanāh) ŚŚ Vait ApŚ MŚ AŚ PG. In ŚŚ (probably orginal) patī (dual) is part of the predicate of the two preceding pādas. In ApŚ it is applied to an unspecified divine personage to whom the stanza is felt as addressed.
- devā ājyapā juṣānā agna (VS indra) ājyasya vyantu VS MS KS In the original (MS. KS) addressed to Agni (voc.); but he is not one of those who are to participate in the action of vyantu. The redactor of VS. felt therefore that there was no reason for bringing Agni in at all; the rest of the verse suggests that Indra is above all the god who is to 'taste the butter', hence indra(h), as one of the devā(h) who are the subject of the verb
- nvasvann (VSK. °vān, TS. KS °va) ādītyaisa te somapīthah VS VSK TS. MS KS ŠB MŠ The epithet belongs, as it should, to the sun (ādītya) in all but VSK, which seems to apply it, incredibly, to somapīthah.

- anu dyāvāpṛthivī supraṇīth (SS. °te) AS SS. The original pāda d of AV. 7. 73 6 (see Whitney's note); Ppp. (Roth) agrees with AS., with nom. agreeing with savitā of pāda c, while SS. (secondarily) distorts it to agree with the subject of the 2d person verbs of pādas a, b.
- svar devā (TS. TB. ApS. suvar devāň) aganma (MS MŚ. agāma) VS. TS. MS. KS. ŚB TB. ApŚ. MŚ. devā is accentless both times in VS, tho comm in one of them takes it as nom. (vayam yajamānā devā bhūtvā). In KS. 14. 1 it is voc, in KS. 18 12 nom. (but two mss make it voc); in MS nom.; the Tait texts make it accus attracting it to the case of svar and making it a second object. If nom. it must, of course, agree with the subject (as comm. on VS says).
- bhaga eva bhagavān astu devāh (AV.† devah) RV. AV. VS TB. ApMB. In AV the epithet (originally voc.) is transferred to bhaga(h). Ppp. agrees with RV.
- vıvıttacakrā āsīnāh HG ApMB.; avımuhtacakra (v. l. °rā) āsīran PG. See §454.
- yat te susīme hṛdaye (SMB PG ApMB. HG. 'yam) KBU. AG. SMB. PG. ApMB. HG.: yat te susīmam hṛdayam KBU. 2. 8 (not in Conc.) susīme is voc. fem; hṛdaye loc. See §457. If susīmam be allowed to stand, it is a case of transfer of the epithet to hṛdayam: 'the heart that is thine, of well-parted hair' (! despite the bizarre sound of this to us, it is perhaps not impossible in a Vedic text; the 'heart' is the essence of the person, and any epithet of the person may be applied to it). Deussen would read susīme, however.
- agne vaiśvānara (MS * orah) svāhā TS MS. (bis) TB. The subject is jyotis (neuter!), and if the nom. can stand it must be felt as going with it. But, altho no v. 1 is recorded, we suspect a corruption (final visarga added, VV 2 §380).
- punar brahmāno (AV. brahmā) vasunītha (AV. °nītir, MS. °dhīte, KS.* °dhītam, v 1 °tim, KS.* 38. 12b† °nītha, KapS. °dhītam or °tim) yajñaih (AV. MS. KS * agne) AV. VS. TS MS KS. KapS. SB. The voc. agrees with agne (understood in KS.); the nom. with brahmā; the acc with tvā (sc. Agni) of the preceding.

The nom is impossible as member of a series of vocs, which are epithets of the personage addressed (trām must be supplied). With MahānU's dhāritā, it might, tho very harshly, be explained by attraction In fact the comm on TA seems to have read dhāritā devī, and for vasumdharā (which he does not quote; did he read °dhare?) he has: he bhūme sarvāni vastūni dhārayantī satī Evidently the text of TA. is very uncertain

VOCATIVE AND ACCUSATIVE

Direct address and indirect statement

§343. The variants between vocative and accusative are much less numerous than those between vocative and nominative, and naturally do not parallel them altogether; yet it is rather curious to observe the extent to which they correspond. Thus, to begin with, we find a group in which one form addresses directly a divine personage or a thing (vocative), while the other expresses the same prayer, wish, or statement indirectly, referring to the same personage or thing in the accusative. Generally in such cases the variants occur in different contexts, so that we have a sort of phrase-inflection, an adaptation of the same mantra material to different situations. But not always so, in a few cases the same passage undergoes this syntactic modification, just as in the first group of nominative-vocative variants (§326). Among the simplest cases of this sort are two in which a first person verb meaning in substance 'I invoke' is used in both forms of the variant, with the god invoked in the accusative or vocative:

indram (SV. indra) dhenum sudughām anyām işam RV SV The preceding pāda is ā tv adya (SV. tvādya) sabardughām huve gāyatravepasam. SV., by reading tvā(dya) for tv adya, turns the verse into a direct address to Indra. 'I call upon Indra' or 'I call on thee, Indra'.

rcā yāmi maruto brahmaṇaspatım (SV. °pate), devān (SV. devā) avo varenyam RV SV. MS KS. 'With a hymn I approach the Maruts, Brahmanaspati, the gods, for excellent aid': '. I approach [you], O Maruts etc.'

§344. In a few other cases the accusative is the object of a causative or active verb, while the vocative goes with a corresponding intransitive; the action is thought of alternatively as performed by an outside agency upon the entity referred to, or by that entity itself These are similar to many variations of the acc with the nom, §372 ff

thou firm, O house (pillar)', or: 'Right here I fix firm the house'

- tasmaı tvam stana pra pyāya ApMB: tasmaı stanam pra pyāyasva HG. 'Swell for him, O breast!', or: 'Swell thy breast for him.' See VV 1 §32
- unnambhaya prihivīm TS. KS MS ApŚ.: pra nabhasva prihivī AV. 'Split open the earth' (addressed to Dhātar): 'burst open, O earth' Ppp agrees with TS. etc., and AV. addresses Dhātar in pāda c; AV. probably secondary.
- §345. In the stray variant which follows the acc. is original ('the sacrifice has gone to the gods'); AS. (the reading of which is repeated by its comm) makes it a direct address to the gods:

devān (MS devān, AS devā) janam agan yajnah MS KS AS. ApS MS †

Phrase inflection

§346. The remaining cases of shift between direct address and indirect reference concern different contexts in the two forms of the variant:

satyadharmānam adhvare RV SV. (preceded by kavım agnim upa stuhi): satyadharmāno adhvaram (TS °re) RV. TS (preceded by different pādas of direct address).

yanışıham havyavāhana (and onam) RV. (both). Voc. accompanies 2d pers pronoun.

rudra jalāşabheşaja AV.: rudram jalāşabheşajam RV

śatamūte śatakrato RV: śatamūtim śatakratum RV. Voc with te, acc. with indram stomebhir havanasrutam (and °tā) RV. (both). Acc. with mahāntam (indram), voc (dual) with indrāgnī or asvinā ındav ındrāya pītaye RV.: indum ındrāya pītaye RV. SV.

ındum (RV. also ındav) ındrāya matsaram RV. (both) SV.

indram (RV also indra) somasya pītaye RV. (both) AV. SV.

tasya ta ışlasya vītasya dravneha bhakşīya TS ('may I enjoy the wealth of thee '): tasya na işlasya prītasya dravnehāgameh VS ('wealth of , come to us here'). And others; see VV 1 §104u, and §326 above The forms differ only in accent.

§347. We come now to the second large group of vocative-accusative variants In these there is direct address both times; but the person or thing addressed is syntactically the object of a verb, at least in one form and generally in both, while one of its epithets is alternatively expressed in the accusative, agreeing with the object, or in the vocative While we can generally see which is the original form, on external grounds, both forms are often equally sound syntactically, as was the case with the corresponding nominative-vocative variants (§§334 ff) Usually the shift is due to attraction to a neighboring form

§348. In the group to be mentioned first the accusative form is older than the vocative:

- indram karmasv āvatam (MS VS * °ta) RV AV. VS (both) MS KS. SB TB ApS: indram karmasv avatu MS indra karmasu no 'vata VS KS: indrah karmasu no 'vatu TB (but Poons ed indra 'vata) See VV 1 §354 The voc is attracted to the subject of the verb, which originally does not include Indra
- namasyāmas tvedyam (KS. °ya) jātavedah RV MS KS TB 'We pay homage to thee, the worshipful one, O Jātavedas' or 'to thee, O worshipful J' The RV original makes the epithet ādyam agree with tvā, the KS attracts it to Jātavedah, but in either case it refers to the same person
- agnim (SV. agne) rathom no vedyom RV SV On this complicated verse (cf. also agnī ratho no vedyoh RV, and below §387) see RVRep. on 1 186 3, with references, and especially Oldenberg, Prol 288 There is no doubt that SV. is secondary All the surrounding verses are addressed to Agni; this is doubtless the reason for SV's change to the vocative, which makes unsatisfactory sense, the pronoun vah (plural') occurs in the first pāda, and is interpreted by the comm as equivalent to tvām!
- pra yā bhūmım (TS ApMB °mı) pravatvatı RV TS MS KS. ApMB N. Followed by mahnā jinoşı (MS hınoşı) mahını Addressed to Pṛthivī, 'earth', who is said to 'promote the land (bhūmı)', by a natural confusion TS ApMB assimilate bhūmı to the subject and make it vocative, along with (and specifically attracted by) the adjoining vocative epithets. Note that the short i of the ending is retained, which however implies a stem bhūmī instead of bhūmı; of yās ca bhūmy. etc, §180.
- mahyā ındram (ApMB indra) svastaye RV. ApMB Occurs twice in ApMB, in different contexts, both different from that of RV. On one of them see Winternitz xxix f Both are inferior in sense.
- §349. The cases in which an older vocative varies with a secondary accusative in expressions of direct address are.
- ye tvā rātry (MG. rātrīm) upāsate KS. MG: yā tām rātrīm upāsmahe PG: yām tvā rātry upāsmahe (TS upāsate, SMB. rātri yajāmahe)

- AV. TS SMB. Direct address in all, even in PG, where the object pronoun is 3d person instead of 2d; PG and MG assimilate the form of the orig. voc to the object pronoun
- indra savistha satpate RV.: indram savistha satpatim SV. Repeated in SV from RV 8 68 1, where the first three padas are: ā tvā ratham yathotaye sumnāya vartayāmasi, tunkūrmim rtīşaham. The acc epithets of the prec have attracted two of the three vocs of the last pāda; the curious thing is that one (savistha) is allowed to remain even in SV.
- śociskeśam wcaksana (AV.* onam) RV. ArS AV (both) TS KS. Preceded by tvā. deva sūrya. Clear attraction to the prec. acc. in AV
- hotas cikitvo (AV. °vann) avṛnīmahīha RV AV: agne hotāram avṛnīmahīha VS. TS. MS. KS. ŚB. In all texts $tv\bar{a}$ occurs in prec 'In that today we choose thee, O hotar (as hotar)'
- punar brahmāno (AV. brahmā) vasunītha (AV. °nītır, MS. °dhīte, KS* °dhītam, v l °dhītim, and †°nītha, KapS °dhītam or °dhītim) yajñaih (AV. MS KS. agne) AV. VS. TS MS KS (bis) KapS SB. See §340.
- svar devā (TS. TB ApŚ suvar devān) aganma (MS. MŚ agāma) VS TS. MS. KS ŚB. TB. ApŚ MŚ The acc certainly secondary, and perhaps influenced by svar; see §340.
- vaha kāla (HG kālam, v. 1 kāla) vaha śriyam mābhi vaha ApMB HG.

 Undoubtedly ApMB is correct and original. Addressed to an elephant: 'Carry, black one, carry! Carry me towards fortune!'

 Probably kāla should be read in HG. with two mss.; certainly kālam does not make sense 'Carry the time' (Oldenberg) is ridiculous, and 'carry the black one' is little better

Transfer of epithet

- §350. The remaining vocative-accusative variants, except a few corruptions, concern 'transfer of epithet' from one person or thing to another, involving change of case (and also, often, of number or gender): rayim no dhehi subhage suvīram (MŠ suvīre, PG † suvīryam) AV. TS.
 - MS. PG 'Grant us wealth with good sons, O auspicious one': 'grant us wealth, O auspicious one of good sons'. There is little real difference in the sense, the possession of good sons by the deity addressed implies the granting of them to the petitioner.
- vardhā samudram ukthyam (SV. °ya) RV. SV. In RV ukthyam modifies samudram; in SV it is transferred to soma (in pāda a)

- indram sakhāyo (KS 'yam) anu sam rabhadhvam (KS. vyayadhvam) RV AV. SV. VS. TS. MS KS The voc sakhāyo refers to the subject (warriors); the acc to the object (Indra)
- subhage kāmpīlavāsını TS KSA TB ApŠ subhadrıkām kāmpīlavāsınīm VS MS See Edgerton, JAOS 31 141, 144 The words are applied differently, the accs to a rival queen, the vocs (spoken by the priest) to the Mahişī Both occur in an obscene passage in the asvamedha In the voc form note the absence of the imprecatory suffix ka
- kṛnuta dhūmam vṛṣaṇah sakhāyah AV: kṛnota dhūmam vṛṣaṇam sakhāyah RV The whole AV verse is a wretched corruption of the RV original All that need concern us here is that vṛṣaṇam, in the orig an epithet of dhūmam (so Grassmann Wbch, Geldner, Hillebrandt), is transferred to the following sakhāyah
- kas tam ındra tvāvasum (SV PB tvā vaso) RV. SV. AB. GB. PB. AS. This involves a 'false division' of the type described in VV 2 §820, where this variant might have been included. The RV. has a cpd adj. agreeing with tam. The SV misunderstands it as containing an acc tvā, and then makes the seemingly necessary correction to vaso, which is then a voc going with ındra
- āganma mitrāvarunā varenyā (MS varena, KS varenyam) TS MS KS In KS the epithet goes apparently with bhāgam, to be supplied in sense (the following pāda is rātrāņām bhāga yuvayar yo asti) In TS (probably a lect fac) it is made to agree with mitrāvarunā. MS. has a different change, on which see VV 2 §326
- achidram (SMB °rāh) sarma yachata RV AB SMB The unaccented SMB makes the epithet go with the subject; it may be taken as either voc or nom
- svargam arvanto jayema Vant · svargān (AS text, svagān) arvanto jayata (AS jayatah; AS also, as variant given in the text, arvato jayati) SV. AS SS arvanto is voc in SV, nom. in Vant, in both cases going with the subject (in SS either nom or voc). In the second version of AS it is transferred to the object
- rbhum rbhulsano rayım RV.: rbhukşanam rbhum rayım RV SV. In the first passage rbhukşano is a voc elliptic plural, 'O Rbhukşan (and the two other Rbhus)' In the second it is an epithet of rayım See RVRep. on 4 37.5
- nāma svadhāvan guhyam (ApMB svadhāvat svaryam) bibharşi RV. ApMB. In RV. svadhāvan refers to Agm; in ApMB. it is made an epithet of nāma

§351. There are two cases of the sort mentioned in §15; in both what is in the original form an object noun is treated in the secondary form as a vocative epithet. They differ from the preceding only in that the original accusative can hardly be considered an 'epithet':

avavyayann asıtam deva vasma (TB. ApŚ vasvah) RV. MS KS TB ApŚ The original: 'Removing the black garment, O god' In TB. ApŚ vasvah must apparently be meant as an epithet of deva; its meaning is obscure; Caland translates the RV. reading See VV 2 p 124.

viśvam ā bhāsi rocanam (AV.* °na) RV. ArS AV. (both) VS. TS. MS. TA. MahānU The subject is the sun; the object, in the orig, viśvam rocanam In AV rocana must be felt as an epithet of the subject, 'shining' This adjective is unknown to the RV., where rocana is always a noun.

Errors

evā hīndra KB AA TA AS Mahānāmnyah. The Conc. follows the Bibl Ind ed of AA in quoting hīndram; but see Keith's AA., 142, n 12. Voc in all kāma kāmam ma āvartaya PB. MŚ: kāmam-kāmam mā āvartaya MS. But one of von Schroeder's best mss. reads kāma kāmam (both accented); this and the reading of MŚ, its ritual text, convinces us that the printed reading of MS. is merely due to bad editing yam usum gurisanta VS MS. TS. KS SvetU. NilarU The ed. of NilarU used in Conc has girisantam in text and comm. But the AnSS ed has 'santa in text (comm 'santam) The acc can be construed only with difficulty, Deussen assumes a voc.

devayuvam (TB devā°) višvavārām (AŠ °vāre) TS ŠB. TB AŠ. ŠŠ. Preceded by ghrtavatīm adhvaryo (AŠ † °yoh) srucam āsyasva The accs. go with srucam, the spoon; perhaps AS means višvavāre as a voc fem addressed to the spoon, but this is really nonsense, even if it be detached from the preceding and taken with the following (īdāmahai devān īdenyān). Note that AŠ. is also corrupt in adhvaryoh (omitted in Conc; to be added to VV 2 §381).

CHAPTER XIII

VOCATIVE AND OTHER CASES

A Vocative and instrumental

$353. The variations between vocative and instrumental are, as we should expect, few and scattering. Nevertheless there are certain conditions in which, rather unexpectedly, these two cases may be interchanged with substantially no difference of meaning. Thus, first, an associative instrumental may be used with a vocative of direct address of a person also addressed, while in another form a second vocative may function. The associative instrumental varies in this same way with other cases (§§55-7). The examples we have noted are mo şū na ındrātra (TS † ındra) pṛṭsu devah (KS devāh, TS MS deva) RV VS TS MS KS ŠB In the original, 'O Indra along with the gods'', in KS., 'O Indra (and) ye gods'' The next pāda begins with astu and MS TS read devāstu, which however MS p p resolves as devāh, astu— implying the reading of KS. The reading deva would of course be voc. sg, as epithet of Indra; this would be a case of 'transfer of epithet', as described in §15

devīr-devīr (Ap$ devīr devar) abht mā nivartadhvam MS Ap$ In MS. an āmredita compound. 'Ye several goddesses'' In Ap$: 'Ye goddess along with the gods''

ā yāhi sūra haribhyām (SV KB SS hariha, AS harī iha) AV SV KB AS SS. See notes of Whitney and Keith Apparently harī iha is intended in all but AV, harī would seem to be voc: 'O hero (Indra) [and] ye two bay steeds!'

§354. In another way the voc. and instr. may be nearly equivalent in ultimate meaning in the following, which psychologically go with interchanges between direct address and indirect statement (cf §29), here in the indirect form the personage which in the other form is directly addressed is put in the instrumental instead of the nom (for the equivalence of these two cases in such contexts see §40).

jagatyaınam (AS °ty enam) vikşu ā vešayāmah (MS KS °mı, AS °nı)
TS MS KS AS The AS reading may be only a phonetic variant or corruption (see VV 2 §709), but if genuine it could be interpreted as meaning 'O jagati (instead of 'by the jagati') may I settle him in the tribes'. That is, the potency which in the original is to be the instrument for bringing about the desired result is directly addressed for this purpose in AS ātmāsy ātmann ātmānam (GB. ātmanātmānam) me mā hinsīh GB Vait Kauś. 'Thou art ātman; O ātman, injure not my ātman!' or, 'injure not my ātman by the ātman.' If textually sound, this would be substantially the reverse of the preceding change (assuming that here the voc is original) But Gaastra reads in GB like the others (with v l in 2 mss)

§355. The following might be called a case of 'transfer of epithet' but for the fact that the two forms are used in quite different contexts, so that it is rather what we have called 'phrase inflection' (§§21-2):

devī devebhir yajate (and °tā) yajatraih RV. (both): devī deveṣu yajatā yajatra RV. AV MS The latter is certainly secondary; yajatra is made to agree with a preceding agne, whereas in the original the word agreed with devebhir. The contexts are different See RVRep 241

§356. In one stray case a voc varies with an adverbial instr:

sā nas samaniam anu parīhi bhadrayā ApMB: sā mā (MG. nah) samantam abhi pary ehi bhadre MG SMB bhadre refers to the sacred belt, mekhalā: 'Do thou encircle me (us) completely, O fair one!' Instead of 'O fair one' ApMB says 'fairly', using the old RV. adverb Or this may be the original reading, and bhadre a sort of phonetic (Prakritic) reduction; the variant should in any case have been quoted in VV 2 §747

§357. The next is one of those cases which by a certain stretching of language may be called 'transfer of epithet' (cf. §15) A voc epithet of the subject is replaced by an instrumental of different appurtenance: utūla parimīdho 'si PG · ūlena parimīdho 'si HG: ulena parimīdio 'si

ApMB Original is apparently PG, utūla '(runaway) servant.' The word ula or ūla seems to mean some kind of wild animal, see Bloomfield SBE. 42 643 (on AV 12 1 49) But the interpretation of HG. ApMB is very obscure, Oldenberg abandons the text

B Vocative and dative

§358. Here again the variants are few But they show interesting psychological parallels to variations between the vocative and other cases. Thus first we find some cases in which there is a shift between direct address, with vocative, and indirect statement, in which the personage addressed in the direct form is referred to in the dative (cf §30). The alteration may be helped by assimilation to a case-form already present in the older form of the variant, as in the first case.

agnaye (AV. Kauś agne) samidham āhārṣam (ŚG GG ahārṣam) AV Kauś AG GG SMB ŚG PG HG ApMB (The false emendation agre in AV is withdrawn by Whitney ad loc) Lanman ap Whitney regards the voc agne as original on metrical grounds More weighty to our minds is the fact that it seems to be a lectio difficilior. The rest of the verse refers to Agni (Jātavedas) in the 3d person, not in direct address, and more particularly, the datives brhate jātavedase follow immediately, and it is almost certain that agnaye has been assimilated to them, replacing agne. Note that the following stanzas are all directly addressed to Agni Jātavedas However, the comm on AV reads agnaye, and so does one of SPP's reciters 'O Agni (for Agni) I have brought firewood, for the great J' brhaspataye mahışa (TS mahı şad) dyuman namah AV TS. brhaspate mahışaya dive namah Ppp (Barret, JAOS 26 273) brhaspate mahışa dyuman namah MS Followed by:

mśwakarman namas te pāhu asmān AV (and PDD) namo wśwakarmane sa u pātv asmān TS. MS In the first pāda there is a double case, brhaspate varies with "pataye, and mahisa with "saya of Pop Altho the AV comm reads mahi sad like TS, we no longer hold the view expressed in VV 2 §§392, 826 that this is the original reading All texts but TS have a form of the stem mahisa. we attribute special weight to Ppp mahisāya which we had previously overlooked We now take the original to be MS. 'O Brhaspati. mighty one (or buffalo bull), glowing homage (to thee), homage to Viśvakarman, may he protect us 'Since no dative is expressed in the first pada, one of the two vocs (which really indicate the recipient) is changed into a dative in all the other texts, hence mahısoya Ppp, brhaspataye AV TS The change to direct address in the second pada in AV Ppp is also due to a sort of assimilation, it matches the direct address of the first pada, to a different divinity

§359. Parallel to the cases mentioned in §§334 etc are one or two instances in which there is direct address in both forms of the variant, but instead of the vocative one form has a dative, referring to the same person but differently construed. Here too the shift may be due to form assimilation. Thus in the first instance the voc is clearly original

kṣayadvīra (TS °vīrāya) sumnam asme te astu RV. TS Addressed to Rudra; the preceding is āre te goghnam ula pūruṣaghnam RV., ārāt te goghna ula pūruṣaghne TS. The meaning of TS is far from clear (Keith may be right in thinking that the variant word is felt as meaning 'hero-destroyer' in TS, instead of 'hero-ruler'; in other respects Keith's interpretation seems to us less happy; we think sumnam is felt as 'hymn' in TS) But the assimilation is clear.

vasavo rudrā ādityā ciā vah pannejanīh MS KS: vasubhyo rudrebhya āditychhyo višvebhyo vo devebhyah pannejanīr grhņāmi TS. The former is clearly original. 'These are your footbaths, O Vasus etc' In TS we take it that there is still direct address, vo referring to the gods, and perhaps the datives may therefore be conceived as assimilated to the case of vo At any rate TS means: 'I take the footbaths for you Vasus, Rudras, Ādityas, All-gods' (or, at least, vo must certainly go with višvebhyo devebhyah, as its position clearly suggests, rather than with pannejanīr as Keith takes it).

pusitpate (MS pusia°; ApS. °pataye) pusits (MS om) caksuse ...punar dhehi (dehi) MS AS. ApS Caland adopts voc for ApS, but this involves also reading pusitm for pusits, which is supported by AS and which MS lacks altogether. To us it seems that ApS. has a genuine (the secondary) variant: 'To the Lord of Prosperity prosperity! Give back etc'

§360. The following may be said to be cases of 'transfer of epithet' (§14):

viprā †gātham gāyata yaj jujosati (AA °sat) AA ŠŠ: viprāya †gātham gāyata yam jujosate SV Preceded by pra va indrāya vitrahantamāya In SV. the epithet goes with Indra, in the others it is addressed to the priests (probably by a secondary transfer).

tasmai rudrāya namo astv agnaye (KS ApS. astv depāh, MS † 'stv devāya) AV. KS. ApS MS SirasU (Ppp has the pāda ending astv adya, TS. TA MahānU ending astv.) Lectio difficillima in AV. (probably original). The voc devāh cannot refer to the same personage as the dative of the others, whether Agni be identified or only associated with Rudra Add to VV 2 §909

§361. A couple of anomalous cases:

ekam ışe TB ApS SMB KhG PG. ApMB. ApG. HG. MG. Followed, where more than a pratīka, by vişnus tvānvetu (nayatu). 'One (step) for nourishment; may Viṣṇu accompany (lead) thee.' Sumilar are işa ekapudī (sc bhava) AG ŚG: işe tvā sumañgalı prajāvatı susīme Kauś In these the formula is the first of a series employing the first seven numerals, with nearly uniform wording In TS we find the formula isolated, in a quite different context from any occurring in the others, as follows. ekam işa (vişnus tvānu vi cakrame): 'One (step), O vigorous one, Vişnu has stepped along after thee' Keith denies any relation between this and the other mantras, but it seems to us probable that he is wrong TS has simply worked over and applied differently a formula remembered from other occasions. It has turned işe into a voc, probably thinking of the RV. adjective işa (but comm sarvadevair işyamāna) [kanyakumāryai (TA °mārī) dhīmahi TA MahānU. Poona ed of TA nyakumāryai (TA °mārī) dhīmahi TA MahānU Poona ed of TA °kumārī, but with accent on the penult (¹), and its comm °kumārī Occurs in a series of formulas which are closely parallel, differing only in using various names; in all the others datives are found Neither a voc nor a nom is, in fact, conceivable here Perhaps TA has a mere phonetic corruption, belonging with VV 2 §§700-701 Comm understands a dative, adding lingādivyatyayah sarvatra chāndaso drastavyah (very simple¹)]

C. Vocative and ablative

§362. We have noted only a single stray variant, in which the vocative is surely original; it is subject of the following verb yaja: 'O broad atmosphere, along with god Vāta, [sacrifice]' In VS SB this is violently detached from the following phrase containing yaja, and apparently a verb meaning 'protect' must be understood (so the comms), but the reading is certainly poor

uro antarıkşa (VS SB uror antarıkşāt) sajūr devena vātena VS TS MS KS SB (Delete reference to KS 2 2)

D Vocative and genitive

§363. Here again the variants are not numerous. Some are essentially phonetic in character, involving presence or absence of final visarga; see especially §366. Most of them are cases of shift between direct statement, with vocative, and indirect reference in which the same noun is referred to in the genitive. In quite a number of these, however, as in the nom-voc cases mentioned §333, one form or the other is more or less inconsistent with the context, producing stylistic harshness. Thus

ghrtavatī savitar (MS KS. °tur) ādhipatye (TS °tyaih) TS MS KS AŚ

Followed in all by payasvatī rantir (MS rātir) āšā no astu. In (by) [thy] lordship, O Savitar': 'in the lordship of Savitar' But the first part of the stanza is directly addessed to a different deity, and the voc savitar is harsh.

- yena to te prajāpate TB ApŚ.: yenate prajāpateḥ MŚ Followed in all by ījānasya nyavartayan. Here the following gen ījānasya, which in the (doubtless original) TB. ApŚ. form agreed with te referring to Prajāpati, is doubtless connected with the alteration to prajāpateh But in MŚ.'s form to is lost and the statement becomes third-personal
- tām savitah satyasavām sucitrām AV.: tām savitur varenyasya citrām VS. TS. MS KS. SB ApS. Followed in all by āham vīņe sumatim višvajanyām (AV višvavārām) 'O Savitar, this [thy] favor . ': 'this favor of Savitar.' In the 3d pāda all, including AV, refer to Savitar in the 3d person, with asya This rather mild inconsistency does not prove that AV. is secondary; on the contrary it may suggest that the others have assimilated to the following context
- apsu te rājan varuna AV.: dvīpe rājño varunasya KS. AS Followed by grho hiranyayo mitah (AS. mito hiranyayah). 'A golden house is built for thee, O king Varuna (for king Varuna)' The 2d half verse refers to Varuna in the 3d person in AV.; but probably this inconsistency is original, and has been eliminated secondarily in KS AS; note that they are metrically very poor Form assimilation.
- yad bhumer hidayam, [dim candramasi sritam] ApMB.†: veda te bhumi hidayam PG HG Even ApMB addresses Earth directly with a voc in the following, it is metrically poor in the 1st pada
- viṣnoh (ApMB viṣno, v. l. viṣnoh) śreṣṭhena (RVKh Scheftelowitz śraiṣṭhyena) rūpena RVKh ApMB MG. 'With the noblest form of Viṣnu' 'with [thy] noblest form, O Viṣnu' The same pāda, with different divine names, is found AV. 5 25 10-13, with vocatives; and Ppp (Barret, JAOS. 48 38), with savitus, viṣnoh, ivaṣṭuh, but bhagah (for bhaga?) Barret emends to vocs in all four cases in accordance with AVS, but this seems dubious procedure The deity is addressed directly in pāda c, with ā dhehi, in all.

so 'ham vājam saneyam agne (KS. sanāmy †agneh) VS. TS MS. KS 'May I win strength, O Agni (of, or from, Agni).'

ghrlavatīm adhvaryo (AS † °yoh) srucam āsyasva TS TB. SB. AS SS. See §352, end; AS has a stupid corruption.

§364. One or two others are used in different contexts, so that they may be called cases of 'phrase inflection' (§§21-2).

punānāya prabhūvaso RV SV: punānasya prabhūvasoh RV. The voc agrees directly with soma, the gen. with yasya which refers to Soma parnam vanaspater wa TB. TAA SS ApS PG HG: parnam vanaspate 'nu tvā SMB Quite different contexts §365. We come now to a case or two in which both forms of the variant contain direct address, but a name or epithet of the person addressed is in one form put in the genitive. These are similar to the variants of the voc with other cases mentioned in §§27 ff. In the first, at least, we have a clear case for form assimilation.

brhaspatisutasya ta (KS om ta, leaving hiatus) indo (KS MS inda) indriyāvatah patnīvantam (KS °vato) graham grhnāmi (MS rādhyāsam, KS graham rdhyāsam) TS MS KS brhaspatisutasya deva soma ta indoi (VSK inda) indriyāvatah patnīvato grahān rdhyāsam VS VSK ŚB It is evident that VS. has assimilated the voc of all other texts to the gen te and accompanying adjectives. Note that only the Vāj texts have another voc (deva soma), which makes indo unnecessary

§366. The next variant is one of those which seem most clearly phonetic in character, the original voc agne becomes agneh by addition of the evanescent final visarga, on which see VV 2 §§378 ff (this variant was overlooked there and should be added to §381) It will be noted that not a few of the other voc-gen variants show this same phonetic relationship, and as we have suggested l c. it is quite likely that in some of them the phonetic moment is more weighty than the syntactic We doubt, however, whether Knauer (MG, Einleitung, xxxii f) is right in suggesting that this added visarga was intended as an external mark of an imperative or vocative form, we even question whether it indicated (as Knauer thinks) aspirate pronunciation of a following consonant da agne (MG agneh) prayayā saha RV AV PG ApMB MG (All MG)

mss actually read dāgneh with secondary crasis, this should have been recorded in VV 2 §989, Knauer emends) Preceded by tubhyam agre (MG agne, on this of VV 2 §864) paryavahan, sūryām vahatunā saha, punah (AV sa nah) patibhyo jāyām 'Give back to (us) husbands the bride along with progeny, O Agni (with Agni's progeny?)' But note that MG also contains voc agne (for original agre), addressing the verse to Agni

§367. In a couple of cases a voc varies with a partitive gen (see §84): tvam uttamāsy oṣadhe RV VS: uttamo asy oṣadhīnām AV Thou art most excellent, O plant (most excellent of plants)' Same context The masc gender is peculiar, apparently there is thought of the gender of vrksa. A tree is addressed. But fem forms occur in the following verses of AV.

atho rājann (AV uta rājāām) uttamam mānavānām AV. TB. Addressed to a king, either makes good sense. The gen rājāām might be assimilated to the following gen. ('also highest of human kings'), or contrariwise the voc. might be assimilated to the direct address preceding ('[who shall make thee] also, O king, highest of men')

§368. The last quoted variant might also be called a case of 'transfer of epithet' (§14) To that category certainly belongs the following: pura krūrasya visrpo virapšin (MS 'šinah) VS TS MS KS ŠB TB.

It is clear that MS has transferred the epithet wrapsin(ah) into agreement w_i : $kr\bar{w}rasya$ Otherwise the interpretation is dubious Mahidhara understands. CHAPTER XIV

NOMINATIVE AND ACCUSATIVE

1 Interchange of active and intransitive phraseology

§372. The only large and characteristic group of variants between nominative and accusative is that which concerns shift between active (transitive, or causative) and passive (intransitive, or reflexive) expressions. In so far as these are signalized by corresponding shifts in verb forms, they have been already recorded in VV 1 (chapters 2 and 5). But of course the materials correspond only in part. For example, many variants between active and passive verb forms have no expressed nominative subject of the passive (or intransitive) variant, and hence no case variation. On the other hand, one or both of the variants may lack any verb form

§373. A very simple case of this shift between causative and intransitive expressions is found in the set of formulas SG. 4 9, 10 and BDh. 2 5. 9, 10, which illustrates at the same time the point last mentioned, that the verb is very easily omitted Here, in a long list of supernatural entities to which offerings of water (tarpana) are made, we find many correspondences of the type (om) agnim tarpayami BDh., agnis trpyatu SG. So with vāyu, sūrya, viṣnu, prajāpati, etc A similar set occurs in AG., with the verb understood thruout, and expressed (trpyantu) only at the end. The verb is also understood in some items of the list in $G; hence such variants as reayah (sc trpyantu) AG.$G.: (om) rsīns tarpayāmı BDh. Finally, it must be noticed that in the middle of the list SG. suddenly shifts to a causative construction like that of BDh. (frutim tarpayāmi.), which prevails for six items (incidentally all these contain nouns not found in BDh), after which, for no evident reason, it shifts back again to the intransitive form. Perhaps this very irregularity of expression may indicate greater antiquity of the SG. The Sambavya Grhya (quoted by Oldenberg, ISt. 15. 153) has a similar list with the names all in the nominative.

§874. Cases also occur in which the same verb form, or at least a form in the same voice, is found in both variants, but is used now in active sense, governing the acc, now in intransitive, passive, or reflexive sense, with nom. subject. Naturally these would find no inclusion in

VV 1; yet they are psychologically of the same nature as active-passive or causative-intransitive shifts. Of these we find the following examples: apochatu (AV. °chantu) mithunā yā kimīdinā (AV ye kimīdināh) RV. AV 'Let him (Indra) shine away the paired kimīdins', or 'let the paired kimīdins fade away.' The verb apa-vas is transitive in RV, in this AV. passage it seems impossible to avoid taking it as intransitive. In AV. 282 and 377 it is also commonly taken as intrans, but Bloomfield (SBE. 42289, 338f) would make it trans

- ny asmaā hṛtsu kāmā (ApMB kāmān) ayansata (AV aransata) RV. AV. ApMB. In the RV. original. 'O Asvins, (our) desires have stationed themselves in your hearts' In ApMB, with less feeling for the middle: 'O Asvins, they (people, indefinite) have stationed (their) desires in your hearts'
- ekapadī dnpadī aṣṭāpadī bhuvanānu prathatām svāhā TS: ekapadīm aṣṭāpadīm bhuvanānu prathantām VS SB: ekapādam dnpādam trīpādam catuṣpādam bhuvanānu prathantām KS Only TS seems to use the verb in the intransitive sense which it should have. 'Iet her (the cow) spread out over the worlds' In the others it seems that it must be taken as transitive (= prathayantu; cf the preceding variant), tho the form is certainly anomalous Comm. on VS and Eggeling make bhuvanā subject. 'Iet the worlds spread her along' or (comm) 'make her renowned.' Better indefinite subject, as suggested VV 1 p 268
- somam rājānam osadhīsv apsu VS TS MS ŠB: somo rājausadhīsv apsu KS Preceded by vājasyemam (KS vājasya nu) prasavah susuve 'gre (TS †agre, add to VV 2 §908). In the original "The instigation of strength pressed out this King Soma," etc. KS eliminates the pronoun imam and brings somo rājā into agreement with the subject of the verb, which is now felt as passive; probably it also understands prasavah as 'offshoot' "The offshoot of strength, (viz) King Soma, was pressed out'

§375. A little different is the next, in which the sense of the verb is also changed, but is transitive both times, the subject and object being reversed.

avrato (AA °tam) hinoli na spršad rayim (AA rayih) SV. AA Preceded in SV. by na kāmam, in AA by na somo. 'The man who pays no vows attains not his desire, wins not wealth', SV: 'Soma impels not him who keeps no vows, wealth will not come near (him)', AA. See Keith's note on AA

§376. Frequent in the YV. formulas are dedicatory expressions (cf. §126) in which no verb at all is expressed. In that case the formula ordinarily consists merely of the name of the deity, in the dative or genitive, and the name of the thing offered, in either the nominative or accusative according as a passive (or intransitive or copulate) verb form or an active verb form is in the mind of the speaker. These two alternatives may vary with each other in different texts; or either of them may vary with a form of the other in which the verb is expressed. So we get such variants as these, it would hardly be worth while to list them completely:

himavate (TS. KSA TA °to) hastī (TA hastinam) VS TS. MS. KSA. TA. 'An elephant [is offered, or I offer] to Himavant' mıtrāvarunābhyām āgomugbhyām payasyā (MS °yām) TS MS KSA.— Sımılarly marudbhya enomugbhyām etc; agnaye gāyatrāya etc., brhaspataye pāñktāya etc

§377. In one passage with no verb expressed, the name of the deity is put alternatively in the acc and nom. The case to be expected is rather dat. or gen; cf §485 under agnim svāhā etc. The TB comm. supplies uddisya to govern the acc. No explanation of the nom in SB. is offered by the comm. or by Eggeling. Perhaps an intransitive form of trp is to be supplied with the nom and a transitive form of the same verb or of yaj (hotā yakṣat.) with the acc. (cf. §§373 and 459 under svāhāgnim.) Parallel formulas in the vicinity present acc. forms in SB.;

AŚ The first is followed by sījatā gayasādhanam, the second by indur hinvāno ajyate The calf is compared to soma in both, and the sense is essentially identical. The two hymns are workings-up of the same material, see RVRep 13, and on 9 104. 2 We find here something like the 'phrase inflection' found in the next group

§384. Often, as is well known, a phrase or an entire pada is lifted out of its original context and put into a new context. This, naturally, may require a change in the case of one or more noun forms. To such alterations we have applied the term 'phrase inflection' (§§21-2). As regards nominative-accusative shifts of this sort, they differ from those listed above essentially only in that the context in the two forms differs in such a way that in one form the nom is required, in the other the acc. (In the preceding variants the context is essentially the same, but their internal syntax has been altered in a way that involves shift of case.)

§385. A simple illustration is the pāda kṣīreṇa pūrṇā (pūrṇān) udakena dadhnā (both AV.). In the first form the nom agrees with the noms of the preceding pāda (ghrtahradā madhukūlāh surodakāh), in the other (which occurs in the next stanza and is an obvious modulation of the first) it is thrown into agreement with kumbhāns of the preceding pāda (caturah kumbhāns caturdhā dadāmi)

§386. Sometimes two entire pādas are thus lifted into a different context, involving change of case in several words. Thus the two following variant pādas are pādas b, c of a verse which in RV. has for a tam ahyan bhurijor dhiyā, but in SV. eṣa sūryena hāsate. The epithets of Soma are in RV. objects of ahyan, in SV subjects of hāsate: samvasānam (SV. °no) vivasvatah (SV. °tā); followed by: patin (SV. patir) vāco adābhyam (SV. °yah) RV. SV.

§387. The long list of such variants now follows—It will be noted that sometimes shifts of number and gender as well as case are involved. For convenience these are listed separately, after the others (§388) Otherwise neither subdivision nor, as a rule, individual comment seems to be called for.

The Ppp TAA reading makes both forms nom both times (once mase, once neut), and is simpler than AVS, which is certainly harsh, see Whitney on 3, 24 4, who takes the forms as acc depending on the verb of the prec. stanza. In pada d they might be taken as nom. neut, as in Ppp TAA; but in b this is difficult, since utsa is otherwise masc We feel however that accs are impossible, and that either utsa is here felt as neut, or the forms of pada b are mechanically assimilated to those of d (nom neut) Cf the next, which is evidently related.

3 Interchange of subject and object

§389. We return to cases in which the internal syntax of the variant pada is altered. But now there is no longer any change in the syntax of the verb, which is always transitive in a broad sense, that is, capable of governing an accusative, whether as what we call direct object, or as goal of motion or the like. Yet without any alteration in the form or meaning of the verb, the same noun is used n w as subject and now as object. Indeed, in a number of cases the subject and object change places in the two forms of the variant, subject becoming object and vice versa. It is characteristic of the inflated, mystical language of the Veda that this can not infrequently be done without difficulty. Thus in the first example, it makes little difference whether we say 'Brahman has increased the gods' or 'the gods have increased brahman':

udgrābham ca nigrābham ca VS. TS SB. ApS: udgrābhas ca nigrābhas ca MS. KS MS. Followed in all but MS. by:

brahma devā (MS sp devan, KS devān) avīvrdhan (MS KS. dhat). The nouns in the first pāda are probably appositional to brahma rather than coordinate with it; cf. Keith on TS 1. 1. 13. 1

(Ppp viśvam anyābhi vavāra, which Whitney adopts, the Barret JAOS 26 223 alters it to anyām abhī) viśvam anyābhivāvidhe TB ApŚ No doubt Ppp, supported by TB ApŚ, is more original in making anyā subject and viśvam object; but the AVŚ reading may be rendered 'the Universe has enveloped (?) one'.
- jyok ca pasyāti (PG °āsi, MG. °ati) sūryam (MG °yah) AG PG ApMB MG. 'And long may he behold the sun (may the sun behold him).' See VV 1 p 235
- gamad indram (SV. indro) vrsā sutah (SV. sutam) RV. SV. Apparently the reversal of relationship in SV. was due to a feeling that vrṣā is more appropriate as an epithet of Indra than of Soma (sutah)
- tam varianir (SV. °nīr) anu vāvrta ekam it puru (SV eka it) SV. AV 'He, the One, has followed along the paths towards him' (SV.). 'the path has followed him, the One, manifoldly' (AV.). The latter is probably a secondary mouthing over of SV.
- ā tvā sakhāyah sakhyā vavrtyuh SV: o cit sakhāyam sakhyā vavrtyām RV AV. In SV. the passage is extensively reconstructed, the original object sakhāyam is made subject (with change of number also), and so displaces the original unexpressed subject (1st person pronoun implicit in the verb), which is now represented by the object tvā.
- §390. In the remainder there is no double nom-acc shift, but a single noun form appears now as subject, now as object (or goal, etc.), of the (always 'transitive') verb:
- pra yakşma etu nırrtım (AV. °tıh) parācaıh AV. TB HG ApMB 'Let the fever, let perdition go far away' (AV.), 'let the fever go far away to perdition'

- agninā tapo 'nvabhavat (KS.† KSA † 'nvābhavat) TS KS KSA. TB. ApŚ. Followed in TS. KS KSA by a long series of similar phrases, only partly identical in the things named—In the first formula the form tapo is ambiguous, but the parallels show that TS. and KSA. construe it as acc; this is doubtless the original construction: 'By Agni he has come up to (equalled, or attained?) tapas'. KS makes it nom: 'tapas has come up to (equalled, attained, sc. him) thru (by) Agni'. Other phrases in the same lists are: yamena pitīn (KS. pitarah); indreņa devān (KS devāh; not in KSA); vātena prānān (KS. vāyunā prānāh; not in KSA), vyāghreņāranyān pašūn (KS °āranyāh pašavah), rṣabhena (KS. KSA. vṛṣ°) gāh (KS. gāvah); vṛṣṇṇṇāvīh (KS. °āvayah); yavenauṣadhīh (KS. °dhayah), brāhmaṇena vācam (KS vācah)
- vi parjanyam (TS. °yāh) srjanti (MS KS pra parjanyah srjatām) rodasī anu RV. TS MS. KS. In RV. the subject is the Maruts and parjanyam defines the divah košam of the preceding half-verse. The others make the subject the rain-god, or deified rain-cloud, and retain the same object, divah košam
- muñcatu (KS. muñcemam) yajñam (ApŚ yajña, KS. adds muñca) yajñapatim anhasah svāhā MS. KS. ApŚ. In MS. precedèd by vardhatām bhūtir dadhnā ghṛtena; in KS. by a similar but expanded phrase It is evident that bhūti 'prosperity' is in both texts the agent that is to 'release the sacrifice and sacrificer from evil'. ApŚ.
 with the same context as MS. produces a lectio facilior by making yajñah the subject of muñcatu: 'let the sacrifice release the sacrificer . '
- pra yam (SV. yo) rāye ninīṣası (SV. °ṣati) RV SV. In VV 1 p. 243 we have taken SV. (which read there for 'N') to mean 'who will bring [thee, Agni] to wealth', taking yo to refer to the sacrificer as in the following pāda (marto yas te vaso dāśat). But perhaps Benfey may be right in making yo refer to te (= Agni): 'what mortal shall worship thee, who will lead [him] to wealth'. As to the 3d person in such relative clauses of. VV 1 §331, to which the variant should be transferred if this interpretation is correct
- prasnāpayanty ūrminam RV.: prasnāpayanta ūrmayah SV. The acc. in RV. is an epithet of soma; in SV. it is replaced by an additional subject: 'the ten associates (i.e. fingers) wash (soma), and the waves.' See VV 1 p. 48; the SV. form must intend present middle Delete this variant on VV 1 p. 143
- śreyam ca laksmīm ca TAA.: śrīś ca laksmīś TAA.: śrīś ca pusliś

- Mahān U. Same context, in the first form there is no subject expressed, and comm supplies paramātmā
- [indrah karmasu no 'vatu TB . indram karmasv avatu MS For the better reading of TB see §326]
- §391. In a small but rather interesting group the variant word is so situated that it may be either subject of one clause or object of another samudrā (MS °drān) nadyo veśantāh (MS °tān) AV MS. Preceded by divam brūmo nakṣatrāni, bhūmim yakṣāṇi parvatān, and followed by te no muñcantu anhasah. In AV. the three nouns of pāda c are made parts of the subject of muñcantu, in MS of the object of brūmo.
- devā ājyapā juṣānā agna (VS ındra) ājyasya vyantu VS MS KS. (svāhā) devān ājyapān svāhāgnım hotrāj juṣānā agna ājyasya vyantu TB. In the first version devāh is subject of vyantu, in the second it becomes an additional object of yakşad in the preceding (hotā vakṣad agnim svāhājvasya [sc devān])
- yenāvītam kham ca dīvam mahīm (Mahān U. mahī, v l mahīm) ca TA Mahān U. Followed by yenādītyas tapatī tējasā bhrājasā ca If the nom be read, mahī (with kham and dīvam which must then also be nom) would be subject of āvītam. 'by whom was enclosed the air, the sky, the earth' But Deussen's translation implies the v.l mahīm in Mahān U; in that case all three nouns are objects of tapatī in the next pāda: 'by whom the sun warms the atmosphere, enclosed by him, the sky, and the earth' The double relative is then harsh, but not inconceivably so
- 4 Nominative of separate statement varies with dependent accusative
- §392. In a considerable group we find that what is originally an accusative dependent on a verb is developed into an independent statement, syntactically separate from the clause containing the original accusative Or, contrariwise, an originally independent statement is compressed into syntactic dependence, so that the nominative subject (or predicate) of the original clause becomes an accusative The latter is found perhaps most clearly and simply in variants where by the insertion of āhus 'they say' an original independent statement is made into a sort of indirect quotation Thus iyam vedih paro aniah prihivyāh RV AV. VS. SB. AS LS: vedim āhuh param aniam prihivyāh TS KSA. In the same verse:

ayam yajño bhuvanasya (AV. viśvasya bhu°) nābhih RV AV VS LŚ yajñam āhur bhuvanasya nābhim TS KSA And likewise:

- ayam somo vṛṣno aśvasya retah RV. AV VS LS: somam āhur vṛṣṇo TS KSA—In the fourth pāda of this stanza the nom. remains in all texts Cf also:
- dirgham yac cakşur adıler anantam AS: yad āhus cakşur adılāv anantam PB JB (see Oertel, Disjunct Use of Cases, §48. 24 R) Here the forms are identical, being of neuter gender; and here the form with āhus is likely to be older.
- §393. The accusative seems to be the original form and the nom of independent statement a secondary development from it in most of the following. In the first the particle iti is brought in with the nom to make the syntax clear, in the second a verb is inserted in which the secondary nom is the subject, thus expanding the pada into a complete sentence:
- nurrium tvāham parī veda visvatah VS MS SB: nurriur iti tvāham parī veda visvatah (AV sarvatah) AV TS KS The meter seems to indicate that the acc. is original; it is to be noted also that the preceding pāda in all texts has a similar phrase with iti, which may have attracted nurrium into its own construction 'I know thee completely as Nirrii'
- atas tvā rayım abhı (SV rayır abhy ayat) RV. SV. The RV. original makes tvā object of bharat in pāda c, and rayım abhi probably an adverbial phrase, 'unto riches'. (Otherwise but implausibly Grassmann) SV. by a lect fac expands into a separate sentence: 'thence may riches come unto thee'
- anāgaso yajamānasya vīrāh (MŚ vīrān) AV. ApŚ. MŚ (Mss of MŚ anuşaso for anā°, and all but one vīram) The original has an independent sentence with nom; MŚ attracts the noun into apposition with no in yo no dveṣṭi preceding
- nābhā pṛthưvyāh samıdhāne agnau (TS °dhānam agnım, MS. KS. °dhāno agnim) VS TS MS KS. SB The only possible construction for the nom in MS KS seems to be as part of an independent statement, of which Agni is implied as the subject; agnım is object of the verb in the next pāda (rāyaspoṣāya bṛhate havāmahe): 'He (Agni) is kindled at the navel of the earth; we call Agni unto great increase of wealth' The very harshness of this may, however, be considered an argument for its greater originality, the other texts look suspiciously like lect fac
- tvām (TB tvam) rāya ubhayāso janānām RV MS. KS. TB Preceded in all by tvām vardhanti kṣitayah pṛthivyām In RV. etc supply vardhanti also in this pāda (ruya ubh° subject, tvām object). In

- TB this is made an independent statement (tvam subject, rāya ubho predicate; comm tatsampādaka ity arthah).
- agnim (SV agnih) suditaye chardih RV. AV. SV. (Conc VS. for SV)
 In RV AV agnim and chardih are both accs with the preceding idisva. In SV.: 'Agni is the chardis.'
- adhvarakṛtam (TA °krd) devebhyah VS. SB TA. Preceded by tvā ādade; in VS. SB adhvarakṛtam agrees with tvā But TA inserts between the two passages abhrir ası nārır ası, thus it makes our variant pāda an independent statement, understanding ası
- indrāya bhāgam pari tvā nayāmi AV: indrasya bhāgah suvite dadhātana Ap$ The latter is scarcely intelligible, bhāgah, if construable at all, must be taken as an independent statement with some verb (or the copula) understood The plural dadhātana is inconsistent with the singular verbs which follow.
- tām (HG tām nah, PG sā nah) pūṣañ (AV pūṣan, PG pūṣā) chwatamām (PG. śiv°) erayasva (PG. eraya) RV. AV. ApMB ApG. HG PG. The PG has clearly a corruption, which as it stands can only mean 'She (the bride) is Pūṣan (felt as 'prospering one') to us; bring her hither, most felicitous' The comm. so takes it, Stenzler and Oldenberg translate the other reading
- agnım hotāram ıha (MS. MŠ upa) tam huve TS MS ApS MS: agnır hotəpa tam huve KS 'I call here (hither) Agnı the hotar': 'Agnı is the hotar, I call him hither'
- akşatam arıştam ılāndam SMB: akşatam asy arıştam ılānnam gopāyanam SG In both preceded by a formula containing acc tvā, with which the epithets agree in SMB, in SG they are made predicates of a separate sentence It is hard to say which is original here.
- §394. A special group of the preceding type is formed by variants in which the nom of independent statement is part of a relative clause, of which it is the predicate, while the acc. is part of the main clause Thus:
- tam u stuhi yo antah sindhau AV: tam u stuhy antahsindhum AS
 Followed by:
- sūnuh (AS sūnum) satyasya yuvūnam 'Praise him who is within the waters, the son of truth, the youthful.' The relative clause is here original, AS compresses it into an epithet, and necessarily alters sūnuh also to sūnum Note the chiastic, rhetorically involved order of AV. (yuvūnam at the end agreeing with tam at the beginning) AS has a lect. fac, involving case attraction; but all the epithets refer to the same person.

- §395. The reverse of this appears in the next, where the relative clause with predicate nom appears only in the secondary PG.:
- samvatsarasya pratimām (PG. °mā) AV. TS. KS. ApS. SMB. PG. HG. MG The following pāda in PG. is yā tām rātrīm upāsmahe (for the others see VV 1 p. 213); only PG. has yā as subject of the relative clause, in which pratimā is predicate.
- §396. Similarly, the following variants show such shifts in both directions:
- tam kravyādam akīkamam AV.: yah kravyāt tam akīkamam Kauk.
- veda te bhūmi hṛdayam PG. ḤG: yad bhūmer hṛdayam [ṭdıvi candraması srıtam] ApMB. The latter is metrically poor and doubtless corrupt
- yo devo visvād yam u kāmam āhuh AV.: visvādam agnin yam u . MS: hutādam agnim yam u . KS.: yam hutādam agnim yam u . ApS. The nom. is doubtless original, the acc being due to attraction to the case of the following; note that ApS. still has a relative clause, but attracts it into the same construction as the following.
- dhattād asmabhyam draviņeha bhadram (TS. ApŠ. asmāsu dravinam yac ca bhadram) TS MS ApŠ: datto asmabhyam (etc, see Conc.) draviņeha bhadram AV. KS AŠ. SMB: dadhatha no draviņam yac ca bhadram MS.
- apāsya ye †sınāh pāšāh KS ApŠ. ('off what fetters are bound on him'): apāsyāh satvanah pāšān Kauś. Followed by mṛtyūn (KS. ed. mṛtyor, but best ms. mṛtyūn) ekašatam suve (Kauś. nude). The secondary change in Kauś. is due to the influence of mṛtyūn.
- tābhir vahainam sukrtām u lokam (TA. vahemam sukrtām yatra lokāh) RV. AV TA: vahāsi mā (KS † vahānsı sā) sukrtām yatra lokāḥ (KS † lokah) KS TB. Ap$.
- prchāmi (LŠ °mo) yatra bhuvanasya nābhih RV. VS LŠ.: prchāmi tvā (AV. višvasya) bhuvanasya nābhim AV. TS. KSA. TB.
- §897. In the next following group there is in both variants a relative clause; the nom. is construed as part of this, while the acc. is syntactically part of the main clause (both refer to the same entity). As in some of the preceding, the alteration is usually due to formal case attraction:
- āranyān (AV. VS °yā) grāmyāš ca ye RV. AV. (bis) VS. TA. Preceded by pašūn (pašūns) tānš cakre vāyavyān In RV. TA āranyān goes with the preceding accusatives; in AV. VS. it is attracted into the relative clause. In AV. 11 5. 21 the pāda occurs in a different context.
- jyeşiho (SV. °iham) yo vrirahā grņe RV. AV. SV. There are no other accs in the stanza, SV has turned jyeşiho into an acc to provide an object for the verb grne

- citrabhānum (TB ApŚ °bhānū) rodasī antar urvī RV. SV MS KS TB ApŚ. Preceded by aganma mahā namasā yaviştham, yo dīdāya samiddhah sve durone (with unimportant variants) The acc goes with yaviştham as object of aganma in the first pāda; because of the intervening relative clause, it is natural that secondary texts attract it into agreement with yo This assumes that the TB comm is right in understanding °bhānuh, nom sg, instead of dual (with rodasī), which would be formally possible
- kakşīvantam ya ausijah (TS TA °jam) RV SV. VS TS MS KS ŠB TA N. The Tait version can only be interpreted by referring ya(h) to the god addressed: 'who (didst make famous) K A' So Sāyana, who supplies kṛtavān ası, and Keith Of course the other reading (in which K° goes with the preceding object acc and is referred to by the relative, 'K who is the A') is original (cf Oldenberg, Noten on 1 18 1).
- yathā mitrāya varunāya šamtamah (SV °mam) RV SV Preceded by punātā dakṣasādhanam, yathā šardhāya vītaye 'Clarify the strength-producing (Soma), that (it may be) for a refreshing draft for the throng, that (it may be) most gratifying to M and V' So RV, making šamtamah subject of a separate clause, SV brings the word into direct connexion with the preceding dakṣasādhanam yadi śrāto (AV. śrātam) juhotana RV AV ApŠ MŚ Followed by.

- yady aśrāto (AV °tam) mamattana, same texts The preceding pāda of RV. AV. makes clear the antecedent *indrasya bhāgam rtnyam 'If cooked do ye offer it, if not cooked, delay' The AV has attracted the adjectives into direct agreement with bhāgam (The comm on AV, however, takes them as nom neuter, supplying hanh)
- svarpatim yad īm vrdhe RV AV svahpatir yadī vrdhe SV The acc agrees with indram (somasya pītaye) in the preceding pāda, SV makes it subject of vrdhe

5 Case attraction

§398. The preceding cases taper off into another group which is a little hard to define further than by saying that (as in some of the variants quoted above) case attraction, that is the influence of a neighboring case-form, is responsible for the variation. The varying word still refers to the same person or thing, so that there is no proper 'transfer of epithet', but the syntactic shift is hardly of the same type as the immediately preceding cases, unless perhaps in the first two examples: hotā yakṣat tanūnapāt sarasvatīm (TB. °tī) VS MS. TB. It seems fairly clear that TB has attracted saras° to the case of tanūnapāt; but how either of the noms is to be construed is not obvious. Comm. on VS. dares to say that tanū° is nom. used for acc.! Perhaps the TB version may be understood as containing an independent statement: 'Let the hotar worship! (The deities are) Tanūnapāt, Sarasvatī anyam (AV. anya) ū şu tvam (AV omits tvam) yamy anya u tvām RV. AV N See Whitney on AV. 18 1 16. We believe that anya is due to stupid and mechanical assimilation to the following anya apsu dhūto nrbhih sutah RV. apsu dhautam nrbhih sutam SV. Preceded by subhram andho devavātam, and followed by svadanti gāvah payobhih Sāyana takes the RV pāda as parenthetical (pādas a and c going together), which is probably the best way out, tho all three pādas might be taken as syntactically separate, understanding somam or the like as object of svadanti SV assimilates the participles in b to the case of andho, an easily comprehensible lect fac Grassmann's suggestion that RV is incorrect is implausible

§399. As in the two variants just quoted, not a few of the following passages are dubious of interpretation, and at times under suspicion of corruption:

hrtsu kratum įvaruno (MS °nam) viksv (RV apsv, MS diksv) agnim RV VS TS MS KS ŠB. The subject is originally Varuna, who has instilled 'insight into hearts, Agni into dwellings' MS has an unintelligent assimilation of V to the surrounding accs., perhaps with the thought that Agni is still the subject as in the preceding stanza tebhih (AV. VS VSK tebhyah) svarād asunītim etām (AV asunītir no adya) RV AV VS VSK It seems clear that AV, which Whitney calls unintelligible, contains a stupid assimilation of asunītim to the case of the adjoining word. The following pāda is yathāvaśam tanvam (AV tanvah) kalpayāti (RV kalpayasva)

visnum agan varunam pūrvahūtih AV.. visnū agan varunā pūrvahūtau (MS °tim) VS MS SB. TB AS SS In AV the prayer itself is the subject of agan; in MS it is made the goal, along with Visnu and Varuna, the subject being the offering or the water used with it The other texts use a locative which might be one of goal, agreeing in sense with MS; but see §457

- gāyatrī chanda indriyam, tryavir (KS. triya°) gaur vayo dadhuh VS MS KS. TB.: gāyatrīm chanda indriyam, tryavim gām vayo dadhat VS. TB The noms are subjects of dadhuh, the accs. objects of dadhat, being assimilated to indriyam and vayo, which are accs (objects) in both versions. These are the first of a series of formulas, all of the same type, the meter names (in nom. form) are uṣṇik (uṣnihā), anuṣṭup, bṛhatī, paāktiš, triṣṭup, jagatī, virāṭ, dvipadā (dvipāc), kakup (kakuc), atichandā. For the epithets of cattle (dityavād, paācāvir etc.) see the passages, which can easily be found in the Conc
- ukhām (MS. KS.† ukhā) svasāram adhi vedim asthāt MS. KS ApŚ. Preceded by syūtā devebhir amṛtenāgāh (MS. KS °āgāt). The word ukhā is subject in MS. KS. and it seems scarcely possible to interpret ApŚ (which addresses it directly in the 2d person) otherwise; yet ApŚ. stupidly assimilates the form to the following accs. Caland translates ukhā, but notes that Hir Ś. also reads ukhām, so that the corruption is evidently very old.
- devah savitābhimātisāhah AV.: savitā devo 'bhimātisāhah Ppp: devam trātāram (TS. KS savitāram) abhimātisāham RV TS KS Assuming (cf. Oldenberg, Prol. 326 f.) that the acc, as in RV TS. KS, is original (tho it is difficult), the change to the nom in AV. is easy to understand. In AV. the preceding pāda is dhātā vidhātā bhuvanasya yas patih, and the following: ādityā rudrā asmobhā, devāh pāntu yajamānam nirīthāt. For c the others have a different version beginning imam yajām (cf. §329); it is significant that this acc. is also eliminated in AV.
- yajñasya (ÅV. cittasya) mātā (SMB mātaram) suhavā me (AV no) astu AV. TB. SMB. Preceded by ākūtīm devīm manasā prapadys in SMB., which has put the epithet mātā syntactically into the preceding clause, making it agree with devīm, the meter proves it secondary.
- samyag āyur †yajño (MŚ yajñam) yajñapatau dadhātu (MŚ dhāh) KS MŚ. See VV 1 p 100 In MŚ yajñam is attracted to the case of āyur.
- īdāno (KS °nā) vahnır (KS. vahnım) namasā AV VS VSK. TS. MS KS Followed by:
- agnim (AV. agnih) sruce adhearesu prayatsu (AV prayaksu), same texts. The original readings are doubtless given by the texts which agree, VS TS MS A verb of approaching occurs in the preceding "The carrier (approaches), praising, with adoration, to Agni (approach) the spoons as the sacrifices proceed." In AV agnim is changed to agnih to agree with its synonym vahnih, and the two pādas are more closely connected than in the original. In KS.

the attraction has worked in the opposite direction; vahnir becomes vahnim to match agnim, sruco is now the subject, īdānā agrees with it, and the preceding pāda (achāyam eti savasā ghrtena [AV ghrtā cit], see §467) is changed to achāyam yanti savasā ghrtācīh (note retention of ayam, now ungrammatical): 'here come with might the ghee-filled spoons, praising with adoration Agni the carrier ...'

Ppp has īde vahnim namasāgnim sruco 'dhvareşu prayatsu, which is translatable but obviously secondary.

- gāyatrīni trisļubham jagatīm anusļubham (MS. 'tīm virājam) AV. TS. MS.: gāyatrī trisļub jagatī virāṭ KS. This is the 3d pāda of a verse whose 4th pāda in TS. MS KS. (omitting slight variants) is arkam (TS brhad arkam) yuñjānāh svar ābharann idam It appears that KS has allowed the names of meters to be attracted into agreement with yuñjānāh (tho leaving arkam to be the object of the participle, which is the construction of all of them in TS. MS.); they thus become subjects of the verb â-abharann. The AV. varies considerably and is difficult, probably corrupt; its accs. must depend on the verb of the 1st pāda.
- yuvo ratho adhvaram (AV.† GB† °ro) devavītaye RV. AV. AB. 6. 12. 7 (add in Conc.) GB Followed by the verb yāti (yātu). 'Your chariot goes to the sacrifice...' In AV. adhvaro is awkwardly attracted to the case of ratho: 'let your chariot, the sacrifice, approach...' Ppp. is reported to read adhvaram.
- ā gharmo agnım riayann asādı (TA. asādīt) RV. TA.: ā gharmo agnır amrio na sādı MS. In the latter agnim has been changed to the case of gharmo.
- kāmam (AV. PB. kāmah, KS kāmas) samudram.ā viša (AV. viveša, KS. TB višat) AV KS. PB. TB. TA. AS. ApS. There seems little doubt that the nom is original, and it is likely that the acc is due to attraction to the case of samudram. The two accs. must be taken as in apposition. According to the comm. on TA. the subject is dakṣiṇā. TB. has the following explanation of the meaning: samudra va hi kāmah, neva hi kāmasyānto 'sti, na samudrasya.
- nayanto garbham vanām dhuyam dhuh RV.: nayantam gīrbhir vanā dhiyam dhāh SV. Highly problematical; nayanto agrees with the indefinite 3 plural subject ('they', really the singers); nayantam, like the other accs in the verse, must be object of dhāh In SV. the subject is Agni and the accs probably refer to the singer (now singular).

6 Transfer of epithet

§400. A very large number of nom-acc variants concern what we have described above (§14) as 'transfer of epithet'. That is, an epithet is transferred to a different entity, involving change of case. Often formal case-attraction is also involved, as in the last group; but there is this difference, that the variant word no longer applies to the same person or thing as in the other form. As in all cases of 'transfer of epithet', these variants have no bearing on the uses of the varying cases. There is nothing that need be said about them as a whole except that they may of course show shift of number or gender or both, as well as case, such instances are given separately. No other subdivision of the long list needs to be made

§401. The following show no change in number or gender:

nyartı dhümam aruşam (MS KS °şo) bharibhrat RV. VS TS MS KS ApMB '(Agnı) comes clothed in ruddy smoke', original, changed in MS KS to read 'the ruddy (Agnı) comes clothed in smoke' svar devā (TS TB ApŚ devān) aganma (MS. MŚ agāma) VS TS MS KS ŚB TB ApŚ MŚ See §§340, 349 The nom or voc is certainly original, the acc secondary. The nom would apply the epithet devāh to the priests: 'we have gone to heaven as gods'; the acc, 'we have gone to heaven, to the gods' ye ca devān (SS. devā) ayajanta AV SS. The passage deals with generous sacrificers and givers of dakṣṇā, AV. means 'who have sacrificed to the gods' (referring to maghavāno which follows) In SS devāh, if nom, must refer to maghavānah, as in the preceding variant. It might however be voc (again as in the preceding) mā no hṛṇītām attihir (SV hṛṇīthā attihim) vasur agnih RV. SV. Followed by purupraśasta eṣah RV.: 'let not Agni, our kindly guest, be ashamed of us; much praised is he.' The SV distortion makes attihi object of the verb, referring to some vague person (the yajamāna?') other than Agni, to whom it originally belonged It seems to mean. 'be not ashamed of our guest (O Agni), Agni is kindly, much praised is he' didihi deva devayuh (SV 'yum) RV. SV. Preceded by abhi dyumnam bihad yasa isaspate. In RV. devayuh is in logical apposition with the subject of the imperative; in SV. it is apparently made to refer to the worshiper (so Benfey), as a second acc with didihi jastram indra (KS jastrāyano) ratham ā tiṣṭha govit (AV govidam) RV SV. AV. VS TS. MS. KS Whether the epithet is applied to Indra or to his chariot makes little practical difference. But the

- rest of the stanza is tristubh, and it is curious that AV. turns this pāda into a jagatī by this otherwise harmless alteration. One or two mss are quoted by Lanman as reading govit, but Ppp (JAOS. 40 151) supports gordam.
- uprasya vā yac chasamāna ukthyam (AV. °yah) RV. AV. Followed by vājam, with which the adjective agrees in RV.; in AV. (with the help of the adjoining sasamānah) it is transferred to the subject (Agni).
- pari dyukşam sanad rayim SV.: pari dyuksah sanadrayih RV. In RV. both epithets agree with the subject (Soma) of the verb of the following pāda; in SV. sanad is made a separate verb (subject Soma) with rayim as object, and dyukşam agreeing therewith.
 - ārešatrum (TS AŠ ŠŠ. MŠ āre šatrūn) krņum sarvavīram (TS AŠ. ŠŠ MŠ. °vīrah) AV † TS AŠ ŠŠ. MŠ. In AV. the epithet goes with the object (imam of the preceding pāda), in the others, with the subject.
 - punar brahmāno (brahmā) vasunītha ("nītir, "dhīte, "dhītim, "dhītam) yajñath (agne); see §340
 - ava prayā (AV. prayān) adhāsata RV AV. SV VS. TS. MS KS. ŠB. If prayā(s) is really nom, as commonly assumed, it must agree with the subject (in RV. apparently the Maruts, in the others, secondarily, the pitrs); prayān is of course object, but it is not clear to what it refers Grassmann takes prayās as acc fem., supplying gras (Most AV mss read avā 'prayān, with wrong accent, see Whitney's note)
 - ūrdhvo adhvaram dwi deveşu dhehi VS. SB: ūrdhvam (VSK. °vo) imam (VSK omits) adhvaram hotrā yacha VS VSK TS. MS. KS. SB TA
 - jāmım (KS † camı, see VV 2 §57) mā hinsīr (AV. mā jāmim moşīr) amuyā (MŠ anu yā) sayānā (AV. KS † °nām) AV. KS TB. ApS. MŚ. The nom agrees with the subject, the acc. with the object jāmim.
 - svargān (svargam, svagān) arvanto (arvato) zayata (zayema, zayatah, zayatı), see §350
 - tam akratum (KU °tuh) pasyatı vitasokah TA MahanU KU SvetU.
 - pru yo jajāe vidvān (AV °vān) asya bandhum (AV. bandhuh) AV. TS
 KS. Followed by višvā devānām(TS. višvāni devo) janimā vivakti.
 The verse is mystical and its real sense obscure. It is, however, clear that bandhuh must be construed with or as the subject of vivakti, and bandhum as one of the objects of vivakti or object of vidvān.

- urudrapso viśvarūpa induh TS ApŚ · purudasmo vişurūpa induh VS SB : purudasmavad viśvarūpam induh KS. Followed by pavamāno (VS ŚB. antar) garbham (TS dhīra, VS. ŚB mahimānam) ūnañja dhīrah (TS. garbham). The adjectives agree with the object garbham in KS, with the subject induh in the others
- samārabhyordhvo adhvaro dwspṛkam TS TB: ūrdhvo adhvaro dwspṛk MS KS In the ritual the TS passage (followed by ahruto yayño yayñapateh) is addressed to the sacrifice (āghāra), and can only be interpreted (understanding āghāram as object of samārabhya, as TB does): 'lofty is the cult, undertaking the heaven-touching (āghāra); the sacrifice of the sacrificer is undisturbed' The reading of MS seems to be a lect. fac., samārabhya is taken easily with the preceding formula, and dwspṛk, assimilated to the preceding noms, applies to adhvaro (KS omits samārabhya) Keith considers the TS TB' reading a corruption, but with doubtful justice.
- sarasvatī vayatı pešo antaram (TB and ms. of KS °rah) VS MS. KS TB. Preceded in all by tad aświnā bhişajā rudravartanī 'The Aświns and Sarasvatī make(s) his inner form.' antaram agrees with pešo But antarah, read by the sole ms of KS as well as TB (v Schr emends), is difficult The TB comm seems to have no qualms about making it agree with Sarasvatī (or does he mean to take it as an adverb, = antar? yā tu sarasvaty antarah śarīramadhye) All we can say is that it certainly no longer goes with nešo
- ud asthām amṛtān anu VSK TS MS KS SB TA AS ApMB · ud asthāmāmṛtā vayam (HG abhūma) AV HG 'I have risen up after the immortals': 'we have risen up immortal.' The AV. verse seems on the whole to be secondary to that of the Yajus texts, and to have transferred the epithet to the subject
- asmin yajñe suhavām (AV °vā) johavīmi AV MS KS. TS AS ŠS. N. Preceded by kuhūm devīm sukrtam vidmanāpasam (with slight variants) AV comm also has suhavām, agreeing with kuhūm, if suhavā be kept it agrees with the subject, who then has to be conceived as a woman.
- prajāpatir yam prathamo jigāya ŠŠ ApŠ MŠ ApMB prajāpatih prathamo 'yam jigāya AŠ Preceded by tayānantam kāmam aham jayāni In AŠ (a)yam goes with the preceding noms. 'this Prajāpati was the first to win (it)' The other, with yam referring to kāmam, is doubtless original
- §402. Transfers of epithets between nominative and accusative forms which involve also changes in number or gender or both are:

- vrśvāni yo amariyo (havyā marieşu ranyati) RV.: viśve yasmınn amariye (havyam mariăsa ındhate) SV. See §457.
- tad ayam (MG. 1dam) rājā varuno 'numanyatām AG SMB. PG. ApMB. HG. MG. ayam agrees with the subject rājā etc., 1dam with the object tad.
- devān achā na majmanā RV.: deva indro na majmanā SV. In SV. the epithet deva is attracted into agreement with the subject.
- yā rājānā (TS 'nam) saratham yātha (MS yāta) ugrā TS MS. KS Subject is Mitra and Varuna, with which rājānā agrees: 'ye (MS. they) two kings who, terrible, go against the (warrior) with his chariot' TS. transfers it to the object: 'ye two who, terrible, go against the king with his chariot.'
- agnış tad visvam (AV. mss vısvād) ā prnātı (AV. "tu) vıdvān RV. AV. TS. MS KS With Whitney and SPP. visvād (epithet of Agnı) must be kept in AV.
- anāhanasyam vasanam jarīsnu (ŚG car°, PG. °nuh) ŚG. PG. HG. ApMB. See VV 2 §57.
- anuttas carşanīdhrith SV.: anuttā carşanīdhrītā RV Preceded by tvam vrirāni hansi (anuttā with vrirāni, otas with tvam = Indra).
- ayā san (MS. SS ayāh san, KS ayās san, Kaus ayāsyam) havyam ūhişe MS KS TB AS. SS ApS. Kaus ApMB. HG. The original epithet of Agni is, with phonetic changes resulting in a different word, applied to havyam
- devatrā yantam avase sakhāyah (KS. °yam) VS. TS. MS. KS. ŠB. Followed by anu tvā mātā pitaro madantu. The original applies sakhāyah to mātā pitaro, KS. transfers it to tvā (influenced no doubt by yantam)
- vapāvantam (MS °to) nāgnīnā tapantah TS. MS TA Preceded by anjantī yam prathayanto na uprāh; MS transfers the epithet from object to subject
- prānyā tantūns tirate dhatte anyā AV: avānyāns tantūn kirato dhatto anyān TB In AV anyā anyā refers to weaving maidens, in TB. it is transferred to the threads.
- viśvāni yo amartyah RV: wéve yasmın amartye SV. The n. acc wévāni of RV agrees with the following havyā; the masc. nom, wéve with the following martāsah
- dawīm (VS. devīm) nāvam svarstrām anāgasam (AV. °sah) RV. AV. VS TS MS. KS In AV. anā° 18 transferred to the subject of āruhema.
- sā šamtātı (SV. °tā, TB ApS. šantācī) mayas karad apa sridhah RV. SV. TB. ApS. šamtātı is epithet of mayas; on the other see VV 2 §156.

- bhūristhātrām bhūry āvešayantīm (AV °tah) RV. AV See Edgerton, Studies in Honor of Maurice Bloomfield 126, and §14 above
- viśvavidam (AV. °do) vācam aviśvaminvām (AV aviśvavinnām) RV AV Discussed by Edgerton, 1 c 128, the AV is secondary.
- yavena (AV * yavena vā) kṣudham puruhūta viśvām (AV.* mśve) RV AV (quater) The AV once transfers the epithet 'all' from kṣudham to the subject (of tarema in the preceding)
- dhīnām antah sabardughah RV · dhenām antah sabardughām SV In RV the adjective agrees with vanaspatir (= Sema), in SV it is attached to the false form dhenām
- parāsutrpo abhi šošucānah RV: parāsutrpah šošucatah šrnīhi AV In RV šo° agrees with Agni, subject of preceding šrnīhi, in AV with the object (mūradevān)
- dyumantam sam idhīmahi RV SV VS TS SB TB SS dyumantah sam idhīmahi AV TS MS KS Acc with preceding object tvā gharmam socantah (AS °ta, SS °tam) pravaneşu (AS SS pranaveşu)
- gharmam śocantah (AŚ °ta, ŚŚ °tam) pravaneşu (AŚ ŚŚ pranaveşu) bibhratah AB AŚ ŚŚ In AB nom with dhişanāh in preceding, in ŚŚ acc with gharmam. On AŚ cf VV 1 p 165
- āmum naya (RV MS āyum na yam) namasā rātahavyam (RV † MS † °yāh) RV AV MS In RV MS rā° goes with nom pañca janāh in the following
- achidram (SMB °rāh) šarma yachata RV AB SMB The unaccented SMB may understand voc rather than nom
- vande därum (? see VV 1 p 218) vandamāno vivakmi RV vandadvārā vandamānā nvastu SV Preceded by indrasyeva pra tavasas kṛtāni, in SV. vanda° is attracted into agreement with kṛtāni
- vandārus te (VS SB °rus te, add to VV 2 §958, MS KS °rum te) tanvam (tanuvam) vande agne RV VS TS MS KS SB The meaning here shifts with the form, nom 'praising', acc 'praiseworthy' (fem gender, with tanvam, tho the masc would have the same form).
- akhıdrāh (ApŚ aghorah, VS ŚB achınnapatrāh, MS achınnapatrah) prajā abhıvipasya (VS MS ŚB anuvīkṣasva) VS MS KS ŚB ApŚ
- visvāh pṛtanā abhibhūtaram naram (SV. PB Svidh narah) RV AV SV PB AS Vait Svidh Followed in RV AV SV. by sajūs tatakṣur indram jajanuś ca rājase
- ahruto maho dharunāya devān (AV devah) RV AV Followed by duvīva jyotih svam ā mimīyāh (AV† °yāt) In AV (which has reconstructed the passage extensively) devah is made an epithet of the subject (a horse)

- trīn samudran samasrpat svargān (MS °gah) VS MS ŚB.: samsarpa (KS °pan) trīn samudran svargān (ApŚ svargānl lokān) KS ApŚ.
- ye ceme (TS cemām, VS cainam) rudrā abhitah (MS NīlarU. abhito rudrāh) VS. TS. KS MS NīlarU. The nom ime goes with rudrāh; enam (= Rudra) or imām (apparently the earth) is construed as object of abhitah
- sukrām vayanty asurāya nīrmjam RV.: sukrā vi yanty asurāya nīrmije SV. 'They weave a bright garment for the Asura': 'the bright (soma-drops) stream variously for the adornment of the A.'
- sa nah pṛthu (TB. °uh) śravāyyam RV. SV. ŚB. TB. pṛthu, object: 'the broad (space).' In TB. transferred to the subject (Agni).
- ny adhur mătrāyām (KS. mātrayā) kavayo vayodhasah (KS °sam) MS. KS. In MS vayo° goes with kavayo, in KS. with agnim in the following
- apo mahi vyayatı cakşase tamah RV: apo mahī vrņute calşuşā tamaḥ SV PB mahī refers to the subject Uṣas, mahı refers to the darkness which she uncovers
- sūryam cāmū rišādasah (RVKh °sam) AV. RVKh ŠŠ (ed. of AV. cāmum rišādasam, but mss as ŠŠ, RVKh. Scheftelowitz p 157). The original nom pl agrees with devāh in the next sentence; RVKh. has acc sg with sūryam (The form am is probably neut. pl. of asau, cf. Wackernagel 3 p 350)
- ulokam u dve upa jāmim īyatuh RV.: lokam u (ApS. id) dve upa jāmī īyatuh MS ApS jāmi transferred from object to subject.
- agnım bharantam (MS. KS °tā) asmayum VS TS MS KS. SB Preceded by yuñyāthām rāsabham yuvam, asmın yāme vṛṣanvasū The acc agrees with rāsabham, the nom dual with the subject of yuñyāthām (the adhvaryu and yajamāna). The mss. of MS (s.p and p.p) read asmayuh, perhaps they intend asmayū, which would be another transfer
- tā (TS. te, VS SB yā) te (RV. KS. N. vām) dhāmāny (RV. KS N. vāstūny) ušması gamadhyaı (TS °ye) RV VS TS MS KS SB N. Only in TS. the pronoun (te) is made to agree with the subject (Keith suggests that it is a mere blunder due to the following te, enclitic from tvam)
- suvīrāh prajāh prajanayan parīhi TS. MS. KS TB ApŠ : suvīro vīrān prajanayan parīhy ..VS ŠB
- varenyakratūr (AV °tur) aham RVKh. AV: īdenyakratūr (text †ide°, doubtless misprint) aham ApS. Scheftelowitz reads °tur in RVKh. The form °tūr is acc. pl fem. agreeing with the waters; and this is a simpler reading than °tur (nom sg. masc), going with aham.

- Jhvāniam vātāgram anusamcarantau (PB abhisam^o) TS PB TB PG ApMB.: dhvāntā vātā agnim abhi ye samcaranti MŚ MG The mss of MŚ MG. read dhvāntā (nom dual, going with the subject in the preceding pāda) vātāgnim (for which vātāgram is doubtless the true reading, of VV 2 p 402)
- ā raśmīn (RV. raśmim) deva yamase (TB. yuvase) svaśvān (RV TB svaśvah) RV. VS ŚB TB
- jyotişmatī (MS °tīh) pratī muñcate nabhah TS MS. KS PG Followed by devī rātrī sūryasya vratānī, or an equivalent In MS jyo° (originally epithet of rātrī) is made an object of the verb
- jīvam (comm jīvan) devebhya uttaram strņāmi AV.. devebhyo jīvanta uttaram bharema TA In TA jīv° is epithet of the subject; so jīvan if this is intended in AV. (then with variation of number only); jīvam, if intended, must go with the object uttaram
- hıranyarüpam (MS. KS MŚ °varnam) uşaso vyuştau RV MS KS MŚ: hıranyarūpā (TS. TB °varnāv) uşaso (TS TB °sām) vıroke VS TS ŚB. TB Followed by:
- ayasthūṇam (TS. ayasthūṇāv) udītā (TS MS KS ^atau) sūryasya RV TS MS KS. In both of these the dual noms agree with the subject, Mitra and Varuna, the accs with the object, gartam
- ekavinša rbhavah (VS † °va) stutam (VS stutāh) VS MS KS TB One of six consecutive and perallel verses in all, the remaining five have (before stutam or stutāh): rudrāh pañcadaše, vasavas trivrtā, stome saptadaše, trayastrinše 'mrtam (°tā, VS), trinave marutah (TB. ma° tri°) In VS stutāh agrees with the subject, a group of gods that varies in each verse In the others it agrees with the object in pāda d (havir indre vayo dadhuh)
- hıranyayāh (MS °yayā) sucayo dhārapūtāh RV MS Preceded by trī rocanā dıvyā dhārayanta. In RV. hır° agrees with the subject, the Ādityas; in MS with the object rocanā
- mātā yad vīram dadhanad dhanışthā (MS vīram jajanaj janıştham) RV VS. MS KS TB
- urv (AS. ūrvy and urvy) antarikṣam vīhi VS. MS KS SB Vait AS. (bis) ApS MS The nom must agree with the subject of vīhi
- sa praty ud (MS. sa pratyaññ) and dharunam (TS. MS KS dharuno) madhvo agram AV TS. MS KS KSA AS SS KS Part of a mystic verse; the sense is no better and no worse, whether the adjective goes with sa or with agram But it may be based on juhomi te dharunam madhvo agram RV. AV, in a ritualistic connexion; this rather points to the originality of the acc

- mahişam nah subhvam tasthivānsam MS · samudram na subhvah svā abhişiayah RV : samudram na suhavam (AV subhuvas, TB Poona ed suhuvam) tasthivānsam AV TB ApŚ—Ppp reads like MS. but for subhavas (Barret subhuvas, suggesting subhuvam as a better reading, JAOS. 35. 46) Same context in all except RV, the acc. agrees with samudram, the noin with the subject of the verb in the next pāda. Perhaps AV is influenced by recollection of the RV passage (i.e. shows contamination of two passages).
- yajā no (or yajāno, so Poona ed of TB with MS, see VV 2 p 376) devān (MS devo) ajarah suvīrah MS TB AS ApS. Nom devo is construed as epithet of subject Agni, acc as object of yajā (or yajāno), referring to the gods to whom Agni ministers.
- avīraghno (ApMB † onī) vīratarah (HG. otamah, AS. ApS. ApMB. vīravatah) suvīrān (HG. suševān) AS. ApS SG HG ApMB: vīram hi (read avīraghnī?) vīravatah suševā MG The accs refer to grhān, the noms to the subject aham, which is fem in ApMB. MG Presumably the masc. aham is more original, vīratarah would be impossible in ApMB MG. Further than this we can hardly go as regards the original form of that epithet But the nom suševā of MG alone is certainly secondary
- vi mamarša rohito višvarūpah TB·vi rohito amṛšad višvarūpam AV. The latter original (višvarūpam object)
- parīmam rāyo manuşyam KS: parīmam rāyas poso yajamānam manusyāh TS And others, see §§442 etc In KS manuşya is applied to the yajamāna, 'let wealth invest this man' In TS rāyás is gen, and manuşyāh must be taken with Keith as a second subject, 'men', or, with thought of dawīr viso in the preceding, 'human clans'
- codad rādha upastutaš (ArS °tam) cid aivāk RV. AV. ArS. MS. TB. In RV etc the adjective goes with the subject, Indra, in ArS. with rādha(s)
- apo devā (TS MS. KS ApŚ devīr) madhumatīr agrbhnan (TS ApŚ agrhnan, MS KS agrbhnām) VS TS. MS KS ŚB ApŚ The acc fem devīr is doubtless orig; devā(h) goes with the subject
- ayam (TA 1dam) devo vanaspatih AV. TA Preceded by varano vārayātai (vārayāt) TA feels the need of an object, and alters ayam to 1dam
- ādītyā rudrā uparīspršo nah (KS °šam mā) AV. KS: vasavo rudrā ādītyā uparīspršam mā RV VS TS Followed by ugram cettāram adhīrājam akran (AV. akrata) The adjectīve, orig. going with mā, is transferred to the subject in AV.

- ād īm asvam na hetārah (SV. °ram) RV. SV. Followed by asūsubhann amṛtāya, madhvo (SV madho) rasam sadhamāde. 'As drīvers (decorate) a horse', RV.: in SV. hetāram is Soma (attracted to the case of rasam), 'the inciting one'.
- yasya dyāvo na vicaranti mānuṣā (SV °ṣam) RV. SV. The meaning of RV is doubtful Oldenberg: 'whose (Indra's) gifts to men go their course like the days', Geldner: 'for whom the ages (yugānī) of men pass like (liis) days' In SV mānuṣam is assimilated in case and number to the epithets of Indra in the verse, and is taken to mean 'friendly to man', the relative clause might mean 'whose heavens do not pass away' (so Benfey).
- taj jānatīr abhy anūşata vrāh RV.: tā jānatīr abhy anūşata kṣāh ArS In RV taj is object of jānatīr, in ArS. tā(h) attracted to agreement with it
- indra jaiharam navyo (SV AS. SS °yam) na AV. SV. AS SS For the difficulties involved see Whitney's note; in any case the word goes with Indra in AV., with jaiharam in the rest
- tvam †samudram prathamo vi dhārayah (SV. °drah prathame vidharman) RV SV. Radical reconstruction, with transfer of object to predicate nom 'You first arranged the sea (for the gods)' 'du bist das Meer im allerhochsten Träger' (Benfey).
- indram juşāṇā vṛṣaṇam (VS janayo) na painīh VS. MS KS TB Here different words are involved "Taking delight in the manly Indra, like wives": 'taking delight in Indra, like wedded women'
- §403. In some of the preceding cases it is perhaps doubtful whether the term 'transfei of epithet' applies strictly. In these which now follow it can certainly apply only by stretching the term. Namely: in them one form of the variant shows a noun or pronoun of independent construction, which cannot properly be described as an 'epithet' of any other word. In several cases, moreover, the words are different, as in the last variant in the preceding section. Cf. §15
- pratnam ne pāte kāvyam RV ('he protects the ancient wisdom'). †pratnām (Conc pra tvā ne) pāte kāvyah KS ('he [Soma], the wise, protects the ancient things [laws, or the like]')
- prajāpatm aham tvayā samakşam rdhyāsam GB Vait: prajāpatm aham tvayā sākṣād rdhyāsam MS. 'May I cause Prajāpatm to prosper visibly with thee': 'may I, a very Prajāpatm in person, prosper thru thee' The latter is original; see Caland on Vait
- achāyam eti śavasā ghṛtena (AV ghṛtā cit) AV Ppp VS. TS MS: achāyam yanti śavasā ghṛtācīh KS See §467.

- samdhātā samdhīm (MS. samdhir) maghavā purūvasuh (puro°, puru°) RV. AV. SV. MS. PB. TA. KS. ApMB. The nom. can only be felt as going with the subject; but the whole verse is very corrupt in MS
- girah somah (SV gira stomān) pavamāno manīsāh RV. SV. "The purified soma (has inspired) our songs and devotions', RV.: 'the purified one (soma, has inspired) our songs, praises, and devotions'
- evam tam garbham \bar{a} dhehr RVKh MG.: evam tvam garbham \bar{a} dhatsva ApMB
- asmabhyam indav indrayuh (SV indriyam) RV. SV. The verb is pavasva, to which SV. supplies an object indriyam; indrayuh is nom, epithet of the soma-drop (indu).
- duras ca visvā avinod apa svāh RV AV.: turas cid visvam ţarnavat tapasvān AV. duras is object of avinod; turas apparently felt as epithet of the subject
- samidhyamānah prathamānu dharmā (TB. Ap$ prathamo nu dharmah)

- somah prathamo vivide RV PG. HG ApMB: somasya jāyā prathamam AV 'Soma was the first to marry (thee)': '(thou wast) Soma's wife first.'

§406. The remaining nominative-accusative variants are hardly classifiable. Many are textually dubious, and in most the interpretation of one form, or both, is troublesome

- sahrd yat tvā (KS. te) manasā garbha (KS garbham) āśayat TS. KS Here garbha is used in different senses: 'embryo' (TS) and 'womb' (KS) corrupt The acc nṛmanām (bad form in any case) may be felt as a second object, correlative with snehtīr; but the interpretation is certainly dubious

- sūryasya marīcih TA: sūryo marīcim ādatte TA. Probably the two are not really related The former occurs in a list of the pains of various gods; the latter in a cosmic verse about creation.
- udādāya pṛthưvīm jīvadānum (TS TB ApS jīradānuh, MS KS jīradānum) VS TS MS KS TB SB ApS The nom. is clearly established as the reading of the Tait school, but there is no main verb in the stanza and it is hard to construe Both Keith and Caland think an acc (agreeing with pṛthưvīm) must be read
- kratum dadhikrā (MS 'krām) anu samtavītvat (VS MS KS. ŚB samsamsyadat) RV VS VSK TS. MS KS ŚB N. The context is identical in MS, and only a nom seems construable: 'Dadhikrā, showing his strength according to his will' Is the final m in MS. mere 'Hiatustilger'? Cf. VV 2 §308 ff.
- samānam ajmam (PB. †ayman) pary etr (TA ApS. ajmā pari yāti) jāgruh RV PB TA ApS. In RV.: 'watchful he (Agm) goes about his accustomed course' The nom ajmā is apparently felt as an epithet of Agm (TA comm svargagamanasīlah), but is scarcely to be called anything but a corruption (Caland on ApS) Comm on PB. understands ayman (for ajman) as a loc, but probably misunderstands the intention of its text On y for j in PB. see Caland's translation, xxv. The Conc should be corrected for this and tyunaymi te pithivīm agminā saha, and these interesting variants added to VV 2 §192 Cf also Raghu Vira, Kapishala-Katha-Samhitā, 5, Oertel 28
- brhaspatim yajñam akrnvata rşim RV: brhaspatir yajñam atanuta rşih AV The same passage in both texts, dealing otherwise wholly with Yama; the introduction of a statement about Brhaspati's action is evidently a stupid blunder

- yāns (TA. Poona ed. text and comm. yās) te soma prānāns tān (lān, tān) juhomi TA. MahānU. Either reading must intend approximately 'those breaths which are thine' Comm on MahānU. supplies pasyāmi as governing the acc. The nom. yās makes construction simpler (prānāns for prānās being then attracted to the following tān).
- sam takṣā hantı cakrī vah (HG. cakrınah) ApMB. HG. Obscure and likely to be corrupt in both forms. According to Oldenberg, HG would mean 'the carpenter hammers at (the chariots) that have wheels.' cakrī, if sound, would seem to be felt as an epithet of takṣā!
- brahmāṇam (TB °na) indṛam vayodhasam VS. TB. After hotā yakṣad, only acc seems construable Comm. on TB in fact takes brahmānas as acc. pl (agreeing with dvāras preceding)!—as if from brahman, with strong stem for weak.
- manyum (AV manyur) viša īdate mānujīr yāh (TB † īdate devayantīh)
 RV AV. MS. TB The nom is carelessly repeated from the preceding half verse, where it occurs three times It is really unconstruable, as Whitney observes; comm reads manyum Yet Ppp. has manyur, which seems to suggest that it is the actual reading of the Atharvan schools
- purāṇān (TA °ṇā) anu venati RV. TA N. Comm. on TA purātanān devān In fact neither a nom. pl masc nor a nom or acc pl fem is construable.
- narāšansena nagnahum (KS TB. °huh) VS MS. KS TB The form must be acc in all Von Schroeder emends KS to °hum, TB. comm keeps the form °huh but regards it as acc. neut
- parīdam vājy azınam (PG °dam vājinam) dadhe 'ham (HG azınam dhatsvāsau) ŚG PG HG ApMB Haplology in PG. (VV 2 p. 362); vāzınam not construsble
- bahuprajā nırṛtım (AV °tır) ā viveta RV. AV N Whitney assumes an ace in AV, but the passage is mystic nonsense and perhaps anything is possible This might be classed with 'case attraction' above, since apparently AV has made nirṛtı- agree with bahuprajā
- ā nvešāparāntām (TA °tā) AV TA Only the acc. can be construed, so comm on TA interprets the form, tho he reads °tā like both editions
- tilvilāstām irāvatīm AG †. tilvilā syād irāvatī ApMB, and others, always with nom Stenzler (note in transl of AG p 83) regards the acc ending as certainly erroneous

- §407. In the rest there seems to be no genuine variant at all:
- sındhum (Mahān U. v. l. sındhur) na nāvā duruāti parşı RV. MS. TB. TA Mahān U. The v. l. is worthless; no nom could be construed.
- havyam pārāvatebhyah AV. ŠŠ. So mss of AV.; R-Wh. emend wrongly to havyah.
- pūṣaṇvān karambham MS. KS AB karambhah is read by Von Schroeder in MS by emendation, and the Conc quotes KS. as obhah, erroneously All texts should read obham.
- simāh kravantu simyantah TS KSA Conc. quotes simām for KSA, this is a false reading of one ms, rejected in the ed.
- tān sma mānuvaṣaṭkṛthāh AŚ': ete nānuvaṣaṭkṛtāh Vait. But all mss of Vait read ca tāmtsamānuvaṣaṭkṛtā(h); with Caland we should probably assume that they intend the AŚ. reading.
- trptām juhur mātulasyeva yosā RVKh.† N † Conc reads trptā for RVKh, with Aufrecht, but see Scheftelowitz, p 87.
- vāyavyah švetah puche VS MS.: vāyavyam švetam ApS. The latter should be deleted in the Cone; it is no mantra but the beginning of a Brāhmana passage, TS. 2 1 1.1
- īṣamāṇa (ŠŚ °nā) upaspršah AV. ŠŚ Read m AV as m ŠŚ. (with mss, SPP, Whitney's Index; and see Bloomfield's note on 20. 127 2).

CHAPTER XV

NOMINATIVE AND INSTRUMENTAL

1. Instr of means or agent and subject nom

§408. The instrumental in one aspect expresses the means or instrument, or the agent, by which an action is performed. Naturally, therefore, it sometimes varies with the nominative as expressing the performer of the action. In its simplest form this change merely accompanies a shift between an active or transitive verb and a passive or intransitive one, as in:

ya īm vahanta āšubhih RV.: yadī vahanty āšavah SV. 'Whoso travel by horses': 'when the horses carry (him)'

manyur akārsīn manyuh karoti \cdot .TAA : manyunā kṛlam manyuh karoti \cdot .BDh

§409. It is not even necessary that the verb form should vary; once, at least, the same verb is taken as either passive or middle-deponent: na karmanā lipyate pāpakena ŠB TB. BṛhU BDh.: na karma lipyate nare VS. IśāU. 'He is not stained by evil action': 'action does not stick to (stain) a man'

§410. A little different in psychology is the next group—all occurring in the same passage—in which the instr. of means varies with what would be, with the active voice, an acc of direct object, but becomes nom as subject of a passive verb:

antar dadhe parvatath HG ApMB: antarhitā girayah ŚG 'I interpose with mountains': 'mountains are interposed.'—In same contextantar mahyā pṛthivyā HG.† ApMB †, antar dadha ṛtubhih, ahorātraiś ca samdhibhih (HG. atraih susamdhibhih); ardhamāsaiś ca māsaiś ca—all HG. ApMB: antarhitā pṛthivī mahī me; antarhitā ma ṛtavah; ahorātrāś ca samdhiyāh; māsāś cārdhamāsāś ca, all ŚG.

§411. More often there is no such change in the verb, whether in form or meaning. The variation in case may be said to signalize a lack of clear distinction between the concepts of agent and of instrument. Indra by his might has done so and so' is equivalent to 'Indra's might has done so and so'. In such religious literature as the Veda, where personification and apostrophe of manimate things and qualities are so common, such a shift is particularly easy; it would indeed not be difficult anywhere—It suggests a characteristic trait of Homeric diction (βίη Ἡρακληείη). But it is noteworthy that the possessive adjective, or genitive, or equivalent, which appears in such Homeric phrases, is rarely found among our variants, the first example is perhaps the only one.—Instead of the subject nom, the voc. of direct address is also found varying with the instr. in the same way, §354

- pra te dwo na stanayantı suşmāh (MS 'yanta suşmaih) RV. TS. MS. 'Thy (Agnı's) furies thunder like (the thunders) of heaven': 'they (sc girah) have thundered to thee with furies like (those) of heaven.'
- abhi stomair (RV.* SV.* stomā) anūşata RV. SV. (both in each) AV. VS 'Songs of praise shouted to thee': 'they shouted to thee with songs of praise'
- vājasya mā prasavena (VS. SB. °vah) VS TS. KS MS SB. ApS. MS. Followed by udgrābhenod agrābhīt (ajīgrabham, etc.). 'He has (I have) exalted me (myself) with increase of strength, with exaltation': 'increase of strength has exalted me with exaltation'
- tam tvābhih sustutibhir vājayantah RV.. tam tvā girah sustutayo vājayanti SV. 'Strengthening thee with these fair praises': 'songs of fair praise strengthen thee'
- punantu manavo (RV vasavo, VS KS. manasā) dhiyā (VS. KS dhiyah)
 RV AV. VS MS KS TB. 'Let men (Vasus) purify with prayer':
 'let prayers purify with mind.' The change of manavo to manasā introduces a different word; but it is to be noted that it replaces the instr dhiyā, and so in a way restores the original construction of the sentence.
- abhi yo mahinā divam RV. AS: abhīmam (TS MS.† °mām, MS. MS. v l. °mān) mahinā (VS. °mā; delete MS v. l. in Conc.) divam (MS divah) VS. TS. MS. TA ApS. MS. Followed by mitro (VS vipro) bahhūva saprathāh. 'The far-spreading Mitra has surpassed this heaven (these heavens) by his majesty'; VS substitutes vipro for mitro (phonetic shifts, VV 2 §§180, 235), and turns mahinā into mahimā, nom.. 'the wise, far-spreading majesty has
- kşatram agne (AV. kşatrenāgne) suyamam astu tubhyam AV. VS. TS. MS KS. In AV. neither the pāda itself nor the context furnishes a subject for astu Apparently indefinite subject: 'by dominion, Agni, let it be of easy control for thee.' The other reading is supported by Ppp and is much simpler, but for that reason perhaps to be suspected of secondariness: 'let dominion, Agni, be of easy control for thee.'

- sukro brhan dakşınayā (TB. brhad dakşınā tvā) pıpartu AV. TB 'Let the bright one, the mighty, endow [me] with the sacrificial fee': 'let the bright one, the mighty [comm, the sāman], (and) the sacrificial fee endow thee.' On this use of root pr see Bloomfield, AJP. 17. 408 ff (esp 409)
 - 2. Associative instr and (collateral) subject or predicate nom.
- §412. An associative instrumental attached to a noun in any other case might theoretically be replaced by a form in that other case. So we find such instr forms attached to a subject or predicate nom, varying with a nom as collateral subject or predicate. For the same variation with other cases than the nom see §§55–7 With the nom. this is particularly easy in constructions with words whose meaning suggests the instr, expressions of mingling, union, equality, comparison, or the like Such words occur in most of the following variants:
- ā dadhnah kalašair (ApMB. °šīr, MG °šam) aguh (with varr) AV. AG SG PG HG. ApMB. MG Preceded by ā vatso jagatā saha Ppp. reads ā dadhnas kalašaš ca yah. The ApMB substitution has phonetic aspects (VV 2 §701), but Ppp. supports it in sense by reading a nom (Note, however, that the fem stem kalašī is post-Vedic) 'They have come with pots of sour milk': '(they and) pots of sour milk have come' Knauer prints MG as kalašam airayam, but the mss are clearly corrupt, the syllable air must conceal the true caseending of kalaša Read kalašair ayam, as in Kāthaka G (see Caland's ed and note on this). In the same context
- emām parısrutah kumbhah AV: enam parısrutah kumbhyā $G: ā tvā parısrıtah (°srutah, °srtah, hıranmayah) kumbhah (ApMB † °āh) AGPG. MG ApMB HG
- yaśasā (ArS yaśo) mā dyāvāprthwī ArS PG MG The verb to be supplied is a form of vid 'find', from pāda c: yaśo bhagaś ca mā vidat (MG rişat) PG. MG, yaśo bhagasya vindatu ArS ('let glory of fortune find [me]'; so correct rendering in VV 2 p. 98).—So, in same stanza, between these two pādas.
- yasasendrābrhaspatī PG. MG: yaso mendrābrhaspatī ArS Cf. prec 'With glory let find (come to) me.' However, the dual forms might be taken as vocs, supplying a 2d person verb: 'with glory (come) to me, O .' (So Oldenberg on PG)
- yavā (MS yavaır) na barhır bhrum kesarāmı VS MS KS TB 'The hairs on his eye-brow are like barley and sacred straw (like sacred straw with barley)'

- samā bhavantūdvato (TS °vatā) nīpādāh RV TS KS 'The heights and depths shall be equal': 'the depths shall be equal with the heights'
- teşām işṭām sam ıṣā madantı RV VS TS MS N.: sam no. mahām sam ıṣo mahantām KS A far-reaching reconstruction in the latter, it vaguely suggests the psychology of the variants in this section.
- satyā eṣām (AG etā) āśiṣah santu kāmāh (ApMB HG. santu kāmaih; SMB Jorgensen santu kāmāh, v l kāmāt, AG santu sarvāh, VS samnamantām) VS. VSK AG SMB. Kauś ApMB HG 'Let their prayers, their desires, come true': 'let their prayers with their desires (or perhaps, according to their desires' of the v l kāmāt) come true'
- ādityas (ApMB °yais) te vasubhir ā dadhātu HG ApMB. Preceded by indro marudbhir rtudhā (HG iha te) krņotu (HG. dadhātu) 'Indra with the Maruts , Āditya with the Vasus': 'Indra with the Maruts with the Ādityas, with the Vasus'.
- sam revatīr jagatībhih proyantām VS SB SS: sam revatīr jagatībhir (VSK °bhih sam) madhumatīr madhumatībhih srjiyadhvam (VSK proyantām) TS VSK TB: sam revatīr jagatīh MS The latter belongs to the same context as the others, but the verb of mingling is postponed to the next pāda (śwāh śwābhih sam asrkṣatāpah), and the original instr which was paired with revatīr is made into a supplementary subject
- tan mṛtyunā nīrṛtih samvidānā AV · tan mṛtyur nīrṛtyā samvidāṇah TB. Here nom and instr. change places, without real change of meaning 'Destruction in unison with death': 'death in unison with destruction'
- tām visvair devair (KS višve devā) riubhih samvidānah (KS. °nāh) VS. TS MS KS ŠB ApŠ Followed by prazāpatir višvalarmā vimuñcatu (ApŠ yunaktu) KS turns the original complementary instr. (dependent on samvidānah) into a collateral subject of the verb in the next pāda
- śukrah śukraśocią VS. TS. KS. SB TB ApS. śukrau śukraśocią u MS. 'The bright with the bright-shining one': 'the two bright, bright-shining ones'
- tayor (TS TB tasyām, MŚ yasyām, v. 1 asyām) devā adhīsamvasantah (MŚ abhīsamvīšantah) TS TB ApŚ. MŚ: tasyām devaih samvasanto mahitvā AV In AV. the following verb is madema, in the rest mādayantām or "yadhvam" 'The gods, dwelling together ': 'may we, dwelling together with the gods'
- parīmam yazamānam manuşyāh saha rāyas poşeņa prazayā ca vyayantām

- MS: parīmam rāyas poşo yajamānam manuşyāh TS The associative instr is pointed with saha See §§402 etc
- ındraghoşas (MS KS. °şās) ivā vasubhih purastāt pātu (KS † tvā vasavah pu° pāntu, MS tvā purastād vasubhih pāntu) VS TS MS KS SB: ındraghoşā vo vasubhih purastād upadadhatām TA. Followed by the next two, q v
- manojavās tvā pitrbhir (KS pitaro) daksinatah pātu (KS pāntu) VS TS KS SB: pitaras tvā manojavā daksinatah pāntu MS. manojavaso vah pitrbhir daksinata upadadhatām TA See next
- pracetās tvā rudrash paścāt pātu VS TS KS ŚB: rudrās tvā pracetasah paścāt pāntu MS: pracetā vo rudrash paścād upadadhatām TA This and the two preceding all occur in the same passage, which also contains a fourth phrase (viśvakarmā tvādityar) in which all texts have the instrement When a nome is substituted for the instrement (as twice in KS and twice in MS) it may be felt as a second subject, so belonging in this group. Yet it is at least as likely to be felt as sole subject, modified by the word (indraghoṣās etc) which in the other version is the substantive subject, but here may be felt as an adjective
- 3 Instr of karmadhārayas (or separate instr) and nom of bahuvrīhis
- §413. Occasionally we find the same compound stem used now as an instr (a karmadhāraya), and again in the nom as a bahuvrīhi, an adjective epithet of the subject. The instr seems generally to be felt as associative, tho this shades over into the instr of means. In general psychology this group is similar to the preceding one. Sometimes the instruction occurs in separate, uncompounded forms
- aśvānām sadhastuti (TB °tih) RV TB The verse reads ye me pañcāśatam dadur, aśv° sadh°, dyumad agne mahi śravo, brhat kṛdhi maghonām, nṛvad amṛta nṛnām 'Who have given me 500 horses, of (these) patrons do thou, Agni, with joint praise (TB having joint praise), make great the fame' etc
- dame-dame sustutir (AV KS "tyā, TS "tīr, MS "tī) vām iyānā (TS MS KS vāvrdhānā, AV "nau) AV TS MS KS AS SS If MS intends nom dual, its variation with AV. KS is like the foregoing: 'having good praises' or 'along with good praise' But sustutī may be taken also as instr TS makes the form acc. pl depending on the pple, and AS SS are hopelessly corrupt
- tam tvā bhrātarah suvṛdhā (ApMB °dho, HG suhṛdo) vardhamānam AV ApMB HG The following verb is anu jayantām AV. 'after thee, growing with good growth, may brothers be born.' ApMB: 'after thee, growing, may brothers be born whose growth is good' Even closer to the preceding cases would this variant be if suvydhā were taken with the following verb rather than with the participle; but the order seems against this.

prāno agnih paramātmā pañcavāyubhir āvrtah PrānāgU.: prāno 'gnih paramātmā vai pañcavāyuh samāšritah MU. 'The Paramātman is surrounded by the five breaths': '. has entered in with (or, perhaps, as) the five breaths' Here the psychology is a little different; the instr. seems clearly one of means vi yo mame rajasī sukratūyayā RV: vi yo rajūnsy amimīta sukratuh RV. Here a different but related word (with abstract suffix) is used in the karmadhāraya trıpād ūrdhva ud ast puruşah RV ArS VS TA: trıbhih padbhir dyām archat AV. Here two separate words are used instead of the karmadhāraya compound

4 Nom and mstr of part dedicated in offering

§414. In the long list of dedicatory formulas used in presenting parts of the horse's body to various deities in the Asvamedha, we find a number of times variation between instr of the part dedicated (and acc of the deity), on the one hand (with verb of 'gratifying' understood), and on the other hand nom. of the part dedicated and gen or dat of the deity (with copula 'understood'). Cf §126 on the various types of dedicatory formulas We shall not record a complete list here; others will be found in the same vicinity:

pūṣaṇam vanıṣṭhunā VS MS. ('Pūṣan [we gratify] with the van°'):
pūṣno vanıṣṭhuh TS. KSA ('the van° is for Pūṣan')—Similarly: andhāhīn (°he, °heḥ) sthūlagudayā (sthūra°, °gudā), and others, same texts

5 Transfer of epithet

§415. As usual we find in a number of cases that the shift between nom and instr is due to the transfer of an epithet from one person or thing to another. In most cases there is a variation in number or gender as well as case, we quote first those in which case alone varies: svāveśayā (VS. SB. °veśā) tanvā samvišasva VS. MS. KS. SB. In VS.

SB the adjective, if as we believe (cf §174) it is nom., agrees with the subject (islaka), in MS KS with tanva.

prātaryāvāno adhvaram RV. VS TB · prātaryāvabhır adhvare SV. Pre-

- ceded by: śrudhi śrutkarna vahnibhir, devair agne sayāvabhih, ā sīdantu (SV. sīdatu) barhişi mitro (TB. adds varuņo) aryamā In the original prātaro agrees with the subject; in SV. it becomes an associative instr. attached to the subject, doubtless influenced by the instrumentals in the preceding.
- nuttas carṣaṇīdhṛtih SV: anuttā carṣaṇīdhṛtā RV. In RV. carṣanīdhṛtā is an epithet of doubtful reference (cf. Oldenberg, Noten, 1 p 162, n 1), in SV. it is transferred to the subject (tvam = Indra).
- §416. In the rest there is variation in number or gender or both, as well as case:
- paro devebhir (MS °bhyo) asurair (MS. °ram) yad asti (TS asurair guhā yat) RV. TS MS KS. Preceded by paro divā para enā pṛthivyā, except in MS. which has paro divah para enā pṛthivyāh (abls for instrs); MS. makes devebhir over into devebhyo in accord with this, and since the meter does not permit asurebhyo, it transfers this word to the subject yad
- ghnanto (MS ApS ghnatā) vṛtrāny aprati AV. MS KS TS ApS. Nom goes with subject vayam, instr. with associative indrena
- indrena sayujo (AV. °jā) vayam AV TS. ApŚ 'We allied with Indra': 'we with Indra as ally.'
- indrena devīr (MS devair) vīrudhah samındānāh TS MS.
- ta ā vahanti (MS tayā vahante [so p p]) kavayah purastāt TS MS TB: tad āharanti kavayah purastāt KS In MS tayā by attraction to preceding svadhayā, cf. VV 2 §342
- udyan bhrājabhrstibhir (PG °bhrstir) indro marudbhir asthāt SMB. PG GG.
- śuddha (SV śuddhair) āšīrvān mamattu RV. SV. Preceded by śuddhair ukthair vāvidhvānsam, to these instr forms the SV. has assimilated śuddha(h) of RV.
- aganma mahā (KS. maho) namasā yamsiham RV SV. MS KS AB KB TB ApŠ AŠ ŠŠ We have come with mighty homage (KS mighty with homage) unto the youngest (Agni) 'KS apparently understands a nom pl with its mahó
- abhikhyā bhāsā bṛhatā śuśukvanih RV · dṛśc (MS dṛśa) ca bhāsā bṛhatā suśukvanih (KS. °vabhih, MS suśikmanā) VS TS MS KS ŠB In MS su' is made an epithet of bhāsā In KS. too the epithet no longer agrees with the subject (Agm). It is perhaps made coordinate with bhāsā, or possibly it is meant to agree with suśastibhih in the following pāda (but in that case the form would be irregular since the latter word is fem)

- ayasā manasā dhriah ApŚ. ApMB HG.: ayāsā manasā (AŚ. vayasā) kriah AŚ ŚŚ Kauś: ayā sant (MS. ayāh san, KS. ayās san, ms. ayāsā) manasā hitah (MS kritah, p p. and KS. kriah) MS. KS. TB ApŚ ApMB. HG Followed by:
- ayasā havyam ūhişe ApŠ ApMB. HG.: ayā san (MS SS. ayāh san, KS ayās san, Kauś. ayāsyam) havyam ūhişe MS KS. TB. AŠ. SS. ApŠ. Kauś ApMB. HG.: ayā no yajāam vahāsi KŠ. In the first of these two pādas, the instrs. are transferred to manasā from agreement with the subject (Agm); in the second they are attracted to the like construction by the preceding ayasā.
- uruvyacaso dhāmnā patyamānāh VS TS. MS. KS: uruvyacasāgner dhāmnā patyamāne AV. The AV. version is corrupt; by a false verse division uru° (originally epithet of the divine doors, dvāraḥ) is transferred to dhāmnā. Ppp. agrees with the others
- pāvakayā yas (TS. pāvaka ā) citayantyā kṛpā RV. VS TS MS. KS SB.

 The nom. in TS. is really due to phonetic alteration; cf. Oldenberg, Prol 453, and VV 2 §343 But it is construable in agreement with the unexpressed subject of the verb ruruce.

- samjagmāno abibhyuṣā RV AV. SV. N: samjagmānā abibhyuṣāḥ (MS. avihrutāh) AV. MS. The instr. goes with a preceding indrena, the nom with the gāvah who are addressed. But the contexts are quite different, and the pādas in their original forms probably unrelated. We take it that AV. has a contamination of the MS. pāda with that of RV etc.
- §417. The following cases are also classed as 'transfers of epithet' as explained in §§15-6 They show in one form a true 'epithet', in the other sometimes a form of the same, sometimes a different word, not properly an epithet of anything but independently construed:
- acıttıbhış cakrmā yac cıd āgah RV. MS KS : avıdvānsaş cakrmā kac canāgah TS
- apa druhā (AV. druhus) tanvam gūhamānā RV. AV. The instr. of manner, virtually an adverb, of RV. becomes in AV. an epithet of the subject, a she-demon.
- harşamānāso dhṛṣttā (TB. dhṛṣatā) marutvah RV. TB N: harşamānā hṛṣttāso marutvan AV. In TB. the orig. nom epithet becomes an adverbial instr. of a different but related stem.
- indradhipatih (MS KS. °patyaih) piprtad ato nah TS. MS. KS. AS 'O Indra, as overlord (with thy overlordship) . '
- varšvānarah pavayān nah pavitraih TA.: vaišvānarah pavitā mā 'punātu AV The TA reading seems to be intended by Ppp. (Whitney on 6 119 3). 'May V. with purifiers (V the purifier) purify us (me).'

- yena prajā (MS ya ımāh prajā) mśvakarmā jajāna (TS vyānat) VS TS MS. KS ŠB. In MS. yah goes with mśvakarmā The original 'by which V produced creatures'
- yenaışa bhūtas tışthaty (MahānU MundU bhūtaıs tışthate hy) antarātmā TA MahānU. MundU (2 1 9) Deussen reads bhūtas in MahānU. but observes that a v 1 has bhūtaıs and that this is a better reading The nom is secondary and attracted to antarātmā See also Deussen's note on the MundU passage
- tenā (TS. sā) no yajāam piprhi névavāre AV. TS Nom is secondary. candro (SV candrair) yāti sabhām upa RV SV Preceded by śvātra-bhājā vayasā sacate sadā Apparently under the influence of the preceding instrumentals, tho not in agreement therewith, the nom is changed into an associative instr The 'shining ones' are somadrops according to Benfey.
- priyah kavīnām matī (SV matih) RV SV In RV matī is instr·by the hymn of the seers' In SV it is anomalously made into an epithet of indu
- sūyavasınī manave (RV TA manuşe, KS mānuşe) daśasyā (TA daśasye, TS MS KS yaśasye) RV VS TS MS KS ŚB TA The original daśasyā is instr of stem daśasyā, 'benevolently' TA's daśasye seems, like yaśasye, to be dual nom fem agreeing with the subject

6 Nom of independent sentence and instr

- §418. Twice a dependent instr of one form of the variant is paralleled in the other form by an independent sentence, with nom, which is however resumed by a pronominal instr in the same construction as the nominal instr of the variant form See §33:
- gavā te krīnām TS Ap$: 1yam gaus tayā te krīnām M$ 'With a cow let me buy of thee' 'here is a cow, with her '
- etat te rudrāvasam tena (VSK † etena rudrāvasena) paro mūjavato 'tīhi VS VSK SB 'This is thy food, O Rudra; with it depart .'. 'with this food, O Rudra, depart '

7 Miscellaneous

- §419. The remaining nom-instr variants are scarcely classifiable. They mostly involve various reconstructions of the material, in sense at least, and usually in form, extending far beyond the mere change in case-form
 - vn śloka etu (AV eti, TS ŚvetU ślokā yanti) pathyeva (KS patheva) sûreh (AV MS† sūrih, KS† sūrah, TS. ŠvetU sūrāh) RV AV

- VS TS MS KS. SB. SvetU. In RV VS. SB pathyā may be taken as nom, with Grassmann and Oldenberg: 'as the path of the suri'. In all the others, at any rate, we have an instr.: 'like the lord on his path'. Cf. §284.
- gaṇair mã mã vi tītṛṣata MS : gaṇā me mã vi tṛṣan VS. TS. ŚB.: ganān me mā vi tītṛṣah (MŚ °ṣat) TS MŚ See §§380, 459.
- jajñānam (SV. °nah) sapta mātarah (SV mātrbhih) RV. SV. Followed by vedhām ašāsata (SV. medhām āšā°) šriye. 'The seven mothers instructed their holy child unto fortune': 'the child of seven mothers prayed to the wise one unto fortune'
- yajñam hinvanty adribhih RV yajñāya santv adrayaḥ SV. Preceded by tam duroşam abhī narah, somam viśvācyā dhiyā In RV narah is subject of hinvanty and somam its object In SV. it seems that narah must be taken with Benfey as voc, with no verb expressed, and that pāda c must be completely detached from the preceding
- tan nau samvananam kṛtam MG · tena samvaninau svake HG 'That concord has been made for us': 'thereby we are concordant'
- tayā devāh sutam ā babhūvuh TS KSA. TB: sā no asmın suta ā babhūva VS MS "Therewith the gods mastered the libation": 'it is present for us at this libation.' See Keith on TS 4.1 2 1, $n \cdot 6$
- prthwim bhasmanāprna (MS. KS. bhasma) svāhā VS MS. KS ŠB. ApŠ. 'Fill the earth with (thy) ashes.' In MS KS. sc gachatu: 'let (thy) ashes (go) to earth.'
- ya ındreṇa saratham yātı devah AV.; yenendrasya ratham sambabhūvuh MS KS ApŠ
- mandūkyā su sam gamah (TA gamaya) RV.† TA.: mandūky apsu šam bhuvah AV. (corrupt)
- āptam manah TS MS KS TB MS. ApS.: āpāma manasā VS SB. 'Mınd has been obtained': 'may we obtain by mind'. Ritualistic rigmarole
- ārohātmātmānam (MS ārohātmanātmānam) achā TB. AS. ApS. MS. 'Mount as self (with thy self) upon (my) self.' TB. Bibl. Ind. reads ārohātyātmānam, text and comm.; Poona ed. like the others.
- mūrā (SV mūrair) amūram purām darmānam RV. SV. Benfey: 'den durch Thoren unbethörten'. Obscure,
- tam devās sam acīkļpan KS.: tām devaih sam ajīgamam TS The sense is radically altered 'Him the gods have fashioned': 'her I have united with the gods.' Both preceded by añgāny ahrutā yasya (TS yasyai).
- sam ındro visvadevebhir añktām VS. SB.; sam indrena visvebhir devebhir añktām TB. ApS In the latter the barhıs is the subject

- sam aryamā sam bhago no nīnīyāt RV ApMB. sam bhagona sam aryamnā (followed by sam dhātā srjatu varcasā) AV See Whitney on AV. 14 1 34, which doubtless understands bhagena and aryamnā as parallel with varcasā
- kālena bhūtam bhavyam ca AV kāle ha bhūtam bhavyam ca AV vulgate, but by emend for kālo of most mss, kept by SPP kālena of the other form is also an emendation for kāle ha, which SPP keeps This last emendation seems justified and is supported by Ppp (JAOS 46 37f) In the other, while the loc would be possible, there seems no reason to reject the well attested nom form, which is adopted by Bloomfield and Whitney The contexts are different tho related (found in the same hymn), and the variant could be called 'Phrase Inflection'
- [krānā (SV prānā, AV prānah) sındhūnām kalašān avīvašat (SV AV acıkradat) RV. SV AV krānā is problematic; Oldenberg takes it with Lanman as instressee RVRep 136 for a different view. In SV we have a phonetic shift (VV 2 §152) which defies interpretation; in AV an attempt at rationalization of SV, which is grammatical ('the breath of the rivers has made the jars resound') but silly]

CHAPTER XVI

NOMINATIVE AND DATIVE

1 Dative of purpose varying with nominative

§420. Since the dative of purpose often denotes something attributed to or desired for the logical subject of the sentence, it may vary with a nominative form, of the same or a related word. This nominative may be an epithet of the entity to which the dative of purpose relates, as in: mandrā dhanasya sātaye (KS. °yah) TS MS. KS TB. KS MŠ SG

Waters are referred to 'Fair ones, unto the winning of wealth': 'fair winnings of wealth'. All mss of KS. agree on the form

- pade-pade pāśnah santi setavah (AV. °ve) RV. AV KS. ApŚ. 'On every spot are snare-bearing bonds (snare-bearers for a bond).'
- agner apunann usijo amṛtyavah RV.: agner akṛṇvann usijo amṛtyave MS:
 devā akṛṇvann usijo amartyave ApŚ In RV. amṛtyavah is adj, 'immortal ones', agreeing with the subject; in MS a noun, 'unto immortality', meaning about the same thing ApŚ doubtless intends the same meaning as MS; cf. VV 2 §650.
- prajāvatīr (MŠ °varīr, v l °vatīr) yašaso (MŠ. °se) mīsvarāpāh TB ApŠ. MŠ In TB ApŠ yašāso is adjective: '(here come the cows) with many calves, renowned, varied in appearance.' In MŠ. yašase is evidently the noun, 'unto renown', the ultimate meaning is substantially the same
- āŋyam uktham avyathāyai (TS avyathayat, KS avyathāya) stabhnātu (MS notu) VS TS. MS KS ŠB Comm on TS. tvām avyathayad vyathārahitam kurvat, which is practically the meaning of the datives of purpose of the other texts—The same with practical uktham, marutvatīyam u°, nişkevalyam u°, vaisvadevāgnimārute ukthe
- aso yathā no 'vitā vṛdhe ca (SV vṛdhas cit) RV. SV. "That thou mayst be out helper, and for (our) increase', RV. In SV. the dat of purpose becomes a nom of a nomen agentis, being assimilated to avitā." and (mayst be our) increaser.'
- ayam sahasram ā no dīše kavīnām matīr jyotīr vidharmani AV.: ayam sahasram ānavo (Benfey and Caland assume sahasramānavo) dīšah kavīnām matīr jyotir vidharma (ApŠ °mā) SV. ApŠ MŠ Comm.

- on SV takes $dr\hat{s}ah$ as nom (= drasta), 'seer' or 'eye'. If this be accepted the variant would belong here, $dr\hat{s}c$ is a dat (infinitive). But Caland apparently assumes an infinitive as meant in ApS. (perhaps abl.-gen in form?).
- 3ajātānām madhyamasthā edhi (AV madhyamesthāh, MS KS madhyamestheyāya) AV VS TS. MS KS: sajātānām madhyamesthā yathāsāni AV.
- §421. Slightly different are a couple of cases in which the nom form of the variant is the subject of an independent statement attributing the quality denoted to the person referred to:
- tava prašastayo mahīh (SV prašastaye mahe) RV. SV Preceded by tam tvā madāya ghrsvaye, u lokakrtnum īmahe. In RV our pāda is an independent statement: 'great are thy praisings' In SV. it is assimilated to the datives of pāda a: 'unto great praising of thee'
- rāyaspoṣā (MŚ °poṣāya) yajamānam višantu KS ApŚ MŚ Preceded by imām devā ajuṣanta višve 'Let increase of wealth dwell with the sacrificer' In MŚ the subject devāh of the preceding clause holds over: 'let them (the gods) dwell with the sacrificer unto increase of wealth' The psychological difference between such variants and those of the preceding paragraph is slight, since the gods are logically the subject even in the reading of KS ApŚ; it is thru them that the desired result is expected Cf rāyaspoṣā yajamānam sacantām, in a similar context, for which one ms of MŚ also reads rāyaspoṣāya Such variants remind us of the quite similar use of the associative instrumental in variation with the nominative. §412.
- ā yāhīma indavah RV. AŠ: ā yāhy ayam indave SV. This clearly belongs here, even the dative of SV may not be quite properly described as one of purpose. 'Come! Here are the soma-drops': 'come, then here, to (for) the soma.'
- §422. We may record here a variant in which the logical object of an infinitive is in the original version nom, subject of a nominal clause (copula 'understood'), while in the secondary version it is assimilated to the dative infinitive, in accordance with familiar usage (cf. Delbrück, AIS. 89, where it is suggested that 'case-attraction' does not properly describe this dative):
- mayah patibhyo janayah (AV. 'ye) parışvaje RV. AV. ApMB. 'A joy to husbands (are) wives to embrace': 'a joy to husbands (it is) to embrace a wife'

- §423. In the only other variant involving this dative 'object' of a dative infinitive, the nominative form is attracted to agreement with a preceding nominative (in a relative clause):
- brahmadvise (RV. also "dvisah) sarave hantavā u RV. (both) AV. The nom form is preceded by tapurmūrdhā tapatu raksaso ye. 'may he whose head is flame burn those (that are) brahman-hating ogres, so that his arrow may slay (them)' See RVRep on 10 125. 6.
 - 2 Dative varies with nom of secondary adjective in dedications
- §424. In dedicatory expressions (cf §126), the deity may be expressed either by the dative or by the nominative of a secondary adjective, these variants resemble some of those quoted above in §420, except that the dative is not one of purpose:
- kapota (MS °tā) ulūkah šašas te nirrtyai (TA KSA. nairrtāh) VS. TS MS KSA 'These are for Nirrti (Nirrti's)'
- vāyusavītrībhyām āgomugbhyām payah MS: vāyosāvītra āgo° caruh TS. KSA Pp of TS vāyosāvītrah On the formation see VV 2 §716. ātīr (TS KSA ātī) vāhaso darvīdā te vāyave (TS. KSA. vāyavyāh) VS. TS MS KSA
 - 3 Dative varying with nominative of independent statement
- §425. Like other cases (cf. §§32-8), a dative may be replaced by a nominative of independent statement, or vice versa:
- tasmā elam bharata tadvašāya (and, tadvašo dadih) RV. (both). 'Bring this to him who desires it': 'bring this to him—he desires it and is generous'
- §426. Elsewhere the independent nominative is thrown into a relative clause, and is resumed by a dative of a demonstrative pronoun in the main clause.
- agninetrebhyo devebhyah purahsadbhyah svāhā VS SB.: ye devā agninetrāh purahsadas tebhyah svāhā VS SB: ye devāh purahsado agninetrā (KS. 'gnī') rakṣohaṇas tebhyah svāhā MS KS: ye devāh purahsado 'gninetrā tebhyo namas tebhyah svāhā TS Others similar (VS 9 35-6, MS. 2 6 3, KS. 15 2)
- namo vah pitaro ghorāya (VSK. adds manyave) VS VSK. TS. TB AŠ SS SMB GG. KhG: namo vah pitaro yad ghoram tasmai AV. MS. And, in same passage. namo vah pitaro jīvāya VS TS. KS. TB AS SS. SMB GG. KhG.. namo vah pitaro yaj jīvam tasmai VSK. MS Note the difference in phraseology in VSK.

§427. There are a few cases of repetition of a whole clause or pāda in a different context, requiring shift of case between nom and dat, in short, of what we call 'phrase inflection' (§§21-2):

patir (VS SB patye) viśvasya bhūmanah RV SV VS KS SB Followed in RV SV KS by vy akhyad rodasī ubhe, in VS. SB by juhomi viśvakarmane sahasrākṣāyāmartya AV: sahasrākṣo amartyah AV Preceded respectively by namas te rudra kṛnmah, and anyatrāsman ny ucyatu prācī dig agnir adhipatir asito raksitādityā isavah AV.: prācyai tvā dise 'gnaye 'dhipataye 'sitāya raksitra ādityāyeşumate AV. The first is followed by tebhyo namo 'dhipatibhyas etc, the second by etam pari dadmah Similar variants in the five following verses; see Conc under daksināyai tvā , pratīcyai tvā ., udīcyai tvā .., dhruvāyai tvā .., ūrdhvāyai tvā ...

janāya vṛktabarhişe RV: janāso vṛktabarhişah RV. Different contexts stotāra indra girvanah RV SV.. stotṛbhya indra girvanah RV. The nom is preceded by vayam ghā te api şmasi, the dat by yad ditsasi stuto magham

5 Transfer of epithet

§428. The general nature of such variants differs in no wise from those concerning other cases (§14) We quote first those which show shift in case alone, not in number or gender. But it must be noted that not one of them is quite strictly a case of typical 'transfer of epithet'. In the first three an original dative of independent construction, not an 'epithet' of any other word, is attracted into agreement with the subject in a secondary text. In the fourth the dative (probably secondary) also does not agree syntactically with any expressed noun or pronoun Cf. §15.

tasmā u brahmaņas patih RV. KS: ayam ca brahmaņas patih AV. VS
TS MS KS TB. ApŚ Preceded by tasmai somo (devā) adhi bravat (bruvan) The pronoun is transferred from the recipient of blessing to the god: 'And him (may) Brahmaņaspati (bless)': 'and (may) B. here (bless him)'

justo vācaspataye (MS. °patih, KB ŠŠ °patih, TB °patyuh) TS MS KB. GB JB AŠ ŠŠ Vait KŠ In all preceded by justo vāco (vāce) bhūyāsam 'May I be pleasing to speech, pleasing to the lord of speech': in MS, 'may I be pleasing to speech, (may I be) a pleasing lord of speech'

- nyam te rān mitrāya (KS mitro) yantāsi tyamanah VS. KS ŠB. 'Thou art a guiding controller for thy friend (KS, a guiding friendly controller).' We suspect that KS is secondary, since it has what looks like form-assimilation to the following noms.
- putarah putamahah pare 'vare (KS 'varebhyas) te nah pantu (MS. omits te nah p°) te no 'vantu TS MS KS 'Let the fathers. the earlier and the later, guard us 'In KS. avarebhyas is made to refer to the petitioners 'Let the fathers, the earlier ones, for (us) the later ones, guard us 'Note however that we should expect an acc agreeing with the following nah
- §429. Transfers of epithet involving change of gender or number as well as case are:
- suprāvye (AV. °vyā) yajamānāya sunvate RV AV Preceded by aham dadhāmi dravinam (AV °nā) hanşmate RV. makes su° go with yaja° sunvate: 'I (Vāc) give riches to the giver of oblations, to the zealous sacrificer who presses the soma 'Whitney adopts the RV reading following the AV comm and one ms., but notes that AVPr. 4. 11 proves that the Atharvan reading was suprāvyā It may be taken either as acc pl neut with dravinā, or better as nom sg fem with the subject In any case it must be derived not from the stem suprāvī but from its equivalent suprāvyā (RV.).
- urnamradā yuvatır (AV. °mradāh prthivī) daksināvate (TA °vatī) RV AV. TA "The maiden (earth, this is what RV. TA also mean) soft as wool to him that gives daksinā', in TA, the epithet 'possessed of daksinā' is applied to the earth, doubten implying 'bounteous' vaistāgarāya matri naviges (ASS °22) kind RV.

vaiśvānarāya matir navyasī (ArS °se) śucih RV ArS In ArS the epithet is transferred from matir to vaiśvā°

- te asmā (KS. 'smā) agnaye (ApŠ and v. l of MS 'yo) drawnam (KS 'nāni) dattvā MS. KS ApŠ 'They, giving wealth to this Agni': 'these Agnis, giving wealth to him (the sacrificer)' The subject te refers to Agms just mentioned, hence the secondary agnayo by attraction
- nābhā samdāyn navyasī (SV. °dāya navyase) RV SV Preceded by yad dha krānā nvasvatı (SV. °te) In RV. navyasī agrees with the subject of samdāyı (Oldenberg understands nābhih), in SV. with nvasvata. The stanza is somewhat problematic in both.
- §430. Only one form of the variant shows a proper 'epithet' in the following; in the other appears a word of independent construction (in one case with change of meaning, a nomen actionis instead of an adjective). Cf. §15

- āre te goghnam uta pūruṣaghnam RV. ārāt te goghna uta pūruṣaghne TS See under kṣayadvīra (TS °vīrāya) sumnam asme te astu (which follows this), §359 'Far off be thy cattle-killing, and thy mankilling' (RV.). In TS the nomina actionis are made adjectives going with te (Rudra)
- rāyas poşam cıkıtuşe (AV °şī) dadhātu (SS. dadātu) AV. TS MS KS SS. 'Let her (Kuhū), the wise, grant increase of wealth': 'let her grant to the wise' Possibly the dative is secondarily attracted into parallelism with dāsuse of the preceding pāda (in Ppp and all others but not in AVS, which has a quite different pāda c)

rātri (KS v. 1 rātrih, TB rātrī) stomam na ngyuşe (KS † TB °şī) RV KS TB The epithet (in RV referring to some unspecified 'conqueror') is transferred to Night

6 Miscellaneous

- §431. The remaining nominative-dative variants are unclassifiable ādityās (MS 'yebhyas) tvā prabrhantu (MS pravrhāmi) jāgatena chandasā TS. MS 'Let the Ādityas pluck thee forth ': 'I pluck thee forth for the Ādityas '
- yathainam jarase nayāt AV.: athainam jarimā nayet HG The latter is evidently poor; perhaps 'then may old age lead him'? Or is it felt as jarim ānayet, as if involving a stem *jari? Note lingual n in nayet!
- wam (AV MS yā) teṣām avayā duruṣṭyai (AV MS duruṣṭih) AV TS MS Followed by swiṣṭim nas tām (AV. wrongly tān) kṛnotu (AV kṛnavad) wiśvakarmā (MS vi kṛnotu) Ppp has yā duruṣṭā, swiṣṭam tad vi kṛo TS: 'this is their expiatory sacrifice for a vitiated sacrifice, may V make it for us a perfect sacrifice 'AV MS could apparently only mean. 'that expiatory sacrifice of theirs which is a vitiated sacrifice, may V make it 'This does not fit the requirements, it seems to be due to some sort of misunderstanding or corruption Whitney emends to duruṣṭah Ppp duruṣṭā might be interpreted as a loc. of duruṣṭa, 'in case of an imperfect sacrifice', conceivably this might have been the middle stage which (misunderstood as nom sg fem of duruṣṭā) led to the further change to duruṣṭah.
- yathā pṛthivyām agnaye samanamann evā mahyam samnamah sam namantu AV · yathāgnih pṛthivyā samanamad evam mahyam bhadrāh samnatayah samnamantu TS KS † 5 20 And others in the same passage

- väl palamgäya dhīyate (TS siśriye, MS. hūyate) RV. AV. SV. ArS VS. TS MS. ŠB · vāk palamgo asiśriyat (KS. °gā asiśrayuh) AV. KS. The verse is desperately obscure, we can contribute nothing to its elucidation
- eka eva rudro 'va tasthe na dvitīyah N.. eka eva rudro (ŠvetU. eko hi ru°, SirasU eko ru°) na dvitīyāya tasthe (ŠvetU. tasthuh, ŠirasU tasmai, but Poona ed. with comm tasthau) TS. Apš ŠvetU ŠirasU In N 'one only is Rudra, there is no second existent', in the others, 'one is Rudra, he does not (or they, indefinite, do not) tolerate ('stand for', Hume) a second ' Add to VV 1 §§76, 359
- [kanyakumāryai (TA. °mārī, Poona ed. °mārī) dhīmahi TA. MahānU. See §361]
- [jyeşihāya (ŚŚ jyeşiho) yad apracetāh AV. ŚŚ. But AV. mss. jyeşiho]

NOMINATIVE AND ABLATIVE OR GENITIVE

A Nominative and ablative

1. Ablative of source and subject nominative (passive: active)

§432. Variations between these two cases are few and scattering Rarely do they fall into typical pattern-groups, and yet more rarely do they illustrate typical syntactic relations of the two cases. In the following an ablative of source with passive forms of the root jan 'beget, bear' varies with subject nominative of an active form of the same root. The two expressions are virtual equivalents, and the variation is of the same sort as the much commoner shift between instrumental and nominative with passive and active verbs (cf. §40)

ayam var tvām ajanayad ŠŠ: asmād var tvam ajāyathā. JB AG Kauš: asmāt tvam adhr jāto 'sr VS ŠB TA KŠ Karmap. 'He has begotten thee': 'thou wast produced from him'

2 Independent nominative and dependent ablative

§433. The variants found here belong to §§32-8 In the first the relative pronoun justifies construction of the nom as independent, tho it is really equivalent in sense to the dependent abl, of §32, end. This meaning is probably more likely to be right than the alternative interpretation which would make the nom correlative with the subject of chumbhantu, a construction impossible in the locative form of the variant. Cf. §§450, 669.

(āpo mā tasmāc chumbhantu) agneh samkasukāc ca yat (Ppp agnih samkusukas ca yah) AV Ppp · (sīse mṛddhvam nade mṛddhvam) agnau samkasuke ca yat (Ppp. as before) AV. Ppp 'May the waters purify me from that and (from) (him who is) Agni S' vişno (vışnoh, vışnos) sthānam ası (MS MS sthāmāsı, KS sthāmnah) VS TS MS KS. SB. TB. ApS MS In KS construed with the following, ita indro vīryam akrnot According to ApS also the two are connected in sense; see Keith, HOS 18 p 14 n 2

3 Phrase inflection

§434. We have noted only one variant which seems to belong to this category (cf §§21-2), in that a pada is repeated in a different context which requires change of construction of the noun:

păpebhyas ca pratigrahah (RVKh. °hāt) RVKh. TA. MahānU. BDh.

The contexts are different the similar

4 Transfer of epithet

§435. This occurs a few times; in some instances, as usual, number or gender varies along with case:

- pra skannāj (KS skannam, v. l °nāñ) jāyatām havih KS KŚ ApŚ Probably the abl. is original. let oblation be born from the (part of the offering that has) fallen (on the ground). If KS really intends a nom, it would agree with havih: let the oblation that has fallen be born.
- ud asya susmād bhānur nārta (MS bhānor nāvyāh) RV. MS TA ApŚ In the original bhānu is applied in the simile to Agni, subject of the verb In MS it seems to apply to susmād. (Understand doubtless na avyāh, despite p p which does not divide) pāpāt (KŚ pāpah) svapnyād (KŚ nād) abhūtyāh (KŚ vai) AV KŚ Preceded by paryāvarte duhşvapnyāt. In KŚ pāpa seems to be transferred to the subject

apahaio 'raruh pṛthwyā adevayajanah (pṛthwyai devayajanyai) TS ApS (both in each) The epithet is (altered and) transferred from araru to pṛthwī, or vice versa

§436. In another case the original, and perhaps only correct, form of the variant shows an ablative which is independently construed, while the nominative form (if textually sound) is attracted into agreement with the subject. Cf §15

- mṛlyur (1) me pāhī TAA: mṛlyor mā pāhī TS MS KS TB AS Comm on TAA says that mṛlyur is for mṛlyor, vyalyayana The variant should doubtless be added to VV 2 §716.

B. Nominative and genitive

1 Partitive genitive and nominative

- §438. First among the nominative-genitive variants may be put a group of cases where the two forms are virtual synonyms. Namely: in one form is used a partitive genitive (almost appositional at times), depending on a nominative, while in the other the two words are both nominatives, in syntactic agreement. (See §84) Most simply this appears in formulaic lists such as dakṣiṇā (and prācī, ūrdhvā, pratīcī, udīcī) dik, 'the southern (etc.) quarter', AV. VS. TS. MS. KS. ŚB. TB. ApŚ. ApMB. Besides this list, TS. also has one with the variant diśām in each case: 'the southern (etc.) one of the quarters'. Quite similarly in a list of the seasons, VS. MS. KS. ŚB. have vasanta (and grīṣma, varṣā, śarad) rtuh, and hemantaśiśirāv (°rā) rtū, 'the spring (etc.) season', while TS. in each instance reads rtūnām, 'the spring (etc.) of the seasons.' §439. Less formulaic, but of the same character, are the following:
- subhūr ası (ŚŚ subhūr nāmāsı) śreşiho raśmir PB ŚŚ subhūr ası śreşiho raśmīnām TS. ApŚ; svayambhūr ası śreşiho raśmih. .

 VS. MS ŚB ŚŚ MŚ 'The best ray' 'the best of rays'.
- yathāmī (RVKh yathāmīṣām, AV yathaɪṣām, SV yathaɪteṣām) anyo anyam na jānan (KVKh AV SV jānāt) RVKh AV SV. VS. 'That those may not know the one the other': 'that of those one may not know the other'.
- trivid bhuwanam yad rathavit KS †: trivid yad bhuwanasya rathavit TB.

 Ap$ yad bhuwanasya must mean the same as bhuwanam yad,
 'what land'.
- yās (TS. yeṣām) tisrah prathamajāh (TS. KS TA paramajāh) TS. MS KS TA In TS preceded by ye grahāh pañcajanīnāh 'what cups pertain to the five peoples (i e are five in number, cf Keith's note), of which three are first-born' Followed by teṣām (tāsām) iṣam ūrjam sam agrabhīm The other texts vary considerably, and do not mention the number 'five' On the fem gender see §835.
- amptasya nidhir hitah RV TB TA amptam nihitam guhā SV. Preceded by yad ado vāta te grhe 'What store of nectar is placed in thy house': 'what nectar is placed in secret in thy house.'
- mttrah satyānām (VS SB satyah) VS TS MS. KS SB PG Parallel formulas have gen. even in VS It is not certain that they are partitives; cf mitra satyānām pate (°nām adhipate) TB SS (in different contexts, to be sure)

Here we place also the following, tho the TS. is poor and less close in meaning to the original:

yad enas cakrvān baddha teşa AV: eno mahac cakrvān baddha teşa MS enas cakrvān mahi baddha cṣām TS The last seems to mean 'the one of them who, having committed a great sin, is bound', otherwise Keith Undoubtedly eşa is the proper form.

2 Possessive or descriptive genitive and nominative

§440. Not very different from these are a group in which the genitive is no longer partitive but rather descriptive or possessive, and so substantially equivalent to a nominative epithet of the subject, which may vary with it (cf. §85):

vrşāsy ūrmih TS. TB: vrşormir asi MS KS MS: vrşna ūrmir ası rāstradāh VS SB 'Thou art a bull-wave (a bull's wave) .'

martānām (AV martāsas) cid urvasīr akrpran RV. AV 'Even of (or, for) mortals Urvasīs (even mortal Urvasīs) have been fashioned' See Bloomfield, JAOS 20 183 pratisthe stho devate (MG devate dyāvāprthivī, ApMB devatānām) mā mā samtāptam HG ApMB MG 'You (a pair of shoes) are standing-places, deities (of the deities) mā no rakso abhi nad yātumāvatām (AV °māvat) RV AV The variation accompanies a change in the meaning of raksas (abstract in RV, but in AV used in its later concrete sense): 'Let not the injury of the sorcerous ones (the sorcerous ogre, raksas) get at us' apām sakhā (GB yomh) prathamajā riāvā (GB. riasya) RV GB Here the nom. of an adjective derivative varies with a gentive 'first-born, rta-full' or 'first-born of the rta'. GB quite naturally falls into the familiar rigmarole expression prathamajā riasya instead of the RV phrase, which is more recherché, so much so, indeed, that Grassmann was moved to suggest that riasya should be read for riāvā in the two places where the phrase occurs §441. In a different way the two variants result in the same meaning when the possessive genitive with an abstract noun varies with a nominative plus the nominative of a corresponding concrete, in predicate relationship.

yavāš cāyavāš cādhipataya āsan VS MS KS SB · yāvānām cāyāvānām cādhipatyam āsīt TS "The Y and A were overlords': 'the overlordship belonged to the Y and A' ta (MS ta,u) evādhīpataya āsan VS MS KS ŠB. teṣām ādhīpatyam āsīt TS 'These same were overlords' 'theirs was the overlordship' §442. In the remaining cases there is a more substantial difference of meaning between the two forms of the variant. Still fairly close to each other, and hence to be mentioned next, are a few cases in which the genitive depends upon a word which, in the other form, is a complementary subject or predicate, parallel with the nominative which replaces the genitive:

yaso bhagas ca mā vidat (MG. rişat, mss mostly rişak) PG. MG.: yaso bhagasya vindatu ArS. 'Let glory and fortune find me', PG., doubtless original. ArS. makes yaso object, and bhagas ca is then changed (with phonetic shift, VV 2 §189) to a gen: 'let him find glory of fortune'. The real sense, in spite of all this, is not very different.

parīmam yajamānam rāyo manuşyānām VS. SB: parīmam rāyas poşo yajamānam manuşyāh TS: parīmam yajamānam manuşyāh saha rāyas poṣeṇa prajayā ca vyayantām MS: parīmam rāyo manuşyam KS. Only the relations of VS and TS. concern us here (for MS. see §412, for KS §402). The former: 'riches (subject) of humans'. The latter: 'increase of riches (and) humans' (both subjects; §402).

āpah prajāpatir yajāo (ApŠ. prajāpateh prānā) yajāasya bheşajam asi (ApŠ. omits asi) KŠ ApŠ. 'Thou art the waters, Prajāpati, sacrifice, .': 'the waters are Prajāpati's life-breaths .' Here ApŠ substitutes a different word for the correlative nominative in its extensive reconstruction.

ahorātrayor vṛṣṭyā (VS. ahorātre ūrvaṣṭhīve, MS ahorātre ūrvaṣṭñve) bṛhadrathamtare ca me yajñena kalpetām (VS.† kalpantām) VS. TS. MS In all preceded by a long list of noms, parallel subjects of the verb. By a clearly secondary distortion (with phonetic aspects, VV 2 §§803, 840) TS allows a discordant phrase to intrude, changing the following word to a different one. Original: 'May the vrata, day and night, thighs and knees, the Bṛhat and Rathamtara sāmans, prosper for me thru the sacrifice.' TS.: 'May the vrata by the rain of day and night, the Bṛhat' etc.

$443. Such cases shade off into a rather miscellaneous group in which the genitive (possessive or vaguely descriptive) no longer depends on the nominative with which, in the other form of the variant, the other nominative (replacing the genitive) is somehow correlated. The only connecting link in this group is this: of two nominatives, correlative subjects or subject and predicate, in one form of the variant, one is replaced in the other form by a genitive dependent on some other word than the remaining nominative. Thus:

mitrāvarunau (TS KS °varunayor) dhruveṇa dharmanā VS TS MS KS SB.: [varunas tvā dhṛtavrato dhūpayatu (TA °vrata ādhūpayatu)] mitrāvarunau (TA °varunayor) dhru° dhar° MS. putaro nārāšansāh sannah (VSK. sādyamānah) VS. VSK: putaro nārāšansah KS: putrnām nārāšansah TS Soma is referred to, it is 'when settled, the Nārāšansa fathers' (VS VSK); 'the fathers, as Nārāšansa' (KS), 'Nārāšansa, as belonging to the fathers' (TS) All are banal rubbish without intelligent sense vāyuh pūtah pautrena VS. TS MS KS ŚB TB. vāyoh AV VS VSK MS ŚB Kauś The contexts are the same; pūtah applies to Soma, with which in the first variant (doubtless original) Vāyu is identified. 'Soma, (who is) Vāyu, purified by the strainer' The other reading looks like a rationalizing lect fac; it turns vāyuh into a gen, 'purified by Vāyu's strainer.'

§444. Sometimes this change of case-form seems to be due to formal attraction to the case of an adjoining word:

śwā no astv adıter (TS. KS ctr) upasthe TS MS KS AS adıter upasthe is a standard cadence (see e.g. RVRep 659), and upasthe without a dependent gen. is scarcely conceivable. The orig must have meant 'may she (the Visnupatnī referred to in a preceding pāda) be favorable to us in the lap of Adıtı'. In TS KS there is felt to be need of a specific name of the deity referred to by the preceding series of nom epithets; hence adıtır is substituted for adıter, by a sort of case attraction yena dhātā brhaspateh (SG °tsh) VSK AG (1 17 12a) SG: yena pūsā brhaspateh SMB GG ApMB HG. MG Followed by sndrasya cāvapac chirah; the ca here confirms the obvious secondariness of SG, which clearly has assimilated by haspateh to the case of dhātā.

mātā (MS mātur) mātari mātā MS KS. ApS. Preceded by pṛthiri prthivyām sīda, with which the first mātā doubtless goes in sense: 'Earth, sit on earth as mother, mother on mother' In MS.: 'Earth, sit on earth, mother on mother's mother' If MS. is original, the other form may have assimilated mātur to mātā; but anything is possible in such rigmarole.

cakşur yad eşām manasas ca satyam AV.: cakşuşa eşām manasas ca samdhau TS cakşuşa in TS.'s lect fac. may be partly due to formal assimilation to manasas dyumattamā supratīkasya sūnoh (AV. supratīkah sasūnuh) AV. VS TS. MS KS. ŠB. The gen. of the YV texts agrees with the preceding agneh In AV. (but not in Ppp, which agrees with the rest) a closer connection is sought with the following noms (tanūnapāt etc.), beginning a new sentence and also referring to Agni. See Whitney on 5 27. 1.

3 Independent nominative varying with dependent genitive

§445. As with other cases (§§32-8), so with the genitive, a nominative out of syntactic relation (generally as subject or predicate of a separate nominal sentence) may vary with another case in dependent relationship of any kind. Where the nominative occurs, it is generally, but not always, resumed by a genitive pronoun referring to it. Thus:

agner aham svişlakrto devayajyayäyüh pratişlhām gameyam KS: agneh svişlakrto'ham devayajyayäyüşmän yajñena pratişlhām gameyam TS: agnih svişlakrd yajñasya pratişlhā tasyāham devayajyayā yajñena pratişlhām gameyam MS. Note tasya in MS., resuming agnih.

agnīşomayor aham devayajyayā cakşuşmān (and, vṛtrahā) bhūyāsam TS ApS: agnīşomau vṛtrahaṇau tayor (MS. vṛtrahaṇāv agnīşomayor) aham devayajyayā vṛtrahā bhūyāsam KS. MS

devānām patnīr agnir grhapatır yajñasya mithunam (KS. °patir mıthunam yajamānasya) tayor aham deveyajyayā TS. KS: devānām patnīnām aham devayajyayā. MS whipti yā (and, nliptyā) brhaspate AV (both) In two near-by stanzas which are otherwise practically identical Whitney would emend nliptyā(s) to nlipti yā, but it is quite construable as partitive gen depending on aśniyāt of pāda c 'of the nlipti (cow) he shall not eat' The relative clause paraphrases the same sense The variation has phonetic aspects. VV 2 §791a

4 Transfer of epithet

§446. The usual group of variants due to 'transfer of epithet' (§14) appears here also We begin with examples where neither number nor gender, but only case, varies:

na vai śvetasyādhyācāre (AG śvetaś cābhyāgāre, HG śvetasyābhyācārena, MG śvetasyābhyācāre) AG PG HG ApMB MG Followed by ahir jaghāna (PG dadarša) kam (AG MG kim) cana Most texts 'In the domain of the white one (the serpent-demon) a serpent has killed no one' or the like AG (by a phonetic shift, VV 2 §188) makes śveta an epithet of ahir 'In the house (?) the white serpent has killed nothing' The original genitive is, strictly, no 'epithet' of any expressed word, so that the variant perhaps belongs in §448

adhvanām adhvapate śreṣṭhah svastyasyādhvanah (ApMB śreṣṭhasyādhvanah, MG† śraṣṭhyasya svastyasyādhvanah, see VV 2 §707) pāram aśīya AŠ ApMB MG. In AŠ śreṣṭhah is an epithet of the subject, in ApMB it becomes an epithet of adhvanah uprasya dhārayā kauh RV: uprah sa dhārayā sulah SV In RV uprasya is the human priest, SV transfers it to Soma (cf VV 2 $189).

phā sutasya matır na (AV mater tha) AV. SV AS SS In either reading the meaning is obscure, if there is no corruption, this much is certain, that matir must refer to the subject of phā, and mater to sutasya wprā wprasya brhato wpaścitah RV VS TS MS KS ŚB TA ŚvetU: wpro wprasya sahaso wpaścit AV In the original "The priests of and Ludwig as gen sg, the alternative would be to take it as nom pl with wprāh) In AV. the context is different, the pāda describes the goat that is being sacrificed: "The sage (was born from) the sage's (heat), acquainted with power' or the like.

visām kavim vispatīm mānusīnām (and, mānusīr isah) RV. (both) The gen goes with visām, the nom. with isah mahāns te mahato mahimā AV.: mahas te sato mahimā panasyate (SV.

- mahaś (TS MS. KS. mahī) cid yasya (TS. hy asya, KS devasya) mīdhuşo yavyā (KS † 'vayāh) RV. VS. VSK TS. MS KS ŚB. The adjective is transferred from yasya mīdhuşo to yavyā (avayāh)
- garbho yas te yazīnyah KS: yasyar (VSK. °yās) te yazīnyo garbhah VS. VSK ŠB.: yasyās te harito garbhah TS ApŚ The relative agrees in KS. with garbhas, elsewhere with te (the cow). Followed by:
- yasyaı (VSK. yasyā) yonır hıranyayî VS. VSK SB : yonır yas te hıranyayah KS. Same conditions
- śucih śukre ahany ojasīnā (MS ahann ojasīne, KS † śukro ahany ojasye, AS 'hany ojasīnām) TS. MS. KS. AS. If ojasīnām is not a mere corruption or misprint in the (imperfect) edition, it seems to be a gen pl fem. of a stem *ojasa, going with dišām in the preceding pāda
- maho gotrasya kṣayatı svarājah (AV.* °jā) RV. AV (both). In RV. svarājah is gen (from svarāj), epithet of (neut) gotrasya. AV, doubtless stumbling over the less familiar form, substitutes the nom. of svarājan, making it an epithet of the subject.
- asya prānād apānatī (AV.* MS *tah) RV. AV. SV VS. ArS TS MS. KS ŠB apānatī apparently goes with rocanā in the preceding pāda, as nom sg fem, apānatah with asya. See Oldenberg, RVNoten on 10. 189 2, and Whitney on AV. 6 31. 2
- mahām (SV. mahān) avīnām anu pūrvyah RV. SV. The adjective is transferred in SV. from avīnām to the subject
- imau te pakṣāv (VSK MS. KS pakṣā) ajarau patatrinau (VSK. TS† KS °nah) VS. VSK TS. MS. KS. SB: yau te pakṣāv ajarau patatrinau Kauś The nom agrees with pakṣau, the gen. with te. The variant is really phonetic, for the actual reading is patatrino, before a sonant: see VV 2 §732
- §448. Cases in which one or the other form of the variant word is in strictness not an 'epithet', but constitued independently (§15), are:

- justo vācaspataye (MS °tth, KB ŠŠ °teh, JB °tyuh) TS MS KB GB JB. AŠ ŠŠ Vait KŠ, See §428 Here is no variation of number or gender; the rest show change of one or the other.
- yayo rathah satyavartmarjurasmih AV: yo vām ratha rjurasmih satyadharmā TS. MS KS The relative is resumed in all texts (with slight anacolouthon except in AV.) by mitrāvaruna(u).
- agner apunann uśijo amrtyavah RV: agner akrnvann uśijo amrtyave MS.. devā akrnvann uśijo amartyave ApŚ In ApŚ devā(h), substituted for agner, goes with uśijo
- visvā devānām (TS visvāni devo) janimā vivakti AV. TS KS. 'He declares all the births of the gods' becomes in TS 'he, the god, declares all births'. Ppp visvām devā, looking perhaps a little in the direction of the TS reading—which however is certainly secondary.
- yaj (TS MS KS yasya) jātam jamtavyam (TS MS KS janamānam)
 ca kevalam AV TS MS KS Preceded in AV by yasyedam pradisi yad virocate: 'In whose direction is what is born and to be born'
 In the YV. texts yasya refers to the following agnim: 'whose is

- āvir bhuvad (ArS bhuvann) aruņīr yašasā goh (ArS gāvah) RV. ArS In RV goh (gen sg) depends on a noun (something like 'milk') understood with yašásā (adj), as Oldenberg shows, RVNoten on 4 1 16 In ArS it is attracted to arunīr, felt now as nom. pl.; the two words are interpreted as 'ruddy rays' The starting-point of the change is the ambīguous form arunīr, which in RV. is nom, sg

5 Miscellaneous

- §449. The remaining nominative-genitive variants are hardly classifiable. For the most part they concern rather radical reconstructions of very varied character. In the first two the 2d personal pronoun forms tvam and tava interchange, without essential difference of sense in the first at least
- tam u tvam (SV tava tyan) māyayāvadhīh RV. SV Preceded by yad dha tyam māyınam mṛgam tava, of course, goes with māyayā

'Thou hast entered into this spouseship with thy second husband who takes thy hand.' On the verb form of TA cf. VV 1 p 178 It is there suggested that the 3d person may be due to thought of forms with subject bhavān (bhavatī), which would be in effect 2d person (comm. glosses as a 2d person). If this be held too violent an assumption with tvam preceding as subject, the preceding pada may be taken as a separate sentence: 'thou belongest to a second husband who takes thy hand'

KS has no accents. The meaning of upasthā' is obscure. on AV. 12 1. 62 Whitney renders upasthā's te by 'standers upon thee', which is purely etymological: Ludwig and Bloomfield, 'thy laps', which would imply updsthas. Keith on TS renders 'the stay of the earth', implying that this phrase is equivalent to dhartri disam, the subject in the preceding pada. Whatever the meaning. in MS TS AS upasthāšānām goes with the preceding, while in KS āšā is to be taken either as a further enithet of dhartrī in the preceding, or as subject of an independent sentence

NOMINATIVE AND LOCATIVE

1. Independent nominative and dependent locative

§450. Variations between nominative and locative are fairly numerous, but quite miscellaneous. Except for the usual group of 'transfers of epithet', few of them fall into recognizable categories. A couple of cases occur in which a nominative of independent statement varies with a dependent locative, the first example is particularly simple and clear, in it the independent nominative is obviously secondary:

krte yonau (KS krto yonır) vapateha bizam (VS SB vijam) RV. AV. VS.

TS MS KS SB 'In the prepared womb scatter here the seed': 'the womb is prepared, scatter' etc nābhā prthwyāh samidhāne agnau (MS. KS samidhāno agnim, TS. samidhānam agnim) VS. TS MS. KS. SB. See §393.

(sise myddhvam nade myddhvam) agnau samkasuke ca yat (Ppp agnih samkusikas ca yah) AV. Ppp.: (āpo mā tasmāc chumbhantu) agneh samkasukāc ca yat (Ppp as before) AV. Ppp. On the interpretation of AV see §§433, 669 Whitney considers Ppp. the correct reading. The same sense must be intended in both: 'and (wipe off) on Agni S.'

§451. Once a locative of a noun varies with a nominative of a secondary adjective from the same noun, yielding the same meaning ('in the atmosphere, in the earth': 'atmospheric, earthly'):

antarıkşa uta vā prihıvyām AV.: yā antarikşa uta pārthivīr yāh TB. ApS: yā antarikşyā uta pārthivāsah (AG pārthivīr yāh) KS. AG. The ms of Ppp has āntarikşa uta pārthivā yāh, for the first word we may read antarikşa with Barret, or perhaps better āntarikṣā (adjective)

2 Phrase-inflection

§452. One case may be called an instance of 'phrase-inflection'; the pāda is repeated in (here three) different contexts, requiring change in the case-form:

sutāsa ındra gırvaṇah RV $\,$ 8 $\,$ 95 $\,$ 2b: suteşv ındra gırvanah RV $\,$ SV.

3 Case attraction

§453. A few variants may be grouped together in that the motive for the shift seems to have been a more or less mechanical assimilation of one word to the case of a neighboring word. Other instances, as usual, will be found among the cases of 'transfer of epithet' gahanam (SB. °nc) yad maksat RV VS. SB Vant. ApS. MS Preceded by dure cattaga chantsat "To him hidden afar may the hiding-place which he has reached be pleasing; 'may it be pleasing to him hidden in the distant hiding-place which he has reached Apparently SB assimilates to the case of dure. Remarkable is the divergence of SB from even VS as well as all other texts.

rūpam indre (MS indro) hiranyayam VS. MS TB The subjects in the original are Sarasvatī, Idū, and Bhūratī, who are to put rūpam hiranyayam upon Indra In MS. Indra is attracted to the case of the subject nouns and treated as a supplementary subject, no loc being expressed.

ilthā hi soma in made (SV. madah) RV SV AB. KB SB AA. AS SS Followed in RV SV by brahmā (SV °ma) cakāra vardhanam In RV the subject is brahmā alone, soma (= some) and made locs, in SV soma (= somah) and madah are coordinate subjects vardhamāno (TS °nam) mahān (TS MS maha) ā ca puṣkare (TS °ram) VS TS MS KS ŠB. The loc is clearly original; it is apparently to be construed with ā, 'on the lotus leaf', altho ā regularly follows a loc In TS both vardha° and puṣ° are made noms; this and the next pāda are now felt as addressed to the lotus leaf (see §837), undoubtedly the noms of the preceding half line have helped in the change—It is not clear how TS understands ā

§454. The following cases of simple transfer of epithet (§14) occur; in all but the first two there is change of number or gender, or both, as well as case.

 \bar{a} haryato arjune (SV °no) atta avyata RV SV In RV, the adjective agrees with atte, in SV. it is transferred to the subject, Soma

tatrāpi dahre (MahānU dahram) gaganam višokah (TA comm and Poona ed text with v. l °kam) TA MahānU [TAA 10 12 3, Poona ed , reads višokah in text and comm , the latter calmly refers it to brahma without explanation] In TA dahre goes with tatra, which refers back to dahram in the preceding 'in that small place' In MahānU dahram is an epithet of gaganam

- sarman (MS omans) te syāma (VS lava syāma sarmans, TS. tava syām sarman) trwarūtha udbhau (TS udbhat) VS TS MS. KS TA. In TS. udbhat is an epithet of the subject; in the others udbhau is loc with sarman (Comm on VS understands it as from a stem ud-bhi! He interprets it, however, as if from ud-bhū The stem is of course udbhu, declined as a short u stem) In all but TS. trivarūtha stands for othe and goes with sarman In TS it might also be so interpreted, but pp othah, nom, and so Keith
- tvam †samudram prathamo vi dhārayaḥ (SV samudrah prathame vidharman) RV SV See §402, end.
- asūrte (MS KS °tā, KapS °tāh) sūrte rajası nişatte (MS °tā, KS na sattā) RV. VS MS KS KapS N · asūrtā sūrtā rajaso vimāne TS. See Oldenberg, Prol 313, and RVNoten on 10 82 4 Certainly both asūrte and sūrte, and perhaps also nişatte, go with rajasi; asūrtā is transferred to bhūtāni, asūrtāh to rṣayah, either niṣattā or °tāh is possible, referring to either of these nouns
- priyo (TB ApS priye) devānām parame janıtre (AV. TA sadhasthe) RV. AV SV. KS TB TA ApS MS. Addressed to the spirit of the dead man; edhi precedes The original priyo agrees with the subject, priye with janitre
- dhruvaidhi posyā (PG. †posye) mayi RVKh SG PG ApMB 'Be thou steadfast with me, prosperous' We take posye as loc with mayi, contrary to Stenzler and Oldenberg, who understand it as voc. fem addressed to the bride (which is also possible; in that case this variant would belong in §334)
- arepasah sacetasah (etc.) svasare manyumattamāś (SV. ApŚ manyumantaś) cite goh (SV. citā goh, ApŚ cidākoh) AV SV. ApŚ. MŚ. A very obscure verse, in AV. cite must clearly go with svasare, in SV. with arepasah etc. (here nom masc., tho in AV. apparently acc. fem.) On ApŚ see VV 2 §§47, 61.
- wwrttacakrā āsīnāh HG ApMB (epithets of prajāh): avimuktacakra (v 1 °rā) āsīran PG · nivislacakrāsau AG (here an independent sentence, with nadī understood; in Conc under somo no) If °cakra is the true reading of PG, it may be a voc fem agreeing with the name of a river to be supplied for the following asau (so Oldenberg), or it may be loc with the following tīre.
- viève devā anšuşu nyuptah (VSK nyupyamāneşu) VS VSK 'He (soma) is the All-gods, when he is offered in the ansus (when the ansus are offered)' Reference is made to the graha called ansu (SB. 4 6 1. 1 ff). Probably VSK is original

- such sukre ahany ojasīnā (MS ahann ojasīne, KS †sukro ahany ojasye, AS 'hany ojasīnām) TS MS KS AS ojasīnā is nom fem agreeing with ugrā (se dik) of the preceding, ojasīne and 'sye go with ahann (ahany) sukre goes with the latter; sukro of KS (and presumably such which in the others goes with ugrā) apparently goes with undra of the following (indrādhipatyaih piptāt)
- samsrşįāsu yutsv indro gaņesu MS . samsrasįā sa yudha indro ganena RV AV SV VS TS KS See §548
- §455. The rest of the cases grouped under the heading 'transfer of epithet' can be so described only by stretching the term (§15) We find first a group in which an independent locative noun, not the epithet of anything else, is changed into a nominative, becoming then an epithet of the subject The nom seems to be always secondary in this group All but the first few show shift of number or gender as well as case.
- urukşayāh saganā mānuṣāsah (TS °ṣeṣu) AV TS We take it that TS is original 'widely dwelling with their troops among men'. The AV assimilates to the preceding noms, making mān' an epithet of the subject, the Maruts
- na yonā (TS. yonāv, KS yonr) uṣāsānaktā (KS 'naktāgneh) VS TS MS. KS The verse deals with Agni 'Dawn and night, as in his native place' In KS yoni is made to agree with uṣāsānaktā, called 'the native place' of Agni
- sūr ası suvanasya retah (MS retā ışṭakā svargo lokah) MS ApŚ sūr ası svar asīṣṭakā svarge loke KS 'Thou art the brick, the world of heaven (in the world.)' Probably KS. 18 orig, and MS has attracted to the case of ıṣṭakā
- ayam sahasram ā no drše kavīnām matir jyotir udharman AV · ayam sahasram ānavo dršah kavīnām matir jyotir udharma (ApŠ °mā) SV. ApŠ MŠ Mystically obscure in both versions, but we believe AV comes closer to the orig (cf VV 2 §833) The nom of SV etc. may be due to attraction into agreement with the subject
- vājinam tvā vājino 'vanayāmah (MS vājiny avanayāmi) MS TA ApŠ 'Thee, the whey, we, the strong ones, pour' 'thee, the whey, I pour into the strong (mahāvīra-vessel) 'MS is doubtless orig

- SB TB ApS. Preceded by svair dakşair (TB. ApS sve dakşe) dakşapiteha sīda The loc, 'in the favor of the gods', is made an epithet of the subject, 'agreeable to the gods' Caland adopts summe in ApS, but this needlessly violates the clear intent of the Tait school
- samvešane (noun, 'at entrance') tanvaš (AV. tanvā) cārur edhi RV. AV.: samvešanas (epithet of subject, understood as 'entering'?) tanvai (tanve) cārur edhi SV. KS TB. TA. ApŠ. MŠ
- yāh parastāt rocane (MS. °nāh) sūryasya TS. MS: yā rocane parastāt sūryasya RV VS. KS ŠB 'Which, in the light-space beyond the sun': in MS., 'which bright ones, beyond the sun.' Refers to waters
- yyotırjarāyū rajaso vimāne (KS °nah) RV. VS. TS. MS KS ŠB N. Preceded by ayam venas codayat prsnigarbhāḥ. KS. is secondary but by no means 'absurd' (Keith on TS); it takes the word as an epithet of the subject, meaning 'traverser' or the like, a sense familiar in RV (see e g 3. 26. 7). No need to emend KS with Raghu Vira KapS. p. 27, n. 2, Oertel 5.
- §456. In a few cases, contrariwise, an original nom. epithet is changed in a secondary version to an independent locative:
- pūrvam devebhyo amṛtasya nābhiḥ (ArS nāma, TA. TU. NrpU nābhāyi) ArS TB TA. TU NrpU N Preceded by aham asmi prathamojā rtasya The nom is original: 'I am the nave of immortality.'
 The loc is rationalizing.
- ukṣā samudro (MS. KS °dre) aruṇah (RV. aruṣah) suparṇah RV. VS TS. MS KS ŚB In the original samudra is an epithet of the sun This seems quite recherché to the redactors of MS KS., which understand it of the real ocean; the loc is rationalizing and secondary but perfectly sensible (the verb āviveša follows), and by no means to be described as a 'mere blunder' (Keith on TS)
- āpir no bodhi sadhamādyo (SV. °dye) vrdhe RV. SV. In RV the word is an epithet of āpir: 'be our friend, convivial, unto increase' In SV it may be felt as agreeing with vrdhe, conceived as loc; but Benfey takes it as an independent noun, = sadhamāde, 'in dem Göttermahl'

5 Miscellaneous

§457. The remaining nom.-loc variants seem hardly capable of classification, the many of them are interesting individually: pumān putro jāyatām (ApMB ŚG dhīyatām) garbho (ŚG garbhe) antah

- HG SG. ApMB The double meaning of garbha, 'womb' and 'embryo', is responsible for this change Similarly:

 The latter: 'he (the child) flourishes unharmed at all times in the house' TS corrupt; wive translatable only as nom sg, cf §731;

ACCUSATIVE AND INSTRUMENTAL

1 Associative instrumental complementary accusative

§459. Among variations of the accusative and instrumental we find first a group of cases in which an associative instrumental varies with an accusative which is parallel with and complementary to another accusative. Such variants occur also between the instrumental and other cases (§$55-7). The meaning is virtually the same. Thus:

asthi majjānam māsaraih (MS °ram) VS MS KS. TB Followed by kāi otarena dadhato gavām tvaci 'Putting upon the cattle's hide his (soma's) bone and marrow, with (the drink) māsara and the straining-cloth' In MS there is no real difference of meaning, tho māsara is there made an additional direct object, parallel with asthi and majjānam tapūnsy (MS tapobhir) agne juhvā patamgān RV VS TS MS. KS Followed by asamdīto vi sīja visvag ulkāh The original correlates tapūnsy, patamgān and ulkāh as objects of vi sīja MS substitutes tapobhir for the first, probably as an associative instr, tho it might also be one of means, correlated with juhvā.

rūpair apriišad (TB * rūpāni pinšan) bhuvanāni nišvā RV. AV. VS MS KS TB (both) N 'He shaped all beings along with their forms' 'shaping all forms and beings' svāhā vanaspatīm prīyam pātho na bhesajam (MS °jaīh).

svāhā somam indriyam (MS 'yaih); svähägnım na bheşajam (MS 'janh), all VS. MS TB. The words hotā yakşad, 'let the hotar worship', are understood with all, and it seems that the instrs of MS must be understood as associative Without the comparison of the two forms of the variant, we might be tempted to interpret them differently, as instrs. of means or cause ('with' or 'by reason of' .)

hastyaśvāśvatarai rathaih RVKh Conc (Aufr)· hastyaśvādigave ratham RVKh Scheft: bahvaśvājagavedakam MG

- sarvāś (ApMB HG. tısraś) ca rāyabāndhavīh (PG °vaih, MG °vyah, ApMB °bandhavīh, HG °bandhavaih) ApMB HG AG ŚG†PG.
 MG (Conc puts prayāh with the second pāda in PG MG) The preceding verb is apa yahi in all but the plainly corrupt MG (see Knauer's note) The instrs are associative, equivalent to correlative objects
- māsarena parisrutā (TB. parislītā, KS parisrutam) VS MS KS TB Preceded by gobhir na somam asvinā, and followed by sam adhātām sarasvatyā, svāhendre sutam madhu Parisrut is the name of a kind of liquor, and is one of a series of gifts made by the Asvins to Indra Some (somam, sutam, madhu) are made direct objects in all, others associative instrs; parisrut is treated in both ways in different texts In TB pariskītā must be meant as nom dual with asvinā; this is a reminiscence of māsarena pariskītāh (so VS TB, in MS parisrutā), which shortly precedes in the text
- vn kumāram jarāyunā AV: vn garbham ca jarāyu ca TS KS The verb, continued from pāda a, is bhinadmi 'the child with (that is, here, 'from') the afterbirth'. 'the embryo and the afterbirth (I separate)'
- idam aham rakşo 'bhı (MS * rakşobhıh) sam dahāmı (MS KS MŚ sam ūhāmı) TS MS (bis) KS MŚ The instroccurs in the brāhmana passage corresponding to the mantra rakşo 'bhı, it seems as if this latter must be intended both times (VV 2 §383). Yet it is strange that, to judge from the editor's silence, there is no v l At a pinch rakşobhıh could be associative, with idam felt as the direct object
- ganān me mā vi tūrsah (MŚ °sat, Vait vy arīrisah) TS Vait MŚ · ganair mā mā vi tūrsata MS 'Cause not my troops (me with my troops) to thirst.'
- §460. Peculiar are the following two cases; it seems doubtful whether the acc in them is of quite the same character as in the preceding.
- sam mā srjāmy adbhir (TS. apa) osadhībhih VS TS MS KS If TS means 'I unite myself, [unite] the waters, with the plants,' as it seems to on its face, it is rather bathetic. Keith, both here and in the following, seems to understand apah as a secondary acc., as if of goal (cf the use of the locative in §462), at least he renders 'I united [unite?] myself with waters and plants', which is the meaning of VS. MS KS Is it, literally, 'I unite myself unto waters, with plants'? Cf §59
- sam tvā nahyāmy adbhir (TS apa) oşadhībhih TS MS MG As prec §461. Sometimes, especially where a verb of joining occurs in the phrase, there is an interchange of acc. with instr. and of instr. with acc, the two case-forms changing places:

tvastā rūpena samanaktu yajnam AS.: tvastā rūpāni samanaktu yajnaih SB TB SS. KS 'Let Tvastar unite the sacrifice with form' or 'forms with sacrifices'

§462. In at least two such cases a locative appears to be involved. In the first it, rather than the instr, varies with the one acc. after a verb of joining, while the other variant has instr. plus acc:

angāny ālman (MS angair ālmānam) bhişajā tad asvinā VS. MS. KS.

TB. "The physician Asvins joined his limbs upon his body (self)', or '. his body with his limbs.' MS. is evidently influenced by the following pada: ātmānam angaih samadhāt sarasvatī (in all).

§463. In the other, where there is no verb of joining, the locative nevertheless is bracketed with the acc. in one form, while in the other we have acc. plus instr.:

samudra yasya rasām id āhuh AV.: yasya samudram (MS. KS. Ppp. samudram yasya) rasayā sahāhuh RV. Ppp VS. TS MS KS. 'Whose, they say, is the ocean, together with the (stream) Rasā.' AV as it stands would mean '. the Rasā in the ocean', which may be defended; but note that the meter needs an extra syllable, which the instr. samudrena would furnish. If we dared emend AV. thus, we should have a double interchange exactly like that of §461.

2. Other accs and instrs, substantially equivalent

$464. The associative instrumental, as we have seen, may in theory vary with any other case as a correlative to another form in that case. We now come to other variants in which, in one way or another, an acc and an instr. may be nearly or quite equivalent in meaning. We here approach a sphere in which the uses of these two cases converge more specifically, to be sure, among the variants last quoted, especially those containing expressions of joining two entities, we already entered a more restricted region where we should scarcely expect to find, normally, other cases than these two (altho curiously we found the locative also cropping up).

$465. We now take up, first, some cases in which what is sometimes called a 'cognate' or 'inner' accusative varies with an instrumental of means or manner, both meaning much the same thing. The type is exemplified by such expressions as 'sing songs' or 'sing with songs', 'walk a path' or 'walk on (in Sanskrit, 'by') a path'. Thus: ghrienārkam abhy arcanti vatsam AV.: tam arkair abhy arcanti vatsam

- TB 'They sing with ghee a song unto the young' 'they sing with songs unto the young'
- yam putrına ākramanie visokāh AB.. yenākramanie putrıno (ye) visokāh ŠŠ Preceded by eşa panihā urugāyah susevah (ŠŠ vitato devayānah) '(The path) which they tread' or 'by which they tread' tantum tatam peśasā samvayantī VS peśasvatī tantunā samvayantī (KS TB samvyayantī) MS KS TB Dawn and Night are referred to as 'weaving a thread' or 'weaving (rolling up) with a thread.'

- yena tvābadhnāt (KŚ mā°, TS ApMB * yam abadhnīta, MŚ MG yaj jagrantha) savītā suševah (AV °vāh, TS ApMB * suketah, MŚ MG satyadharmā) RV AV TS MŚ KŚ ApMB (bis) MG '(the bond) with which he bound thee 'or 'which he bound.' Note that the 'inner' acc is not used with the acc of the person
- §466. Quite close to the preceding are cases of a sort of 'resultative' accusative, varying with an instrumental, of the offering made, after forms of roots hu and yaj
- tasmā indrāya sutam ā juhota (TB. ApŚ juhomi) VS VSK MS KS $B TB ApŚ MŚ.. tasmā indrāya havişā (TB havir ā) juhota MS TB 'Offer (with) the drink (oblation) to Indra here'
- srucājyāni juhvatah AV srucājyena juhvatah TB (so Poona ed for the corrupt srucānyena juhvata of Bibl Ind ed) 'Offering (with) ghee with a spoon' Preceded by medasvatā yajamānāh, the instremedasvatā (which because of gender cannot agree with srucā, and seems to need a noun) may have caused the change to ājyena, which we believe is clearly secondary
- §467. With a verb of motion an acc of goal is a very natural construction. If however there is contained in the verb also the notion of joining, that is if it means something like 'go to join', an instrumental is equally admissible.
- marya wa yuvatibhih sam arşatı (AV wa yoşāh sam arşase) RV AV SV 'He rushes as a male to join the maidens', RV (Grassmann, 'mit jemand eilend zusammenkommen') The AV comm reads yoşā, instr, and Whitney calls the construction with yoṣāh 'lame', which seems to us unjust The acc of goal is surely quite natural, indeed with this verb the instr strikes us as more recherché, tho comprehensible (suggested by the associative idea in sam)
- sunam kīnāšā abhi (AV. anu) yantu (MS kīnāšo abhy etu) vāhaih (AV TS vāhān) RV AV VS TS MS KS SB 'Prosperously let the plowmen (plowman) go along with (after) the draft-animals'
- trayo gharmā anu reta āguh AV : trayo gharmāso anu jyotişāguh (MS

KS. retasāguh) TS MS. KS ApMB. 'Three cauldrons have followed (with) the seed (light)' In a mystical passage; the real meaning is obscure achāyam eti savasā ghṛtena (AV. ghṛtā cit) AV. Ppp. VS MS. TS: achāyam yanti savasā ghṛtācīh KS. In the sequel, as we have shown §399, both AV and KS seem to be secondary. In VV 2 §824 we have treated AV ghṛtā cit as secondary to KS. ghṛtācīh. We now think, however, that ghṛtā cit may well be the original reading: here comes (Agni) with might unto the ghees (offerings)' It is perhaps easiest on this basis to explain both ghṛtācīh (agreeing with sruco which is made the subject in KS, 'the ghee-filled ladles,' see §403) and ghṛtena, which would be at least partly due to formassimilation to the case of savasā. It would be harder to understand the change from either of these to ghṛtā cit, a lectio difficilior.

§468. To these may be appended the following, in which the verb is not one of motion but one of speech, we may however remember that such verbs in Sanskrit have constructions parallel to verbs of motion, taking an acc of the goal of speech. In this variant that case varies with an associative instr, if the reading is acceptable:

grāvā vaded (KS Conc with v. l grāvāvādīd) abhi somasyānšum (ApS. °śunā) KS ApS Followed by indram (KS. ed. endram, Conc. with v l indram) śikṣemendunā sutena Caland assumes the KS reading for ApS: 'may the pressing-stone cry out in greeting to the shoot of soma, may we present Indra with the pressed drink' But it seems that the instr can stand: 'may the pressing-stone cry out along with the shoot of soma,' etc

§469. Other instances, in which the associative idea of 'joining' is hardly felt in the mstr, which nevertheless interchanges with an acc, are: devar uktā (Ppp sṛṣṭā, KS nuttā, ApŚ MŚ nyuptā) vyasarpo mahitvam (Ppp KS ApŚ MŚ °tvā) AV Ppp KS ApŚ MŚ In AV., 'thou didst expand unto might' In the others, with quasi-adverbial instr., 'thou didst expand with might (mightily)' ye †apraihetām (AV ArS °thām) amītebhīr ojobhīh (AV. amītā yojanām, ArS amītam abhī yojanam) AV. ArS TS MS KS 'Who have spread out unto unmeasured leagues': 'who have spread out with unmeasured strengths' The change in the noun is connected with the change of case Add to VV 1 §331 pra rādhasā (SV rādhānsı) codayāte (SV °yate) mahitvanā RV SV.

'Let him promote (he promotes) us with favor (unto favors), with might,' or, SV might mean 'he sends favors unto us with might'

- See Oldenberg, Proleg. 287 f., against Grassmann's suggestion that SV. is original.
- pra śmaśru (SV. śmaśrubhir) dodhuvad ürdhvathā bhūt (SV. °dhā bhuvat) RV. SV. 'Shaking (with) his beard.'
- sa virājam (KS. °jā) pary eti (MS. etu, KS pari yāti) prajānan TS MS KS. He goes about knowing majesty': 'he goes about with majesty, intelligent' or 'intelligent with majesty'. The VS parallel has sanemi rājā pari yāti vidvān, which is evidently based on a misunderstanding of KS., taking virājā as nominative
- aham (AB. AS. idam) tad (MS tam) asya manasā šivena (MS * ghṛtena) VS. MS (bis) KS. AB. SB. TB. AS. ApS · tenāham adya manasā sutasya KS. The contexts are the same; both are followed by somam rājānam iha bhakṣayāmi. The pronouns tad (tam, tena) refer back to the preceding '(what is left over of the juicy draft, of which Indra drank mightily,) that (with that) of him with auspicious mind—I here partake of King Soma 'KS tena seems to be a rationalizing reading, avoiding the harshness of tad followed by somam, both really referring to the same thing. For a similar reason MS changes tad to tam, to agree with somam
- [vanema pūrvīr aryo manīṣāh (p.p. °ṣā) RV. The sp. has manīṣā agmh , implying manīṣāh, which is vigorously defended by Oldenberg Proleg. 385, SBE 46 71, RVNoten on 1 70 1: 'may we, the poor, succeed in many pious thoughts' The pp must understand an instr.; it is followed by Geldner Ved. St. 3 87, 89]
- 3. Acc. of bahuvrīhis: instr of karmadhārayas (or separate instr)
- §470. The nature of the instr is such that in a karmadhāraya opd it may express the same idea which may be elsewhere expressed by a bahuvrihi opd agreeing with a noun, which might in theory be in any case at all. We found above (§413) such variations between instr and nom, forms; here we record one of instr. and acc, as well as another somewhat similar case in which instead of the instr karmadhāraya we have the opd broken up into its parts, an adjective (acc.) with dependent instrumental:
- rākām aham suhavām (AV. °vā) sustutī huve RV AV TS MS KS SMB ApMB. N. Comm on AV. and Ppp read °vām; if °vā can stand, it has been attracted to the case of sustutī 'I call upon Rākā of good call (with good call), with fair praise.'
- adhrstam dhrsnvojasam (SV. dhrsnum ojasā) RV AV SV. Epithets of Indra; 'endowed with resistless might' or 'resistless with might.' The meaning is practically identical Cf. VV 2 §818

4 Adverbial accusatives and instrumentals

- §471. The adverbial accusative, called 'accusative of specification', is precisely equivalent to the instrumental of the same meaning, and varies with it sometimes without difference of meaning:
- juhūr, upabhṛd, dhruvāsi ghṛtācī nāmnā TS (intending juhūr asi ghṛtācī nāmnā, upabhṛd asi , etc.): ghṛtācy asy upabhṛn nāmnā (VSK nāma) VS. VSK. ŚB. (also with dhruvā and juhūr for upabhṛd): juhūr asi ghṛtācī nāmnā TB.: dyaur asi janmanā juhūr nāma. MS. (also with pṛthivy dhruvā . , and antarikṣam. upabhṛn)
- pra hansāsas trpalam (SV. Jā) manyum (SV. vagnum) acha RV. SV The RV trpalam is apparently an adverb, 'joyfully'. In SV. if the pp is correct it must also be considered an (instr.) adverb (but trpalāh, 'joyful,' n. pl adjective, may be intended by the sp.).

§472. In other cases only one of the varying case forms is adverbial, while the other has various non-adverbial constructions:

- yad vo 'śuddhāh (VSK † °dhah) parā jaghnur (VSK. jaghānantad) ıdam vas tac chundhāmi VS. VSK. SB.: yad aśuddhah parā jaghāna tad va etena śundhantām KS In the latter etena is hardly adverbial: 'by this (procedure).' In VS. etc it seems to be represented by ıdam, which is apparently an out-and-out adverb: 'Whatever of yours the impure have (has) defiled, that here do I now (idam) purify': 'whatever the impure has defiled, as to that for you thru this let them purify themselves (or, let them purify that for you thru this).' In MS yad vo 'śuddha ālebhe tañ śundhadhvam there is no such pronoun.
- yas te rājan varuna deveşu pāšas tam ta etenāvayaje (KS. ta etad avayaje)
 MS. KS. In KS. etad is a pure adverb: 'I now (or, here) sacrifice that (fetter) of thine away.' In MS etena (as in the preceding) means 'by this (rite).' See also the similar entries surrounding this in the Conc, and those beginning yas te deva varuna, which occur in TB. and have etena
- priyena dhāmnā (TS. TB. ApŚ nāmnā, VSK. nāma) priyam sada āsīda (VSK TS TB ApŚ.* priye sadasi sīda) VS. VSK. TS. ŚB. TB. ApŚ. (bis) sedam priyena dhāmnā priyam sada †āsīda (VSK priyena nāma priye sadasi sīda) VS VSK. ŚB. In TS etc. texts priyena nāmnā = 'with thy dear name', associative instr. Conc. suggests reading nāmnā in VSK., but this is unnecessary; 'with that which is dear by name' is good Vedic thought.
- yad aham dhanena prapanans carāmi ApMB.: yad vo devāh prapanam carāma HG: yena dhanena prapanam carāmi AV. yad is used as a conjunction; yena with dhanena.

5. Case attraction

§473. We come now to cases in which there is a more pronounced reinterpretation of the variant passage, and first to instances in which the change seems to be due to more or less external attraction to the case-form of an adjoining word (a motive which, as we have seen, is frequently perceptible in the variants listed above)

vyacış|ham annaı (TS MS KS annam) rabhasam dṛtānam (TS † KS. vidānam) RV. VS. TS MS KS ŚB In the original annaıh is instr. of means with either vyacış|ham or rabhasam, which refer to Agni: 'broadly extended by food, impetuous, beautiful' In TS MS KS it seems to be mechanically assimilated to the case of these adjectives, becoming thus a complementary object along with agnim of pāda a Keith takes annam as object of vidānam; but the position seems to be against this, and certainly in MS no such construction is possible

havişā yajña (TB yajñam) indriyam (VS °yaih) VS MS KS TB Preceded by tam indram paśavah sacā, aśvinobhā sarasvatī, dadhānā abhyanūṣata In most texts indriyam is a collateral object:

' (praised Indra), his heroism, with oblation, at the sacrifice' In VS it is attracted to the case of haviṣā: ' with oblation, at the sacrifice, for his heroic deeds' In TB. in a similar way the loc yajñe is attracted to the case of indriyam '(praised Indra) with oblation, (praised) the sacrifice, his heroism' In such ritualistic rigmarole it makes little difference how the words are construed; this is a striking example, and proves little about the use of cases, but much about ritualistic psychology and style

agner jihvām abhi (MS jihvābhi, p p jihvām, abhi, AV. KS. jihvayābhi)
†gṛṇātam (AV. gṛṇata) AV VS TS MS KS Preceded by dawyā (AV. dawā) hotārā (AV. °ra) ūrdhvam (KS hotārordhvam imam, MS ūrdhvam imam) adhvaram nah The instr of AV KS is original:
'greet our high oblation with the tongue of Agmi' In the others the preceding accs have attracted jihvayā into their case: 'greet the tongue of Agmi, our high oblation' On MS see §174

6 Other miscellaneous variants

§474. The rest contain miscellaneous reinterpretations, sometimes accompanied by rather radical reconstructions of the material: ndhes tvam asmākam nāma (AB AS nāmnā) MS KS AB TA. AS SS Preceded by vidhema te nāma, in AB AS the words dyām gacha are added, and with this phrase the instr. is construed. 'Let us

- reverence thy name; do thou reverence our name': (in AB. AS.)
 '..do thou do reverence, with our name go to heaven'
- taved u stomain (SV. stomais) ciketa RV. AV. SV. The root cit governs either acc. or gen., so that it is permissible for SV. to reinterpret tava (originally possessive) as object of ciketa 'I have thought only on thy praises: 'I have thought only on thee with praises.'
- cakşuś cư sūrye sacā RV.: cakşuşā sūryam drśe SV. In RV. cakşuś is governed by ā dade of the preceding: 'he unites our eye to the sun,' cf. Bergaigne, Rel. véd. 1. 184. The SV. has a lect. fac.: 'that we may see the sun with our eye.'
- pratiprasthātah pašunehi KS. ApS.: pratiprasthātah pašum upakalpayasva MS. 'Come with the cow': 'bring the cow near.' Change of verb.
- yajñam yad yajñavāhasah AV.: yajñair vā (TB. vo) yajñavāhasah RV. TS TB. The context of RV. TS. is wholly different from that of AV. TB. In RV. TS followed by viprasya vā matīnām, marutah sīnutā havam; for the interpretation see Oldenberg, RVNoten on 1 86.2. In AV. TB. followed by šikṣanto nopa (TB. āšikṣanto na) šekima AV. makes yajñam object: 'in so far as we, O sacrifice-bearers, desiring to effect the sacrifice, have not been able to effect it' TB is variously interpreted; the comm. is worthless To us it seems to mean, if anything: 'seeking power by sacrifice to you, O sacrifice-bearers, we have not succeeded.' But the real explanation is that TB., in repeating the AV. stanza, has contaminated it with the similar pāda from a totally different context, which is remembered from RV., or more likely from TS
- stomair (gıro) vardhanty atrayah, gīrbhih (girah) sumbhanty atrayah RV. (both). 'The Atris increase (the god) with praises, the Atris decorate (him) with songs': 'the Atris increase songs (for the god), ... decorate (i e fashion) songs (for him).' The first is preceded by an acc referring to the god, the second by a dat
- dwyam suparnam vāyasam (AV. payasam, VS. TS.* KS ŠB. vayasā, TS.* MS vayasam) brhantam RV. AV. VS. TS. (bis) MS. KS. ŠB. AŠ. Suparn. The original vāyasam 'bird' is changed into the instr. vayasā 'with strength', from a wholly different stem.
- pra tad nşnu (nşnuh, vişnus) stavate vīryena (AV. vīryān, TB. ApS. vīryāya) RV. AV. VS. MS. KS. SB. TB. AS. ApS. NṛpU. The original means: 'Viṣnu is praised here for his deed of heroism', stavate having passive force. In AV, unless pra stavate is understood in its later sense of 'begins' (which seems unlikely), it must apparently be taken with active force. 'V. here praises his (own) heroic deeds' Instead of this foolish perversion, TB ApS. have another one, with a dative of result: 'V is praised unto (so as to perform) heroism'. Cf §558 ghrtena tvam tanvam (TS tanuvo) vardhayasva RV. VS TS MS SB ApS MS N: ghrtasyāgac tanvā sam bhava KS MS Kaus MG Parallels rather than true variants, tho the contexts are in some texts the same nīcād uccā svadhayābhi pra tasthau Ppp TS KS: nīcair uccaih svadhā abhi pra tasthau AV The meaning of the always troublesome word svadhā is doubly doubtful in this obscure verse of an obscure AV. svadhāh is generally taken as acc: he set forth unto the sacrificial drinks (? of gharmam of the preceding verse)' The others: 'he set forth according to his own will (?)' Bloomfield in a note suggests that svadhā may be nom sg in spite of the sandhi. which in more than one connexion is problematic Macdonell. Ved Gr. 251, notes that this word, originally apparently a stem in radical \bar{a} , sometimes appears in the nom significant sin the p p. but with hiatus in the s p. and refers to RPr 2 29 10 13 teaches the sandhi svadhā ası If nom, the word would mean here '(the first-born's) will set forth ' The variant may be partly phonetic in character, it suggests the use of y as Hiatustilger' (VV 2 §§338 ff: this might have been mentioned in §342) msvā āsāh pramuācan mānuşīr bhiyah VS TS: msvā (MS vy) amīvāh pramuācan mānusībhih (KS 'sebhyah, MS 'sānām) AV. MS KS See §573 The VS TS reading has all the earmarks of a lect fac, with mānuṣīr understand līṣṭīs. 'freeing men from fear'. Cf VV 2 §§783, 832 udagrābhasya namayan vadhasnath (SV *snum) RV SV There seems to be no object for namayan in RV, SV feels it necessary to specify who is 'brought low', and makes it 'the weapon-bearer', doubtless thinking vaguely of demoniac enemies dame-dame suştutır ('tyā, 'tīr, 'tī) vām ıyānā (vāvṛdhānā, 'nau), see §413 The instr is clearly original, acc secondary.

[mā me 'vān nābhim atigāh TS KS MS · mām evā gnābhir abhigāh Vait Read in Vait mā me 'vāg nābhim]

7 Phrase inflection

§475. We find a single case which seems to belong in this group (§§21-2):

tuvidyumna yasasvatah (RV.* °vatā) RV (both) AV. See RVRep. on 1.96.

8. Transfer of epithet

- §476. Of the instances of transfer of epithet (§14) causing a shift between acc. and instr., all but the first involve change of number or gender, or both, as well as case:
- tha tvā goparīnasā (SV. °sam) RV AV SV. Followed by mahe mandantu rādhase. 'Here thee with (soma-juice, supplying sutena with Grassmann) rich in milk': 'here thee rich in milk'. Oldenberg suggests as an alternative goparīnasāh (sc. somāh), nom. pl., implying that RV pp is incorrect
- yam nirmanthato aświnā RV. ApMB. HG. MG: yābhyām nirmanthatām aświnau devau SB. BrhU. Preceded by hiranyayī aranī, and followed by tam te garbham havāmahe (dadhāmahe). In the first yam refers to garbham, in the latter yābhyām to aranī.
- pathā madhumatā bharan (MS. madhumad ābharan) VS. MS. TB. Followed by asvinendrāya vīryam The adjective goes alternatively with pathā or vīryam.
- yebhir vācam višvarūpebhir (TB °rūpām) avyayan (TB. samavyayat) KS. TB The adjective is transferred from yebhir (TB comm yaih karmakausalaih) to vācam
- ava bādhe prtanyauh (ApŚ. °tā) MS. ApŚ. And others, see Conc Preceded by undrena manyunā yujā In MS prt° means 'enemies'; in ApŚ. '(friendly) champion', agreeing with indrena. Caland translates the MS reading without comment; we see no reason to abandon the text of ApŚ, tho it is of course secondary and based on MS. For prtanyau with Indra as subject and a hostile object of. RV. 1. 54 4 The next following word in both is ghnatā, agreeing with indrena.
- yayāsisā dampatī vāmam asnutah AV: yam āsirā dampatī vāmam asnutah TS.: yad āsīrdā dampatī vāmam asnutah VS. The original yayā is transferred to agree with vāmam; on the gender-change of §809.
- abht tvādhām sahīyasā RV. ApMB.: upa te 'dhām sahīyasīm AV Preceded by upa (AV abht) te 'dhām sahamānām 'I have laid under (AV. over) thee the strong (plant), I have covered thee with the stronger (thing; AV I have laid under thee the stronger [plant])' The instr. in the original does not go with the plant, as the gender shows (§808); by a natural shift it is transferred to it in AV.
 - §477. There are also a couple of instances of the type described in §15,

240 YEDIC VARIANTS III: NOUN AND PRONOUN INFLECTION

in which a word which in the original is not properly an 'epithet' at all is altered in form so as to become a true 'epithet' of another entity: hastacyutī (SV. °cyutam) janayanta (SV.† °yata) praśastam RV. SV. KS. KB. ApŚ. MŚ. N. The original form is a Vedic instr., 'by handmotion'; like the parallel dīdhutībhiḥ in the preceding, it goes with janayanta, whose object, Agni, is modified by a series of acc epithets (of which praśastam is one). In SV. hasta° is made into another epithet of Agni.

savātarau na tejasā (TB. °sī) VS. TB. The word savātarau (said by the scholasts to mean 'having a common calf', with dhenā preceding) is one of a series of epithets of uṣe 'dawn and night' (in hotā yakṣad uṣe...). VS tejasā is an instr. of means with the following verb (vatsam ındram avardhatām), of which savātarau may also be considered the subject: 'they two have increased Indra with splendor'. It can hardly be doubted that TB. tējasī is a simple case of formassimilation to the fem. dual; the comm takes it as an adjective (tejasvinau), but the accent shows that it is rather a noun, 'the two brillances'.

CHAPTER XX

ACCUSATIVE AND DATIVE

1. After verbs of motion and the like

- §478. Among the cases in which accusative and dative constructions approach one another, doubtless the most striking and familiar are those in which after a verb of motion an accusative of goal may vary with a dative. In the Veda, this dative is, as a rule, perhaps not to be regarded as a psychological equivalent of the accusative, Delbrück (AIS. 143) has made out a plausible case for the theory that it regularly contains a suggestion of the interested party, rather than the goal of motion, pointing out that it generally occurs with persons. Or, in other cases, the dative may be final in character (Delbrück 147 f.), approaching, or even attaining, the status of an infinitive. We shall not enter into these questions, contenting ourselves with recording the variants which occur kāmena mā (TA me) kāma āgan (TA āgāt) AV TA. 'By love love has come to (for) me'
- ado māgachatu MS. KS. MS: ado ma āgachatu ApS. (Delete ApS. 4. 13. 8 under the former heading in Conc and add it under the latter.) If ApS. has anything other than a peculiar sandhi variation (cf VV 2 §990), it would belong here
- §479. Examples of a more strictly final dative varying with an accusative of goal after a verb of motion are:
- sā paprathe pṛthwī pārthwāni (KS. MŚ °vāya) KS. TB. ApŚ. MŚ. 'This earth spread out unto the earthly (regions)' or 'so as to reach the earthly (region)'
- sındhur avabhrtham avaprayan TS: sındhur avabhrthāyodyatah VS. 'Sındhu going down into the purification-bath': 'Sındhu lifted up for the p b' The verbal expression is changed in VS. to one which more naturally goes with a dative.
- subham yātām (MS. subhe kam) anu rathā avrtsata RV. TS MS. KS. Here both subham and subhe may be classed as infinitives.
- §480. Here may be mentioned the following, in which svasti is rather ambiguous; Keith takes it as an independent interjection ('hail'), to us it seems most likely to be an adverbial acc.:

- tam (TS tad) asvinā pari dhattam svasti (MŚ °taye) TS KS. MŚ 'O Aśvins, encompass this one comfortably (unto well-being).'
- §481. After a verb of sending, a dative of 'indirect object' varies with an acc of goal tagged with the postposition upa:
- athem enam (AV. athemam enam) pra hinutāt pitrbhyaḥ (AV † pitr̄nr upa)
 RV.† 10 16 1d, AV TA. 'Then send him forward unto the fathers' AV. comm reads pitrbhyah but also comments upon upa!
 (as if blending the two readings)
- §482. Verbs of placing, especially $dh\bar{a}$, may be construed with either acc. or dat of person, with (we may suppose) different psychological turns (see §72).
- svargam me lokam yajamānāya dhehi Vait: suvarge loke yajamānam hi dhehi (and, dhehi mām) TB Ap$ (both m each). 'Grant the world of heaven to me the sacrificer': 'place (me) the sacrificer in the world of heaven.'
- §483. Verbs of revering or the like are also found with either dat or acc of person:
- yajñasya tvā (MS te) yajñapate sūktoktau (TS havrbhih, KS saha) VS. TS MS KS ŚB. Followed by sūktavāke (omitted in VS MS ŚB) namovāke vidhema (VS ŚB add yat svāhā, MS adds svāhā)
- tvastrmantas (MS MS tvastrio, ApS tvastro) tvā sapema VS MS. KS. SB ApS: tvastrīmatī (TS ApS. tvastro, and so TA Poona ed with v. 1 otrīo) te sapeya TS. TA ApS. We need not accept Pischel's improbable theory that te is acc (see Oldenberg's judicious critique, RVNoten 1 25 ff.). The construction of sap 'devote oneself to (a god)' with dat is exceptional, but may easily have been suggested by this construction with sac (see e.g. RV 8 60 18)
 - §484. Other verbs:
- ābhūṣantas te (TB tvā) samutau navāyām RV. AV. TB The usual interpretation makes te a gen with sumatau, which is dependent on the participle: 'presenting ourselves to thy fresh favor' Without denying this possibility we suggest that te may be a dat depending directly on the participle, used in the same sense as the simple bhūṣ with dat (BR studere, colere). For this in TB an acc is substituted (comm. on TB sarvatah praŝansantah): 'attending thee in a new song of praise'
- tam ındram abhı gāyata RV. 8 32 13: tasmā ındrāya gāyata RV. 1. 4 10, 5 4; AV Both: 'sing praises to this Indra'. The compound abhı-gaı takes acc, the simple gaı dat RV 8 32 13 = 1. 4 10 entire.

2 Dedicatory expressions

§485. In formulae of deducation, accusatives and datives are variously used in substantially equivalent phrases (see §126):

digbhyah śrotram (sc. ālabhate) TB † 3 4. 18 1: disah śrotram (sc. anvavasrjatāt) AB TB. AS SS '(He takes) the ear for the directions'. '(send) the ear to the directions.'

agnım svähā MS: agnim agnau svähā (here a verb of placing is understood) ApŚ MŚ. ApMB: svähāgnım KS ŚB. TB ŚŚ: agnaye svähā AV. etc Likewise: svähā prajāpataye (TB. °patim) TS KSA TB: svähā sarasvatyai (KS °tīm) TS KS etc; svāhā insvān devān KS: svāhā insvebhyo devebhyah VS. TS KSA ŚB And many other similar phrases. The contexts are often quite different. The dat is felt as governed by svāhā, 'hail to.' The acc. is sometimes dependent on some verb supplied from the context, but at times no such verb is clearly suppliable, and then the acc. is commonly understood in a sort of interjectional fashion, however, one may always understand, if one wishes, a verb such as 'we worship'. Cf next, and §377. The TB comm supplies uddisya Cf. also §459, svāhāgnim ākūtım (MS MŠ MG "tam) agnım prayujam svāhā VS TS. MS. KS. SB. MS. MG: ākūtyaı prayuje 'gnaye (MS. KS agnaye) svāhā VS. TS MS KS SB ApŚ Cf. prec., and see especially TS. 4. 1. 9. 1, where the acc. form occurs in a list of several such acc. formulae, followed by two in the dat

3 Dative of purpose: accusative (object or goal)

§486. The dative of purpose is sometimes used to express the same idea which is otherwise expressed by the same word in the accusative, either felt as immediate object or goal, or in apposition to another word so used Theoretically the dative in this use might, indeed, vary with any other case, see §70 Thus:

rāyas poşam vi şyatu (RV. MS TB * şyatām, AV. MS * şya) nābhim asme (AV asya) RV AV VS TS MS (bis) TB. (bis) ApŠ.: tvaṣṭah poṣāya nṣya nābhim asme KS '(Our seminal fluid, turīpam) release (let him release, etc.) for increase (as increase of wealth) ...for us (etc.)' mahyam sūro abharaj jyotise kam AV.: mahyam jyotir abharat sūryas tat KS "The sun brought (it) to me in order to light': 'to me the sun brought that light.' The AV. (probably original) understands the object from the preceding pāda; KS. by a lect fac. makes jyotis the object

It is hard to say which is original, if MŠ be considered so, TS could be explained by case-attraction to the accompanying datives

aśvattha

[pra tad vişnu (vişnuh) slavate vīryena (vīryāni, vīryāya), see §§474, 558 The instr is the original form]

4 Miscellaneous final dative : accusative

§487. There remain a few miscellaneous cases in which a final dative varies with an accusative, variously construed, other changes in the phraseology unite with this to produce a rather extensive reconstruction of the variant.

sukrām vayanty asurāya nīrnījam RV: sukrā in yanty asurāya nīrnīja SV 'They weave a bright garment for the Asura' 'the bright (soma-drops) stream variously to adorn the Asura' The noun of RV becomes an infinitive in SV, perhaps by case-attraction to the adjoining asurāya; but of also nīrnīje in RV 10 49 7 am (MS tan) mā devā avantu sobhāyar (MS 'yı) TS MS TA 'May the gods and me unto splendor' The MS form seems to be neut acc of a stem *sobhāyın, doubtless adverbial, 'splendidly' prchāmi tvā citaye (LS 'yam) devasakha VS SB AS SS Vait LS The dat citaye may be considered an infinitive 'I ask thee for understanding (i.e. that I may understand).' LS. citayam (repeated in the comm.) would seem to be fr. 1 an unrecorded *citaya, an adjective agreeing with tvā: ' thee that understandest'. Cf. next kavīn prchāms udmane (AV. udvano) na udvān RV. AV. 'I ask the sages, I ignorant, to one that knows (those that know)' The AV. is a lect fac, attracting the adjective into agreement with kavīn. The change resembles that in the last.

5. Miscellaneous dative of interest: accusative

§488. Similarly a dative of the interested party varies in miscellaneous ways with an accusative; usually there is extensive reconstruction of the passage, involving sweeping changes in other forms also:

dyaus ca ma idam prthivī ca pracetasau AV.: dyaus ca nah (KS TB tvā) prthivī ca pracetasā RV. KS TB. The RV. passage is in a different context from all the others In KS TB the pronoun is object of prpartu 'protect' Ppp. according to Roth ap Whitney has mā, acc, for AV ma idam, this latter Whitney finds 'embarrassing', but without reason as it seems to us, idam is object of pipartu, me dative of interest. We may render with Ludwig 'Dyaus und Prthivī fördere mir dies', or we may take pipartu from pr 'fill' in the sense of 'fulfil, grant'.

ajījapatendram vājam VS ŠB: (ajījapata) indram vājam (MS MŚ. indrāya vācam) indram TS. MS. KS TB. MŚ 'Ye have caused Indra to win the prize; (be released).' So essentially all but MS MŚ, which mean 'ye have caused Speech to win for Indra.'

yajñam hinvanty adribhih RV.: yajñāya santv adrayah SV. 'They promote the sacrifice with stones': 'let the stones be for the sacrifice' See §419; same context, loosely rephrased.

madhu tvā madhulā cakāra (Ppp karat, MS. kṛṇotu, TA ApŚ. karotu)

- sa tvā (Kauś no, ViDh me) ralsatu sarvatah AV Kauś ViDh In ViDh no object is expressed, unless me be taken as acc. as Jolly seems to take it (cf above, §483; we take no stock in me, te as accs) As in the preceding 'may he protect for me on all sides'
- kas te yunaktı, and kas te mmuñcatı, MG kas tvā yunaktı, and kas tvā vimuñcatı, VS TS KSA SB TB ApS ko vo yunaktı, and ko vo vimuñcatı, ApS MS. MG On the 'yoking' and 'unyoking' of a rite see Caland on ApS 4. 16 10, it is simply a mystically grandiose expression for 'beginning' and 'ending'. In most texts tvā is used referring to the rite In MG twice te is used referring to the devatā, the object (the rite, as in the others) being understood MG. 'Who vokes (unvokes) [the rite] for thee?'
- asmın yajñe yajamānāya sūrım AV. ımam yajñam yajamānam ca sūrau ApŚ Preceded by ındrāya bhāgam parı tvā nayāmı AV, ındrasya bhāgah suvite dadhātana ApŚ Both unintelligent and scarcely translatable, yajamāna and sūrı ought to refer to the same person, but only Ppp (as reported by Roth ap Whitney, yajñapatis ca sūrıh) has them in the same case (the nominative, in other respects Ppp is hardly more intelligent)
- tanā (SV tmanā) krnvanto arvate (SV °tah) RV SV Preceded by sugā tokāya vānnah Subject is the soma-drops, with which vānnah agrees in RV. 'creating welfare uninterruptedly for the offspring, they the swift ones, and for the steed.'  The latter 'what (spell) they have made for (against) thee ', while in the former tvā is object of abhicerur 'bewitched'
- samidhah (ApS MS samidhhyah) presya SB SS ApS MS In all texts addressed by the adhvaryu to the maitrāvaruna 'order (the hotar to recite the formula) for the firesticks' The dative is usual with the stereotyped presya to denote the devatā to which offering or prayer is made, the acc. to denote the rite or action ordered (e g sāma or the like, see BR s. v is + pra). Here samidbhyah is originally the proper form, the kindling sticks being the devatā of the formula which the hotar is commanded to recite But by figurative transference samidhah is treated as the name of the rite: 'order (the recitation of the formula for) the firesticks.' See on this sort of 'name' Edgerton, Mīmānsā Nyāya Prakāsa, §$204, 300 tan ma (Vait. mā) āpyāyatām punah GB. Vait. In GB.: 'let that be strong for me again.' Note hiatus in Vait. If it really intends mā, it must understand the verb in an active sense, as in Mbh. 5 508: 'let that make me strong again.'

But since HG. is otherwise corrupt (Oldenberg adopts the AV. reading), httle reliance can be placed upon it.]

6 Transfer of epithet

§489. Transfer of epithet (§14) between dative and accusative forms appears in the following cases. First, some in which number and gender are not changed:

dakṣāya dakṣardham (TS °dhe) TS MS KS Preceded by prajāpataye tvā jyotiṣmate jyotiṣmantam gṛhnāmi In MS. KS the adjective agrees with tvā, carned over from the preceding; in TS. it is attracted into agreement with dakṣāya.

dyaus te (AS. PG. tvā) dadātu pṛthivī (PG. adds tvā) pratigṛhnātu AS. PG. HG. The dative refers to the recipient of the gift, the acc. to the gift; 'may heaven give (to) thee' The next two are similar.

sukram te sukrena grhņāmi TS. KS ApS.: sukram tvā sukra sukrāya grhņāmi MS MS: sukram tvā sukra ādhunomi VS SB. As in prec. and next, the pronouns refer to different things.

śukram te (MS. te śukra) śukrena krīnāmi (MS omits krī°) candram candrenāmitam amitena (MS. adds krīnāmi .) TS. MS KS.: śukram tvā śukrena krīnāmi VS ŠB. te refers to the seller of the soma, tvā to the soma; cf preceding two.

athaitān astau virūpān (TB † 3. 4. 19. 1 athaitān arūpēbhya) ālabhate VS VSK TB. In VS. VSK. the adjective refers to the eight 'malformed' men who are dedicated (in these texts) to Prajāpati; in TB the same eight are dedicated to devatās called 'formless'.

- dhattam rayım sahaviram (ApMB daśaviram) vacasyave RV ApMB rayim dhehi sarvaviram vacasyam AV. The epithet vacasya is attracted in AV. into agreement with rayım; in the original it referred to the recipient of the gift
- yajñāya stīrnabarhışe vi vo made RV. AS · yajñeşu stīrnabarhışam uvakşase SV In the original the adjective agrees with yajñāya, in SV with tvā of the preceding (hotāram tvā vṛnīmahe)
- ındrāya tvā brhadvate vayasvata ukthāyuve (VSK MS 'yuvam, VS SB KS † ukthāvyam, VS VSK SB 'an grhnāmi) VS VSK. TS MS KS. SB. The acc goes with tvā, the dat with indrāya Add to VV 2 §805 (stems ukthāyu: ukthā-vī)
 - §490. With change of number and gender as well as case:
- īdişvā hi mahe (ApŠ mahī, v. 1 mahē) vṛṣan SV ApŚ Followed by dyāvā hotrāya pṛthivī (ApŚ °vīm, see §746) In SV the adj agrees with hotrāya, in ApŚ (if mahī be read) with dyāvā.
- §491. In the following an originally independent noun seems to be attracted into functioning as epithet of another word, if we are right in taking KS TB ApS as secondary Cf §15:
- ayakşmāya tvā samsrjāmi prajābhyah VS TS MS. KS ŚB · ayakşmā vah prajayā samsrjāmi KS TB ApŚ 'I unite thee unto health, unto progeny': 'I unite you, diseaseless, with progeny'
- §492. Contrariwise, in the next what is in the original form an epithet is made into an independently construed noun (here, a dative of purpose) in the following:
- ūrjasvatī rājastas (MS KS rājasūyās, TS rājasūyāya) citānāh VS TS MS KS SB The waters are originally described as 'king-creating', in TS. this adjective is replaced by the noun 'for king-crowning', which depends on citānāh ('caring for, having regard to'), cf. BR s v 4 cit, 2 See next
- svāhā rājasūyā'i MS MS: svāhā rājasūyāya citānāh TS: svāhā rājasvah VS SB Supply apah in all, we have here a reminiscence of the formula just quoted, q v

ACCUSATIVE AND ABLATIVE

1. With verbs of separation, guarding, etc.

§493. The accusative and ablative approach interchangeability chiefly in connexion with certain verbs and certain prepositions. Thus, first, verbs of separation, guarding, purifying, or the like, since they suggest separation of two things or of a thing and a quality, may in principle put either of the two separated entities in either the acc or the abl. Hence the following variants:

yam duruktāt (PG. °tam) paribādhamānā ŠG. SMB PG. ApMB. MG 'This (girdle), guarding (its wearer) from slander' or 'warding off slander (from its wearer).'

āpas tvā tasmāg gīvalāh AV · āpas tat sarvam gīvalāh ApŚ. Followed by punantu (ApŚ sundhantu) sucayah sucim 'May the pure living waters purify thee pure from that' or 'purify (thee) pure as to that all', in ApŚ tat sarvam may either be understood as a quasi-adverbial acc, or as a second direct object, so that we should then have in ApŚ a blend of the two constructions, 'purify that (thing which is impure)' and 'purify thee (from that).'

sakhyam te mā yoṣāh sakhyam te mā yoṣṭhāḥ SMB.: sakhyāt te mā yoṣam sakhyān me mā yoṣṭhāh TB ApS. ApMB HG The root yu is either transitive, 'separate', or intransitive, 'be separated'. In SMB the two clauses, one with active and one with middle verb, seem to be equivalent in meaning (transitive in both'): 'Withhold not thy friendship.' The others. 'may I not be separated from thy friendship, nor thou from mine.'

With prepositions

§494. Similarly both cases are used after various prepositions, with or without difference of meaning. Notably ā in the meaning 'up to, until' may take either acc or abl., while in the meaning 'from' it takes only the abl, never the acc. Also pari is used with both cases, tho with different meanings.

ūrjo mā pāhy odrcam MS: ūrdhvo mā pāhy odrcaḥ TS: ūrdhvo mā pāhy

- anhasah, āsya yajñasyodrcah VS SB ā-udrcah (°cam) in all means 'until the end (of this sacrifice)' The variant $\bar{u}rjo$ for $\bar{u}rdhvo$ (obviously a silly blunder if not a misprint) should be added to VV 2 §160.
- orv antarikṣam SS. āsmāt sadhasthād oror antarikṣāt TB ApS Here the contexts are quite different, and the preposition has different meanings, 'to' with acc, 'from' with abl Probably not true variants
- ye jūtās tanvas (PB. °vam) parī RV. MS PB. ŚB TA 'Who are born from the body (of Adıtı)'. 'who are born about (near) [her] body 'But Caland is doubtless right in assuming that PB has a mere corruption of the RV. reading

3 Miscellaneous

- §495. Of the rest—barring those classified under 'transfer of epithet'—there is little to be said. They concern miscellaneous reinterpretations of the passages, usually with other changes besides the one with which we are concerned, and oftener than not yielding very poor sense in the secondary version, so that the term 'corruption' begins to apply. In not a few cases the variation is between n and t, suggesting possible graphic variation (VV 2 §871)
- rūpam varnam pašūnām mā nirmīksam ApS: rūpād varnam mā nirmīksat MŠ 'May I not wipe out the form, the color of the cattle': 'may he not wipe away the color from the form.' ApS is a little less banal than MŠ
- yakṣmā yantı janād (AV ApMB janān) anu RV AV ApMB In RV abl of source: 'from the (malicious) folk;' anu yantı, 'follow' AV ApMB. construe anu as postposition with acc janān. Altho Bloomfield (The Atharvaveda 50) mentioned this as an instance of a superior AV. reading as compared with RV., we think he would perhaps retract this opinion now; see Oldenberg, RVNoten on 10 85 31. If there is a single case in which AV shows itself superior to RV. in a variant reading, we do not know of it.
- ūvadhyam vātam (MS vātāt) sabvam (TB Poona ed sabuvam) tad ārāt VS. MS. KS TB Preceded by apāmatim durmatim bādhamānāh 'Driving away undigested food, wind, and digested food' (? but sabvam is quite uncertain) Does MS vātāt mean '(arising) from wind,' referring to ūvadhyam and sabvam? Or is it to be taken as abl. with bādhamānāh, or with ārāt felt as an adjective (a sort of 'case attraction')? In any event it is secondary and poor.

- dwas cid antād upamām (TA †upa mām, RV. antān upamān) ud ānaṭ RV. AV. SV TA Some AV mss read upa mām with TA., and Whitney adopts this Benfey, Glossar, defines upamām as 'nahe' (adverb), but he translates 'zu allen Himmelsenden drang er aufwarts,' which seems to imply antān. The RV. alone is easily interpretable: 'he has attained unto the utmost bounds of very heaven.' The others perhaps: 'even from the bounds of heaven he has attained unto me (? unto the highest)'
- ta ävavṛtran sadanād ṛtasya (TS sadanānı kṛtvā, KS * sadanānı rātvī) RV AV. TS. MS KS (bis) N "They have turned hither from the abode of the ṛta (having established their abodes, etc.)" Add to VV 2 §§421, 665
- rudrasya gānapatyān (VS SB. °yam, KS. °ye) mayobhūr ehi VS TS MS. KS SB In TS. °patyāt is certainly intended; this is read not only in the pp. but in the pratīka 5 1. 2 3, which see for the rather forced interpretation required by the form But for this we should assume that °patyān is acc pl, which is probably the intention of MS (whose p.p would seem to read so, judging from the silence of von Schroeder; see §§526, 705)
- antān pṛthivyā divah TB. ApŚ: tad antāt pṛthivyā adhi MŚ. Preceded by yad gharmah paryavartayat (MŚ paryāv°). pari-vṛt caus probably = 'has brought hither.' The TB ApŚ stanza is very obscure; its last half is different from that of MŚ.
- ālebhānād ṛṣṭibhir yātudhānāt RV.: utārebhānān ṛṣṭibhir yātudhānān AV. Preceded by utālabdham (AV. utārabdhān) spṛnuhi jātavedah 'Win away, O J, him who is seized from the sorcerer who has seized him with spears' So RV. The secondary AV. takes spṛnuhi zeugmatically as meaning 'win away' = 'set free' in a, but 'win' = 'conquer' in b: 'win away both those who are seized, and (conquer) the sorcerers who have seized (them) with spears'
- nduh pṛthưngā dwo jantram (PB °trāt) RV. PB. Followed by śṛnvanty (PB °tv) āpo adha (PB. 'dhaḥ) kṣarantīḥ RV.: 'they know the birthplace of earth and heaven' In PB. jantrād would seem to be felt as abl of source with kṣarantīḥ, flowing from the birthplace' But this leaves nduḥ apparently without object Caland calls it incomprehensible and adopts the RV. reading.
- yato (KS yad 1d, TS. yadī) bhumim janayan višvakarmā RV. VS. TS MS KS On KapS of Oertel 16 For the abl pronoun KS. (and TS) have adverbial forms used as conjunctions.
- §496. Yet more dubious, or certainly corrupt, or based on misunderstandings or misquotations, are the following:

- atrā (AV. tatra) yamah sādanā (TA. °nāt) te minotu (AV. krņotu) RV. AV.† TA. 'Here let Yama fix a resting-place for thee' The TA reading (comm sthāpunanimitam) can hardly be anything but a phonetic blunder (VV 2 §405).
- jāmim itvā mā vivitsi lokān TA.: jāmim rīvā māva patsi lokāt AV. The latter is original: 'having gone to my relatives let me not fall from heaven' TA Poona ed jāmi mitvā . lokāt (v l lokān). The comm, tho he reads lokāt, seems to understand an acc: lokam naiva larsyasi. In any case TA. is scarcely interpretable See VV 2 §198 (besides §871).
- yat tvemahe (SMB te mahe) prati tan no (Kaus prati nas taj) jusasva RV. TS MS Kaus SMB. PG. ApMB On SMB see VV 2 §§365, 835, where three different commentarial explanations of its seemingly impossible reading are quoted
- [yamād aham vaivasvatāt RV.. yan me yamam vaivasvatam PB So Conc; but the facts are obscured both by this comparison and by Caland's remarks on PB 1 5 18, which Caland identifies with RV. 10 60 10. The truth is that PB. 1.5 18 is a combination of RV. 10.58 1ab with 10.60.10cd, when this is realized it will be seen that there is no case variation]
- [pañcadaśāt prasūtāt pitryāvatah KBU: tam ardhamāsam prasutān pitryāvatah JB Conc, but read ardhamāsyam prasutāt pitro, Oertel, JAOS 19 (2) 112, 115]
- [devānām vakşı prıyam ā sadhastham VS TS. MS KSA Conc sadhasthāt for KSA]

4. Transfer of epithet

- §497. Transfer of epithet involving change between accusative and ablative forms (sometimes also shift of gender) has been noted mainly in cases where one of the variant forms cannot properly be called an 'epithet' but is rather a form of independent construction. The following is perhaps the only case of true 'transfer of epithet', and even in it this term perhaps requires stretching. It is in any case clear that the acc forms of VS MS KS. SB. are original, and that they are correlative with, if not exactly 'epithets' of, the accs of the preceding pāda; also that the abl forms of TS, have been drawn into agreement with the preceding tas:
- rtasya dhāmno amriasya yoneh TS.: rtasya yonım mahışasya dhārām VS KS ŠB: ghrtasya dhārām mahışasya yonım MS Preceded in all by ışam ürjam aham ıta ādam (ādade, ādi)

- §498. In the next group a word originally of independent construction has been drawn into agreement with another word (§15):
- prākto apācīm anayam tad enām AV: prācīm avācīm ava yann ariṣṭyat TA. The adverbial prākto of the original AV. is attracted to the case of avācīm, which in both texts agrees with yuvatim of pāda a imam adhvānam yam agāma dūrāt (LŚ dūram) RV. LŚ.: yam adhvānam agāma dūram AV. Again the adverbial form of the original RV, is agāma dūram AV. Again the adverbial form of the original RV. is made in AV. LS. into an adjective agreeing with adhvānam.

- anamitram no adharāt AV.; anamitram me †adharāk (KS no adharāk) VSK KS.; followed by:
- anamitram na uttarāt AV: anamitram udak kṛdhi VSK. KS. Again the original has ablative adverbs This time the acc forms might also be regarded as adverbs, but it is at least as likely that they are adjectives going with anamitram. 'Freedom from enemies . . (from) below, (from) above'
- yakşmam śro.ubhyām (ApMB. śronī°) bhāsadāt RV. AV. ApMB.: yakşmam bhasadyam śronibhyām bhāsadam AV. The original 'from the rump' is turned into an adjective agreeing with yakşmam, 'of the rump'. The verb is vi vṛhāmī. In the text of AV. there are in fact two such adjectives, synonyms; one is doubtless an ancient gloss (Whitney ad loc., and Bloomfield, The Atharvaveda. 47)
- §499. We have noted only two instances, closely parallel and in the same context, of the reverse of this, in which what is originally an epithet is changed into a noun of independent construction (§15): avatān mā vuathītam (VS SB °tāt) VS TS SB. ApS.: avatād vuathītam avatān mā nāthitam (VS. SB. 'tāt), same texts.

MS KS. SB. 'Protect me distressed' or 'from distress'.

CHAPTER XXII

ACCUSATIVE AND GENITIVE

1. With verbs governing both cases

- $500. Accusative and gemtive touch each other most closely with certain verbs which may be construed with both cases. See in general Delbrück AIS. 158 ff; our variants supplement and modify slightly, at certain points, his treatment. We shall refrain from discussing, as Delbrück does, possible differences of connotation between the two interchanged cases after these verbs, since in the nature of things there can be no proof of such distinctions, any one is at liberty to assume them subjectively if he desires
- §501. Verbs of eating and drinking and the like (partaking) constitute the largest group among the variants. Here there is, of course, no doubt that the genitive is partitive in character. Yet the accusative may also be used in cases where the partitive idea would seem to us to be especially demanded, as in the first variant, where KS ApS. certainly cannot mean that the whole of the River Sarasvati was drunk!

papuh sarasvatyā nadyāh (MŚ °tyām nadyām, KŚ ApŚ °tīm nadīm) Vait KŚ ApŚ MŚ 'They drank (of, or MŚ in) the River Sarasvatī'

- $502. Verbs of offering; cf. Delbruck 160, where the gen construction with hu is noted for Brāhmana prose but not for RV, altho the RV version of the first variant seems a clear instance:
- tasmā indrāya sutam ā juhota (TB ApŠ juhomi) VS VSK MS. KS SB. TB ApŠ. MŠ: tasmā indrāyāndhaso juhota RV: tasmā indrāya havişā (TB. havir ā) juhota MS. TB. See also §466, etc

- apo (TS KS udno) dattodadhim bhintta (KS * KapS dehy udadhim bhindhi) VS TS MS KS KapS (Oertel 76) Cf. §711; apas best taken as acc. of plurale tantum stem ap.

§503. Verbs of ruling:

- undro višvam virājati AA: indro višvasya rājati SV. VS. AŠ Svidh. §504. Verbs of 'intellectual activity' (Delbrück 158):
- pra tad voced amriasya (Ppp VS amriam nu, TA Mahān U. voce amriam nu) vidvān AV Ppp VS TA 'Knowing immortality.' No significance can be attached to the fact that the adjectival-participle vidvān is used; obviously it is construed just as a finite verb form would be
- §505. Verbs of robbing are recognized as taking two accusatives, but we have found no recognition of their use with an acc of the person and a gen of the thing. In TB. the following variant seems to show such a use, unless we take goh as acc pl (!) as the TB comm seems to do: yad amuṣṇātam avasam panim gāh (TB goh) RV TB 'When you two stole the food, (robbed) the Paṇi of his cow(s)'

2. With nouns containing verbal force

§506. In several variants we find the acc varying with the gen after nominal periphrases of verbal ideas, of Delbrück 181, Whitney 271h: mām anuvratā bhava HG ('be faithful to me'): of agner (AV. patyur) anuvratā bhūtvā AV TS KS TB MS ApMB Tho in different contexts, AV. and HG both use the formula in the marriage ceremony.

apaścādaghvānnasya (MS MŚ ApŚ. apaścāddaghvānnam) bhūyāsam AV. MS MŚ ApŚ 'May I not be failing of food' santır no astu MS: santır me astu santıh TA sa ma santır edhi VS The acc seems to depend on the verbal force still felt in santı; Mahidhara ma mam pratı

§507. With nouns of agent in tar, a difference of accent is said to distinguish $d\bar{a}'t\bar{a}$ vasūni from $d\bar{a}t\bar{a}'$ vasūnām, and according to Pān 3 2 135 unaccented tar should denote a habitual condition, accented tar specific act. The actual conditions are hard to reconcile with this theory; see Wackernagel, AIGr. 3 201, 597. We find one such variant pāda; the phrase refers to Aryaman, who surely must be characterized as a habitual 'giver of good things' in both texts, in our opinion it would be pedantry to try to find a distinction in meaning between the two forms of the variant:

dātā vasūnām puruhūto arhan TS. dātā vasūnī vidadhe tanūpāh MS TS accents the second syllable of dātā, MS the first, which accords with the rule of accent. The accusative cannot be taken with vidadhė in MS since that word is accented, and this can only mean that it begins a new sentence

§508. In many lists of dedicatory formulas we find an acc of the deity and instr of the offering varying with gen (or dat) of the deity and nom of the offering (see §126) We content ourselves here with two examples:

andhāhīn (TS 'he, KSA 'heh but ms 'he) sthūlagudayā (TS KSA sthūragudā, MS sthūragudayā) VS † TS MS † KSA '(We gratify) the blind-worms with the large intestines' 'the large intestines are for the blind-worms' pūşanam vanışihunā VS. MS: pūşno vanışihuh TS KSA.

4 Descriptive or possessive genitive: modifying accusative

§509. In a considerable number of cases we find a descriptive or possessive genitive, sometimes approaching what is called the 'apposi-

tional gentive', varying with an adjective or noun or pronoun in syntactic correlation with the other (accusative) form. Such genitives may be found in principle varying with any other case, depending on the case of the noun on which they depend; see §85. The practical meaning of the two forms of the variant is in many cases substantially the same: avyo (SV. PB avyam) vāram in dhāvati RV. SV. PB. 'He (soma) flows thru the sieve of wool (woolen sieve)' vrstim divah pavasva rītim apām (SV. apah) RV SV. 'Let stream the rain of heaven, the stream of waters (SV. the stream, the waters).' In view of the rarity of singular forms of stem ap, we prefer to construe apah thus as an acc. pl. (in apposition), rather than with Benfey as a gen sing

[apāsya (ApŚ apāsman) nairṛtān pāśān,] mṛtyor (ApŚ mṛtyūn) ekasatam caye, [apāsya ye †sınāh pāśāh,] mṛtyor (ApŚ mṛtyūn) ekasatam suve KS. ApŚ. Also, in a different tho similar verse, [apāsyāḥ satvanah pāśān,] mṛtyūn ekasatam nude Kauś 'I remove from him the bonds of destruction, the 101 (bonds) of death (the 101 deaths).'

nāsām āmntro (TB. namā amntro) vyathir ā dadharsati RV. AV. TB. 'No enemy does violence to their wandering course (to them [or] to [their] wandering course).' TB. comm. takes vyathir (on the meaning of which see Oldenberg, RVNoten on 1. 117. 15) as a nom. attribute of amitro, which is obviously absurd.

urjo bhāgam pṛthưyā (KS ApŚ °vīm) yāty (KS ety, ApŚ. etv) āpṛnan MS KS ApŚ 'He (Savitar) goes filling the earth' lot with food': 'he goes (let him go) to the earth, filling it (and) its lot with food,' or the like Here the occurrence of the verb of motion makes a complication, the acc. is doubtless felt as goal of that verb, but perhaps also as one of the objects of āpṛṇan agnım (VS SB. agner) jyotır nıcâyya [pṛthivyā abhyābharat] VS TS. MS. KS SB SvetU 'Fıre (and) lıght' or 'Agni's light' somānam (SV. °nām) svaranam RV. SV. VS. TS. MS. KS. ŠB. TA. ŠŠ ApŠ MŠ N The SV. is certainly worthless; on the crucial somānam see Oldenberg, RV Noten on 1. 18. 1.

§510. In a couple of cases of this sort, the noun on which the genitive depends is in the other form of the variant made into an adjective agreeing with the (now accusative) form which replaces the genitive. ava devānām yaja hedo agne (KS. yaje hādyāni, MS. yaje hedyāni) AV.

KS MS: agne devānām ava heda iyakşva (KS. 1kşva) KS ApS: ava devān yaje hedyān TB ApS In the last variant hedyān is an adjective agreeing with the acc devān: 'the wrathful gods' instead of 'the wrath of the gods.'

- pra samrājo (SV. °jam) asurasya prašastīm (SV °tam) RV SV KB Here too SV. has an adjective ('the praised lord') for the acc noun of RV ('praise of the lord')
- §511. Essentially similar are the following cases involving pronominal forms.
- ādītyā rudrā uparīspṛśo nah (KS °śam mā) AV KS . vasavo rudrā ādītyā uparīspṛśam mā RV. VS TS '(Make) me a king' or 'make our king '
- ā te agna idhīmahi RV SV TS MS KS PB AŠ ŠŠ MŠ ā tvāgna idhīmahi AV Kauś Followed by dyumantam devājaram This is one of the passages cited by Pischel (ZDMG 35 714 ff) as containing acc te, but see Oldenberg, RVNoten p 28 (a word for 'flame' or the like is to be supplied with the following adjectives) AV has a lect fac, feeling the need for expression of an accusative noun or pronoun with the adjectives, it supplies the need by changing te to tvā
- puṣyema (AA puṣyanto) rayım dhīmahe ta (AA tam) ındra SV AA ŚŚ Keith (AA 285 n 7) would make this an instance of variation between acc and gen after a verb of 'intellectual activity' (cf §504), understanding the verb as connected with root dhī He follows Sāyana in this Most western scholars have taken dhīmahe from dhā, te is then possessive gen with rayım, and tam also refers to rayım
- devasya te (AG MG tvā) samtuh prasave 'sunor bāhubhyām pūsno hastābhyām hastam grhnāmy asau AG SMB GG MG 'At the command of god Savitar I take hold of thy hand (of thee [by] the hand)'
- §512. In the following the secondary reconstruction goes farther two mā santam āyur mā pra hāsīt (AŚ santam mā pra hāsīt) TB AŚ ApŚ: two me yayña āyur mā pra hāsīt (Cone reads hāsīt with one ms) MŚ hāsīt in MŚ may be kept 'desert not my life at the sacrifice'
- §513. Sometimes the acc is the sole goal of the verb, either no goal is expressed in the variant containing the gen, or the goal of that variant is made into an associative instrumental (equivalent to a coordinate acc, §459) in the alternate form in which acc is substituted for gen etam (GB etasya) tram prayanaya AB GB The context is the same.
- tam (GB etasya) tram prajanaya AB GB The context is the same.

 The pronoun refers apparently to the yajamāna, who is to be 'generated' by the recitation of the Sukīrti (RV 10 131) and other hymns which follow (Otherwise Keith, who seems to us to misunderstand AB) With the gen. of GB is doubtless understood an acc of ātman and other parts of the yajamāna, specified in the sequel 'Propagate him' or 'propagate his [body, etc]', or possibly 'propagate [such things] for him.' In such mystic rubbish almost anything is possible ganān me mā vi tītrşah (MŚ. °şat, Vait vy arīrışah) TS. Vait. MŚ.: ganair mā mā vi tītrşata MS: ganā me mā vi trşan VS TS ŚB. 'Make not my troops to thirst (etc.)': 'make not me with (my) troops to thirst': 'let not my troops thirst'

§514. We may append here a case in which a descriptive gen varies with a postpositional phrase containing an acc:

ye vā (MS. omits vā) vanaspatīnr anu (MS NīlarU vanaspatīnām) VS TS MS KS SB NīlarU. ApMB. 'Or (serpents) which are of the trees (among the trees)'

5 Partitive genitive: modifying accusative

§515. Quite similarly a limiting genitive which is 'partitive' in character ('genitive of the whole', 'des getellen Ganzes') varies with a coordinate acc, as with other cases (§84):

ımam ındra vardhaya kşatrıyam me (TB kşatriyānām) AV. TB. Kauś.

17 28 (only pratika ın Kauś 14. 24) 'Increase this kşatrıya for me': 'ıncrease hım of (all) kşatrıyas' TB. comm kşatrıyānām madhve

rmam mā hīnsīr ekašapham (also, dirpādam) pašum (TS KS pašūnām) VS TS MS KS ŠB "This whole-hoofed (two-footed) animal (one of animals)" vīrudham (AV °dhām) balavattamām (AV * °mah) RV. AV. (bis) ApMB 'Most mighty herb (of herbs) '

atho jīva šaradāh šatam VSK ; adhā jīvema šaradām šatānī AV. Others similar, see Conc §516. The following is in reality doubtless only a case of sandhi, or perhaps better of orthography:

onsihas carşanīsahām (TB °sahān) VS. TB. Preceded by divo varşman samıdhyate, and followed by vetv ājyasya 'Upon the height of heaven is kindled the mightiest of the rulers of men; let him taste the butter' An acc. is quite impossible; yet both edd and the comm have the same reading in TB. The comm seems to regard the acc. as equivalent to a partitive gen.: tān uddišya teṣām (devānām) madhye. Final m and n before v in the Veda might both be pronounced alike, as a nasalization (Wackernagel 1 §§281a, 283c);

thus confusion between the two may have arisen, and the TB may have incorrectly restored n instead of m. This variant might have been mentioned in VV 2 §944, tho the original final is clearly m, not n

yat tvā (KS te) kruddhah parovapa (AV. kruddhāh pracakruh) AV TS MS. KS ApŠ MŠ In KS: 'whatever of thee I in anger have rejected'. The others: 'whatever (to whatever extent) thee I in anger (thee angry men) have rejected', or possibly with yat as conjunction, 'if I in anger have rejected thee'.

yat tvā (ApŚ. te) śikvah parāvadhīt AV ApŚ Followed by takṣā hastena vāsyā 'Inasmuch as (or, to whatever extent) the skilful smith has struck thee off...': 'what of thee the skilful smith has struck off yatrāspṛkṣat tanvo yac ca vāsasah (ApMB tanuvam yatra vāsah) AV ApMB: yatrā vṛkṣas tanuvan yatra vāsah HG 'Wherever on thy body, whatever of thy garment it has touched': 'wherever it has touched thy body, thy garment' On HG. see §144

§518. Phrase inflection (§§21-2) occurs in the following:

bhindhi darbha sapatnānām (sapatnān me) AV. (both). Initial pādas of consecutive verses; different constructions required by what follows

sumatim satyadharmanah (TS ApMB satyarādhasah, VS satyarādhasam, AV viŝvarādhasah, AŚ vājinīvatah) AV. VS TS MS AŚ ŚŚ

ŚG ApMB N The VS. form is in a different context

7 Miscellaneous

§519. There remain a considerable number of variants between acc and gen which involve miscellaneous, and often quite radical, reconstructions of thought:

endrasya väyoh (SV. väyum) sakhyäya kartave (SV vardhayan) RV. SV 'For doing a friendly act for Indra (and) for Väyu'. 'increasing Väyu unto the friendship of Indra' sakrd yat tvā (KS te) manasā garbha (KS 'bham) āśayat TS KS The word garbha shifts in meaning; 'an embryo has entered into thee,' 'it has entered into thy womb.'

vājo nah (MS me, KS. mā) sapta pradišah VS TS MS KS. Followed by catasro vā parāvatah, vājo no (MS KS mā) visvair devair, dhana-

 $s\bar{a}t\bar{a}v$ (° $t\bar{a}$) $ih\bar{a}vatu$ KS makes the pronoun in pada a object of avatu, anticipating $m\bar{a}$ in pada c, MS. makes it possessive gen with $v\bar{a}jo$; the others, with nah, are ambiguous and may be taken either way.

rāyaspoṣā yajamānam sacantām (TS °mānasya santu) AV. TS MS. MŚ. 'Let increase of wealth attend the sacrificer (be the sacrificer's).'

- [yo adya saumyo vadho 'ghāyūnām udīratı] vişūkuham wa dhanvanā [vyasyāh paripanthinam sadasaspataye namah] AS.: [yo 'dya saumyo vadho 'ghāyūnām udīrate] viṣūkuhasya dhanvanā ['pa tān varuno dhamat] PB The obscure word viṣūkuh(a) seems proved to refer to some hostile power by LS. 3 11. 3 This makes PB (rendered by Caland '. blow them away by means of the bow of Viṣūkuha') seem corrupt, as it suggests that V. is a friendly power AS thus seems more plausible. But the word cannot be interpreted with any confidence
- tad āsata (Ppp N atrāsata) rṣayah sapta sākam AV Ppp N.: tasyāsata rṣayah (TS TAA 'sate harayah) sapta tīre TS ŚB. BṛhU. TAA In AV. tad is direct complement of āsate, in place of the more usual loc (cf BR s v 2 ās, 1), the loc tīre has this construction in the other texts, and tasya (substituted for tad) depends on it 'Sit upon it (its bank).' Ppp and N have the loc adverb atra instead
- apām na yanty ūrmayah RV: apo nayanta ūrmayah SV. Preceded by pra somāso utpaścitah RV: 'the somas rush forth like waves of water' SV. by a false word-division (VV 2 §829) producès 'the somas, (as, 1 e in) waves, carry forth the waters.'

ımam rātam (SV asya rātau) sutam pıba RV SV. In RV. imam rātam agrees with sutam; in SV. rātau is a different word from rātam: 'at this man's offering'

- dhīnām antah sabardughah RV: dhenām antah sabardughām SV. We take it that dhīnām depends on sabardughah, antah being an adverb. That SV is botched is shown by the false accent of dhenām, on the final syllable, but doubtless dhénām (dependent on antah) was meant Even the RV. passage is obscure, for a different interpretation see Oldehberg, RVNoten ad loc
- rtur janıtrī tasyā apas (GB apasas, but Gaastra apas) pari RV. GB See VV 2 §810.

8. Transfer of epithet

§520. Transfer of epithet (§14) between accusative and genitive forms occurs in the following In the first group there is no change of gender or number:

- amanmahi mahata (MS KS mahad) riasya nāma TS MS KS TB The gen. agrees with riasya, the acc with nāma
- manyum janasya düdhyah (SV 'yam) RV SV. KS. 'The wrath of the evil-minded man': 'the evil-minded wrath of man.' The ed of KS has manyam, doubtless by misprint.
- bṛhaspatisutasya ta (KS omits ta) indo (inda) indriyāvatah patnīvantam (KS °vato) graham gṛhṇāmi (MS rādhyāsam, KS graham ṛdhyāsam) TS MS KS: bṛhaspatisutasya deva soma ta indor (inda) indriyāvatah patnīvato grahān ṛdhyāsam VS VSK ŚB patnīvant-modifies graham in TS. MS, te (unexpressed) in KS and probably to in VS. VSK. ŚB. (so Eggeling; otherwise BR).
- pāncajanyasya bahudhā yam indhate AV · yam pāncajanyam bahavah sam indhate TS MS KS In the YV texts pānca° is drawn into agreement with yam, which refers to Agni, in AV it agrees directly with agner of the preceding pāda, so that the real sense is the same
- praharşınam madırasya made mṛṣāsā astv atha tvā hoṣyāmı KS: praharṣino madirasya made mṛṣāsāv astu ApŚ Von Schroeder emends KS to praharṣino; and indeed it seems scarcely possible to construe the word with tvā, which would be necessary if we keep the text §521. The rest involve variation of number or gender as well as case:
- vasum (SV. TS. vasoh) sūnum sahaso jātavedasam RV AV. SV VS TS MS KS. 'Good son of strength': 'son of good strength' This seems the simplest interpretation of vasoh The preceding pāda is agnum hotāram manye dāsvantam; Benfey and Keith make vasoh a noun depending on dāsvantam, despite the pāda division A third alternative would be to make it a noun correlative with sahaso. 'son of good(s), of strength'
- vasumatas (VS SB. omatīm agne) te chāyām upastheşam VS MS SB 'May I enter the shadow of thee, the rich one (thy rich shadow, O Agni)'
- śardhānsy agne ajarām (SV. ajarasya) dhakşatah (ApŚ dhakşyase) RV. SV. MS. ApŚ. 'O Agnı, thy ageless troops (i.e. flames) as thou burnest': 'O Agnı, the troops of thee, ageless, burning' For ApŚ cf. VV 1 §27
- pātho (Ppp ŠŚ pātam, TS vītam) ghrtasya guhyānı (AV. guhyasya) nāma AV. Ppp TS. MS. KŠ ŠŚ 'Ye protect (etc) the secret names of ghee'—so most texts; AV seems to take pātho from pā 'drink' (so Ludwig and Whitney), and makes guho agree with ahrtasya: 'ye drink of the ghee that is secret by name' undrasya vām vīryakṛto bāhū abhyupāvaharāmı (VSK. vām bāhū vīryakṛtā upā°) VS VSK ŚB 'I draw you down, two arms of prowess-working Indra (two prowess-working arms of Indra).' Also: undrasya te vīryakṛto bāhū upāvaharāmı TB. (here the king, identified with Indra, is addressed).

parīmam yajamānam rāyo manuşyānām VS SB: parīmam rāyo manusyam KS See §§402 etc §522. There remain two cases of the sort referred to in §15, in which a word originally of independent construction is attracted into agreement with another word, becoming an 'epithet' thereof, in a secondary version, in both either gender or number varies as well as case:

āngūṣānām avāvašanta vāṇīh RV.: angoṣīnam avāvašanta vānīh SV. In RV, 'the music of the hymns', in SV an epithet of Soma (vṛṣaṇam) has been extracted from the genitive paramam padam ava bhātı (VS. SB. bhārı) bhūrı (TS bhūreh) RV. VS TS MS KS SB N. Preceded by atrāha tad urugāyasya vişnoh (RV N. vṛṣṇaḥ) In the original bhūrı is best taken as an adverb: "The bull's (Viṣnu's) highest footstep shines down mightily' TS makes the word an epithet of viṣṇaḥ: 'of mighty Viṣnu'

CHAPTER XXIII

ACCUSATIVE AND LOCATIVE

Acc. and loc of goal

§523. By far the largest and most important group of variants showing syntactic contact between these two cases is that concerning the accusative and locative of goal After verbs denoting motion (in a wide sense), both cases are familiarly used Many interpreters try to distinguish between them. Thus Delbruck, AIS. 122, says that the loc is used wenn es sich um ein Ankommen bei, ein Eindringen in u s w. handelt, wahrend in den A das Ziel tritt, dem man zustrebt, z B devesu gachait er geht unter die Gotter, aber devan gachait er geht zu den Gottern hin' Others, whether consciously or unconsciously. seem anxious to avoid admitting the loc of goal at all Thus Whitney on AV. 6. 48. 1-3 renders svastı mā sam vahāsya yajňasyodycı svāhā 'carry me along to welfare at the close of this offering', whereas it obviously means 'carry me prosperously to the end of this rite' (cf Bloomfield JAOS 16 3, 23), this would be clear even without the SS variant svasti mā sampārayāsya yajnasyodrcam, with acc instead of loc Even worse is Whitney's rendering of AV 7 40 1b yasya vrata upatisthanta apah 'in whose course stand the waters', to avoid recognizing the loc of goal (all the parallel texts vratam') Whitney ignores the established meaning of una-sthā (approach, always of motion, never 'stand'). Clearly we must render 'into whose control the waters enter'

$524. In other cases the matter is less clear, and there is more reasonable ground for distinguishing between the two cases. Yet we feel that it is a false and specious conservatism which insists on rendering a loc by something like English in, or German in with dative, wherever the meaning can possibly be twisted in that direction. We believe that in not a few cases where at first glance this meaning seems quite plausible, a closer examination will reveal grounds for holding the loc to be substantially equivalent to an acc. Take for instance the variant sūryasyaikā carati niskriesu (MS KS niskriām) TS MS KS. PG. We shall not stress the fact that MS. KS, generally the older and better YV texts, have the acc, after all, even if TS PG are secondary, they may quite well have interpreted the passage in a new way. So there seems on the face of it to be no objection to the rendering 'one moves among the seats of the sun' or the like (so Stenzler, Oldenberg, and Keith, on PG and TS) But note that a preceding verse in the same context, dealing with the same situation, has the pada trinsat svasāra upayanti mṣkṛtam, with the acc mṣkṛtam in all alike. To our minds this, combined with the indubitable fact that the loc is used of the goal of motion, suggests that it is at least likely that TS PG. mean by carati mṣkṛtēṣu about the same thing that is meant by carati mṣkṛtēnı is MS Naturally, no one would claim certainty for such an interpretation.

§525. While, therefore, we should not deny that some such distinction as that suggested by Delbruck may have been concerned in the origin of the locative of goal, and while we freely admit that in some instances of shift between the two cases a distinction may, nay at times even must, have been felt, we nevertheless believe that our variants tend as a whole to indicate similarity, rather than distinction, between them. It is easy to be over-subtle in such matters, we shall for the most part try not to impose our views upon the materials, preferring to let them speak for themselves At the same time we shall occasionally call attention to what seem to us significant features, particularly when they support the view we hold, namely that scholars have failed to recognize with sufficient clarity the close similarity between these uses of the acc Special attention may be called here to the pada vayansi ya ānveša yo mrgesu MS KS ApŠ, in which the acc vayānsi and the loc mrgesu occur in two precisely parallel phrases; surely no one would suggest that there can be the slightest difference in meaning between them.

1 With verbs of going, entering, mounting, and the like §526. We begin with verbs meaning something like 'go, enter, mount', and list first cases in which the acc and loc seem most nearly akin in meaning:

svastı mā sam vahāsya yajňasyodrcı svāhā AV : svastı mā sampārayāsya yajňasyodrcam ŠŠ See §523

yasya vratam (RVKh. Scheftelowitz, Ppp KS °te) paśavo yantı sarve RVKh AV Ppp TS MS KS AS SS. 'Into whose control go all cattle' Cf next tışihā ratham (TB. rathe) adhı tam (VS SB yam, TB yad) vajrahasta (TB 'iah) RV VS SB TB 'Mount upon (adhı-sthā) this chariot'

- endrasya jaṭhare (SV. °ram) viśa RV SV 'Enter the belly of Indra' svo ruhānā adhi nākam uttamam (TS † MS † KS nāka uttame) VS TS.

 MS KS ŚB 'Mounting to heaven, to the highest sky' The verb is adhi-ruh

- ā mitrāvarunā bhagam RV: ā mitre varune bhage SV Followed by madhvah (madhoh) pavanta ūrmayah The SV. comm reads accs like RV., and Benfey renders 'In Mitra fliessen .'
- višo-višah pravišivānsam īmahe AV : višvasyām viši pravivišivānsam (KS † pravivišānam) īmahe TS MS KS.
- prānāpānayor (ŠG °nā) uruvyacās tayā (ŠG. tvayā; so AG must intend, and so Stenzler translates it) prapadye AG. ŠG. 'I . take refuge with (flee to) prāna and apāna with thee.'
- upa dyām upa vetasam AV Vait: upa jmann upa vetase VS TS MS KS SB. The verb avatara 'descend into' is found in the following pāda in all but AV Vait. TS., and in these some such verb is understood
- yajñam dadhānāh (ApŚ vidānāh) sukrtasya lokam (ApŚ loke) KS ApŚ Preceded by te yantu prajānantah
- purisam vasānah sukrtasya loke (MS KS. lokam) VS MS KS SB:

 purisam vasānah svām yonum yathāyatham ApS Preceded in MS

 KS ApS, followed in VS SB, by tatra gacha yatra pūrve paretāh

 rightly takes loke as loc of goal, Griffith and Eggeling construe it with vasānah as loc. of situation They also, most violently and against Mahīdhara and all probability, detach sukrtasya from loke and make it depend on purīsam

- rudrasya gānapatyān (VS. SB °patyam, KS °patye) mayobhūr ehi VS TS MS KS SB 'Come, gladdening, to the lordship of Rudra's troop' VS SB KS, on TS MS see §§495, 705.
- keşv (LS kım svid) antah puruşa ā viveša VS SB AS SS LS.
- sudughendre (MS °dram, pp. °dre) †sarasvatī VS MS Followed by aśvinā bhişajāvatam (VS °tah) See Neisser's illuminating treatment of av (ZWbch. d. RV, s v), which establishes the fact that it is fundamentally a verb of motion. This receives new support from our variant, where the loc can only be interpreted as equivalent to the acc. of goal: 'strive towards Indra'

§527. In the next group the loc. can be, or has been, with more plausibility interpreted as one of situation, differing psychologically from the acc. We nevertheless believe that in some of these variants, as in the preceding, there is little if any real difference between the two cases: sūryasyaikā carati niṣkrteşu (MS KS. niṣkrtāni) TS. MS KS PG. See §524.

uṣṇū agan varunā pūrvahūtau (MS 'hūtīm) VS MS SB ŞB TB AS SS. 'It has gone to Viṣnu and Varuna, to (at) the first oblation' The generally old and primary MS may be taken as a kind of commentary on the others, yet the loc of situation is possible. A still different interpretation of pūrvahūtau is offered by the comms on ŞB. and TB, which take it as a dual adjective agreeing with viṣṇū varuṇā.

anāgā devāh śakuno grheşu (AV grham nah) RV. AV Ppp. MG. Preceded by śwah kapota işito no astu 'Favorable for us be the dove, harmless the bird, sent to our home, O gods' So essentially Grassmann, taking grheşu closely with işito, the AV supports this But Ludwig 'im Hause' divas (divah) prstham (PB. prsthe) bhandamānah (PB mand°) sumanmabhih RV. PB TA. Apš Preceded by vaisvānarah pratnathā nākam āruhat (PB āruha) In the original prstham is acc of goal with āruhat, parallel with nākam In PB. prsthe could be so construed, as loc of goal, but here we incline to agree with Caland in taking it with mandamānah, 'rejoicing upon the back of heaven.'

satyadharmāno adhvaram (TS °re) RV TS: vāmam prayaty adhvare VS. MS. ŠB. Preceded in RV by rtadhītaya ā gata, in the others by ā vo devāsa īmahe RV: 'come to the sacrifice, O (gods) of inviolable statutes' The loc may also be one of goal: 'we come to you...to the sacrifice' But a loc of situation is also possible; not indeed with satyadharmāno, 'ye that have true ordinances at the sacrifice' (Keith), since this would require accentless adhvare (Whitney 314d), but rather 'we approach you at the sacrifice, O gods of true ordinance' Cf also (kanm agnim upa stuhi) satyadharmānam adhvare, in a different context, here the loc is clearly one of situation with prātaryāvāņo: 'coming betimes to the offering' The loc may be taken in the same way, or (with Benfey) with ā sīdatu, and parallel with barhişi, 'at the offering'.

devasya santuh save (SV savam) RV AV. SV. TS etc etc This common phrase ordinarily contains a loc of situation: 'at the instigation of God Savitar' The acc savam occurs once in SV, in a verse found also in AS SS Vait, all of which read'save, it is preceded by āvir maryā ā vājam vājino agman, and followed by svargam (AS SS. 'gān) arvanto jayema (jayatah, jayata). Clearly SV. has acc of goal with agman: 'have come into the instigation (control) of Savitar' In the other texts, however, we must doubtless understand the usual sense: 'at the instigation of 'Cf. next §528. In another group we find different words used, either different governing verbs or different variant nouns, resulting in a shift between acc of goal and loc of situation, in these cases we no longer feel doubt that the force of the two cases is quite distinct priyena dhāmnā (TS TB ApŚ nāmnā, VSK nāma) priyam sada āsīda (VSK TS TB ApŚ * priye sadas; sīda) VS VSK TS ŚB TB ApŚ (bis): sedam priyeṇa dhāmnā priyam sada āsīda (VSK priyeṇa nāma [for nāmnā?] priye sadasi sīda) VS VSK ŚB It seems to us impossible to consider it an accident that the simple sad is here construed each time with loc, the compound ā-sad with acc Evidently the addition of the preverb is felt as reinforcing the motion-idea in the verb sufficiently to require the acc; instead of 'sit on', it means 'take one's seat upon' It is true that both verbs are otherwise found with both cases, so that this variant might be put with §527; but the concomitant variation of case and verbform seems to us surely significant

- antarikşasya tvā sānāv avagūhāmi (KS °kşasya sānūpeşa) TS. KS. ApŚ.:
 dıvah sānūpeşa MS. MŚ. The MS p p. absurdly divides sānū, peşa; von Schroeder rightly understands sānu, upa-işa, 'zu des Himmels Rücken strebe auf.'
- §529. The following case is like those of the last section in that agram is acc of goal with robatah, a verb of motion, while agre is loc. of situation with krādatah; it receives separate rubrication because it leads over to the next following group:
- agram vyksasya rohatah VS. TS. MS. KSA SB. TA: agre vyksasya kridatah (VSK SS krīl') VS. VSK SB. AS SS.

2. Adverbial acc. : loc

- §530. In another group of variations between these two forms agram and agre, it is possible at times to doubt whether both or either are felt as expressions of the goal In some instances, at any rate, it seems hard to avoid construing them as vaguely adverbial, 'in the beginning' or the like:
- agra ımam yajñam nayatāgre yajñapatım dhatta TS.: agra imam adya yajñam nayatāgre yajñapatım sudhātum yajñapatim devayuvam VS.: agram yajñam nayatāgram yajñapatim MS 'Lead forward this sacrifice. ' But here, with the verb nayata, the word may be, felt as 'to the front'.
- ahnām ketur uṣasām ety (AV.† eṣy) agram (TS. agre) RV. AV. TS. MS. KS N. Here too, with a verb of motion, the idea of goal may be present in the acc form, at least: 'As banner of the days he goes (thou goest) at (to?) the head of the dawns'
- payantīnām maruto yantv agram (TS. agre, AV. MS. KS. yantu madhye) RV. AV. SV. VS. TS MS. KS. 'Let the Maruts go at (to?) the front of the conquering armies.'
- tena devā devatām agra (VS MS. KS. agram) āyan AV. VS. KS. MS.: tapasā (TS tayā) devā devatām agra āyan TS TB. TA. MahānU. 'By this (by tapas) the gods attained to godhood in the beginning.' Since devatām expresses the goal, it seems that agram can hardly be anything but an adverb.
- āgnur agra (SV. agram) uṣasām aśoci RV. SV. Perhaps motion is felt in the verb ā-śuc: 'Agni was enkindled at (unto?) the beginning of the dawns'

- §531. Similarly dūram or dūre may be used in a quasi-adverbial way with a verb of driving, which yet permits the idea of goal to be involved bādhasva (AV. bādhethām) dūre (AV. dūram, TS Ppp dveşo) nirrtim parācaih RV. AV. Ppp TS. 'Drive perdition afar off.'
- §532. We have noted one other variation of strictly adverbial acc and loc., in a pada where the absence of any verb of motion makes it impossible to feel an idea of goal:
- ye arvān madhya (TA omits madhya) uta vā purānam (TA one) AV. TA 'Whoever in recent times, in middling times, or in ancient times.'
 - 3 With verbs of placing, establishing (chiefly root dhā)
- §533. The root dhā and its synonyms are familiarly used either with the acc of the person and the loc of the thing ('set, establish or'), or with the dat of the person and acc of the thing ('establish for', 'give to'); see §482, where this variant is quoted showing both idioms:
- svargam me lokam yajamānāya dhehi Vaxt.: svarge loke yajamānam hi dhehi-(or, dhehi mām) TB ApŚ
- \$534. We find also several variants in which, after $dh\bar{a}$, the thing 'placed' is put in either acc or loc, while the person is expressed by the pronoun nah, which might be either dat or acc. It is commonly, and perhaps rightly, assumed that this form is felt as a dat in the variant containing acc of the thing, and as an acc in the form with loc. of the thing, 'set us in' or 'establish for us'. It should however be noted that two accusatives may be used after such verbs, as the next paragraphs will show, tho this usage has not been generally recognized; so that nah with acc of the thing might be taken as an acc (something like 'set us unto '):

§535. As we said in the last section, there are at least a few variants in which, with verbs of placing or the like, we find two accusatives varying with an accusative and a locative. That is, instead of the loc of the remoter goal, that into which something is set, an acc is used: sutrāmendre (MS °ram) sarasvatī VS. MS TB Followed by balam na vācam āsya uṣābhyām dadhur indriyam This, it seems, can only mean 'have put strength in Indra, speech in his mouth 'It may be however that MS has been influenced by the following verse, a variant of this one, in which avardhayan (with acc) replaces dadhuh Similarly, in the same passage:

- bhişajendre (MS. °ram) sarasvatī VS MS TB. Followed by prāṇam dadhur See prec
- ut sakthyā (SS °yor) ava gudam (TS. KSA ApS sakthyor grdam) dhehi VS TS. KSA. SB. SS. ApS.: adhāma sakthyor ava gudam dhehi Vait.
- rathamtaram sāma (also vairājam, vairūpam, and bihat sāma, and tākvararawate sāmanī) pratisthityā antarikṣe (KS. °kṣam; TS. °ṣṭhityai, om. antarikṣe) VS TS. MS KS ŠB. A verb like stabhnātu is supplied from the preceding, and it seems that KS. antarikṣam can only be construed as an acc. of remoter goal: 'let the Rathamtara sāman (fix thee) for firm station in (into) the atmosphere'
- ā gharme (AS. mam) stāca paya usriyāyāh AV. AS. SS Pour the milk of the brindle-cow into the hot drink' ā-sic is here construed as a verb of placing
- §536. The compound sam-dhā, as a verb of joining, is construed either with acc. and instr, or acc. and loc.; it is the loc. form which varies with the acc in the following variant, on which see §462:
- aāgāny ātman (MS. aāgair ātmānam) bhisajā tad ašvinā VS. MS. KS TB Followed by ātmānam aāgaih samadhāt sarasvatī.
- §537. A couple of times, in ritualistic formulas, we find reciprocal shift between loc and acc forms:
- varṣīyo (VS ŚB varṣō) varṣīyasi yajña yajñapatim dhāḥ VS TS ŚB.: varṣīyo varṣīyaso yajñam yajñapatau dhāh MS KS. Addressed to the atmosphere. 'Being more extended, establish the patron of the sacrifice in a more extended sacrifice': 'being more extended than the more extended, establish the sacrifice in the patron of the sacrifice.' In such rigmarole the inversion of terms makes little difference.
- asmin yajñe yajamānāya sūrim AV: imam yajñam yajamānam ca sūrau ApS. See §488. Neither reading is intelligible; but the reciprocal interchange of the forms of yajña and sūri seems to be similar to that in the preceding. The verb (preceding) is dadhātana in ApS., pari nayām in AV.
- §538. The the verb is a form of $dh\bar{a}$ in the next variant, the psychology of the variation seems to be different:
- dadhad ratnam (AŚ ratnā) dakṣapitrbhya (AV. dakṣam pi°) āyuni (AV. āyūnṣi) AV. AŚ. ŚŚ 'May he assign wealth and dexterity to the pitrs (wealth to the Dakṣapitrs), and long lives (in [respect to?] their life).' Neither the acc. āyūnṣi (complementary object), nor (apparently) the loc āyuni (tho its meaning is not very clear), can here be understood as the remoter goal of dadhad.

4 With various prepositions

§539. There are a few variants involving acc and loc after various prepositions. In the first, with adhi, the verb is dadhāti, 'assigns', possibly the feeling that motion is involved in this verb is responsible for the secondary use of the acc in SV.:

nama trityam adhi rocane (SV onam) divah RV SV (Assigns) a third name upon the bright expanse of heaven?

§540. Similarly in the next, we find in SV an isolated use of the loc with acha, perhaps owing to the fact that the RV. verb of motion (ajanti) is replaced in SV by mrjanti 'purify', which was felt as requiring a loc:

ajantı vahnım sadanany acha RV.: mrjantı vahnım sadaneşv acha SV.

'They drive (purify) the carrier unto (upon?) the seats'

§541. A third variant shows antara with acc and loc; only the former seems to be known to the earliest language, but the latter is familiar later:

antarā dyāvapṛthwī apah suvah (MG °pṛthwyor apasyuh) TB ApMB. HG. MG.

§542. Finally, one variation is due to the use of different prepositions, and with acc, adh with loc.

ye ke ca prthivīm anu (KS prthivyām adhi) RVKh VS TS MS KS ŠB Both mean 'on (or thruout) the earth '

5. With other verbs than those of motion

§543. Other verbs than those of motion may in various ways show interchange between these two cases. Thus, sam-vad 'converse (about), discuss' governs either. In passing we may note the absence of any variant showing acc: loc of the person spoken to ('goal' of speech), which we might have expected on the analogy of the frequent interchange of the two after verbs of motion. In the later language these cases are quite interchangeable in this construction, but in the Veda such a use of the loc is perhaps hardly to be found.

pratiprasthātah paśau (MS. paśum) samvadasva ApS MS. 'Pratiprasthātar, speak about the victim (with the slaughterer)'

§544. Also verbs of eating and drinking show, besides the gen (§501), the loc varying with the acc:

papuh sarasvatyā nadyāh (MŚ °tyām nadyām, KŚ ApŚ. °tīm nadīm) Vait KŚ. ApŚ. MŚ. See §501 prajavatih suyavasam (AV. °se) rušantih (RV and TB comm rıs°) RV.

AV. TB See VV 2 §627 on rušantih TB comm explains by bhalsayantik; so also AV comm., the it reads ruso. 'Grazing (shining?) on good pasturage.'

§545. A verb of beating:

āghnānāh pāṇnorası AV.: urah paṭaurāv āghnānāh AV. 'Beating upon their breasts with their hands': 'beating their breasts and thighs (?).'

§546. A verb of conquering is construed with a loc. or with (a sort of 'inner') accusative;

tvayā (omitted in VSK. TS. KS. TB.) vayam samghātam-samghātam (VSK. samghāte-samghāte; TS TB omit one samghātam) jesma (KS *jayema, and †*samjayema) VS VSK TS. MS KS. (bis) SB. TB 'May we (by thee) conquer (in) every fight'

§547. The root ruc (rocare, ruruce) is normally middle and intransitive, taking no accus except a 'cognate' or 'inner' acc. ('shine forth light' or the like) The original form of the following variant accordingly has a loc., 'on the earth', but KS. substitutes an acc (elliptic) dual, and must understand ruruce as transitive (equivalent to the causative): 'He (Agni) has illumined heaven and earth as with the light of dawn.'

kṣāman (KS kṣāmā) ruruca uṣaso na bhānunā (MS. KS. ketunā) RV. VS. TS. MS. KS.

6. Locative absolute and accusative

§548. Several times an accusative in regular syntactic relationship varies with a loc, so loosely construed that it may not unfairly be called a locative absolute:

nābhā pṛthưyāh samıdhāne agnau (TS. samıdhānam agnim, MS. KS. °no agnım) VS TS MS. KS. ŚB. Followed by rāyaspoṣāya bṛhate havāmahe 'When Agnı is enkindled at the navel of the earth, we call upon (him) .': 'We call upon Agnı enkindled etc' On MS. KS. see §§393, 450.

samsrasįtā sa yudha indro gaņena RV. AV. SV VS. TS. KS: samsrsįtāsu yutsv indro ganesu MS See §607; loc. abs in the secondary MS.: yudha(h) object of the agent noun samsrastā.

yā svapaniam bodhayatı (HG svapatsu jāgartı) ApMB. HG. '(The shedemon) who awakens the sleeper': 'who wakes while people sleep.'

7. Case attraction

§549. Most of the remaining variants are so miscellaneous as hardly to permit classification. We may group separately a few in which formal, external attraction to adjoining case-forms seems to be involved:

havişā yajña (TB. yajñam) ındrıyam (VS °yaıh) VS. MS KS TB See the passage, discussed §473 TB has assimilated yajñe to ındrıyam.

- devāv ašvinau madhukašayādyemam yajām (ApŠ "lakayādyāsmin yajāe) yajamānāya mimikṣatam PB KŠ ApŠ MŠ 'O divine Asvins, with the horiey-whip mingle ("besprinkle) this sacrifice for the yajamāna' Only the acc seems sensible, ApŠ seems to leave the verb objectless, 'mingle (what?) at this sacrifice' It is no doubt influenced by some of the parallel formulas in the same passage, which have similar expressions with intransitive verbs and locative nouns Most perversely, in some of these ApŠ uses acc forms instead of the locs of the other texts! Thus:
- deva viṣna urv adyāsmin yajāc (ApŚ viṣṇav urv adyemam yajāam) yajamānāyādhi (ApŚ °yānu) vikramasva (MŚ yajamānāya vikramasva), same texts Here, to be sure, the loc as well as the acc may be defended, with vikram; cf. §530 above But in the next the acc. seems as impossible as the loc in the preceding, and is doubtless to be explained in the same way.

devy adıte svädıtyam adyasmın yajñe yajamanayasuvasva (ApŚ adıte 'nv adyemam yajnam yajamanayaidhi), same texts

§550. The rest are miscellaneous, and generally involve rather radical reorganization of the passages:

dyumnam vrnīta puşyase RV VS TS MS SB: dyumnam (and dyumne) vareta puşyatu KS (both) 'Let him choose glory, that he may prosper': 'let him choose glory, let him prosper' 'let him choose (him, Netar) in glory, let him prosper' object of this verb: 'Strew with darbha-grasses .—for these are jewels—the sun (-heaven) of the sacrificer.' Caland strangely takes bradhne as nom pl (adjective with niskāh').

suṣadā yonau svāhā vāṭ (TS TB. yonım svāhā) VS. TS ŚB TB.: sudhīn yonīn suṣadām pṛthưvīm (ms °vī) svāhā KS Preceded by aviṣam nah ptum hṛṇu (KS. kṛdhı), Conc. quotes the whole mantra of KS under this We see no way to construe suṣadā yonım; Keith assumes suṣadām, which is supported by KS (but note there also pṛthưvī in the ms '). 'make our food poisonless, the lap pleasant to sit in.' On the loss of anusvāra cf VV 2 §307. It looks as if VS ŚB, starting from TS 's reading, had interpreted suṣadā as loc. of an unknown *suṣadī, and changed to yonau to match it samudre yasya rasām ud āhuh AV.: yasya samudram (Ppp MS KS. samo yasya) rasayā sahāhuh RV Ppp VS TS MS KS. See §463 caksuś cit sūrve sacā RV: caksusā sūrvam drše SV. See §474 āvartanam nuvartanam RV AV: āvartane ruvartane TB ApS. The forms are differently construed; of Caland's note on ApS. The latter form of the verse is radically altered.

revatı predhā yajāapatim ānša MS KS.: revatı yajamāne priyam dhā ānša VS † ŠB.†· revatīr yajāapatım priyadhāmšata TS ApS. 'O rich one(s), kindly approach the sacrificer': 'give what he desires to the sacrificer, approach (him) ' upa rṣabhasya (TB LS uparṣ°) retası (AV. yad retah), followed by: upendra tava vīrye (AV. °yam) RV AV. TB. LS The stanza is extensively altered (Whitney on AV 9 4 23). The verb is upa preyatām, 'let be mingled', in all but AV., which reads upa prāca; this we take as active, and hence construe yad retah and vīryam as acc., not nom with Whitney. If we are right, the acc-loc. variation is psychologically similar to those listed §§533-8.

9. Corruptions

§551. The following seem clearly corrupt:

sīrṣṇā śiro 'psasāpso ardayan AV.: śīrṣṇā śiro (ApŚ. girau) vakṣasā vakṣa ejayan KS. ApŚ. The blunder of ApŚ, tho uninterpretable, is interesting because it is obviously a reminiscence of RV. 8. 45. 5 girāv apso na yodhiṣat, on which see Neisser, ZWbch. d. RV. s. v.

apsas. The variant should be added to VV 2 §§153a (apsas: vakşas, synonyms), 360, 732.

ya ājagma (N. °muh) savane mā (TS. KS. savanedam, N. savanam idam, VS. MS. ŚB ājagmedam savanam) juṣāṇāh AV VS TS MS. KS ŚB. N. Whitney renders AV. (p.p. savane, mā) 'ye that have come enjoying me at the libation', but observes that it is a corruption of savane 'mā (°nā + imā), which the comm. reads So also Conc ime calvāro rajaso vimānāḥ (MŠ °ne) KS. MŠ Other versions of the pāda (see Conc.) all end with devayānāh All Knauer's mss read vimāno; for this K. emends °ne, 'im Dunstkreis' But it would be at least as simple, and more in accord with the parallels, to emend to vimānāh.

10. Transfer of epithet

§552. Nearly all the cases of transfer of epithet (§14) between acc and loc involve also change of number or gender:

amuşya tvā prāṇe (ŚB. KŚ prāṇaṁ) sādayāmi TS. ŚB TA. KŚ ApŚ: idam aham amuşyāmuşyāyanasya prāne sādayāmi MS. In ŚB KŚ prāṇaṁ (the life of an enemy) defines tvā: I put thee down, the life-breath of so-and-so;' cf. the next mantra, amuşya tvā prāṇam apidadhāmi. These texts magically identify the soma-vessel addressed with the life of an enemy, making prāṇaṁ appositional to tvā The others: I set thee (this) upon the life-breath of so-and-so...'

ni tad dadhişe 'varam paranı (AV.* Ppp 'vare pare) ca RV AV (bis)

AV. pp ms have anāptā but prathamāh; the latter would be possible, going with the subject]

§553. What is originally a word of independent construction is attracted into agreement with another word, as its epithet (§15), in: vatrainān (AG. Kauš. SMB. HG. MG yatraitān) vettha nihitān parāke (SMB parācah) VS. AG. Kauś. SMB. ApMB HG. MG. parācah with etān; parāke adverbial, 'far away'.

- ā te vācam āsyām (HG. āsyā) dade HG. ApMB.: tām te vācam āsya ādatte (read ādade?) hṛdaya ādadhe PG. Followed in HG. ApMB. by ā (HG. om.) manasyām hṛdayād adhı Kirste suggests āsyād; more hkely āsyām is intended, with one ms., as in ApMB. If PG. is original ('in the mouth'), then HG. ApMB. have made āsye over into an adjective, 'of the mouth', agreeing with vācam; cf. manasyām which must certainly be taken as an adjective from manas.
- atheme anya upare vicakṣaṇam (AV. ºne) RV. AV. PraśU. Followed by saptacakre ṣadara āhur arpitam. In the original vicakṣaṇam (referring apparently to the cosmic year) is object of āhur. AV. stupidly attracts it into agreement with the following locatives, leaving the object (still the same entity) to be supplied from the preceding line. Ppp. as RV.
- §554. Conversely, in the following what is originally an epithet is changed so as to be construed independently (§15):
- mam rātam (SV. asya rātau) sutam pība RV. SV. 'Drink this presented soma': 'drink the soma at this man's offering'
- again ide purvacilim (TS. °cittau) namobhih VS. VSK. TS MS. KS. SB. 'I revere with homage Agai whose is the first (ancient?) devotion (TS, at the first devotion).'

11. Phrase inflection

§555. Occurs once:

rtasya pade (RV. *padam) kavayo nı pāntı RV. (both) TA. JUB. The pāda with the loc. is preceded by an object manīṣām; different contexts.

CHAPTER XXIV

INSTRUMENTAL AND OTHER OBLIQUE CASES

A. Instrumental and datase

1 As equivalents, with names of desirable qualities

§556. With nouns meaning something in the nature of a boon or desirable object or quality, a final dative often varies with an instru-Thus: sam tam sıñcatu rādhase RV Vait, 'may he pour it mental (ansu, or the like) together unto bounty,' becomes in KS ApS (in a different context, yet closely modelled on the same original) sam tat sincatu rādhasā. 'may he pour it together with bounty (bounteously)' The practical meaning of the two versions is the same, and both types of expression are very common; correspondingly common are variants They constitute the one large block showing both in different passages among the variations between these two cases The nouns in question mean regularly something like 'strength, support, aid, sustenance, food, bounty.' The instrumental seems at times to be felt clearly as one of means, sometimes as one of accompaniment, but often it shows a rather vague and undifferentiated adverbial function

§557. In some instances, which deserve separate rubrication, the presence of a dative of purpose in the vicinity seems to be responsible for the alteration of an original instrumental into a dative.

kratvā varīsssham varā āmurīm uta RV AV kratve vare sthemany āmurīm uta SV. Preceded in all by jajanus ca rājase In RV. kratvā seems best taken with varīssham, 'the most extended in power (wisdom, magic power)', yet it might even there be felt as going with the preceding verb ('created [Indra] unto rule, by [magic] power, the most extended ') Certainly the dative of SV must be taken with the preceding, and evidently it is assimilated to rājase. 'created (Indra) unto rule, unto (magic) power ' suvargeyāya (VSK svar°, VS MS KS SB svargyāya) šaktyā (TS °yaı, MS šaktaye) VS VSK TS MS KS SB SvetU '(We strive) unto the heavenly, unto (by) might'

- §559. Both the dative and the instrumental have a tendency, in the ritualistic language of the Veda, to become formulaic and rigmarole in such instances. Even some of the above variants approach such a classification, which becomes more definitely applicable in the following, here little really intelligible sense can be got out of either form.
- pretinā dharmanā (MS pretyā dharmane) dharmam jinva VS MS This is one of a long series of formulas used with the laying of the stomabhāga bricks 'With advance by righteousness (for righteousness) quicken thou righteousness' VS (and ŠB) vary between dat and instr. in different formulas of the series, MS has the dative consistently thruout To the same group belong: samdhināntariksemāntarikṣām (MS samdhināntarikṣāmāntarikṣām) jinva VS MS: viṣṭambhena vṛṣṭyā (MS vṛṣṭyai) vṛṣṭim jinva VS. 2. With expressions of uniting

- §560. A special case of this interchange which seems to deserve separate mention, tho it is not essentially different from the variants quoted above, concerns passages containing expressions of union, where the final dative varies with the associative instrumental (cf. §59):
- susambhrtā (MS. °te) tvā sam bharāmı TS. TB. ApS MS. 'I unite thee with (unto) good union.'
- ayakşmāya tvā samsrjāmi prajābhyah VS. TS. MS KS. ŚB.: ayakşmā vah prajayā samsrjāmi KS TB. ApŚ. MŚ. 'I unite thee unto diseaselessness, unto offspring': 'I unite you, diseaseless, with offspring'
- samveśanas (RV. AV. °ne) tanuvai (AV. tanvā, SV KS MŚ. tanve, RV. tanvaś) cārur edhi RV. AV SV. KS. TB. TA. ApŚ MŚ. Be happy in union (or, as a uniter) with (of, to) thy body.' Of course the RV., with an objective genitive, is the original (see §617); but it is interesting that either an instr. (AV.) or a dat. (most texts) may be substituted for this rather unusual form. There seems no objection to taking samveśanas as a nom. agentis, with comms. on TB. and TA. (samyojayntā); this would not alter the construction.

samjñanam nah svebhyah (AV. svebhih, TB svaih), followed by:

- samjäänam aranebhyah (AV. *nebhih, TB. *naih) RVKh. AV MS KS. TB. In AV. TB, 'harmony for us with our own men.. with strangers;' in the others, 'harmony for us unto (= with) our own men' etc. The mstr. is more natural in sense but metrically inferior and probably a secondary lect. fac.
- āzarasāya sam anaktv aryamā RV. SMB. ApMB: ahorātrābhyām sam anaktv aryamā AV. 'May Aryaman unite unto old age (with day and night).'

3 Other syntactic shifts

- §561. More real difference of meaning appears in the remaining variants. But sometimes the difference is still so slight that the variation could almost be classified with the preceding instances:
- apo mahi vyayati cakşase tamah RV: apo mahī vṛnute cakṣuṣā tamah SV

 'She (Uṣas) folds away (removes) the great darkness, unto seeing'
 'she, the mighty one, discloses (removes) the darkness with sight'

 §562. A somewhat different understanding of the verb seems responsible for the shift of cases in the following:
- hastāya (SV. hastena) vajrah prati dhāyi daršatah RV AV SV "The splendid vajra was placed in (grasped by) the hand (of Indra)'
- §563. Others evidently intend to express really different ideas in the two forms, other variations in the phraseology often accompany the change in case:
- vācaspataye tvā hutam prāšnāmi TS ApŠ: vācaspatīnā te hutasyese prānāya prāšnāmī (ŠŠ hutasya prāšnāmīse prānāya, ŠB hutasyāšnāmy ūrja udānāya) SB. AŠ ŠŠ 'I eat (of) thee, offered to (by) the Lord of Speech'

- arvāg devā asya visarjanena (TB °nāya) RV. MS TB. The comm on

- TB. is not troubled by the dative, simply taking it as the equivalent of an abl. (which varies with the instr. after arvāl, cf. Speyer VSS. §39, and below, §574). But doubtless TB. misunderstood the sense of the mystical verse and took it to mean 'the gods (came) hither (or, subsequently) unto its creation (i e to create it?).'
- tebhih (AV. VS. VSK tebhyah) svarād asunītim etām (AV asunītir no adya) RV. AV. VS. VSK. Followed by yathāvašam tanvam (AV. tanvah) kalpayāti (RV. *yasva). The interpretation is difficult in any reading; see the commentators.
- patım surāyā (TB. °yai, VS surayā) bheşajam VS. MS TB. Mahīdhara takes surayā as associative instr. A dat. or gen seems required; see §622.
- sajūr devaih sāyamyāvabhih (ŚŚ. devebhyah †sāyamyāvabhyah) TB. ŚŚ ApŚ. And the same with prātaryāvabhih (ŚŚ † °yāvabhyah). 'Together with (for) the gods that come in the evening (morning).' The instr. may be suggested by sajūr, if the dative (dedicatory) be taken as the original; but the formula is rigmarole and anything is possible.
- namah kṛtsnāyatayā (VSK °yatāya, KS. kṛtsamvītāya, TS MS. kṛtsnavītāya) dhāvate VS VSK TS MS. KS. Certainly a datīve is required, tho the variations show that the meaning was not understood VS comm struggles with the instr. as an abstract noun, dependent on dhāvate; he analyzes it as from kṛtsnāyata (kṛtsnaāyata) + tā, apparently assuming haplology (or is there a misprint, for °yatatayā?) The original dat is an epithet of Rudra

- §564. In a couple of cases external case attraction seems responsible for the change:
- yunajmı väyum antarıkşena te (MŚ. tena) saha TS ApŚ MŚ: yukto väto 'ntarıkşena te saha PB 'I join wind (wind is joined) for thee with the atmosphere (wind with this atmosphere) 'Formal assimilation of te to tena, influenced by antarıkşena
- dṛśā ca bhāsā bṛhatā suśikmanā MS: dṛśe ca bhāsā bṛhatā suśukvamh (KS °kvabhih) VS TS. KS ŚB. dṛśe is infinitival with suśuk°, and dṛśā seems due to formal assimilation: apparently 'with great appearance (and) bṛilhance' (on suśikmanā see VV 2 §240)

5. Corruptions

§565. A few cases seem more or less certainly corrupt: aghāya bhūma harıvah parādaı (MS °darh) RV. AV. TS MS. On MS.

('by betrayal'?) see VV 2 §384; it is probably corrupt, or else a mere phonetic variant

- dīkṣayedam (KS dīkṣāy°) hanr āgachatam nah KS TB AŚ There is no stem *dīkṣa, and it seems that KS. (all mss and ed) must be an error.
- [enāhnedam ahar ašīya svāhā KS.: ıdāhna ıd āharam ašīya MŚ ed by em; the mss corruptly point to the same text as KS See VV 2 §709.]

6. Phrase inflection

§566. Phrase inflection (§§21-2) occurs:

- rtubhış tvārtavash AV. HG.: rtubhyas tvārtavebhyah AV In two different stanzas, AV. 3. 10. 10 and 5. 28. 13, one (it is not certain which) is repeated AV 19. 37. 4 (see notes in Whitney-Lanman)
- asme kşalrāya varcase balāya RV.; saha kşatrena varcasā balena AV In different contexts
- sahasrākṣāya mīdhuṣe (NīlarU vānne) VS. VSK TS MS KS NīlarU · sahasrākṣēna vājmā AV. The same stanza as in VS etc occurs in NīlarU., but has apparently been influenced (as to vānne) by vānnā of the quite different AV. stanza

7 Transfer of epithet

§567. The only cases of transfer of epithet noted between dat and instr seem to be instances in which the variant word is a true epithet only in one of the versions, in the other having independent construction (§15):

yo agnaye dadāša havyadāthbhh (SV. °dātaye) RV SV 'Who has done homage to Agni with oblation-offerings (to Agni the presenter of oblations)' So it seems best to take SV, with havya° as a noun of agent, as in RV. 6 48 2 dāšema havyadātaye If however we take the SV form as a noun of action, the variant would belong in §558.

vity arşa canışthayā (SV panıştaye) RV. SV. 'Go with sustenance most desirable', RV The SV. is usually understood to mean 'go with sustenance unto praise' (VV 2 §86), the epithet being changed to an independent noun If we dared take panıştaye as an adjective, it might go with the 'folk' (janāya) of the preceding. pra-pra kṣayāya panyase, janāya juṣṭo adruhe (SV 'hah); this would be a genunie 'transfer of epithet'

B. Instrumental and ablative

1. Instrumental of means and ablative of source

§568. Since the source of anything may be regarded, from a slightly different angle, as the means by which it is produced or brought about, it is natural to find the ablative of source and the instrumental of means interchanging. Such variants form the largest block of variations between these two cases, of which it is to be noted that our materials seem to indicate a very marked affinity, to judge by the fact that most of the variant passages show very slight differences in meaning between the two forms.

§569. We find first a group containing a verbal form expressing source, and an ablative of source varying with an instrumental of means: yās te wisas tapasah (TB °sā) sambabhūvuh AV. TB. Whatever clans have sprung up from (by) thy tapas.'

payasā (MS °sah) šukram amrtam janitram, followed by surayā (MS. KS surāyā) mūtrāj janayantı (VS.† MS. °nta) retah VS. MS. KS.† TB. 'By (from) milk they create(d) the bright immortal productive seed, by (from) surā, from urine' Here the original clearly had abl mūtrāj (all texts), but instr. payasā (all but MS.), while the form of the stem surā was either instr. or abl, in either case being assimilated in two of four texts to the following or preceding parallel form MS. KS. are more apt to be original than VS. TB.

surayā (MS. surāyāh) somah suta āsuto madāya VS. MS KS ŠB. TB.

The ŠB. understands surayā as associative instr.; so also comm. on

TB. and Griffith Despite the authority of this ancient interpretation, we feel that the MS variant, and the similar passage just discussed, make more hkely this interpretation: 'Soma, pressed forth by (MS. from) surā, distilled unto enjoyment' This seems supported by Mahīdhara on VS.: āsutah surayā tīvrīkrtah san

punsah kartur mātarı āsışıkta JB.: punsā kartrā mātarı mā nişiñca (°cata to be read?) KBU. 'From (by) a man as creator (father) ye have implanted (implant) me in (my) mother.' On the verb-form see VV 1 §372c.

tābhya enā m †vartaya RV.: tābhyas tvā vartayāmasi KS.: tābhir ā vartayā punah TS ApMB. 'From (by) them (the four quarters of the earth) bring them (we bring thee) back' The Tait. reading is clearly secondary and poor.

- §570. Similarly in other passages where no verbal expression of origination is present:
- fort yojarth; ah (TA. Tomh) VS. SB. TA. Welfare (be to us) from (by) the sperificial formulas."
- pouruseyêd deiryêt KS.†: pouruseyene dain, ene TS. MS.: Lens-year në Inter] pouruseyên na dainët AV. Preceded by yed idam abhidëssif KS., yad idam mëthilikati TS. MS.. yan medam abhidesti AV. anyad enëhu nidyëyëh (VSK. ISEU. nidyeyê),
- on; of thur (IST. ferth...) oridy tyth (VSK. IST. oridicyt) VS. VSK. IST. Different, they say, is (the fruit) arising from (by means of) knowledge and ignorance.' That the words are felt as able, not gens., is proved by the parallel padas on; of enthuly santiferent, on; of thur ascribband, which occur in the vicinity.
- statā gajiari manasah (KS.* [2. 3] gajāamanasah) VS. MS. KS.* (bis) SB. Apš. MS.: stātā gajāari manasā (KS. *si) TS. MS. KS. Apš. A verb such as ā rabte (but with the loc. manasi, ristje—§607) is to be understood. In KS. 23. 5 stātā gajāari manasah (which certainly should be read also in KS. 2. 3 for ed. gajāara terbi, di. VV 2 §819). I take sacrifice from mind, is explained by the brāhmana: manasā rai gajāa ālabhyale—a striking proof of the equivalence of the two cases in such expressions.

2. Instrumental of means and ablative of cause

- §571. The ablative of cause is only a slight development of the ablative of source, into which it shades over imperceptibly; and it varies quite as easily with the instrumental of means. The following variants seem to contain what may best be classified as causal abla:
- tena (TB. tato) no ministrarunās ("nā) anistam (TB. anistam) RV. MS. TB.
 Preceded by sad barihistram nātinidie (TB. "nide) sudāns, adridrati šarna bhuranassa gopā. By (thru) this (sid, šarman), O M. sad V., helo us."
- bhures team indre brahmene (MS. °70) mehên RV. TS. MS. KS. AS. Become thou great, O Indre, by (thru, as a result of) our hely words.
- pari salyasya diarmana (PG. sakhyasya diarmanah) AS. PG. The PG. reading is regarded by Stender as corrept, and we have followed him in VV 2 §143; the context makes it easy to assume a change from salyasya to sakhyasya, and the reverse change is not easy to understand. Yet pari is not very easy to construe in AS., while in PG. it goes very naturally with the abl. diarmanah, either in the sense of '(turning away) from the condition of friendship' (so Oldenberg), or (perhaps better) 'in accordance with the law of friendship (or of truth, if satyasya be read).' In the latter interpretation, the abl of cause with pari would be equivalent to the instr.

§572. To this group would belong three other variants, if their ablatives were to be accepted as textually sound; they are however all suspicious for one reason or another.

abhi śravobhih pṛthwīm RV: uta śravasā (MS. śravasa [p p °sah] ā) pṛthwīm VS TS. MS TA. 'And (has spread over) the earth also by reason of his glory.' MS like the others has in the preceding the parallel mahinā (instr.) divah, 'over the heavens by his greatness' If śravasah be accepted it would have to be an abl. of cause; but see VV 2 §991 hranyapānar ammīta sukratuh kṛpā (AV kṛpāt) svah AV SV. VS. TS. MS. KS. ŠB. AŠ ŠŠ. Whitney adopts kṛpā for AV., which is read by some mss and comm (the variant might be added to VV 2 §420) AŠ. ŠŠ. add the ūha tṛpā svaḥ for kṛpā svaḥ, which should have been recorded in VV 2 §138 Can the anomalous final t of AV. be explained as due to misunderstanding of a ms reading in which t was inserted, interlinearly or marginally, as a substitute for k in kṛpā, and later taken as an addition at the end of the word? satyā eṣām āśiṣah santu kāmaiḥ (SMB kāmāt) SMB ApMB. HG. So Conc., but Jörgensen reads kāmāh in SMB., with only one ms recorded as reading kāmāt. Cf. §412.

3. With expressions of separation

§573. The instrumental is sometimes used with expressions of separation or release, of the thing separated from, by analogy with the associative instrumental used after (antonymic) expressions of joining See e g Whitney, Gr. 283a, Speyer, VSS §33. In this way it comes to be interchangeable with the ablative of separation:

tebhir no adya (Ap$ tebhyo na indrah) savitota vişnuh K$. Ap$: tebhyo asmān varuņah soma indrah Kau$. The verb vi muñcantu follows 'May (Indra,) Savitar and Vişnu free us (today) from these (fetters of Varuṇa)', or the like.

viśvā (MS. vy) amīvāh pramuñcan mānuşībhih (KS Ppp °şebhyah, MS. °şāṇām) AV. Ppp MS. KS.: viśvā āšāh pramuñcan mānuṣīr bhiyah VS. TS. Followed by śwābhir (Ppp VS KS MS. śwebhir) adya parı pāhı no gayam (VS. TS MS KS vrdhe) All evidence points to mānuṣībhih as the original The AV comm followed by Whitney supplies ūtibhih But the noun most naturally understood with mānuṣī is viś or kṛṣṭi, 'tribe' (see Grassmann, Wbch s v.). The instr is then probably one of separation: 'freeing all diseases from human tribes' KS Ppp must be interpreted similarly, taking mānuṣchhyah as abl, 'from men' On VS. TS see §474 MS has a possessive gen: 'freeing (removing) men's diseases' The following pāda is a reminiscence of RV. 6 71 3b, śivebhir adya pari pāhi no gayam, where śivebhir goes with a preceding pāyubhis (the context is wholly different) Here śivebhir or śivābhir must be taken either as an adverb, 'auspiciously', or as a noun, 'with kindness' Note that only AV has mānuṣībhih and śivābhih in the same case form.

4 Dependent on prepositional adverbs

§574. The prepositional adverbs paras, avas, arvāk govern either abl or instr without difference of meaning. This use of the abl is apparently related to the abl of comparison, of Speyer, VSS §39.

paro dwā (AV. vulg dwo by misprint, MS dwah) para enā pṛthwyā (MS 'yāh) RV AV. VS TS MS KS 'Higher than the heaven, higher than the earth here' Followed (except in one of the two RV occurrences, and AV. which repeats this) by.

paro devebhir (MS °bhyo) asurair (MS °ram) yad asti (TS asurair guhā vat) RV VS TS. MS KS avaś ca yah parah srucā (Vait srucah, KS paro dwah) RV. KS Vait arvāk tvā parebhyo 'vidam (VSK tvā parebhyah) paro 'varebhyah (TS tvā parair avidam paro 'varaih, MS tvā parebhyah paro 'varebhyo 'vidam) VS VSK TS MS KS ŠB. 'I have found thee on the near side of the farther, on the far side of the nearer'

5 In adverbial forms

§575. Temporal or local adverbs are formed with the endings of both cases, usually without clear difference of meaning:

nīcād uccā svadhayābhi pratasthau Ppp TS KS: nīcair uccaih svadhā abhi pra tasthau AV. Here nīcād has distinct ablatival force: '(from) below above (nach oben)', or 'below (and) above'

ayam paścād (MS paścā) udadvasuh MS KS In this and the next two the p p of MS reads paścāt ayam paścād (MS paścā) vskvavyacāh VS TS MS KS SB See prec. maryo na yoṣām abhy etr paścāt (MS paścā) RV. AV. MS TB. See prec two.

yad ahnā (and, rātriyā, v. l. rātryā) pāpam akārsam TA MahānU.: yad ahnāt (and, rātriyāt) kurute pāpam TAA. The comm. repeats the strange forms ahnāt and rātriyāt (blended forms under the influence of ablatives of a-stems), saying that they are 'Vedic'.

6. Case attraction, and miscellaneous

§576. Almost the only variants in which the two cases seem to have really quite distinct meanings are the following, in the first of which it seems likely that external case-attraction (formal assimilation) has been influential:

sa budhnād (AV. Ppp 'nyād) āṣṭa januṣābhy (AV. januṣo 'bhy) agram AV. Ppp (JAOS 37: 260) TS KS. AS. The instr. is doubtless original; note that even Ppp has it. 'From the bottom to the top he has reached by his nature' or the like. The isolated januṣo is doubtless due to attraction to the abl budhnyād, now taken as an adjective: 'from the lowest generation to the top he has reached.' Otherwise Ludwig.

väyur na īdīta īdītavyair devair antarīkṣyaih (ApŚ. āntarīkṣaih) pātu KS. ApŚ: vāyus tvāntarīkṣāi pātu sūryo dīvah MŚ.

samjagmāno (KS. °nā, MS TB ApŠ. °nau) divā (TB ApŠ. diva ā) prthivyā (ApŠ † °vyāh) VS. MS KS. ŠB. TB. ApŠ. All but TB. ApŠ have two instrs: 'uniting with heaven and earth'. The subject is the sukra and (or) the manthin graha, either together in the texts that have a dual, or separately (in VS. ŠB., which repeat the formula with each). TB. keeps the instr. prthivyā (the final ā is fused with the next word āyuh), while ApŠ. (which reads prthivyā āyuh) understands an abl. (so Caland; less likely gen. or dat); both must take diva(h) as abl Caland renders 'Zusammentreffend von dem Himmel, von der Erde her'. The TB. comm. understands 'uniting with the earth, as far as (i.e. including) the heaven': ā divo dyulokasahitayā prthivyā. The secondary TB. ApŠ reading contains the reverse of double sandhi (false vowel resolution) and should be added to VV 2 §991; the variant might also be added to VV 2 §732.

C. Instrumental and genetive

1. Objective genitive

§577. In contrast with the ablative, the genitive shows few variants in which it is used interchangeably with the instrumental. Most of our variants are miscellaneous in character and show quite different syntactic applications of the two cases

- §578. The objective genitive, which easily interchanges with various other cases (§§87 ff.), varies with an associative instrumental after noun expressions of union or association, with practically no difference of meaning:
- samvasānam (SV. °no) vivasvatah (SV °tā) RV. SV. 'Fellow-dweller of (with) Vivasvat'
- samvesane tanvas (AV. tanvā) cārur edhi RV. AV. 'In joining of (with) thy body...' Other texts samvesanas tanve (tanuvai)., with final dative; see §560.
- viśveşām detānām aham (KS. vi° aham dev°) devoyajyayā prānath (KS prānānām) sāyujyam gameyam KS ApŚ '.. may I go into association with (of) the life-breaths'
- §579. After expressions of gratification, the objective genitive interchanges with the instrumental of means:
- tena †irpyatam anhahau TB. ApŚ: tasya †irmpatam ahāhāhuhū svāhā ŚŚ juṣṭam devebhir (AV. devānām) uta mānuṣebhih (AV. mānuṣānām) RV. AV. 'Accepted by (pleasing to) gods and men'

2 Subjective genitive

- §580. Again, the subjective genitive varies, without essential difference of meaning, with an instrumental of means or agent, after a participle or its equivalent; the difference is one between nominal and verbal psychology:
- yan mayā duskriam kriam TA. MahānU. BDh: yan me kim cana duşkriam ViDh. 'Whatever evil has been done by me (or, of me, as it were 'my deed').'
- yan me (TA.* BDh * mayā) manasā vācā TA (both) MahānU. BDh (both) As in preceding; the participle kṛtam follows
- chandobhr yajñaih sukṛtām kṛtcna AV.: brahmaṇā guptah (ApMB sampṛñcānas) sukṛtā kṛtcna ApMB HG With the deed of the righteous cous': 'by (with) the holy speech which is made by the righteous man'. There is no need to emend HG to sukṛtām with Oldenberg
- āpo deviḥ prathamajā riena (AV. riasya) RV. AV. 'The divine waters, first-produced by (first-born of) the rta.'

3. Partitive genitive

§581. The partitive genitive (almost appositional at times) exchanges in various ways with an instrumental, sometimes with little difference

- of meaning, as in the first instance, where the instr is appositional to another instrumental; in phrases of this type the gen. may exchange with any other case (§84):
- vasantena (also grīşmeṇa, varṣābhis, saradā, hemantasisirābhyām) tvartunā (KSA. °nām) haviṣā dīkṣayāmi TS. KSA. 'I consecrate thee with the spring (etc.) season (with the spring of the seasons), with oblation.'
- $\S582$. Psychologically similar also are the uses of the two cases with verbs of offering:
- tasmā indrāya havişā juhota MS.: tasmā indrāyāndhaso juhota RV. "To Indra here make offering with oblation (make offering of the soma)' Others with the acc; §§466, 502.
 - §583. Somewhat less close are:
- yad asya karmano 'tyarīrıcam ApŚ. HG AG. ApMB: yat karmanātyarīrıcam ŚB. BrhU. PG. 'Whatsoever of this performance (by my performance) I have done in excess'
- sukalpam agne tat tava (AV. tvayā) AV. TS. MS. KS "That (part) of thee is easily made good': 'that is easily made good by thee'. Addressed to Agm.
- anuşiup (also trışiup, gäyatrī, jagatī, panktıs) tvā chandasām avatu (KS. chandasāvatu) TS MS KS. 'May anuştubh (etc.) of the meters (with meter) help thee' Formulaic rig_narole.
- supyotir pyotişā (TA ApS. °şām) svāhā VS. SB. TA ApS. 'Fair-lighted one with light (of lights).' As prec.
- teşām chidram prati dadhmo yad atra KS.: teṣām chinnam sam etad (SS. sam imam, TS praty etad) dadhāmi VS. TS SS: tebhis chidram apidadhmo yad atra MS. AS. 'Of (by) these (33 threads)

4 Instr.-gen. of time

- §584. The question whether the gen can be used adverbially in expressions of time was formerly mooted but may now be considered as settled affirmatively; see §678, and cf. especially Oldenberg, RVNoten on 1.79 6 In this sense it is therefore interchangeable with the instr We have however noticed only a single variant, and even its form is not certain:
- madhu naktam utoşasah (KS °sā, TS TA. °si) RV. VS TS. MS KS SB. TA BrhU. MahānU. Kauś The RV. uṣasah has been taken (e.g by Grassmann) as nom. pl: 'the night and dawns are honey' This is impossible because there is no nom. naktam (Wackernagel 3 p. 234). that form can only be adverbial acc, and consequently uşasah is also adverbial. It might (with Wackernagel I. c and others) be taken as acc pl, but may at least as well be gen. sg, in either case it means practically the same as uşasā (or °sī), 'at dawn'

5. Case attraction

- §585. The rest contain miscellaneous shifts which are hardly classifiable in terms of definite syntactic relationships. We shall mention first a group in which formal, external attraction or assimilation seems to be responsible for the change:
- cakşuşah (KapS. °şā) pıtā manasā hı dhīrah RV VS TS MS KS KapS. ApS Raghu Vira emends to cakşuşah, wrongly, assımılation to manasā (Oertel 18)
- viśvasyeśāna ojasā (SV °sah) RV AV SV. 'Ruler of all by might': 'ruler of all might' We take it that ojasā has been altered to ojasāh by attraction to viśvasya.
 - samvatsarena savită no ahnām (MS ahnā) TS MS. KS. AS. 'By the year of days': 'by the year, by the day'. The MS form seems to be assimilated to samvatsarena; so in the next two. But note that in all three the formal difference consists in loss of a final nasal, and of VV 2 §307, where these variants might have been quoted the change may be largely phonetic in character, since the final nasal seems to have been weakly pronounced
 - trıvrı no vişthayā (KS. trivrd vişthayā) stomo ahnām (MS ahnā) TS MS. KS AS As prec.
 - mıtrāvaruņā saradāhnām (MS °hnā) cıkıtnū (with varr) TS. MS KS. AS. As prec
- traistubhena chandasendrena devatayāgneh pakṣenāgneh pakṣam upa dadhāmi TS: traistubhena chandasā chandasāgneh pārśvenāgneh pārśvenāgneh vam upa dadhāmi KS: traistubhasya chandaso 'gneh pakṣenāgneh pakṣam upadadhāmi MS 'With the triṣtubh meter, with the side of Agni .', so TS KS, original In MS the first phrase is assimilated to the following agneh: 'with the side of the triṣtubh meter, of Agni .' So also with the meter-names jāgata, gāyatra, ānuştubha, pāñkta.
- devasya tvā santuh prasave 'svinor bāhubhyām pūṣno hastābhyām sarasvatyā vācā (VS TS ŚB. sarasvatyai vāco) yantur yantrena abhrṣiācāmi VS. TS. MS KS ŚB: sarasvatyai vāco yantur yantriye (VSK. vāco yan turye turyam) dadhāmi VS VSK ŚB. Assuming that MS KS. are original, we have assimilation of vācā to the preceding sarasvatyā(s) or 'yai (§143) and the following yantur in the others If, as is less likely, the gen. is original, it has been assimilated to the preceding instr. in MS. KS.

§586. In the next the formal association is of a rather different sort. Here the assimilating force is exerted by the construction of a parallel formula in the vicinity, to which the variant formula is brought into closer parallelism by the change; it is not a question of influence of another word in the same passage. The three formulas here quoted belong to the same context:

pāvamānasya tvā slomena gāyatrasya vartanyopankor vīryeņa. MS.: pāvamānena ivā slomena gāyatrasya (KS. °tryā) vartanyopankor vīryeņa TS. KS.

bįhadrathamtarayos tvā stomena trustubho vartanyā šukrasya vīryena.

agnes tvā mātrayā jagatyar [gen] vartanyāgrayanasya vīryena (KS. jagutyā vartanyā). TS KS: agnes tvā mātrayā jāgatyā vartanyā...MS. In these three associated formulas, the gens pāvamānasya (MS only) and brhadrathamtarayos (TS. only), 'with the hymn of the P.' and 'of the B.-R (sāmans),' are clearly secondary and modelled on the parallel agnes tvā mātrayā etc. of the third formula; the mstr. forms (found consistently in KS) are original. The second phrase of all three formulas consists of vartanyā modified by an adjectival or appositional instr. in KS, and again this seems to be the original form. In the first formula the instr. is replaced by a dependent gen in both TS. and MS, in the second and third formulas in TS alone. These gens. are modelled on the next following phrase, upānšor (šukrasya, āgrayanasua) vīryeṇa.

6. Miscellaneous

§587. In listing the remaining miscellaneous variants, we begin with those in which no other change, or no serious change, in addition to the shift of case-form, occurs in the variant:

vayam nāma pra bravāmā (KS † °ma; add to VV 2 §446) ghrtasya (TA ApŚ ghrtena) RV VS MS KS. TA ApŚ MahānU (All but one ms of MahānU. used by Jacob read ghrtena, which therefore should probably be read as in TA ApŚ, tho the comm has ghrtasya) Caland translates ApŚ as if gen; but the agreement of the Tait. texts suggests that ghrtena is the true reading of the school, non-sensical as it seems to us. TA comm. says the 'name' means the pranava (om).

- pra yujo (SV. yujā) vāco agrīyah RV. SV Followed by the verb cakradat (SV acikradat). RV: 'let the leader (Soma) of his associate, the song, sound forth' yujā may be an adverb (so Benfey), 'the leader of the song has sounded forth together,' or perhaps better a noun, 'the leader of the song together with his associate (the song)'
- sarasvātyā (TB. ctyāh) supippalah VS. MS TB. Preceded by devo devair (TB. indro) vanaspatih, hiranyaparno aśvibhyām. The instr is associative; and TB. glosses the gen by sarasvatyāh sambandhī
- rasam parisrutā (MS °to) na rohitam VS. KS. MS TB. The instr depends on the verb vayati in the prec, felt as a verb of mixing or uniting: 'as the red sap with parisrut'. However, VS comm glosses parisrutā with parisrutah ('as the red sap of parisrut').
- ajo bhāgas (TA 'bhāgas) tapasā (AV 'sas) tam tapasva RV AV TA 'The goat is (thy) portion (TA portionless), burn him with heat': 'the goat is the portion of heat, burn him' Whitney considers the AV superior, but wrongly, of Oldenberg Noten on RV 10 16 4
- patım surāyā (TB. surāyaı, VS. surayā) bheşazam VS MS. TB. See $\S 563$
- sam brahmanā (AV °nām) devakrtam (RV AV devahītam) yad astī RV. AV Ppp VS TS MS KS ŚB. TB The instr is associative, with sam neşī (neṣa) of prec 'bring together with the prayer which has been made by the gods' In AV it becomes a partitive gen with yad. 'whatever prayers have been ', no instr being expressed the one must still be understood
- vısvā (MS vy) amīvāh pramuñcan mānusībhih (KS °şebhyah, MS. °sānām) AV. MS KS See §573
- §588. Different words, or more extensive and radical reconstructions, are involved in the following:
- agnir äyuşman sa tena tväyuşayuşmantam karomı (KS tasyayam äyuşayuşman astv asau) TS KS PG ApMB 'By this life': 'by his life' The meaning is practically the same, but different pronouns are used
- ayam no nabhasas patih (TS ApŚ. nabhasā purah) AV TS GB Vait Kauś ApŚ Followed by samsphāno abhi rakṣatu
- ye barhışo (MS °şā) namovilim (VS VSK MS SB namaulim) na jagmuh (VS SB yajanlı for na ja°) RV AV. VS VSK. TS MS KS SB TB
- ya ındrena saralham yäti devah AV . yenendrasya ratham sambabhüvuh MS KS ApS See §419.

- satyā tā dharmanas patī ApŠ : satyād ā dharmanas patī (ŠŠ dharmanā, Vait MŠ dharmanas parī, but MŠ mss. dharmanā parī) AŠ. ŠŠ. Vait MŠ.
- sam tvā nahyāmy apa (MŚ MG. adbhir) oşadhībhih TS. MŚ. MG.: sam tvā nahyāmi payasauşadhīnām AV. Cf sam tvā nahyāmi payasā pṛthivyāh (TS ghṛtena), which immediately precedes this; see §460
- pūṣā sanīnām (TS ApS sanyā), somo rādhasām (TS °sā) TS KS. MS. ApS MS. (only the first two words in ApS. MS; delete MS. in Conc under somo rā°). In MS. KS probably a noun, 'giver', rather than a verb of giving as v. Schroeder suggests, is to be supplied: 'Pūṣan (is the giver) of gifts' etc In TS. āvavrtran precedes: 'Pūṣan (has surrounded me) with gain' etc.
- ghrtasyāgne tanvā sam bhava KS MS Kauś MG.. ghrtena tvam tanvam (TS tanuvo) vardhayasva RV VS TS. MS SB. ApS. MS N.
- sam it tam rāyā srjati svadhāvān (AV.* rāyah srjati svadhābhiḥ) RV. AV. (both)
- āyurdā agne havişo juşāṇah (ŚG. havişā vṛdhānah) TS TB. TA. AŚ. ApŚ ŚG.
- yena (AV yasya) dyaur ugrā (AV. urvī) pṛthivī ca dṛdhā (TS. dṛdhe, AV. mahī) RV. AV Ppp VS VSK. TS MS. KS. In passing we note that the change from ugrā to urvī is a sign of the increasingly unpleasant connotation of ugra
- §589. The forms themselves are doubtful of interpretation, or textually suspicious, in the following:
- arıştāh syāma tanvā suvīrāh RV. AV. TS. KS: ariştās tanvo bhūyāsma LS. The LS. tanvo is doubtful as to form and meaning. Is it gen with arıştās, 'without harm to the body' (Whitney Gr. 296b)? Or abl of source or cause? Or adverbial accus? Or even nom pl. ('may we be unharmed bodies, persons')? It may, finally, be a mere error or misprint in the unreliable edition.
- nediya it srnyah (TS.†°yā) pakvam eyāt (AV ā yavan, TS MS KS āyat) RV AV. VS TS MS KS. SB N Here srnyah may be variously interpreted in the RV form, it is often taken as gen, 'may the ripe grain come near to the sickle' But acc pl. is also possible; likewise nom sg (stem srnya) may be considered (cf Oldenberg, Noten on 1.58 4). The AV. makes it a nom pl.
- prthwyā (MS * °vyāh) sambhava VS TS MS KS ŠB. KŠ. ApŠ. See VV 2 p 197
- [vācām indriyenāviša (TS MŚ vācā mendr°) TS. KS. MŚ Read KS. like the others, see v Schroeder's note on 31. 15, p. 18 n 1.]

7. Transfer of epithet

§590. The only case which may be called in the strictest sense a 'transfer of epithet' is the uncertain one which follows:

amaiṣām cittam prabudhām (TS KS. °dhā) in neśat (KS naśyatu) RV AV TS. KS. 'At home let the plan of these clever (enemies) come to naught' In TS KS. prabudhā may be taken as personal, 'by the wise one', referring to Agni, to whom the verse is addressed, or else, with Keith, as impersonal, 'by (his) wisdom'

§591. In the rest an originally independent word is transformed into an epithet of another word, to the case of which it is attracted (§15) stomo yajñaś ca (TB. yajñasya) rādhyo havişmatā (TB °tah) RV. TB 'Praise and sacrifice (are) to be offered by the sacrificer.' Once the gen has been introduced in TB. (see §449), havişmatā is assimilated

vrṣṇah sutasyaujasā (SV. PB. °sah) RV. SV PB In SV ojas is made an epithet of soma: 'of the bull [that is] strength, pressed out', instead of 'pressed out by strength' vedam savitrā prasūtam maghonām AG.: vedam prasūtam savitrā maghonā SG. Stenzler and Oldenberg both adopt for AG the reading of SG, with no ms authority. To us it seems that AG is not only sound but original: 'holy knowledge pressed forth by Savitar for liberal patrons' SG. has secondarily assimilated maghonā to savitrā, transposing the latter word into juxtaposition with what is now its epithet: 'pressed forth by the liberal Savitar' ghrtasya vibhrāştim anu sukrasocışah (RV AV VS. KS vaştı socışā) RV AV SV. TS. MS KS Followed by ājuhvānasya sarpışah The two independent words of the original are replaced by a compound epithet of sarpişah.

D. Instrumental and locative

§592. The variations between instrumental and locative are instructive in showing a much closer association between these two cases than has commonly been assumed Speyer (VSS §75) notes uses in which the locative vies with most of the other oblique cases, but does not mention the instrumental And yet our variants show that they are interchangeable, often with little or no difference of meaning, in a variety of ways

§593. 'In the instrumental is put that concept which is associated with the principal concept in the action' (Delbruck, AIS p 122) The locative designates primarily the sphere within which an action takes place. But the sphere of the action may also be regarded as an accompanying concept of the action. Conversely, the accompanying concept may be treated as the circumstance within whose sphere of operation the action takes place. The occasion (loc.) is at the same time the means, cause, or manner (instr.) of the action. The phrase marutām prasave jaya (TS jayata) of TS. MS. KS. MS. means 'in (upon, German auf) the impulse of the Maruts conquer.' Is there any essential difference between this and the variant of VS. SB., with prasavena? Only a faint and elusive one, we should say; just as we imagine a Latinist would be puzzled to make a very clear distinction between in hoc signo unces and hoc signo unces

$594. Adverbial expressions of time and place, as well as manner, occur with both cases Distinctions are often drawn between them Thus it is said that the instr. denotes the time or place thruout which the action takes place. Delbruck uses the terms Raum- and Zeiterstreckung of such instrumentals To be sure he admits (AIS. p. 130), at least for time concepts, that this distinction cannot always be felt, noting that dosā, instr, 'in the evening' is the precise counterpart of uṣasi, loc, 'in the morning'. We are very doubtful whether the distinction has any value. At any rate our variants show a number of cases in which it seems forced.

§595. We recognize, of course, that these two cases developed some quite distinct uses, and we should not claim that in all or even most of the instances in which they vary with each other, their meanings are precisely identical. To some extent we shall keep in mind the conventional terminology which speaks of instrumentals of 'manner, cause, accompaniment' etc., and of locatives of various sorts. And where it seems to us likely that the two cases had somewhat different connotations, we shall not hesitate to point them out. Yet we believe that the mass of our variants will be found to confirm the view that the two cases approach each other much more than has been generally recognized; so that it is anything but surprising that in a number of ritualistic, rigmarole formulas, either will do as well as the other (§604).

1 Time expressions

§596. We have already referred to the use of the two cases in expressions of time, and noted that the distinction made by Delbrück and others is not supported by the variants (§594):

maghāsu (RV. aghāsu, ApG. maghābhir) hanyante gāvah (ApG. gāvo grhyante),

- phalgunīşu (RV. arjunyoh, ApG phalgunībhyām) vy (RV. pary) uhyatı (ApG ūhyate) RV. AV. ApG. Kauś 'In the asterism of the Maghās (Aghās) the cows are slain (taken), in that of the Phalgun (Arjunī) the marriage takes place' Distinction of meaning scarcely conceivable.
- madhu nakiam utoşasah (KS °sā, TS TA °sı) RV VS TS. MS KS ŠB. TA. BrhU MahānU. Kauś Here uşasah (probably gen sg) is the original, and is replaced by either instr. or loc, see §584

2. Place expressions

- §597. The instr is particularly frequent in expressing the 'way' with verbs of motion (Speyer, VSS §42); but the loc may equally well bused:
- samudram gandharveşihām anvātışihata (KS † °şihatha) vātasya patmaneditā (KS patmann īdītā) MS. KS 'On the path of the wind' avyo vāreşu (SV avyā vārebhir) asmayuh RV SV., and
- avyo vāre (SV. avyā vāraih) para prayah (and prayam) RV SV. 'In (or, thru) the sieve of wool.' The verbs are pavasva, punānah, hanvanta, the subject, soma
- drunā (SV drone) sadhastham ašnuse RV SV 'By (in) the wooden vessel thou attainest thy place' The vessel is the 'way' thru which the some flows.
- drunā (SV VS drone) sadhastham āsadat RV. SV VS As prec §598. And without the concept of motion, in simple expressions of location, the instr may replace the loc
- adhi kṣami wṣurūpam (ArS kṣamā wɨvarūpam) yad asti (ArS asya, MS † āstā) RV. AV. ArS MS TB Here kṣamā, 'on the earth', must apparently be instr, and is well known in the RV. itself It cannot be regarded as dependent on adhi, which is not found with the instr. (tho it may reinforce the loc, as probably here with kṣami).
- paro yad idhyate dwā (SV dw) RV SV. Here dwā is commonly regarded as dependent on paras: 'beyond the sky' (so Ludwig, Grassmann Wbch., and Bergaigne 2 187) Yet it may quite well mean simply 'in the sky', with paras an independent adverb (so Grassmann's translation), in that case it would be the precise equivalent of dwi.
- tīre tubhyam gaūge HG: tīre tubhyam asau PG: tīreņa yamune (and, tīreņāsau) tava ApMB Preceded by wyrttacakrā āsīnās HG ApMB., avmuktacakra (v l °rā) āsīran PG It seems scarcely possible to take ApMB. trena otherwise than as an expression of location, 'sitting on thy bank.'

§599. The instrumental adverb guhā is used sometimes in ways which suggest that it may have been originally local. This, to be sure, is not proved by the fact that it varies twice with the locative guhāsu, 'in secret places':

gandharvo dhāma paramam guhā yat (VS. dhāma vibhītam guhā sat) AV. VS.; gandharvo nāma nihitam guhāsu TA. MahānU.

trīni padāni (TA MahānU padā) nihitā guhāsya (TA. MahānU. guhāsu) AV. VS TA. MahānU

3 Instrumental of means or cause and locative

§600. We now approach cases in which the instrumental is no longer strictly local or temporal, but is tinged with its more familiar meaning of means. Even so it often varies, with little shift of meaning, with a locative, which then ordinarily denotes the occasion rather than the literal, physical 'place', of. (in) hoc signo vinces, §593. As a transition case we mention first the following variant, where the loc kumbhe, 'in a pot', is still used of physical location, while the instr, 'with pots', regards the noun as the means by which water is carried. It is obvious that the difference is subjective and that either way of looking at it is simple enough:

śam u yāh kumbha ābhṛtāh AV.: śam yāh kumbhebhır ābhṛtāh AV §601. Others, in which the literal local sense is not, or not so clearly, present, are:

na vai śvetasyādhyācāre (AG. śvetaś cābhyāgāre, HG śvetasyābhyācārena, MG śvetasyābhyācāre) AG PG. HG. ApMB MG Followed by ahir jaghāna (PG. dadarśa) kam (AG. MG kim) cana Kirste assumes that HG is corrupt, and Oldenberg renders a loc, 'within the dominion of the white one' The instr is indeed bad metrically and doubtless secondary. But abhyācāra in the sense of abhicāra, 'attack of hostile magic,' is guaranteed by AV. 10 3 2, and there is no need to abandon it, the more since MG has the loc of the same word: 'by (MG in) the hostile magic of the white one the snake has killed no one (nothing).' The other texts have different words

marutām prasave (VS SB °vena) jaya (TS jayata) VS TS MS KS SB MS See §593

apām uta prašastīsu (RV † °taye, AV VSK. °tībhīh) RV. AV. VS VSK TS MS KS ŠB Followed by aśvā (devā) bhavata (°tha) vājinah The RV. original has a dative of purpose (§558), for it the later texts substitute instr or loc, which are virtually equivalent; with the loc., the praising is the occasion and so the means of the becoming strong: Become ye strong in (by) the praising of the waters' sikṣā sakhibhyo haviṣi (MS KS °ṣā) svadhāvah RV VS TS MS KS 'Teach, OS, (thy seats) to thy friends at (by) the oblation 'The oblation is the occasion, and so the means, of the teaching agnır ukthena vähasa VS. TS MS KS AS SS agnır uktheşv anhasu AV. Contexts essentially the same

§602. Several times, at the end of pādas, the loc sg ending e varies with the instr pl aih While both forms are interpretable just as in the preceding, we have little doubt that phonetic moments (e:ai, and the light pronunciation of final visarga) are involved; see VV 2 §§381, 706, to which the first two variants should be added:

bodhāması tvā haryasva yajñash (MŚ yajñe) RV. SV. MŚ mitrāvarunā rakşatam ādhipatyash (AŚ. °tye) TS MS KS. AŚ ghṛtavatī savitar (MS. KS °tur) ādhipatye (TS °tyash) TS MS KS.

4 Instrumental of manner or accompaniment and locative

- §603. In the next group the instrumental comes even closer to its fundamental, original meaning, as denoting an attendant circumstance, and so varies if possible even more easily with the locative of the occasion. There is, however, of course no sharp dividing line between the instr. of association and that of means or cause, and some of the following cases might perhaps as well be put in the preceding group:
- rāyas poşena (KS. poşe) sam işā madema VS. TS. KS. ŚB. TB. ApŚ. MŚ. ŚG PG. 'May we revel with (in) increase of riches, with food.' Associative feeling is perhaps indicated by sam. The meter indicates that KS. is secondary.
- vivasva (°vann, °vān) ādityaisa...tasmin (TS. tena) matsva (TS. KS. mandasva) VS. VSK. TS. KS. SB 'Delight in it'
- ny adhur mātrāyām (KS. mātrayā) kavayo vayodhasah (KS. °sam) MS. KS. 'Established him in fixed order' will translate both, but KS. has an instr. of manner, MS. a loc. of situation.
- sve dakşe (VS. MS KS SB. svair dakşair) dakşapiteha sida VS TS. MS. KS SB. TB. ApS. 'Be seated in (with) thine own power(s).' Add to VV 2 §706.
- sa rāye sa puramdhyām (SV. °dhyā) RV. SV. AV. JB. Preceded by sa ghā no yoga ā bhuvat. 'May he stand by us in our work unto riches, in (with) liberality.' puramdhyā = liberaliter.
- riena (MG. rie 'va) sthūnām (ApMB HG. °nāv, MG. °nā) adhi roha varisa (MG. varisah) AV. AG. HG ApMB. MG. All Knauer's mss rieva, Knauer says 'wohl nicht rtā iva'. If he is right, rie is loc. of the sphere of action
- tvayā (RV. tve ā) bhūṣanti vedhasaḥ RV. SV. 'Worshipers devote themselves to (busy themselves with) thee' Phonetic moments are involved here; VV 2 §911.
- §604. In some ritualistic formulas the sense of the rigmarole is so feeble that one case will do about as well as any other:
- prācyām disi (MS. KS. MŚ. prācyā disā, ŚŚ. prācyā disā saha) devā rtvijo mārjayantām TS MS KS. AŚ. ŚŚ ApŚ. MŚ. 'The gods, the priests, shall purify (me?) in (with, by?) the eastern quarter.' In ŚŚ saha proves that the instr. is associative; in MS. KS. it might also be one of means. Similarly the formulas beginning udīcyām disy, ūrdhvāyām disi, pratīcyām disi, daksināyām disi, with variant instrs.
- svāyām yat tanvām (tanuvām) tanūm arrayata TS. KS.: svayā tanvā tanvam airayat AV.: svā yat tanū tanvam airayata KS. KSA. 'Produced a body in (with) his own body.'

- 5. Instrumental and locative with verbal expressions of joining
- §605. Special rubrication is deserved by a group in which a verbal expression of joining is used, now with an associative instrumental, now with a locative of goal (cf the similar use of the accusative of goal, §467) In all but the first case the verb is one of placing or of motion, compounded with the preposition sam; in these the locative may be felt as going more closely with the notion of the verb, the instrumental with the preposition.
- brhaspate †yāmyām (KS ms yāmyā) yunīgdhi (yunīdhi) vācam TS. MS KS AS Von Schroeder emends KS. to yāmyām, but the instr. is perfectly sound: 'yoke up holy speech in (with) yāmī', whatever yāmī may mean.
- sam devānām sumatyā (AV. VS MS SB. sumatau) yajānyānām RV. AV. Ppp VS TS. MS KS SB. TB. '(Bring us) together with (to, in) the favor of the sacrificial gods'
- sam patnī patyā sukrteşu (TB. ApŚ. sukrtena) gachatām MS KS. TB. ApŚ MŚ 'Let the wife with her husband come together to (with) good deeds'
- swena (VSK. swe) me sam tişihasva VSK TB TAA ApS. 'Come together with (in, unto) luck for me.'
- angāny ātman (MS. angair ātmānam) bhişajā tad asvinā VS. MS. KS. TB. The verb is sam-dhā; see §462
- §606. In one variant involving the root sprdh 'vie', the two cases are differently used. This root takes the instr. of the person vied with, the loc of the person or thing striven for. For the exegesis of the variant see VV 2 §109
- spardhante dhiyah (TS. KSA. dwah) sürye na (SV. süre na, TS. KSA † süryena) wsah RV. SV. TS KSA.

6. Miscellaneous

§607. There remains a relatively small group in which the instr. and loc seem to be used in definitely different constructions; often different words are used or the passage is otherwise reshaped garbha wet subhrto garbhinībhih (RV. wa sudhito garbhinīsu) RV. SV.

KU. 'Well borne by (well established in) pregnant women.'
vayam rājabhih (AV.* rājasu) prathamā dhanām RV. AV. (both). 'We

It is not clear who the 'kings' are The p p of both RV. and AV.

- samsrasiā sa yudha indro gaņena RV. AV. SV. VS. TS KS.: samsrsiāsu yutsu indro gaņesu MS. 'This Indra, mingler of the fight (yudhas, objective gen.?) with his band (instr. of means).' MS. has distorted the pāda, starting with a phonetic corruption (VV 2 §660; some AV. mss. have samsrsiā): 'Indra, in the mingled fights and bands' or 'when the fights and bands are mingled.'
- yathā prihwyām agnaye samanamann crā mahyam samnamah sam namantu AV: yathāgnih prihwyā samanamad cram mahyam bhadrāh samnatayah sam namantu TS. KSA † 5. 20 The latter seems to have an associative instr.: 'As Agni with the earth made obersance. - mayā gāvo gopatīnā sacadhvam AV.: mayi gāvah santu gopatau AS.: mayī tisthantu gopatau MS Different verbs. For the loc. with santu cf. §671.
- mahān mahitve tastabhānah (KS. mahitvā samstambhe) KS TB. ApŚ. 'Great, taking thy stand on greatness': 'great with greatness on firm foundation'
- śrusţī (SV. °te) jātāsa ındavah svarındah RV. SV. śrusţī is taken as ınstr. of an ı-stem, 'quıckly', Benfey understands śrusţe as loc. of an a-stem, 'der Satzung gemass'
- svāhā yajñam manasā (KS °si) TS MS. KS ApŚ. Others with gen., see §570. Different verbs understood; in TS. ā rabhe, in KS. nsrje. §608. The change seems to be due to case attraction in the following:
- varšvānarasya tejasā (MŠ °s1) TB ApŠ MŠ. Preceded by širas tapasy āhttam. The preceding tapast has influenced MŠ.

7 Phrase inflection

- §609. What we call 'phrase inflection' (§§21-2) seems to be found in the following variants, used in different contexts:
- varśvānarasya danştrayoh (and danştrābhyām) AV. The form with loc. is followed by agner api dadhāmi tam; of these two pādas an unmetrical recast seems to be found in varśvānarasyanam danştrayor api dadhāmi AV.
- devē devebhr yajate (and °tā) yajatrash RV : devē deveşu yajatā yajatra RV. AV. MS yat te pavitram arcişi (AŚ °ṣā) RV VS MS KS TB AŚ LŚ. VHDh. In all but AŚ. followed by agne vitatam antar ā. In AŚ. followed by kalaśesu dhāvati, which is probably meant to be part of the same formula, in that case AŚ does not intend a pratika of the RV. verse.

8. Transfer of epithet

§610. We have noted only one instance of this, and in it the original form is an independent word, which is attracted in a secondary text into a form which is a i epithet of the adjoining word:

adrnhathāh śarkarābhis trunşlapı (MŚ tribhrşlibhih) KS ApŚ MŚ 'Thou hast made thyself firm with pebbles over heaven': '. firm with three-pointed pebbles'

9. Textually doubtful or corrupt

- §611. The few remaining variants are textually doubtful or corrupt: tvişim indre na (MS s p indrena) bheşajam VS MS. TB. Mere ritual jargon; it does not matter what is read, but MS p p agrees with the others Cf VV 2 §826
- varşman kşatrasya (AV rāştrasya) kakudı (TS. TB Poona ed kakublı, TB Cone kakublıh, MS kakubblıh) sışrıyānah (AV. TB. srayasva) AV. TS MS TB Comm on TB kakublır uttamāñge (intending kakublıy ut^o?). One ms of MS kakudblı Probably MS like the rest intends a loc, the strange-looking form kakublı would easily suggest an instr pl to a thoughtless copyist Cf VV 2 §400 'Resting (rest thou) on the summit, on the head of royalty.'
- samudre na (and samudrena) sındhavo yādamānāh RV Read samudre na both times: VV 2 §826
- na mānseşu na snāvasu ApMB. neva mānse na pībasi AV: naiva mānsena pīvari PG. The last simulates a voc sg fem pīvari. This initial corruption brings in its train mānsena, dependent on the following participle āyatam. But the reading hardly deserves consideration.
- [tanūr me tanvā saha MŚ: tanūs tanvā (tanuvā) me saha (AV sahed antāh)
 AV. (mss) TS TAA Vait PG The vulgate emends AV to tanūs

DATIVE AND ABLATIVE, GENITIVE, LOCATIVE

A. Dative and ablative

- §612. Since most nouns do not distinguish dative and ablative forms except in the singular, it is not surprising to find few variants between these cases. They present only one well-defined group, in which a dative of interest varies with an ablative of separation with verbs meaning 'remove' or 'free'. The practical meaning of the two forms of these variants is identical. But most of them are formally uncertain, since the forms classed here as either datives or ablatives may also be considered genitives.
- sa sutrāmā svavān undro asme (AV.* MS. asmat) RV. AV. (bis) VS. TS. MS KS Followed by ārāc cid dvesah sanutar yuyotu (RV.* yuyota). 'May Indra, well-saving, keep very far away from (for) us all hatred.' This is perhaps the clearest case we have, since the ambiguous asme in such a connexion can scarcely be anything but dative, and asmat is unmistakably ablative.
- ud uttamam mumugdhi nah (MS mat) RV. KS. TB. MS. 'Loose the upmost (bond) for (from) us (me).' But here nah may (with the comms. on both RV. and TB) be considered gentive.
- idam aham senāyā abhītvaryai (MŚ °yā) mukham apohāmi TB. ApŚ. MŚ. 'I remove the front from (for) the hostile army.' But a gentive would be as possible as a dative or ablative ('the hostile army's front'), and is preferred by Caland; note, further, that the ending-yai may be considered ablative or genitive as well as dative (Chapter III)
- yāsyā apašavyā (etc.) tanūs tām asyā apajahī ŠG SMB.: yāsyaī tām asyaīnāšaya svāhā PG.: yāsyaī tāmtonāšaya HG. Forfull quotations of this group see §148, where it certainly belongs since the first asyās or asyaī is clearly genitive. The second asyā occurs before a vowel but is doubtless intended for asyās rather than asyaī It may be meant as ablative ('from her'), but also as genitive ('that [form] of hers'), or even dative (§§151-2) Similarly the second asyaī of PG. may be meant for any one of the three cases.

Only HG. has an unmistakable ablative. 200 Since this cannot be said to prove the intention of the other texts, their interpretation remains obscure

ıştāpūrtam kṛnutād,āvir asmai KS istāpūrtam sma kṛnutāvir asmai AV istāpūrte kṛṇavāthāvir (VSK SB kṛnavathāvir, TS TB MŚ kṛṇutād āvir) asmai (MŚ asmāt) VS VSK TS TB ŚB MŚ The original 'make clear his iştāpūrta for him' The abl of MŚ (all mss) is rather surprising, perhaps 'the iştāpūrta (that proceeded) from him'? (abl of source?)

yadı varunasyāsı rājño varunāt tvā rājño 'dhikrīnāmı Kauś: yadı vāruny ası varunāt tvā nişkrīnāmı (Rvidh varunāya tvā parikrīnāmy aham .) ApG Rvidh: yady ası vārunī varunāya tvā rājñe parikrīnāmı GG And similarly with yadı somasyāsı (saumy ası, yady ası saumī) etc In a pregnancy rite 'If thou art Varuna's (Soma's), from King V (S) I ransom thee' or 'for King ' The ablative seems more natural, possibly it was changed to a dative to avoid what might be felt as an implication of hostility to Varuna and Soma Some of the texts have other similar formulas

B Dative and genitive

$614. The intimate relations between these cases are well known, but our variants make them appear even closer than has commonly been assumed, for the Vedic language at any rate Later Sanskrit allows the gentive to absorb all the functions of the dative, except perhaps that of purpose, see e.g. Speyer VSS §§71 f Our variants show at least one case (§627) where a gen. seems to replace a dative even in an expression of purpose (cf Speyer, fine print at the end of §72), and they suggest that in other functions originally pertaining to the dative it is older and commoner than has been supposed At the same time there are not wanting instances of the reverse, dative forms where we should expect genitives (cf. tat purusāya vidmahe etc., §634) The Prakrit languages, as is well known, have merged the two cases pretty completely, genitive forms as a rule taking over all the functions of the dative except that of purpose; but occasionally, especially in personal pronouns, old dative forms survive, usually with genitive functions, sec Pischel Gr d Pht Spr. §361, and under the pronominal inflections

§615. A special complication is the recognized use in Brahmana texts of the dative ending at of feminine nouns in genitive function, and the less recognized reverse of this. Undoubtedly the confusion between the endings ai and $\bar{a}s$ in feminine nouns goes far beyond anything that is found between other genitive and dative forms, so that we have felt constrained to agree with Wackernagel that some special factor must have been at work in them; this special factor may reasonably be found in the sandhi conditions of final ai and $\bar{a}s$. Accordingly we have inclined to group variations between these endings as formal rather than syntactic variants, in §§137 ff rather than here. Yet since not only ai forms as genitives but also $\bar{a}s$ forms in dative use are found, and since some other variants between the two cases are precisely similar to some of these, it is impossible to separate them wholly. To some extent surely the same syntactic confusion is concerned in that formal interchange, and §§137 ff must be considered together with the sections which follow here.

1 With adjectives meaning 'pleasant' and the like

- §616. We begin with a group of variants in which both dative and genitive are standard from early times, so that the variation is easy and constant at all periods Cf Speyer VSS §§46, 71:
- jusio vācaspataye (MS. °patrh, KB. ŠŚ. °pateh, TB °patyuh) TS. MS. KB. JB GB AŚ ŚŚ. Vait KŚ. 'Pleas ig to V.'
- juşļo vāco (GB AŚ Vait. KŚ. vāce) bhūyāsam TS. MS. KB. GB. JB. AŚ ŚŚ. Vait KŚ. ApŚ. MŚ. (2. 3 6. 18).

- janāya jusio adruhe (SV °hah) RV. SV See the context, quoted under vīty arşa canışihayā (SV. panışiaye), $567. SV. probably takes the dat with the verb vīty, rather than with jusio
- priyam sarvasya pasyatah AV: sarvasmai ca inpasyate AV. (the latter preceded by priyam mā kṛṇu.) Delbruck AIS p 146 says he knows no certain case of priya with dat A whole series occurs in AV 19 32 8
- agner jihvāsi suhūr (KS supūr, VSK TS. TB. subhūr) devebhyah (TS TB. devānām) VS. VSK TS KS TB $B. $$. 'Thou art Agni's tongue, invoking (purifying, being) pleasant(-ly) for (to) the gods'
- śwas tokāya tanvo (KS † tanve) na ehr (KS. MŚ † edhi, v. l. ehr) KS. MŚ. Kauś: śam tokāya tanuve (SMB. tanvai) syonah TS. TB. ApŚ. SMB. PG.
- tasyās (MS tasyai) tvam harasā tapan VS † 12 16c, TS MS KS. Followed by jātavedah šīvo bhava 'Glowing with warmth, be gracious to her (the ukhā), Jātavedas' So VS comm. and Griffith; Keith on TS. takes lasyās as possessive with harasā If this be correct for TS. it would be equally possible for all the others, and tasyai would be a gen. in ai (Chapter III). But (§141) MS does not favor these gens in ai

2. With nouns of uniting

§617. Similar is the use of the dative in variation with the objective genitive (also the instrumental of association) with nouns of uniting: samveśanas (RV AV "ne) tanuvai (SV. KS MŚ tanve, RV tanvaś, AV tanvā) cārur edhi RV AV. SV KS TB TA ApŚ MŚ. 'In joining of (with) thy body', RV AV.: 'uniting to thy body'

3 Dative of interest and (possessive?) gentive

§618. Often a dative of interest (or, at times, indirect object) varies with a genitive which may frequently be felt as possessive. So especially in YV. dedicatory formulas where no verb is expressed; thus in the first quoted, 'the fox is Aryaman's' or 'the fox to Aryaman' aryamno (KSA. 'ne) lopāśah TS KSA puruṣamrgaś candramasah (TS KSA 'se) VS. TS MS KSA eny ahnah (TS KSA ahne) VS TS. MS KSA kṣipraśyenāya (TS KSA 'nasya) vartikā VS. TS MS KSA vasūnām (MS vasubhyah) kapiñjalah VS. §619. Similarly with a copular verb and a nominal form containing the root dā 'give' (or dhā used as its equivalent, cf. VV 2 §§100 ff.): devebhyo (VS devānām) bhāgadā (TS. bhāgadhā) asat VS. TS MS. KS †

asmabhyam su maghavan bodhi godāh RV. VSK.: asmākan su maghavan bodhi godāh (and gopāh) RV

§620. The exact force of the gen in the following is less clear, but we are inclined to feel it essentially as in the preceding two sections:

- medobhyah svāhā VS· medasah svāhā VS. VSK MS. TB The dat is simple and regular, but occurs in a different context; there is no real variant in the passages containing the gen. With it the VS comm supplies devān as object of the verb yaj (the formula begins hotā yakṣad agnim (VS. indram) svāhājyasya svāhā etc): 'let the hotar worship (the gods) of marrow with hail' So with the other parallel gens (there are no datives in the passage) But TB. comm supplies a copula, paraphrasing. svāhutir astu, and this seems more likely to be approximately right.
- §621. Less jejune and formulaic, but not very different in psychology, are the following, in which a dative of interest (or a dative which may be felt as an indirect object, or even, when the verb is one of motion [see the first case], of goal) varies with an adnominal (possessive or objective) genitive:
- vrşne (KS vrşno) codasva suştutim RV. TS MS. KS Pāda a is tasmai (KS kasmai) nūnam abhidyave KS is anomalous both in using the interrogative stem kasmai (which seems due to the initial of the following stanza, kam u svid asya senayā), and in detaching vrşne from the preceding pronoun with which it should agree. Its gen vrṣno is felt as dependent on suṣṭutim 'Inspire fair praise to (for, KS of) the bull'
- Imam ū (MS u) şu tvam asmākam (TA ApS şu tyam asmabhyam) RV.
 SV MS TA ApS MS Followed by sanım gäyatram navyānsam (navīyānsam), agne (agnır) deveşu pra vocah (voca) 'Proclaim this new song of ours (for us)'
- tasya guptaye dampati sam śrayethām AV · tasmai gotrāyeha jāyāpatī samrabhethām TA 'For protection of it'. 'for it, for the family (?)' Comm on TA refuses to connect tasmai directly with gotrāya, probably rightly.

- trṣā trṣṇe (SV. trṣṇaḥ) pari pavitre akṣāḥ RV. SV. Preceded by eṣa sya te madhumān indra somaḥ. 'This honeyed soma, the bull, has flowed thru the sieve for thee, the bull (thru thy, the bull's, sieve), O Indra.'
- vaiśvānaro aūgirasām (AV. 'āgir', AS aūgirobhyaḥ) [stomam uktham ca cāklpat, with varr.] AV. AS. SS.
- indrasya tvā bhāgam somenā tanacmi (VSK. tanakmi) VS VSK. KS SB.: indrāya tvā bhāgam somenātanacmi MS. MŚ.: somena tvātanacmīndrāya dadhi TS. TB. ApŚ 'As Indra's portion': 'as portion (curds) for Indra'
- §622. The following we have also grouped here since they may easily be interpreted as containing a real syntactic shift; but since they concern the fem endings ai and $\bar{a}s$, they might also be regarded as purely formal (with §§137 ff.):
- patim surāyā (TB. surāyai, VS. surayā) bheşajam VS MS. TB 'A remedy for (of, i.e. against) surā' VS comm. takes the instr. as associative; it seems that dat. or gen. is required, but either of them would be satisfactory.
- utlānāyā (TS. °yai) hṛdayam yad vilastam (TS. vilistam) VS TS MS KS SB. Preceded by sam te vāyur mātarisvā dadhātu '.. heal the broken heart of (for) thee, lying supine'

- athāsyai (TS TB MS. °syā) madhyam edhatām (with varr.) VS TS MS. SB TB. AS. SS Vait. LS.: adhāsyā madhyam edhatām KSA
- §623. The following variants still show a dative of interest varying with a possessive genitive, but other changes in the form or meaning of the variant word, or changes in the other words and the construction of the passage, make the variations somewhat different in character:
- pra sunvānasyāndhasaḥ (SV. PB. sunvānāyāndh°) RV. SV. PB Followed by marto na vṛta (taṣṭa) tad vacaḥ. 'Let him accept this song of the pressed-out herb (for, on behalf of, the presser of the herb).' In RV. sunvāna is generally active in sense, e.g. 8. 31. 16, this is the only passage in which Grassmann assigns passive force to it Hence the change in SV., which makes it active.
- gharmam śrīnantu prathamāya dhāsyave (AS. SS. śrīnantı prathamasya dhāseh) AV. AS. SS 'For the first drinker': 'of the first drink'
- asambādhā yā madhyato mānavebhyah MS: asambādham badhyato (read ma°, VV 2 §241) mānavānām (Ppp. mānaveşu) AV. Ppp. Kauś (Who (earth) is unobstructed for men in the midst': 'unobstructedly in the midst of men (Ppp. among men, in [their] midst)' Differing from Whitney, we take asambādham as a neuter adverb (§404)

andrāya bhāgam para tvā nayāmi AV: andrasya bhāgah suvate dadhātana ApS The gen is apparently felt as possessive with bhāgah; §393. devo devānām pavatram asi TS MS KS: devo devebhyah pavasva VS SB. As in prec, the gen. is possessive.

rāyas poṣam (KS tvaṣṭah poṣāya) v ṣyatu (RV MS TB * ṣyatām, AV. MS * KS ṣya) nābhīm asme (AV asya) RV. AV VS TS MS. (bis) KS TB (bis) ApŚ 'Let him release (release thou, etc.) [our seminal fluid, turīpam] as offspring for us (of it).' Ppp has asme, and Whitney calls asya 'senseless', but this is too harsh. It refers to turīpam and is not harsher than many another secondary change in AV

§624. In one variant it seems scarcely possible to interpret the dative forms except as equivalents of the possessive genitive. It is perhaps worth noting that the dative is the pronominal tubhyam, which is precisely one of the Sanskrit dative forms that lives on in Prakrit, with genitival function (Pischel, §420 f); indeed, even in epic Sanskrit mahyam and tubhyam seem to be used as gens. (Speyer, VSS §46 note): tire tubhyam asau (HG. tubhyam gange) PG. HG: tirenāsau tava ApMB Simply 'on thy bank' seems to be the only possible meaning

§625. Conversely, one variant in which the sense seems to require a dative of interest shows now the pronominal me, now other forms which are unmistakably genitive. Naturally me is here interpreted as dative of interest, yet the only reason for taking it so, rather than as genitive, is the prevalence of the dative in this sense. On the other hand it is difficult to take the gens pitrām etc in any other sense, Oldenberg on HG frankly does so, and Buhler's rendering of BDh, 'mayst thou never fail to the (manes of our) fathers,' is hardly more than an evasion of the problem (dragging in a possessive genitive by a very forced ellipsis). In later Sanskrit the gen replaces the dat in just such uses (Speyer VSS. §72), and we have little doubt that the unmistakably gen forms of the variant, at least (and perhaps even me?), must be so interpreted.

\$626. Similarly in the next, the dative depends on prati-bhar 'bring (as a gift)', and if the gen is textually sound it must be an early case of the absorption of this dat function by the gen, as in classical Sanskrit The SV reads the form narah at the end of a stanza, and the next stanza begins with \bar{a} ; but it would probably be over-bold to suggest that it originally read nara for nare, with sandhi between the stanzas, and that this was later misinterpreted as narah The SV comm glosses with $nar\bar{a}ya$:

4 Dative of purpose

§627. As has been noted above (§614), the dative of purpose is not usually replaced by the genitive even in later Sanskrit, and when we find it varying with the genitive in the Veda, we can usually see a difference of psychology, as is to be expected Yet in one case, at least, we find it hard to avoid the feeling that the gen is the exact equivalent of the dative of purpose This concerns a series of formulas beginning with savitā tvā savānām (prasavānām) suvatām, and continuing with parallel formulas in which suvatām or the like is understood dependent nouns (savānām etc) are all genitives in most texts, but in three of the formulas some texts have datives The dative of purpose is what we should expect in all, and the commentators are hard put to it to explain the gens: Mahidhara on VS supplies adhinative, similarly Eggeling, 'for (powers of) quickening' etc Keith makes the gens partitive: 'May Savitar of instigations instigate thee,' which in some of the formulas seems clearly impossible (e.g. rudrah paśūnām, 'Rudra of cattle'!). PG reconstructs the initial formula thus: agnir bhūtānām adhipatih sa māvatu, which makes the gens simple but is clearly a secondary avoidance of the difficulty. We feel that the only natural interpretation is to take the gens as mere equivalents of the dative of purpose:

bṛhaspatīr vācām (VS ŚB. vāce) VS TS MS KS ŚB rudraḥ paśūnām (VS. ŚB paśubhyah) VS VSK TS MS KS ŚB PG indro jyeşṭhānām (MS KS jyaiṣṭhyānām, VS. ŚB jyaiṣṭhyāya) VS. TS MS KS ŚB PG

§628. The other cases involving dative of purpose are few and miscellaneous. In the first the gen is the object of a verb of ruling, the variant is precisely parallel to those between dative of purpose and accusative of direct object (§§70, 420), except that here the verb requires a genitive object:

kşayantam rādhaso (TS °se, KS śavase) mahah (TS KS mahe) RV SV VS TS MS KS SB 'Ruling over (unto) great bounty.'

- §629. The next two involve the well-known construction of a dative of purpose with a dependent genitive or a second dative, on which see Delbrück AIS. §$103 and (with infinitives) 54:
- rāye (ApŚ. rāyo) agne mahe tvā (dānāya samidhīmahi) SV ApŚ 'We kindle thee, Agnı, unto great riches, unto giving (unto great giving of riches).'
- dwas (MS. dwe) wā jyotiṣe TS. MS. A verb like 'I place' is understood: 'thee (the brick) for heaven's light' or 'for heaven, for light'
- samvesāyopavesāya gāyatryai (also trīstubhe jagatyā anustubhe) chandase 'bhibhuve svāhā KS: aristyā avyathyai samvesāyopavesāya gāyatryai chandase 'bhibhuve (ApŚ gāyatryā abhibhūtyai) svāhā KS ApŚ.: samvesāyopavesāya gāyatryai (PB ŚŚ. KŚ. also trīstubhe and jagatyai, TS ApŚ gāyatryās trīstubho jagatyā anustubhah paāktyā) chandase (TS. ApŚ. om) 'bhibhūtaye (with varr) svāhā TS PB. SŚ. KŚ. ApŚ On the meaning see Caland's note on ApŚ. 14. 19. 1. For the gāyatrī (etc) meter, for conquest': 'for the conquest (conquering power) of the gāyatrī (etc)'
- §630. The next is not very different, here the dat or gen depends not on another dat. but on an acc:
- vidā rāye (AA. rāyah) suvīryam RVKh (Scheftelowitz p 135, vs. 4a)
 AA Mahānāmnyah 'Grant us hero-abundance of (unto) wealth.'
 But rāyáh may also be acc pl, 'wealth (and) hero-abundance'; the variant would then belong with §486.
- §631. In the next it is possible to find the influence of formal case attraction:
- akūpārasya dāvane (SV. °naḥ) RV. SV N Here dāvane is an infinitive, 'unto giving, that thou mayst give' SV. attracts it to the case of akūpārasya, making it a noun of agent (as often in cpds of the type aśva-dāvan): 'inexhaustible giver.'

5 Dative and genitive with verbs

- §632. The confusion between these two cases appears in a few variants in which one case is regularly construed in dependence on a particular verb, and is replaced by the other in one variant form. Cf. Delbruck §110, Speyer VSS §72.
- §633. Thus, in two pads of one verse, the root radh 'be subject to', which regularly takes the dative, has the genitive in secondary texts drisantam (AV sapatnān) mahyam (TB. ApŠ mama) randhayan RV.
 - AV. TB ApS: drisans ca mahyam radhyatu AV: drisanto radhyantām mahyam MS. (Add to VV 1 §§79, 238, 349) Followed by:

mo aham (AV mā cāham, MŚ mā tv aham) dvisate (TB ApŚ °to, MŚ °lām) radham RV. AV TB ApŚ MŚ. The verb radh is otherwise recorded only with the dat, for which the gen is here clearly a substitute TB comm interprets mama as possessive gen, 'my enemy', which would be possible but for the parallel dvisato, which obviously cannot be taken so, TB comm takes dvisato as abl, dvi° sakāšān mo radham mama hinsām prāpnuvāni, which is absurd

§634. Conversely, the roots vid and dhī, as verbs of intellectual activity, may be expected to govern the genitive. In the case of vid, perhaps the nearly homonymous root vidh, which governs the dative, may have been influential in introducing the dative in the stray occurrence which follows. It is noteworthy that in the same context TA and MahānU present parallel formulas with the regular genitive tat puruşāya vidmahe, mahādevāya dhīmahi MS KS TA MahānU Immediately preceded in MahānU by tat puruşasya vidmahe, sahas-rākşasya mahādevasya dhīmahi, in TA by puruşasya vidma, sahas-rākşasya mahādevasya dhīmahi

6. Phrase inflection

§635 In a couple of instances we find what we have called phrase inflection (§§21-2), that is the use of formulas in different contexts requiring different construction of the nouns in question: punānāya prabhūvaso RV SV punānasya prabhūvasoh RV varuna mitra dāšuşah (and °şe) RV (both) Sāyana and Grassmann take dāšuşah as gen sg , Ludwig as acc pl

7. Miscellaneous

§636. The remaining cases are miscellaneous, involving individual reconstructions which fall into no general categories \cdot pra nu vocam vidathā jātavedasah RV \cdot pra no vaco vidathā jātavedase ArS

sūryo devo (KS * divo, so read both times, once ed reads devo, but there is a v 1 divo, and one is a repetition in a Brāhmana passage of the other) divisadbhyo dhātā kṣatrāya (KS † kṣatrasya) vāyuh prajābhyah (KS prajānām) [brhaspatis tvā prajāpataye juhotu] TS KS (bis) In KS understand divisadbhyo with each genitive: 'Let Sūrya offer thee for the sky-dwellers of the sky, Dhātar for (those) of royal power' etc In the secondary TS the datives are attracted to the case and construction of prajāpataye 'Let Dhātar offer thee for royal power' etc

8. Errors

§637. There remain a few cases which seem to involve errors, or at least seem uninterpretable:

tuje janā (ArS jane) vanam svah AV. ArS: tujo yujo vanam (SS. balam, conjecture of Hillebrandt) sahah AA SS. Both forms and meanings of the words are wholly obscure devasya (ŚB* devebhyas) tvā santuh prasave 'śvinor bāhubhyām pūṣṇo hastābhyām ā aade VS TS MS. KS. KSA ŚB. (both) TB. TA Kauś The dat. form occurs at ŚB. 14. 2. 1 6 which quotes VS. 38 1 incorrectly, VS has devasya. Note further that the latter part of the formula in ŚB. omits the word adityai before rāsnāsi, tho it is found not only in VS. 38. 1 but in the same phrase almost immediately following, ŚB. 14 2. 1 8 = VS. 38 3. Eggeling seems right in assuming that ŚB has a mere misquotation of its source, VS, rather than a real variant based on contamination with such phrases as devebhyas tvā (see Conc. under these words)

C. Dative and locative

1 After verbs

§638. The extent of the interplay between dative and locative in adverbial constructions has hardly received the emphasis it deserves. That both cases are used to express the goal of motion and of actions of various kinds is indeed well known (cf. Delbruck, AIS §§80, 96; Speyer, VSS §§76, second part, 81b); and that the dative of the interested party, and the locative as expressing that in relation to which the action takes place, may interchange, would doubtless be recognized by all. Our variants however suggest that the scope of such interchanges is greater than has ever been clearly stated. Without claiming precise equivalence in psychology between the two cases, or even attempting to differentiate rigidly between different aspects of the use of each, we shall assort our variants according to the various verbs with which dative and locative are interchangeably used

The roots $dh\bar{a}$ and $d\bar{a}$

\$639. In VV 2 §101 we have already referred to the use of these two cases with the roots $d\bar{a}$ and $dh\bar{a}$, and pointed out that while both are freely used with $dh\bar{a}$ 'place', the simple root $d\bar{a}$ 'give' is not properly used with the locative (the as we shall see some of its compounds may be so used) In the same place we showed that but for this difference of construction, $d\bar{a}$ and $dh\bar{a}$ are often genuine synonyms. Moreover the dative and locative after $dh\bar{a}$ are hardly distinguishable in meaning Such a phrase as yaso mayi dhehi PB Vait SMB is equivalent to yaso me dhehi (TA $dh\bar{a}h$) TA SS, whether we prefer to translate 'put splendor in me' or 'assign splendor to me'. And so with the following variants after $dh\bar{a}$:

varco dhā yajñavāhase (VS ŚB. °si) RV VS MS KS AB TB ŚB dhehy asmabhyam (ApŚ. asmāsu) dravnam jātavedah ŚŚ KŚ ApŚ dhattād asmabhyam dravneha (TS ApŚ asmāsu dravnam yac ca) bhadram TS MS ApŚ.

§640. While the preceding instances show $dh\bar{a}$ alone, in the next we find, beside $dh\bar{a}$ with both dative and locative, forms of $d\bar{a}$ (or rarely other expressions of giving) with dative (not locative, VV 2 §101).

Verbs of uniting

- §645. Verbs of uniting may take dative or locative as well as instrumental (§59):
- apriye prati muñca tat (Kaus muñcatam) AV. Kaus: dvisadbhyah prati muñcami pāsam (HG pāpam) SMB HG ApMB '(I) fasten this (evil, bond) upon the enemy'
- apriye (AV.* dvişate, RV. āptye) sam nayāmasi RV AV (bis).

Verbs of bringing and the like

- §646. In these, which cannot be sharply distinguished from verbs of giving, the locative begins to appear more clearly as one of goal of motion
- devebbyo (ApS deveşu) havyavāhanah RV. ApS Different contexts

 The variant is included here because the governing word, havyavāhanah, tho a noun, is clearly verbal in force.
- mahyam vātah pavatām (KS °te) kāme asmın (AV kāmāyāsmai) RV. AV. TS KS 'Let the wind blow (the wind blows) for me to this desire'
- yajñāya stīrnabarhişe in vo made RV AS: yajñeşu stīrnabarhişam vivakşase SV. The governing verb is vṛnīmahe 'we wish' = 'we call, bring' (thee to the sacrifice) Cf §489.
- yad vo devāsa āgure (MS °ri) TS MS Followed by havāmahe 'we call', felt as a verb of bringing, cf prec.

Verbs of saying

- §647. It is well known that either dat or loc (as well as acc) may be used of the person spoken to Whether we should render the locs in the following by 'among' rather than 'to' may be left an open question: develope mā sukrtam brūtāt ($B with ūha, voceh) VS $B: deveşu nah sukrto (VSK mā sukrtam) brūtāt ($KS. brūta, PB MŠ brūyāt) VSK. Miscellaneous verbs

- §648. The root $sth\bar{a}$ in the sense of 'serve, obey' governs not only the dative (Delbruck AIS p 143) but also the locative:
- yyaışlhye śraışlhye ca gāthınāh ŠŠ · dhṛtyai śraışlhyāya gāthınāh AB. Preceded by devarātāya tasthıre

- §650. The verb hu 'pour; offer' takes either case, according as the offering is thought of as 'poured in' or 'offered to':

ABLATIVE, GENITIVE, AND LOCATIVE

A Ablative and genitive

Ablative of source or separation and genitive

- §656. The only considerable group of variants under this heading shows an ablative of source or separation varying with an adnominal genitive which is its virtual equivalent. The genitive may be possessive, subjective, or partitive.
- tato mā yajāasyāšīr āgachatu MS KS ApŠ · tasya māšīr avatu vardhatām AŠ 'From it may blessing of sacrifice come to me': 'may its blessing aid and increase me'
- yasya (KS yato) deva dadhişe pürvapeyam RV VS TS MS KS. SB. 'Of (from) which (soma) thou hast taken to thyself the first draught, O god'
- tato no dehi jīvase RV TB TA: tasya no dhehi jīvase AV SV. Kauś. 'From (of) it give to us that we may live'
- mā parā seci mat payah (ŚŚ LŚ ŚG no dhanam, ApŚ * nah svam, ApMB * me dhanam) ŚŚ LŚ KŚ ApŚ (bis) MŚ ŚG ApMB. (bis) PG HG MG. 'Let not the sap from me (our wealth, etc) be poured away' The ApMB reference with mat payah should be 2 9 14d
- agnır etu prathamo devatābhyah SMB · agnır aıtu prathamo devatānām AG ŚG HG ApMB 'Fırst from among (of) the gods'
- apāsman (KS apāsya) naurītān pāšān KS ApŠ 'Away from him (KS literally, away his) bonds of destruction'
- §657. Once after the preposition para (and with a verb of separation), where obviously only an ablative construction is possible, gen dual forms occur in one form of the variant. They can only be taken in ablatival sense. The variant is instructive for the confusion of the two cases, which is helped by the fact that in the singular the two have identical forms in most paradigms (in the context adjoining the variant pada occur such forms as gireh, svasuh etc.)
- parı sarvebhyo jüätibhyah HG ApMB. parı pitroś ca bhrātoś ca PG Followed in PG by sakhyebhyo visjāmy aham

bhışagbhyo bhişaktarāh AV.: bhışajām subhişaktamāh AV.

Case attraction

§659. Two other variants show different sorts of case attraction. tat tram biblish punar ā mad autoh (AS † MS ā mamaitoh) TS AS MS Both mean 'until my return', in TS (doubtless the original) we find mad by attraction to the case of the ablative infinitive (cf. Delbruck AIS. pp 90, 431 and our §86). See Oertel 92.

B. Ablative and locative

1 Ablative as whence-case and locative as where-case

§660. The source of anything (ablative) may also be regarded as its original or typical location, and so may be expressed in the locative, as in:

karkandhu jajñe madhu sāragham mukhāt (MS mukhe) VS. MS KS TB 'Jujube and sweet honey were produced from (in) his mouth '

§661. Here there is little practical difference Likewise, even when no idea of origination is clearly expressed, an action may be spoken of alternatively as proceeding from, or as taking place in, a place, as in: tāh (VS. SB. pra) parvatasya vrsabhasya prsthāt (TS KS prsthe) VS:

TS. MS. KS SB. Followed by nāvas carantı (nāvo viyanti) 'The ships proceed from (upon) the back of the mountain-bull' Note that the ablative is found in the texts which read pra ('forth'), but also in MS which does not §662. Yet more clearly does the locative differ in meaning from the ablative in such a variant as:

yadā mahah samvaraṇād (KS one) vy asthāt RV SV VS. TS MS KS KB SB 'When he (the horse) stepped forth from (m) the enclosure.' (mahah in KS. must be nom. sg.; in the others it may be this or abl sg; Oldenberg decides for the latter.)

§663. These examples will suggest that the psychology of the two cases generally differs more or less, tho the extent and practical importance of the difference varies greatly, being no doubt least when used with expressions of source or separation or protection. For even with a verb of protecting the threatening danger from which protection is desired may be put in the locative, as denoting the state in which the person finds or fears to find himself:

eşā tvā pātu nırçter upasthāt (TA. nırçtyā upasthe, AV prapathe purastāt) RV AV. TA. Let this one protect thee from (in) the lap of destruction'

§664. The following additional examples occur; we quote first those in which the practical difference between the two cases seems least:

śwam prajābhyo 'hinsantam (KS † ahins') prthwyāh sadhasthād (TS MS KS. "sthe) agnim (TS 'gnim) purīşyam añgirasvat khanāmah (TS. KS.† "mi) VS. TS. MS KS SB. 'We (I) dig forth from (in) the abode of earth Agni 'In the same context:

agnih prātahsavane (MS MŠ. °nāt) pātv asmān AV. TS MS KS. KŠ. ApŠ. Perhaps MS asks for protection 'from (hostile) somapressings'; cf. MS 4 7.7: 102 5 ff, the brāhmana dealing with this mantra, where it is stated that by the mantra the gods obstructed the savanas of the Asuras, and so the sacrificer can obstruct those of his enemies ā mā sucarite (MŚ °tād) bhaja VS TS. KS. SB. TB. ApŚ. MŚ. Preceded by pāhi māgne duścaritāt (VS. ŚB. pari māgne duścaritād bādhasva) No doubt mechanical attraction to the case of the preceding duścaritāt is responsible for the ablative in MŚ. Yet it can be defended in a way: 'Give us a share from (out of, of) good deeds'

2. With prepositions

- §665. Quite similar to the preceding are variants between ablative and locative after the prepositions adhi and antar. Both cases are found with them, but in different senses, and in the first variant adhi with the ablative varies with the simple locative, without adhi:
- tām te vācam āsya ādatte (read ādade) hṛdaya ādadhe PG.: ā (HG. om) manasyām hṛdayād adhi HG ApMB 'In (from within) thy heart'
- tasyāh (TB tasyām) samudrā adhi vi kṣaranti RV. AV. TB. ŠŚ. N. 'From (in) her the seas flow forth.'
- yam asının namucer üsurüd adlı (SS.† namucüv üsure dadlı) VS. MS KS SB TB SS Vait. LS Followed by sarasvaty asunod indriyüya Cf Bloomfield JAOS. 15 144 ff. on the Namuci story. Some verb, doubtless a form of su, is understood: 'which (soma) the Asvins (pressed out) from (in) the Asura Namuci' The word dadlı in SS certainly contains a corruption of adlı
- ye devā deveşv (MS. KS devebhyo) adhi devatvam āyan VS TS. MS KS. SB 'What gods have arrived at godhood over the gods (from among the gods).' The abl with adhi seems about the equivalent of a partitive gen
- samudrasyādhi vişlapi (RV.*°pah) RV. (bis) SV. In different contexts Cf. also samudrasyādhi vişlapi (SV. °pe) manīşinah RV. SV.
- ya usrıyā apyā (SV. apı yā) antar asmanah (SV. oni) RV SV. 'The cows from within (SV the cows within) the rock'
- §666. On the other hand, \bar{a} with the ablative may mean 'up to' and so may interchange with the loc (and the acc) of goal with no difference of meaning.
- āsya yajñasyodīcah VS $B.: svastı mā sam vahāsya yajñasyodīcı svāhā AV · svastı mā sampārayāsya yajñasyodīcam $$ See §523

3 In adverbial forms

§667. Adverbially used ablatives have a tendency to pale out, so that no distinctly ablatival function remains

They then become interchangeable with locative adverbs or locative phrases:

- āre (TS ārāt) te goghnam (TS °na) uta pūruṣaghnam (TS °ne) RV TS. Both mean sımply 'far off', not 'from afar'.
- yās te rudra purastāt (AG pūrvasyām disi) senās tābhya eşa balis tābhyas te namah (AG senās tābhya enat) AG PG Here there may be in the abl a suggestion of 'from the east', but it is hard to be sure of it.

4 Case attraction

§668. The following (cf also \bar{a} $m\bar{a}$ sucarite etc., §664) seems to be an instance of mechanical case-attraction:

āre asman (MS NîlarU. asmın) nı dhehı tam VS TS MS KS NîlarU One ms and p p of MS. read asman (asmat) If asmın ıs sound ıt must be attracted to the case of āre: 'ın this distant (place)' instead of 'far from us'

5. Phrase inflection

§669. Phrase inflection is found in the following

TA comm chidram) in thy sight' In LŠ a form of samdrš (either 'šah or 'še would be possible) must be intended. If not a mere misprint, as we suspect (so Whitney on AV), this should be added to VV 2 §631 varşīyo (VS SB varşo) varşīyası yajña yajñapatım dhāh TS VS SB varşīyo varşīyaso yajñam yajñapatau dhāh MS KS Addressed to atmosphere. 'Being more extended, establish the sacrificer in a more extended sacrifice' 'being more extended than the more extended, establish sacrifice in the sacrificer.' The latter is doubtless original, the former a lect fac, with a kind of 'transfer of epithet'.

C. Genitive and locative

1 Locative of position: adnominal genitive

§671. Most of the variants between these two cases are approximately equivalent in meaning. The person or place in which something is located may be thought of as the possessor of it (possessive gen), or as that upon which its influence is exerted (objective gen). Naturally the line between the two is sometimes hard to draw; in the first mentioned cases the gen seems clearly possessive:

We now think gen. or abl most likely.

- §672. Peculiar and deserving of special rubrication are the following cases, in which the loc. is parallel with another loc, on which the gen depends in the other form of the variant (cf. §85):
- asyā (MG.† asyām) nāryā gavīnyoh (MG. onyām) AV. MG (the latter also has a v. l. nāryām): asyām nāryām gavīnyām RVKh. ApMB. 'In this woman's two canals (in this canal of the woman)'. 'in this woman, in her canal.' Assuming that the gen is original, we may see case-attraction in the loc.
- śūṣam na madhye nābhyām (MS °yāḥ) VS MS. TB 'In the middle, (viz) in the navel': 'in the middle of the navel.' As prec
- ye 'do (MS amī, KS vādo, VS SB. vāmī, NilarŪ. cāmī) rocane dwah (NilarŪ. dwi) RVKh. VS TS MS KS SB. ApMB NilarŪ. As prec The phrase rocane dwah is standard from RV. on, clearly case-assimilation in NilarŪ.

- prsihe prihwyā (AV. nābhā prihwyām) nihito davidyutat AV. VS. TS. MS KS SB. As prec., Ppp is reported by Whitney to read prihiwyāh, which is standard after nābhā (see Conc. under this initial).
- §673. To these we may append a case in which the loc. noun which governs the possessive gen is omitted in the variant form, thus compelling the use of loc instead of gen.:
- viŝvalopa viŝvadāvasya tvāsañ juhomi TS. GB. Vait.: viŝloka viŝvadāvye tvā samjuhomi svāhā MS. 'I offer thee in the mouth of the burner of all (in the burner of all).'
- §674. Essentially similar, also, is the following in which the gen depends on an adverb (madhyato) which, while abl in form, is essentially loc in meaning. Ppp uses a loc of the noun instead of the gen:
- asambādham badhyato (read ma°) mānavānām (Ppp °veşu) AV. Ppp.
 - Kaus See §623. 'In the midst of men': 'in the midst, among men'
- §675. The gen after adjectives of nearness or similarity is doubtless to be felt as objective in character:
- syāma sumnasyādhrigo (SV sumne te adhrigo) RV. SV. Preceded by ni nedişihatamā işah 'Let us be nearest to the draught, to (in) thy grace'
- tam id arbhe havişy ä samānam it, tam in mahe viņate nānyam tvat RV.: tvām arbhasya havişah samānam it, tvām maho viņate (TB ApS. add naro) nānyam tvat SV. KS. TB. ApS. 'Him they choose alike at the small oblation and at the large': 'thee they choose alike for (equal to, equally capable of? Caland 'als gleichen für') the small' etc For the gen. with words of likeness of Speyer VSS. §70c.
- $676. Definitely objective is the genitive in the following cases, with nouns or adjectives containing verbal force, in which the two forms are practical equivalents:
- ahıh sayata upaprık prihwyāḥ (TB. vyām) RV MS. TB. N.
- nanāndarı samrājāi bhava RV. SMB ApMB . nanānduḥ samrājāy edhi AV 'Be queen over thy sister-in-law' In the same verse:

- ulodîcyām vṛtrahan vṛtrahāsı TS. MS KS : utodīcyā dıśo vṛtrahan chatruho 'si AV.

2 After the preposition antar

$677. Delbrück AIS p. 445 f. ignores the construction of antar with the gen, which is however indubitable, cf. $142 In the following variant gen and loc. with antar interchange Tho another loc follows, the gen. cannot depend upon it:

ukhāyāh (TS. °yai, MS. KS °yām) sadane sve VS. TS MS KS Preceded by antar agne rucā tvam.

3 Adverbial uses

§678. In several variants we have, certainly or possibly, both cases used adverbially to express time On the gen. of time see especially Oldenberg RVNoten on 1 79 6 dive-diva (AV. divo-diva) ā suvā bhūri paśvah AV KS TB AŚ ŚŚ dive-dive is certainly loc in sense, whatever be the historic origin of the form (see §295, and for the most recent theory of the form Sturtevant, TAPA 62 [1931] 20)

aktor vyuşţau parıtakmyāyāh (and °yām) RV (both) Uncertain; see RVRep. on 5 30. 13 and literature there quoted, especially Oldenberg RVNoten

§679. The following variant is also obscure and dubious. We are inclined to feel that both parinasah and 'st are adverbial (not, of course, temporal), meaning approximately 'with plenty' or 'plentifully' Despite Oldenberg RVNoten ad loc we incline to separate the word from kasya. But it may be felt as ablative rather than genitive. Ludwig's interpretation makes it adnominal gen with dhiyo, which is perhaps also possible:

kasya nünam parīnasah (SV. °si) RV. SV Followed by dhiyo jinvasi dampate (SV satpate)

4 Dependent on verbs

§680. Verbs of drinking take a (partitive) genitive, which varies with a locative once or twice (as well as an accusative, §501)

papuh sarasvatyā nadyāh (MŠ °tyām nadyām, KŠ ApŠ °tīm nadīm) Vait KŠ ApŠ MŠ

tava (SV. tve) visve sajosasah RV SV Followed by devāsah pītim āšata Here pītim āšata 'obtained a drink' may be regarded as a periphrasis for 'drank', and it seems to us that the gen and loc are both best regarded as comparable to the same cases in the preceding variant, so Ludwig construes tava, while Grassmann takes it as possessive, 'thy drink', and Benfey takes tve as dependent on sajosasah Wackernagel 3 p 462 quotes tve here as the only new post-Rigvedic occurrence of the form §681. The gen in the following, with root $r\bar{a}$, seems also to be partitive, it may be influenced by the gen. in the following clause:

yā sarasvatī vešabhaginī tasyā no (ApŚ višobhagīnā tasyām me) rāsva tasyās te bhaktīvāno bhūyāsma KS. ApŚ. 'Grant us (me) [a share] of (m) her.'

§682. With the verb adhi-1 'think on' the gen (or acc) is regular In the following variant MG. has a loc, perhaps influenced by thought of the literal, etymological meaning 'go upon' (adhi + loc.). It should also be noted that the following pāda (yeşu saumanasam mahat in MG.) has a loc which is approximately parallel and may have exercised some influence:

yeşam (MG. yeşv) adhyetı pravasan AV. VS ApŚ. LŚ ŚG. HG. MG

5. Transfer of epithet

§683. Transfer of epithet (§§14-6) is found in the following:

śucih śukre ahany ojasīnā (MS ahann ojasīne, KS † śukro ahany ojasye, AS 'hany ojasīnām) TS MS KS AS. See §447.

CHAPTER XXVII

SINGULAR AND PLURAL

1. Generalizing singular and plural

§685. Among the variations between singular and plural (see §§112–7 for a summary), the great majority concern the use of a generic singular, in variation with a plural which may be specific, referring to particular individuals of the class, or may itself be general, including them As a rule there is little real difference of meaning between the The singular tends to think of the class as a whole, the plural of the individuals which compose it Sometimes the singular seems to be a distinct collective, but more often it merely indicates the genus, without centering the attention upon the individuals which com-For instance, as in military language today, 'the enemy' may Likewise 'the sacrifice', as an institumean the whole hostile army tion or type, varies with 'sacrifices' as individual acts (but usually not conceived specifically, rather all 'sacrifices' in general) And so one may say equally well 'good deed', generically, or 'good deeds', 'food' or 'foods'; 'praise' or 'praises'; 'heroism' or 'heroisms' (that is, deeds of heroism), and so forth §686. In some of the cases which we shall feel obliged to list under this heading, it is very possible that the singular may have been felt specifically, of a single definite individual. So notably with the word agni 'fire' (§691). At times it cannot be doubted that reference was made to one particular fire, especially one of the three sacred fires, while the plural form refers to several individuals (say, to the three sacred fires). Where we find definite evidence that the change between singular and plural was of this sort, we shall classify the variant in the appropriate place below (§740). It is, however, usually hard to identify such cases,—to separate them from instances of the generic singular, and the latter is so common and so characteristic of the Vedic language that as a rule we tend to assume it in default of clear evidence to the contrary.

Amredita compounds

§687. Sanskrit has a special device for expressing clearly the notion of generalization in connection with a noun, the use of repeated

(āmredita) compounds They may be used in either the singular or the plural to denote every individual of the genus. Once a plural āmredita varies with a singular modified by the word viśva 'all', so that the two expressions are equivalent. In another case a singular āmredita varies with an obviously generalizing plural which, tho there is no word like viśva, can only mean substantially the same thing:

- §711. (12). In a number of interesting cases of variation between singular and plural, the plural is of the type known as plurale tantum. Eg grīvā is probably originally used in the plural only, 'the joints of the neck', and the singular 'neck' is later, and developed from the. plural So also grha is the plural 'the apartments of the house', vāra in the plural 'the hairs which make up the sieve', smasru in the plural 'the hairs making up the beard'. In these latter cases the evidence of the oldest texts does not support a dogmatic assertion that the plural usage is more original than the singular, but on a priori grounds it is probable that the use of the singular grew out of the use of the plurale tantum rather than vice versa. The psychology underlying such a development is parallel to that demonstrated in the preceding sections, which causes variation between generic singular and specific plural In fact, some of the cases treated above are not far removed from those collected here; e g those involving lokāh, rakṣānsi, etc. See §716 for pronouns referring to nouns of this class

- §712. (13). Adjectives and pronouns, without clearly expressed noun Here we include cases of substantially equivalent singular and plural forms of pronouns and adjectives, referring to entities not clearly expressed in the context. Psychologically they belong with the preceding sections dealing with nouns. Thus in the first variant soma, singular or plural, is referred to (cf. §693). Since the trea containing the plural passage is surrounded by treas with singular, it is possible that some ritualistic plurality is concerned in the change of number (cf. RVRep on 9.36 4, and te[sa] viśvā etc., §693); yet the mere change in number is, in the light of the numerous other changes of the same sort adduced here, not enough to prove it:

śumbhamānā (RV * °na) rtāyubhih RV (both) SV: mrjyamānā (and °no) gabhastayoh RV. SV. (both in each)

- §713. So in the next, the 2d person pronouns are addressed to the sacrificial fire or fires; the sing to the āhavanīya alone, the plural perhaps to the three sacred fires (but of our remarks §686):
- ned eşa yuşmad (TS TB tvad) apacetayātar TS. MS TB MS.: eşa net tvad apacetayātar VS KS SB But MS MS use singular pronouns, with the same reference, in the rest of the stanza
- §714. Similar are the following, where reference is to various sorts of entities:
- atho (TS MS athā) yūyam stha (MS KS tvam asi) nişkṛtīh (TS samk°, MS. samkṛtih, KS. niṣkṛtih) RV VS TS MS. KS. Addressed to plants, or a plant; plurals occur in the rest of the stanza

- §715. Pronouns referring to collective nouns may either be singular if the collectivity is more prominent in the mind, or plural if the speaker is thinking of the individuals which compose it; cf. §836. Thus:
- yuvam tān (SV ubhau tām) ındra vṛṭrahan A.J. SV. Reference is to senā 'army', but AV. thinks of the individual men who make it up. To be sure the AV comm reads tām, and Whitney would emend to this, but it seems to us unnecessary
- §716. The converse of this is the use of a singular pronoun referring to a plurale tantum, conceived as a single entity. Thus:
- samudrasya vo 'kṣttyā (VS ŠB tvākṣttyā) un naye (VS. ŠB nayāmi) VS. TS MS KS ŠB ApŠ MŠ In the same ritual context, referring to water (āpah), hence plural in most texts, but the Vāj school uses a singular, thinking of the water-libation as a single thing.
- §717. So adjectives of indefinite reference, especially anya and sarva, may be used in either number without essential difference (cf also the indefinite neuter, §727):
- anyāns (TS AŚ anyam) te asmat tapantu hetayah VS TS MS KS. ŚB. AŚ
- anyam asman (MS anyāns te asman, KS. anye 'sman) nivapantu tāh VS TS MS. KS. If anye is sound, it can be nothing but a Prakritic acc. pl; cf Pischel, Gram d Pkt Spr. 425, 433 (and for nouns, 367a).

VV 1 §315.
- §718. Other cases show pronouns or adjectives referring to the person or persons, not definitely expressed, on whose behalf the rite is being performed:

- §719. (14). This brings us to the use of pronouns, singular or plural, referring in a more or less vague and general way to the priests and their associates. In VV 1 §290 we have discussed this type of number variant in the verb. In so far as nominative pronouns in varying numbers accompany singular and plural verbs, there will appear some duplication between the following lists and those quoted in VV 1; but for the most part the materials are different, tho related psychologically. They must be regarded as complementing each other, and must be considered together. As we saw 1 c, different persons may be used, as well as different numbers. Hence we find, here also, cases in which pronouns of different person as well as number are used. We quote a few examples but have not attempted an exhaustive list (cf. §9)

§721. First and third persons Here we find a number of variations between the forms asmar 'for him' and asme 'for us', which are obviously phonetic in character and have been therefore treated in VV 2 §704. The shift between e and ar is very easy. Nevertheless in most cases the meaning fits equally well with either reading. See also §738 for some formally similar cases.

First person pronouns, singular and plural

§722. The vast majority of variants under this heading show first person pronouns, alternatively singular and plural, referring to the priestly authors of the mantras and their associates. Little need be said of them, they are as simple and natural as they are familiar, and there is no real difference in meaning, at least as a rule, between the two numbers. Compare our remarks in VV 1 §§344 ff, which deal with the same matter from the point of view of verb forms. Their number is, however, remarkable and impressive

§723. As with the verbs (§346), in some cases one or the other number

2 The neuter singular (and plural)

§727. The neuter gender often carries with it (cf. §807) a tinge of generalization, and neuter singular forms (nouns or indefinite adjectives), which are indefinite or abstract or collective in force, vary with plural epithets of the same or other genders (On neuter adverbs see §734)

Followed by:

- vah suprītāh suhutā vat srāhā VS. SB: vat subhrtam vat svāhā VSK In VS SB: Let the priestly offices, which have been well offered, rejoice' etc In VSK. vat etc might refer to the unevpressed and indefinite object of the verb: let the priestly offices resource (in that) which is well offered' etc. But the change was surely suggested by suhutā vat stāhā of VS, in which vat is a conjunction, 'when well offered with sraha'. Most likely, therefore, nat is to be taken thus all three times in VSK, and the neuters are indefinite: let the priestly offices rejoice when good sacrifice has been made' etc
- duras ca visrā avrnod apa svāh RV. AV.: turas cid visram tarnavat tapasran AV. The AV is corrupt; but wiscam seems clearly an indefinite neuter.
- prajā nkrnvan (ApŠ nkurvan, MS prajāh krnvan) janayan virūpāh (KS 'pam) MS KS. ApS wrupam indefinite neuter in KS. (probably original); in the others prajah is understood with it
- tai (RV. tā) jusasva yavīsthya RV. AV. VS TS. MS KS. SB The RV. tā refers back to dārūm, the other texts substitute the indefinite sing tad, with the same reference, possibly; but see §737. In different context, tam juo yao RV.
- salakşmā (MS. KS. °ma) yad vişurūpā (VS. MS KS SB °pam) bhavāti (MS. KS babhūva) RV. AV. VS MS. KS SB: visurūpā yal salaksmano bhavatha TS The pada originally (in RV AV) occurs in the Yama-Yami hymn, the fem adjectives apply to Yami The YV texts apply it to a wholly different context, by 'phrase-inflection' (§848). Here it applies to the members of the slaughtered animal, here assembled, and most YV text use the indefinite neuter singular: 'that what is manufold may become of one sort'. (In VS. SB. only this can be intended, as visurūpam shows, salaksmā is anomalous, perhaps due to influence of the RV original, perhaps to be explained as having rhythmically lengthened final a, VV 2 §§459-60; the comm interprets as neuter.) In TS the members of the animal are directly addressed, and the adjectives are masc. pl: 'that ye, mamfold, may become of one sort'
- §728. So the indefinite sarvam 'everything' varies with sarvan 'all (men)'; but the variant sarvān, nom sg, heading everywhither', is likely to be more original than either:
- amāsı (SMB amā hy asi, SG amo 'si) sarvāñ (AS sarvān, SMB sarvam) ası (SMB anu) pravislah AS SG SMB Kaus §729. Also tad and tans, neuter sg and pl, both indefinite, are interchangeable (see also yasmāj jātam [jātā] etc., §810)

- yas tad veda (AV.* VS. tāni veda, RV. AV.* TA * N tā vijānāt) sa pituş (VS. MahānU. pituḥ, TA. savītuh) pitāsat RV AV. (bis) VS TA (bis) MahānU. N.
- §730. In substantive use, a pronoun introducing a predicate noun commonly agrees with that noun in number and gender, but may also be neuter singular without regard to the number and gender of the predicate, as in German ('das bin ich, das sind die besten Leute' etc.); cf. §§776, S12 So:
- tad (VS. tā) āpah sa (VSK. tat) prajāpatīh VS VSK TA MahānU. Note that TA. MahānU. are inconsistent, having the neuter in one of the two phrases, but agreement in gender (and number) in the other. VS. and VSK are (in different ways) consistent

3. Plural of visva with singular noun (?)

§731. Twice the text of TS presents the form vière, apparently nom. pl., where other texts have vièro (in the sense of 'every, each'), agreeing (even in TS) with a singular (martah); both are parts of the same stanza. The TS. version of the stanza is otherwise inferior, and Keith calls rière 'senseless'. Yet the repetition seems to guarantee it as the genuine Tait reading; moreover ApS has the same. Either it is a Māgadhism, intended as nom. sg. (cf. Pischel, Gram d Pkt Spr. §363), or else a plural epithet going with a singular subject. Tho this would be a bizarre construction, it is not inconceivable that TS may have so intended; it would be an illogical blend of vièro martah 'every man' with vière martāh 'all men.'—The same vière apparently with a sing noun occurs a third time in TS., atha vière arapā cdhate grhah, §457, q. v. riéro (TS ApS. viève) derasya netuh RV. VS. TS MS. KS AB. KB SB

Other shifts of sing, and pl with no essential change of meaning

§732. With this we conclude the subject of the generalizing singular and plural There are however a few other variants in which, for one reason or another, singular and plural may interchange with virtually no difference of essential meaning. We shall take them up before proceeding to the cases of real and important change of meaning

4 Elliptic plural

mitrah (SV. mitrās) pānty adruhah RV SV. Preceded by yam maruto yam aryamā, in SV aryamā is a complementary singular to the elliptic plural mitrās, which means Mitra, Varuna, and Aryaman; of §§746-7

5 Adverbs

§734. Adverbial forms, singular and plural, and equivalent in meaning, may vary, or a neuter singular adverb may vary with a plural adjective without essential difference of meaning.

6 Adjectives agreeing with one or several of a group

§735. An adjective or participle may variously agree with all the members of a coordinate group of nouns (plural), or with only one, the nearest—In the latter case, however, we may assume that its application to the others is not really excluded—Cf Hamlet, Act 2, Scene 2: King. Thanks, Rosencrantz, and gentle Guildenstern—Queen—Thanks, Guildenstern, and gentle Rosencrantz—The same variation in verb forms, agreeing either with a plurality of subjects or with the nearest one alone, was noted in VV 1 §$353ff tvaṣṭā mṣnuh (MS mṣnus tvaṣṭā) prajayā samrarāṇah (VS KS ŚB. °nāḥ) AV VS TS. MS. KS ŚB ApŚ ApMB. The verb, in the following pāda, agrees in number with the participle in all texts, except that in KS, which has the mantra three times with plural pple, the verb is twice singular in the edition (but with v I plural in one case). See VV 1 p 262 under yajamānāya dravnam dadhāta ("tu) bly the plural should be read all three times

(idā sarasvatī mahī) bhāratī grnānā AV MS . (idā sarasvatī bhāratī) mahī arnānā (KS. mahīr arnānāh) VS TS KS, idā sarasvatī bhāratī mahīh (TB mahī) VS TB In the last formula (in which the Poons ed. of TB separates mahī from the preceding, making it part of the next pada), the TB comm interprets mahi as a plural (mahatyah), going with all the nouns (1)

Singular-plural variations with more definite change of meaning

§736. The phraseology used in this heading does not mean, of course, to deny that a change of 'meaning' in some sense occurs in the variants heretofore mentioned, we suggest only that such changes are not, as a rule, of the sort commonly and conventionally associated with the simple contrast between singularity and plurality of objects The variants now to be considered fall roughly into the following groups First, 'transfer of epithet': the variant word is applied to a different entity, in essentially the same context, necessitating a change of number Second, 'phrase inflection': the formula is used in a different context. Third. pluralizainvolving a different application of the variant word tion or the reverse in the same context: without change of context or verbal attraction to a different entity, the word is nevertheless understood of a plural entity in one form and of a singular one in the other, the entity referred to may be otherwise the same or different other, miscellaneous changes are involved, in some of them form attraction to some other word (other than what we term 'transfer of epithet') seems to have been influential

7 Transfer of epithet

§737. We have met this phenomenon frequently under variations between the cases; see §14 for a general statement Many of the transfers listed under the various shifts of case involve also change of number; these will not be repeated here The following are those which involve shift of number only (or, in a few cases, also of gender), between singular and plural:

indrena devaih saratham turebhih (AV turena) RV. AV. Tho the contexts of the mantra are different, the epithet tura is transferred

visvā rūpāni sambhrtā (JB °tam) SV. JB ŞB. LS. Preceded by gāya-

- tram transfubham jagat; JB. makes the epithet apply to (presumably) the last of the singulars in the preceding pāda
- taj (RV. tā) juşasva yanşthya RV AV. VS TS MS KS SB. Preceded by yad agne kānı kānı cıd, ā te dārūnı dadhması (with slight variants) RV. refers tā to dārūnı; the others with taj refer either to the same indefinitely (§727), or specifically to what is denoted by yad
 - nışkrītah sa (TS nışkrīto 'yam, KS. MŠ nişkrītās te) yajñıyam bhāgam etu (KS MŠ bhāgam yantu) AV. TS KS. MŠ Sıngular refers to pasupatı, plural to the cattle themselves
 - ā yat trpan maruto vāvakānāh (MS °nah) RV. TS MS KS Preceded by prayā vo nāma huve turānām The epithet is apparently transferred from the Maruts to the subject of trpat; Ludwig makes the plural refer to this! The verse however is very troublesome; see Oldenberg
 - idāno (KS °nā) vahnır (KS °nım) namasā AV VS. VSK TS MS KS. The latter makes the epithet agree with sruco in the next pāda; see §399.
 - uruvyacaso dhāmnā patyamānāh VS. TS. MS. KS.: uruvyacasāgner dhāmnā patyamāne AV. The YV. texts make uru° agree with dvāras; AV. has a false verse division and makes it agree with dhāmnā.
 - anādhṛṣṭā apasyo vasānāh (KS † °nah, mss vamānah) VS. MS KS ŚB.: anībhṛṣṭā apasyuvo vasānah TS Pischel VSt. 2. 213 has made it probable that the original had vasānah, epithet of Varuṇa in the following pāda In VS. MS. it is transferred to āpah in the preceding; the adjoining plural forms helped in the shift.
 - mayobhuvo vṛṣṭayah santv asme RV. KS: mayobhūr vāto mśvakṛṣṭayah santv asme TA. In the latter the adjective is made to agree with vāto, which is itself a secondary intrusion in TA.
 - dhanur hastād ādadāno (TA °nā) mrtasya RV. AV. TA. AG 'Taking the bow from the hand of the dead man.' With Oldenberg on RV. 10 18 9 we understand tvam in the following half verse (atrawa tvam iha vayam suvīrāh [suśevāh]) of the dead man; TA. comm understands it of the widow and makes ādadānā fem sg agreeing with it; we take the pple as ādadānāh nom pl. masc going with vayam, cf. Oldenberg's remarks; the sg. doubtless refers to the son of the deceased.
 - tābhış įvābhişıñcāmı MG.: tena tvām abhişıñcāmı YDh Preceded by sahasrākşam satadhāram rşibhih pāvanam krtam, and followed by pāvamānīh pulnantu tvā (with minor variants) YDh has adopted for tena the number and gender of pāvanam, instead of pāvamānīh §738. In the following, the variant word is in one form of the variant an independent form rather than, strictly speaking, an 'epithet' of another word (§15):

asme (ApS asmai) karmane jātah MS ApS 'Born for us for the rite (for this rite)' Cf VV 2 §704, and above §721

asme devaso vapuse cikitsata TS ApS frad asmai naro vacase dadhātana VS Keith and Caland assume asmai as intended, cf prec But asme might at a pinch be interpreted as 'ethical dative' 'O gods, regard the wonder which we tell' The change is really phonetic in character, however kṣutprpāsāmalā jyeṣṭhāh (TAA °malam jyeṣṭhām) RVKh TAA Schefte-lowitz reads jyeṣṭhām, which is doubtless the correct reading (= Misfortune, eldest sister of Lakṣmī), if jyeṣṭhāh be kept it can be construed as an adjective, with the following alakṣmīr (for which Scheft adopts the monstrous alakṣmīn) If °malā can stand it is doubtless a fem acc pl, epithet of alakṣmīr ('stained by hunger and thirst'), the alternatīve would be to take it as Vedic n pl (for °malāni), °malam would be an independent coordinate noun, 'the stain of hunger and thirst'

Thirdly, in some cases where the context is the same, and where there is no formal 'transfer of epithet', the ritual entity designated by the variant word is pluralized in one variant by the inclusion of other individuals, or by the substitution of a plural entity for a singular one: or vice versa For example: rtena (MG. rteva) sthūnām (ApMB. MG sthūnāv, MG sthūnā) adhi roha vanša (MG. vanšah) AV AG HG. ApMB. MG, 'mount, O pole, upon the post(s)' or the like The dual form of ApMB HG. can have no standing and is best regarded as a phonetic corruption (v for m, VV 2 §237) The verse is used in mounting the ridge-pole of the house on the middle post (and others), either singular or plural makes sense, but not dual. The plural of MG. may be defended, tho KG. 11 3 has sthūnām; Ppp. is quoted by Roth as sthunā dhi.

§741. Among the remaining, miscellaneous variants between singular and plural, some seem to involve external form attraction—that is, the shift is due to the influence of some other form in the vicinity, although the variant cannot be classified as showing 'transfer of epithet'. Thus:

- trih sapta mātuh paramāṇ undan RV: trih sapta paramam nāma jānan ArS Preceded in both by te manuata prathamam nāma dhenoh 'They thought out the first name of the cow, they found the thrice seven supreme (names) of the mother (cow)', or 'they knew the thrice seven (names), the supreme (name, of the cow).' The change to singular in ArS is due to the preceding singulars
- abht priyā (SV. priyam) dwas padam RV SV It is obvious that SV has assimilated the adjective to padam. This is a lect fac, the sense requires such a construction. CHAPTER XXVIII

DUAL AND OTHER NUMBERS

1 Elliptic dual, and devatā-dvandvas

8744. The most interesting group of variants between the dual and other numbers is that which concerns the elliptic dual and double-duals, known to the Hindus as devatā-dvandvas. These double dual forms denoting a pair of entities have been explained by Edgerton (KZ. 43. 110 ff., 44. 23 ff.) as an outgrowth of the Indo-European elliptic dual, in which a pair is denoted by the dual form of one member alone, an idiom which is still very much alive in the Veda. The first step in the development was the addition to the elliptic dual of the singular of the second member of the pair (mitra [= Mitra and Varuna], followed by varunas ca). We then have an illogical association of a dual and a singular form, referring together to only two entities. There is evidence for the view (Edgerton, 1 c) that this illogical association existed in Indo-European. In most languages, however, it was supplanted by an association of two singulars; so also to a large extent in Sanskrit In Indo-Iranian, however, the assimilation of the two forms may work the other way, the complementary singular being replaced by a dual. so that the result is a double dual, e.g. mitrā-varunau

§745. The variants illustrate these rather complicated processes at various points. To begin with, an elliptic dual may vary with the singular of the prior member of the pair. The meaning is then of course different; the singular can scarcely have been felt as including the unexpressed member:

anghrinā viņno mā tvāva (KS viņnā mā vām ava) kramiņam VS. KS SB: agnāviņnā mā vām ava kramiņam TS TB ApŠ In most texts including KS. the pair Agni and Viņnu are addressed (in KS by the elliptic dual viņnā), while VS SB address Viņnu alone kṣāman (KS kṣāmā) ruruca uṣaso na bhānunā (MS KS ketunā) RV. VS TS MS KS See §547. The original kṣāman = 'on the earth', KS. has an elliptic dual, 'the two earths' = heaven and earth More commonly dyāvā 'the two heavens' is used in this sense

- tatra pasyema pıtarau ca putrān (TA pıtaram ca putram) AV. TA The elliptic dual pıtarau (= father and mother) is replaced in TA by the singular 'father'
- §746. Once a sutra text presents a complementary singular expressing the second member of the pair after an elliptic dual. In this case the form of the variant which is presumably older (SV) has a second dual, forming therefore a double dual, yet this chronology cannot be regarded as certain
- dyāvā hotrāya pṛthivī (ApŚ °vīm) SV ApŚ
- §747. More or less the reverse of this is found in a variant in which the undoubtedly older form has an elliptic dual with complementary singular, a secondary text removes the logical inconsistency by substituting a singular for the dual, thus presenting two coordinate singulars: ubhāv indrā (SB indro) udithah sūryaś ca VS SB There is no reason to emend the SB reading with Eggeling and the Conc, indrā means Indra and Sūrya, who are here, to be sure, equated by ritualistic-mystic symbolism with Mitra and Varuna
- §748. More frequently we find double duals varying with double singulars, both referring to the same pair. The two dual forms may be separate words, sometimes even separated by other words.
- vışnım agan varunam pürvahütih AV : vışn

- agnim indram vṛtrahanā huve 'ham (MS 'hanam huvema) AV MS · agnī indrā vṛtrahanā huve vām TB The double dual indrā agnī occurs twice in RV, and the compound indrāgnī (often pronounced as four syllables) is common Note the singular adjective in MS, cf §757
- §749. It is more usual to find the double dual forming a single compound word, which may vary with two singulars
- ā mitrāvarunā bhagam RV a mitre varune bhage SV
- ındrāsūrā janayan viśvakarmā TB ındrah sūrah prathamo viśvakarmā

- namo dwe namah prihwyai AV VSK TS MS GB TA AS LS ApS: namo dyāvāprihwībhyām VS SB SS SG

§750. The normal dvandva compound of Sanskrit develops out of the double (devatā) dvandva of the Veda by the substitution of the stem form for the nom.-acc dual form in the prior member. This also appears fairly early, and varies in Vedic texts with two singulars as in the preceding paragraph:

rsī bodhapratībodhau AV.: rṣur bodhah prabodhah ApMB.: bodhas ca tvā (KS. MG mā) pratībodhas (MG pratī°) ca AV. KS † MG. ApMB. Note sing rsur in ApMB, see §757.

brhac ca te rathamtaram ca pūrvau pādau bhavatām AB : brhadrathamtare te pūrvau pādau LS

§751. Still later, no doubt, but already found even in early Vedic texts, is the singularization of dvandva compounds (as neuter collectives) We find several variations between such neuter singulars and dual dvandvas:

kşutpipāsābhyām (TAA °sāya) svāhā SMB TAA GG

ışlāpūrte kṛṇavāthāvır (kṛnavathāvir, kṛnutād āvır) asmaı (MS asmāt) VS VSK. TS TB SB. MS . ışlāpūrtam sma kṛṇutāvır asmai AV.: ışlāpūrtam kṛnutād āvır asmai KS

dakşakratū (MS ed.† °tu, v 1 °tū) te mastrāvārunah pātu MS ApŠ. jīmūtān hrdayaupašābhyām (VS. °šena, VSK °sena) VS. VSK TS MS

KSA The p p of TS divides hrdaya-aupasa The meaning of the second member is quite unknown Mahidhara takes the cpd as a tatpurusa, 'the fleshy parts of the heart', but the dual of the other texts suggests that it is rather a singular dvandva

2. Collective singular varies with dual §752. Leaving now the subject of dvandva compounds, we take up first expressions for dual entities, which may however be thought of as units, being then expressed by singulars A simple example is the word for 'nose', which may be either singular or (when thinking of the two nostrils) dual Such variants occur especially with parts of the body, but also with other entities. We shall mention first a case which is particularly interesting as presenting a neuter singular collective instead of a fem. dual. This reminds us of the use of the neuter singular in dvandva compounds, mentioned in the last paragraph; and so far as we know neither this nor any similar form has been noticed heretofore: whalke naksatram TS: whatham naksatram MS. KS.† So you Schroeder reads in KS. with two mss; one ms wsākhā, which must be fem and may be understood as either sing or plu. Only one ms of MS has wsākhe. The constellation is made up of either two or four stars, and its name occurs in sing, dual, and plural, but is otherwise recorded only in the fem. gender, cf. §798

asyā (MG † asyām) nāryā gavīnyoh (MG °yām) AB. MG: asyām nāryām gavīnyām RVKh ApMB. The word gavīnī (and gavīnīkā, AV.) is regularly dual; it denotes some obscure pair of organs in the abdomen.

ānandam nandathunā (KSA °thubhyām) TS. KSA nandathu is nowhere recorded, not even in Hindu lexicons, as name of a part of the body, and its meaning can only be guessed from the context The dual of KS. suggests perhaps 'testicles'; 'penis' would be more natural and may be intended in TS (comm. guhyendriyam) A series of duals follows, and possibly the dual of KS is due to mechanical form-assimilation to these aṣṭrām tādam pratīnāhā (ApŚ tālam pratīnāham) MS. ApŚ Refers to some unknown part of the plow Caland adopts the MS reading for ApŚ, but since no one knows what the word means, we see no good reason to question the sing punarvasur (TS °sū) naksatram TS MS KS Usually dual

3 Dual and plural of parts of the body

§754. Like the singular (ante), the plural also varies with the dual in names of parts of the body, usually both are comprehensible. Thus the word jambha or jambhya means either 'tooth' or 'jaw' (originally 'crusher, grinder'), in the former meaning it is naturally plural, in the latter dual:

jambhābhyām (VS TS. °bhyais, KS °bhyebhis) taskarān (°ran, °rān) uta VS TS MS. KS javam jaāghābhih (VS °bhyām) VS. TS MS. KSA The 'shanks' of the horse, here referred to, are of course four, hence the plural is proper; VS must have carelessly used a form appropriate to human beings only girīn nlāsibhih (MS °sibhyām) VS TS. MS KSA The stem plāsi is usually sg or plu, its meaning is quite unknown and the guesses of the comms are not worth quoting

4 Other entities conceived as dual or plural

§755. Besides parts of the body, other entities may be thought of as dual or plural groups. Thus the constellation $phalgun\bar{\imath}$ is a group of two plus two stars, and may be thought of as dual because consisting of two pairs, or as plural:

phalgunīr (TS °nī) naksatram TS MS KS

marutah sadohavrdhānaih (TA °dhānābhyām) MS. TA.: aditih sadohavrdhānābhyām KS. The havrdhāna itself is referred to as either sg or dual (cf. TS. 3 1 3 1); combined with the sg sadas, the compound is either dual or plural.

vi yo mame rajasī sukratūyayā RV: vi yo rajānsy amimīta sukratuh RV.

The 'spaces' (rajas) are either two or three (or even more) in number

5. Generalizing dual (for sing.) and plural

§756. In one group we find dual and plural forms varying in essentially the same way as the 'generalizing singular and plural' forms treated above, §§685 ff. Here, instead of the singular, we find the dual because the 'single' entity happens to be a pair; otherwise the psychological relation between the two variants, and the motivation of the change, is exactly the same. The dual may be a single uncompounded word, an elliptic dual, or a dvandva compound; in all cases there is substantially no difference of meaning:

ud eṣām bāhū (MS MS bāhūn) atıram VS TS MS KS SB TA. ApS.

MS Since the 'arms' belong to a plurality of individuals, the plural is comprehensible; but since each person has 'two arms', the dual may also be used exactly as the 'generalizing singular' would be possible in the case of a singular entity.

apochatu (AV ontu) mithunā yā kimīdinā (AV. ye kimīdinah) RV. AV. The kimīdins are apt to go in pairs (§764); the RV. dual here is the substantial equivalent of a generalizing singular, since it really means any pair of demons, or all of them ahorātrayoh samdhibhyo jatūh VS ahnah samdhibhyām jatūh MS Since there are two 'joints' or twilights of day and night, the dual does duty as the equivalent of a 'generalizing singular'.

ahorātrās (KS TA °trānī) te kalpantām VS KS ŠB TA · ahorātre te (TB me) kalpetām MS TB 'Day-and-night'. 'days and nights'

sam ahobhyah (TS ahobhyām) VS TS SB KS Here the relation is not quite the same, TS has an elliptic dual which must mean 'day and night', the plural of the other texts doubtless means 'days' in the sense of days of 24 hours, that is a plurality of days and nights That ahan may mean this is proved e g by the preceding variant but one, since the 'twilights of day' can only mean twilights of the 24-hour day

utkūlantkūlebhyas tristhinam VS utkūlantkūlābhyām tristhinam TB Fanciful entities to which homage is offered at the Purusamedha The plural apparently can only mean a collection of the dual entities

6 Different agreement of adjectives and other epithets

§757. An adjective or other epithet sometimes agrees alternatively with a dual, or with one member of the pair, of the like variation between singular and plural, §735 Some cases of this sort will be found in §750 Also.

yasya dyaur urvī pṛthivī ca mahī AV: yena dyaur ugrā pṛthivī ca dṛdhā (TS dṛdhe) RV. VS VSK TS MS KS Here the original makes dṛdhā apply only to pṛthivī; TS applies it to dyaus also §758. Similarly an adjective or epithet may vary between dual, applying to a dual entity, and plural, including some other entity. vipipānā (VS °nāh) sarasvatī VS MS The dual refers to the Asvins, the plural to them and Sarasvatī

(āyuşkrd āyuşpatnī svadhāvantau) gopā me stam . ātmasadau me stam AV (āyuş tad āyupatnī [read āyuşkrd āyupatnī?] svadhāvo) gopā nah stha rakṣitārah KS (āyukrd āyuhpatnī svadhā vo) goptryo me stha ātmasado me stha ApŠ Explained VV 1 §357

santur bāhū stho devajanānām vidharanih (KapS °nī) KS KapS (Oertel 137) Two blades of grass are addressed; KapS surely intends a dual, 'two supporters', KS, 'a support'. The stem vidharani is not recorded in the lexicons §759. Two dual epithets of an adjoining dual noun may vary with two singulars, each then applying to one of the pair:

ugrampasye ugrantau tad adya AV.: ugrampasyā (MS text ugram pasyāc, VV 2 §405) ca rāstrabhrc ca tāni MS TA: dūrepasyā ca rāstrabhrc ca tāni TB Followed by apsarasāv ; the epithets agree with this word (AV), or apply to the two individuals denoted by it (probably felt as proper names in the latter case)

§760. Once what appears to be an adjectival dvandva, in dual form, is allowed to agree with a singular noun (!); in the other form of the variant the uncompounded, single adjective is singular. The variant strikes us as bizarre, but is psychologically comprehensible:

anuvatsarīṇām svastım āśāste TB ApS: anuvatsarīyodvatsarīye svastım āśāse MS. He desires well-being lasting for an anuvatsara': 'I desire well-being lasting for an anuvatsara and for an udvatsara'

§761. Perhaps somewhat similar is the following, if the reason for the dual in MS. is the dual character of the adjective compound rather than its reference to two entities. The context deals, however, with the sukra and manthin drafts of soma, and it may be that MS. thinks of the word as applying to two oblations only (tho the neuter gender makes it impossible to supply sukramanthinau [grahau] with it, and in fact the mantra can hardly be applied specifically to those two drafts, which are not, of course, offered by the camasādhvaryus).

madhyatahkārinām camasādhvaryavo vaṣatkṛtānuvaṣatkṛtāñ (MŚ. °te) juhuta ApŚ. MŚ '.. offer the (MŚ. two?) oblations (in ApŚ. somān is apparently understood) accompanied by vaṣaṭ and by the secondary vasat'

7. Transfer of epithet

§762. As with cases of transfer of epithet between singular and plural (§737), we shall list here only variants which do not involve change of case, these latter being treated above under case variations Variations between singular and dual are:

te asya yoşane dıvye (KS dıvyah) VS TS. MS KS The sing of KS. agrees with yonır in the next päda ubhā kavī yuvānā (PG yuvā) AŠ ŠŠ Vait ApŠ PG.: mahā kavī yuvānā MŠ. Followed in PG by yo no dharmah parāpatat, Stenzler translates yuvā with dharmah but observes that the text is corrupt, and Oldenberg abandons it dīrghaprayajyum atı yo vanuşyati RV. TS MS N: dīrghaprayajyū havışā vṛdhānā MS TB. The latter occurs in a modification of

- the RV. verse (which MS elsewhere repeats without change), with transfer of the epithet to the dual divinity addressed (originally Indra-Varuna, here Mitra-Varuna).

 asvnendram na jāgru (TB °vī) VS MS. TB. Comm. on VS takes jāgru as dual adjective, but it is rather an adverb (so BR and VV 2 §525). In TB it is made to agree with asvinā
 - §763. Transfers of epithet between dual and plural are:
- navena pūrvam dayamānāh syāma (VS. TB. dayamāne) VS. MS. KS † 19 13 TB. (both). The plural agrees with the subject, the dual with devī to whom the passage is addressed
- sa mśwācīr (KS °cī) abhı caşte ghrtācīh (KS. °cī) RV VS. TS MS KS. SB The original probably applies to sacrificial ladles, the no noun is mentioned, cf SB 9 2 3 17. KS. attracts the adjectives into agreement with rodasī For the phonetic aspects of the change see VV 2 §357

8. Phrase inflection

- §764. Here are presented cases in which the shift of number is due to adaptation of old material to a new context. Sometimes all three numbers, singular, dual, and plural, occur in different forms. Thus sakhāyau saptapadāv abhūva (ApMB.† °padā babhūva) ApMB HG:

9 Dualization, or the reverse, in the same ritual context

§767. The next group includes variants in which the form shifts from dual to singular or plural, or vice versa, in the same context, in accordance with a change in the number of the entity designated, which may be the same or different. Included are some ritual unas and vikaras where the context seems to us to be the same, the number of the entity only shifting. It is perhaps doubtful where the line should be drawn, or whether it should be drawn at all, between this and the preceding group, we have tried to draw it at the point where the context ceases to be 'different' and becomes essentially 'the same', but these terms are not strictly definable, and ritual unas perhaps belong rather with the preceding—When the change of number involves transfer of an epithet, it is of course treated above, §§762 ff, and when, without such transference, the change of number seems to be due to some sort of formal or external adaptation or assimilation, it is included below in §§773 ff §768. Variations of all three numbers:

- tan (AV. tatra) nau samskriam AV. VS 4. 34, KS: tan nah samskriam TS. MS. The dual is taken to refer to the sacrificer and the offering addressed (perhaps better to him and his wife?); the plural refers to him and his associates, or perhaps really to him alone.
- sā no (AV. nau) nābhh paramam jāmi tan nau RV. AV. The ('editorial') plural occurs also earlier in the verse. The dual of AV. is doubtless secondary (cf. Oldenberg on RV. 10. 10 4); it refers to Yama and Yamī, and is doubtless assimilated to the following nau, which has the same reference

§773. In a group of cases the number is changed by attraction to the number of some other word in the context, in a rather external way, the change in meaning, the apparently real enough, is not dictated by the logical requirements of the situation; in essence the variation is one of mechanical form assimilation. Thus, all three numbers of the vocative of vāyu are found in the HG form of the following. With cunning mainty, HG, makes the number of the vocative agree each time with the number of the pronoun, which refers to sacrificial posts Oldenberg fails to understand HG, not having in mind the MS parallel, and translates all the nouns as nominatives, emending vāyo to vāyuh, so as to make the nouns predicates to the pronouns:

ete te vāyo (HG. vāyavah) MS. HG: eşa te vāyo MS MŚ HG: etau te vāyā HG: vāyav eşa (and ete, etau) te vāyo ApŚ 'This is (these are) thine, O Vāyu (HG also O Vāyus, dual and plural)' Note that, inconsistently, the pronoun te is always singular, even in HG §774. Other cases, first those involving singular and dual, are:

vrşanam (MS °nā) āndābhyām VS MS In the asvamedha 'I gratify the bull (the two bulls) with his testicles.' The bull or bulls are imaginary, transcendental beings, and there is no reason for the duality except the duality of āndābhyām So with the next two, which occur in the same context

karnābhyām śrotram (MS śrotre) VS MS See prec ndyutam kanīnakābhyām (MS KSA kanīni*) VS MS KSA : ndyutau kanānakābhyām TS Cf. prec two śrotram (AV. śrotre) te cakre āstām RV AV. The AV makes śrotra dual because of the predicate cakre, 'thy two wheels'.

yena striyam (PG śriyam, SS striyāv) akmutam (PG. °tām, SS akurutam) SS PG SMB. GG. 'By which ye two (Aśvins) made woman (two women) 'SS 's variant is phonetic in character (VV 2 §237), with the help of attraction to the number of the Aśvins.

§775. In a couple of instances, however, the assimilated dual form seems to be the original, and the singular is substituted for it in secondary texts because for one reason or another they feel that the entity designated should be singular, despite its reference to a duality:

putrah pıtarāv (AV °ram) avṛnīta pūṣā RV. AV In both texts the reference is to the Aśvins; the singular of AV. is secondary and may be due to a feeling that paternity should be single, tho phonetic considerations are also involved (VV 2 §237).

duhāthām gharmadughe wa dhenū AV (in Conc. preceded by vāmam, which belongs to the preceding pāda): samduhāthām gharmadugheva dhenuh TB The dual entity heaven and earth is compared to a milch cow, or in AV. to two cows; the assimilation in this case is natural enough, and is doubtless the original form.

§776. A special case of this form-assimilation is constituted by the variation in the form of substantive pronouns, which may be either neut. singular (indefinite) without reference to the number and gender of the predicate noun, or on the other hand may agree in gender and number with the predicate; the latter is the more common usage in the Veda, and is found in the original (RV.) form of the following variant, while secondary texts use a neuter singular (cf. §§730, 812):

mukham kim asya (VS asyāsīt) kau (AV. VS kim) bāhū, kā (TA. kāv, AV. VS kim) ūrū pādā (TA †pādāv) ucyete RV AV. VS. TA.

§777. Form assimilation between dual and plural occurs in the variant sā no (nau) nābhih etc, §771, and in the following:

sese vanesu mātroh (SV. mātrsu) RV. SV 'Thou lurkest in the sticks of wood, thy (two) mothers' Dual in RV. because reference is to the two arans; plural in SV by attraction to vanesu vānno vājanto vājam .VS. TS. KS. SB. Aps.: vānnau vājantau vājam .MS. KS. MS. See the several entries in Conc Two associated formulas; in KS (probably original) one (dual) is addressed to one pair of the racing team, the other to all the team (cf. KS. 14 7: 206 22 f.) The other texts assimilate in one direction or the other; both are dual in MS, both plural in VS. TS.

11. Corruptions and errors

§778. The following seem to be due to corruptions and errors:

devī dvārau (Vait devīr dvāro) mā mā samtāptam TS. AS. Vait. The dual of the word for 'door' may be used, with reference to the two panels (here the two doorposts are actually addressed) The plural is equally familiar. But the dual verb makes it almost impossible to construe the plural of Vait, and Caland's translation seems silently to abandon it. The form dvāro may be regarded as a phonetic corruption for dvārau (VV 2 §732).

saha nau vratapate (TS MS add vratinor, KS text vratapā vratīnām) vratānī VS. TS. MS KS ŠB. The plural of KS. is inexplicable, in view of the dual nau; the best ms in fact omits vratīnām, and so KS should probably be read; vratīnām probably crept in in the

GENDER

1. Male and female persons and animals

§779. We shall begin our treatment of gender (see §§118-25 for a summary) with variations between names of male and female animals or persons, varying with each other. They usually occur in contexts where either is equally appropriate; sometimes we think we can see the motive of the change, but often we find none. Thus, first, male and female animals:

hotā yakşat sarasvatīm meşasya (KS. meşyā) vapāyā VS KS. It is likely that KS uses a female animal as more appropriate to the sex of Sarasyatī. So in the next two: §783. We come now to variants involving shift of grammatical gender in nouns. This shift may be signalized by a change in the form of the noun itself, as when a masculine or neuter a stem varies with an otherwise identical feminine \bar{a} or $\bar{\imath}$ stem of like meaning; or when an n stem appears now with a nominative in \bar{a} (masc.), now with one in a (neut.) It may on the other hand appear only in the gender of a modifying adjective or pronoun, because the noun itself has the same form in either of the varying genders; this is true for instance of many caseforms of the i and i declensions and of the diphthongal stems. We shall not separate these two types in our list, but shall divide the materials first according to the genders which interchange, and secondly according to what appears to be the regular or primary gender of the word. In some cases the change in gender seems to be due to assimilation to another word in the context.

Masculine and feminine

§784. We begin with words which seem to be regularly or primarily masculine, the feminine forms being apparently exceptional or at least historically secondary Thus the word yons is always mase in RV, and the fem is rare in the older language; its origin may be connected with the word's meaning, 'womb', which suggests fem gender Among the variants, MS. and KS, the oldest YV. texts, show only mase gender, with one exception (the first) in MS:

- yā (MS. ya) işavo yātudhānānām VS. TS MS SB NilarU ApMB. The word isu is regularly fem. in the older language (always in RV.). Here the masc. pronoun may have been due to the series of masc. ye's in the preceding and following formulas

Masculine and neuter

§790. Among the masc.-neut variants appear a number in which we think we see reason for believing that the shift is due to assimilation in gender to another word in the context, most commonly a predicate noun Special attention will be called to these.

§791. We begin with words which seem to be regularly or originally masculine. Thus, first, the word asu as neuter is recorded heretofore only in a Hindu lexicon (see BR) Even Benfey's Glossary to SV. gives the gender as masc. Yet the following is the only occurrence in SV, and here it is obviously neuter; the VSK. reading in the second variant confirms such a possibility. We see no chance of interpreting either case as due to assimilation:

asum (SV asu) rınann apah RV SV.

vyānaš (KS apānaš) ca me 'suš (VSK 'su) ca me VS. VSK TS. MS. KS. kṛnotu so adhvarāñ (VS TB 'rā) jātavedāh VS. MS KS TB. AŚ.: hṛnutām tāv adhvarā jātavedasau MŚ.. so adhvarā (AB. 'dhvarā karati) jātavedāh AB ŚB Nowhere has adhvara been recorded as neuter; but this case is well attested and certain. VS. comm interprets adhvarān; TB. comm considers the form a loc!

- grīsmo dalsinah pakṣah (MS dakṣnam pakṣam) MS TB. TA. Followed in MS. by varṣā uttaram (sc pakṣam). MS. unmistakably makes pakṣa neuter. Neither BR. nor pw. record such a usage; Monier Williams states that it occurs 'in one passage' which is not cited.
- [gātum yajñāya gātum (TA once gātu .gātu) yajñapataye RVKh TS. MS. SB. TB. TA (both) N. But TA Poons ed has only gātum, which is doubtless the true reading]
- §792. In several cases a masc noun is made anomalously neuter, apparently under the influence of the neuter gender of a predicate noun: nikāyaś (MS KS °yam) chandah VS. TS. MS KS ŠB. In this and the next it is quite likely that the original form of the variant pāda had the variant word in neuter gender, by assimilation to chandah, and that the regular masc form is actually secondary.

samudram (VS SB °ras) chandah VS TS. MS KS SB.

- vıvadhas chandah VS. TS SB: vīvadham (KS °dhas) chandah MS. KS. yajñas (TA yajñam) tapah TA MahānU. Poona ed. of TA. has v. I. yajñas; and so the comm reads in both edd.

- vatso jarāyu (KS garbho jarāyuh) pratidhuk pīyūşah AV. TS. MS KS jarāyu is regularly neuter; the Hindu lexicons allow it to be either masc. or fem KS may be thus interpreted, or it might be considered an adaptation to the neuter us-stems, cf. the next
- [svam (JB TA punar) jarāyu (TA °yur, Poona ed text °yu, but note seems to indicate that all mss read °yur) gaur wa AV KS JB TA ApŠ Here the word is accusative; consequently if jarāyur be read, it could only be understood as if from a neuter us-stem]
- yanı kşetranı ya vana AV.. yanı dhanvanı ye vana (read vanah with two mss) ApMB. vana, regularly neuter, is quoted once as masc in BR, from the Ramayana
- [catvārī śrāgā trayo asya pādāh RV. VS MS KS GB TA MahānU ApŠ N. Conc quotes śrāgās for GB, but Gaastra reads śrāgā with all mss, and obviously this is the only possible reading]
- §794. In the following we seem to find assimilatory influence of other words in the passage:
- dhartram (TS. °ras) catustomah VS TS MS KS SB The predicate noun assimilates the regularly neuter dhartra in TS
- vyomā (TS vyoma) saptadašah VS TS MS. KS. SB KS MS The regular neut gender of vyoman is found only in TS Undoubtedly the original reading of the formula was vyomā, masc by assimilation to saptadašah (stomah).
- ayam sahasramānavo (so read) vidharma (ApŚ °mā) SV. ApŚ MŚ Probably assimilation of gender in ApŚ, to the subject ayam
- nāko 'st bradhnah (MS bradhno 'st) pratishā samkramanam (ApŠ onah, MS okramanatamam) KS ApŠ MS No masc. samkramana is recorded, and the word can scarcely be an adjective, but it seems likely that ApS. assimilates either to the gender of nāko and bradhnah, or more vaguely to the personalization of the goldpiece here addressed in personalized guise
- §795. We come now to words in which both masculine and neuter gender are, as far as we can see, equally standard, or at any rate we cannot tell which is more original in the absolute, tho textual criticism may suggest that one form or the other was first used in these particular formulas:
- yat sanoh sanum aruhat (SV. sanv aruhah) RV. SV Both genders in RV yeşu saumanaso bahuh (MG saumanasam mahat) AV VS ApS LS SG. MG: eti saumanaso bahuh HG As an abstract the word would be expected to be neuter, but the masc is otherwise known (eg AV. 3. 30 7) and is clearly primary in this variant.

adıtyā uşnīşam ası MS. TA ApŚ. MŚ. indrānyā uşnīşah VS. ŚB Both genders are familiar, probably the neut is primary here akṣttiś ca me kūyavāś ca me TS: kuyavam (MS. v. l kū°) ca me 'kṣttiś (VS 'kṣttam) ca me VS MS KS The word yava is masc, and is followed by kūyava in TS This stem seems to occur only here except that RV has kuyava as a demoniac name or epithet (here of course masc) Most likely the majority of texts have the original gender (neut).

[prajananah (Mahān U. °nam) TA Mahān U. So Conc, but both edd of TA read prajanah; Mahān U has vv ll prajanah and prajananah. Either prajanah or prajananam must be read; both would be regular]

§796. We may mention here a few cases concerning the mase and neut stems brahman, which are properly different words distinguished by shift of accent; in unaccented texts their oblique cases are indistinguishable. See VV 2 §460 for some of these and other somewhat similar cases considered from the phonetic asp 2t (a: \bar{a}) yam (MahānU. yad) aniah samudre kavayo vayanti (MahānU vadanti) TA MahānU Referring to bráhman or brahmán; even in TA. other neuter pronouns occur in the context

tan no brahmā (TAA. °ma) pracodayāt MS TAA (not TA ') MahānU. brahma (ApŠ °mā) devānām prathamajā rtasya PB. ApŠ · brahmadevī prathamajā rtasya JB 2. 258 (Caland, PB transl 21 3 7 note).

brahma devakṛtam upahūtam TS MS. TB AŚ ŚŚ: brahmā devakṛtapahūtā ŚB The context is the same and refers to the cow, in ŚB. only is the subject of this pāda personalized by assimilation to the cow, the pple being made fem. and the stem brahman personal (quasi-fem?): 'she, god-created, has been invoked as Brahmā'. VV 2 $460 is incorrect.

Feminine and neuter

§797. Here also the shift in gender seems to be due sometimes to assimilation to adjoining words. We begin with words which are usually or originally fem:

- varṣāś cākṣuṣyah VS SB.: varṣāṇ cākṣuṣāṇ TS. MS KS. The ramy season is meant; the gender is usually fem, but occasionally neut, doubtless because varṣa 'ram' is neut in the early language, and in this variant the original form doubtless had neut gender
- ājyam uktham avyathāyai (TS avyathayat, KS. avyathāya) stabhnātu (MS. notu) VS TS MS KS SB Instead of avyathā, which is to be expected, KS uses an otherwise unknown avyatha 'firmness' (probably neut, less likely masc). The same with praūgam uktham, marutvatīyam u', niskevalyam u', vaišvadevāgnimārute ukthe, etc. §798. Due to assimilation to an adjoining word.
- nıştyam (KS. °yā) nakşatram MS. KS This rare name for the constellation svāti occurs as nıştyā in TB (see BR s v.). We assume that KS has the 'proper' form and that MS. assimilates to nakşatram, as in the next.
- visākham (TS °khe, KS. v. l °khā) nakṣatram TS MS KS. See §752. §799. The regular or original gender is neuter in the next group:
- tābhir yāsi dūtyām (MS. 'yam) sūryasya RV. MS. yābhir yāsi dūtyām sūryasya TB. See Pischel VSt 1. 22 The regular form is dūtya; but in this variant, of course, the fem is older
- asmākena vrjanenā jayema RV. AV : arīstāso vrjanībhir jayema AV.
- [idam tava prasarpanam (JB. °nā) RV JB † 3 169c Oertel and Caland emend JB to °nam, as the gender of idam seems to require]
- [the tisro 'te rocanāh TB. Apš.: etu tisro 'te rocanā AV So Conc There is no actual variant in the form, since it is followed by y-, AV. p p to be sure reads rocanā, as if neut, which is the regular gender of the word; but the fem adjective tisro proves that rocanāh fem. must have been understood]
 - §800. Due to assimilation:
- višo yantre (KS yantrī) nudamāne arātim KS. TB. ApŠ The word is in appositon with devī (dual fem), and is assimilated to it in gender in KS, yantre is neuter, but the change may have been helped along by the fact that it is formally ambiguous, since it might be derived from a fem *yantrā as well as from neut yantra
- prthwy udapuram annena wstā TS: udapurā nāmāsy annena wstā MS KS. A nonce-word, but the neuter gender of TS is-rather to be expected (pura neut); it is assimilated in gender to the subject in MS. KS. (probably original).
- §801. In the rest either gender seems justifiable; mostly nonce-words are concerned, but the first contains svasti or oth, in which both genders are known:

- parasur (TS parsur) vedih parasur nah svasti (TS. °tih) AV. TS. The loss of final visarga is an easy phonetic change (VV 2 §381), and svastih occurs just before, even in AV. On the other hand TS. may have svastih by assimilation to this preceding form.
- kıyambv atra rohatu RV.: kyambur atra rohatu (TA. jayatam) AV. TA.

 The word is known only here
- asyopasadyām mā chausīt ŚB. BrhU.: asyopasadye mā riṣāma ŚG.† 3. 7. 3c, Kauś upasadī: upasadya, probably 'worship'; neither known elsewhere.
- kşatrasya tvä paraspāya brahmanas tanvam pāhi VS. ŚB.: brahmanas tvā paraspāyāh (MS. °pāya, p p. °pāyāh) kşatrasya tanvas pāhi MS. TA. (pratīka, °pāyā [tti], ApŚ. MŚ). Stems paraspa: °pā; as abstracts ('protection') both recorded only here. See §152 In the same passages:
- prāṇasya tvā paraspāya (MS °pāya, v. 1 °pāyās, p. p. °pāyāh) cakṣuṣas MS TA. (pratīka ApŚ.). And:
- divas tvā paraspāyāh (MS. °pāya) antarīksasya . MS. TA. (pratīka ApS.).
 - §802. Apparently due to assimilation:
- varunasya skambhanam (KS. °ny) asi TS KS. MahānU. Apš` Nonceword; either gender is formally good; KS. doubtless assimilates to the gender of samyā 'yoke-pin', which is addressed. So in the next, in the same context:
- varunasya skambhasarjanam (KS. °ny) ası TS. MS KS. MahānU. MŚ.: varunasya skambhasarjanī sthah VS. ŠB. On the dual see §769.

3. Distinctive feminine forms varying with masculine as 'common gender'

- §803. An interesting little group of cases concerns words which refer to feminine entities and appear in one variant in distinctively feminine forms, while the other variant shows forms that are masculine or at least not distinctively feminine; they may be called 'common gender' forms. Thus the acc pl. of the 2d personal pronoun is, of course, regularly yuşmān without regard to gender. But since the ending suggests masculine rather than feminine gender, the form yuşmās is twice used in VS. (followed by SB) when referring to feminine entities (Whitney 492a, Wackernagel 3 p. 468):
- yuşmān (VS. SB. yuşmā) ındro 'ornīta vrtratūrye VS. TS. MS. KS. SB. TB.
- śwam āyantam abhy atra yuşmān (VS. ŚB. yuşmāḥ) VS. TS. MS. KS. ŚB.

§804. Somewhat similarly, the technical priest-name hotrāśansin is once feminized when it is made to refer to āpah, fem, in a ritual passage: āpo me hotrāśansinah (AG °sinyah) ŞB ApŚ AG

§805. In the preceding the masculme ('common') form is regular, the feminine unusual and analogical. In a couple of other cases the feminine form is regular. Thus stems in the agent suffix tar regularly have feminines in trī (Whitney 375c, Wackernagel 3 p. 202), but in one variant the 'common gender' form is used with a feminine noun.

adbhir viśvasya bhartrībhih ApMB.: adbhih sarvasya bhartrībhih SG The latter doubtless feels bhartrībhih as an appositional noun 'the waters, bearers of all'

§806. Yet more anomalously, MS once uses the masculine form adhipati instead of the fem adhipati referring to Adit. The formula occurs in a list of similar ones with different god-names, mostly masc, so that adhipati is properly found in most of them, this doubtless helps to determine the use of the common gender form in MS. But all the other texts have the 'proper' fem:

adıtır adhıpatny (MS °patır) ásīt VS TS. MS KS SB

4 The indefinite neuter

§807. A neuter epithet, most commonly an adjective or pronoun, the sometimes the adjective is practically substantivized, is not infrequently used in an indefinite or absolute sense, translatable in English by a periphrasis containing the word 'thing' or the like, or by a pronoun in like construction Such a passage may, in a variant form, appear with a mase or fem form, which indicates that the author has more The mase or fem. clearly in mind the gender of the entity referred to form with definite reference may be dual or plural when the number of the entity referred to requires it, while the indefinite neuter is regularly singular in any case, such variants, involving difference of number as well as gender, have been listed above in §§727 ff. and will not be repeated here, they belong, of course, equally in this group -We shall append here also a group of cases in which an indefinite neuter varies with an equally indefinite masculine, the only difference being that the latter is personal ('such and such a one'), the former impersonal ('such Substantive pronouns, which may either be indefiand such a thing') nite neuter singular, or agree in gender and number with predicate nouns, will also be mentioned here (cf. §§730, 776) -Hirt, IGGr 3 §226, regards the indefinite neuter as an inheritance from a prehistoric period in which grammatical gender did not exist

- §808. Adjectives of definite reference varying with indefinite neuters occur as follows:
- indrasya (also visnor) dhruvo 'si (TS. ApŚ dhruvam asi) VS TS MS. KS. SB. ApŚ. MŚ A knot (granthi, m.) is addressed; hence masc. in most texts. 'Thou art Indra's (Visnu's) firm one (firm thing; Keith 'fixed point'; Caland 'Festes').'
- brahmavani tvā kṣatravanı rāyaspoṣavani paryūhāmi VS. ŚB.: brahmavanım tvā kṣatravanım (TS KS. add rāyaspoṣavanım) paryūhāmi TS. MS. KS MŚ tvā refers in all to a post of udumbara wood, audumbarī (sc. sthūṇā), and is fem. (cf. TS. 6 2. 10 3, and KŚ. 8. 5. 31). In VS ŚB it is made neuter 'thee, a brahman-winning thing' etc Mahīdhara, in his commentarial way, takes it quite simply as for 'vanım with loss of ending, referring to Pān 7 1 39.
- abht tvādhām sahīyasā RV ApMB: upa te 'dhām sahīyasīm AV. The RV. original has a neuter indefinite, 'with that which is stronger, a stronger thing', but really means a plant just like AV., which makes the adjective agree in gender with osadhi.
- ya (yas, yah) strīnām jīvabhojanah VS. TS. KSA ŠŠ: yat strīnām jīvabhojanam Vart. The 'antecedent' is añjim, 'the slippery one', referring to the male member; it is masc. even in Vart. which follows with these indefinite neuters, 'the thing that is
- agnir ekākşareņa (MS. KS. °kşarayā) prāṇam (MS. TS KS. vācam) udajayat (VS ŚB add tam ujjeṣam) VS TS MS. KS ŚB And so aświnau dvyakṣareṇa (°kṣarayā), vṣṇus tryakṣareṇa etc, 17 items in same passage With the fems. doubtless vācā is to be supplied: 'with monosyllabic (etc) utterance'. The accent (ék°) shows that possessive adjective compounds are meant in all texts (not, then, 'with one syllable'). Mahīdhara supplies chandasā with them, but it seems more likely that they are indefinite. 'with the monosyllabic (thing) '
- undrasya vajro 'sı vārtraghnah TS MS. KS TB MŠ ApMB.: undrasya vārtraghnam ası VS. ŠB. Since a bow is used in the ritual of the Vāj school, VS ŠB may understand dhanus; yet it is at least as likely that the adjective is indefinite ('thing relating to the Vṛtraslayer, victorious').
- §809. Pronouns, relative and demonstrative, varying between indefinite neuter and definite masc or fem.:
- tad asvinā paridhattam svasti TS.: tam asvinā paridhattam svasti (MS. svastaye) KS. MS. The mase refers to wind, here invoked in the ritual. The indefinite neuter must really have the same reference.

- sam tam (KS. ApŚ. tat) sincatu rādhase (KS ApŚ °sā) RV. KS. Vait ApŚ tam refers to soma-drops (drapsa, anśu); this is repeated in KS. once with the indefinite neuter tat. Another KS. passage adapts the formula to a different context, where tat refers to chidram; this is repeated in ApŚ.
- yām āśām emi kevalī sā me astu AV.: yad ıchāmi manasā sakāmah TB. Followed by:
- videyam enām manasi pravisļām (TB enad dhṛdaye nivisṭam) AV. TB. The definite 'what desire I go to' of AV. is replaced by 'what (thing) I desire' in TB; hence neut. for fem in the following pāda
- pumān enam tanuta ut krnatti RV.: pumān enad vayaty udgrnatti AV 'This' in RV. refers to yajāa in the preceding. In AV. no word for sacrifice occurs in the context, and enad is indefinite, tho it must mean something of the same sort
- yam āśirā (VS. yad āśīrdā) dampatī vāmam aśnutah VS. TS In VS, 'what good thing'; in TS gender influenced by the following putra, which is the specific boon obtained.
- yad ındro apibac chacibhih VS KS AB. SB. TB. AS ApS: yam asyendro apibañ śacibhih MS Preceded by yad atra śislam (rıptam) rasınah sutasya The relative is made masc. in MS. in reference to sutasya (m) which immediately precedes. Followed by:

- deva savitar etam (LS. etat) te yajñam prāhur SS LS.: etam te deva savitar yajñam prāhur.. VS. SB. The context of LS refers to samidh (fem), and the pronoun must be indefinite ('this thing').

- tad (MS. tam) aham manase prabravīmi VSK. TB. ApS. KS. MS. Vait. 'I proclaim this (truth; MS him, referring to Savitar).'
- kam (KapS ms kim) svid garbham prathamam dadhra (KapS. °rur) āpah RV. VS. TS MS KS. KapS Raghu Vira em to kam, wrongly; Oertel 18 In RV. etc. kam is adjectival to garbham; in KapS substantival, 'what (thing)?' On dadhrur see Edgerton, Language 10 243f.
- tad anu preta sukrtām u lokam VS. ŠB.: tam anu prehi sukrtasya lokam TS. KS It seems that tam must go with lokam; there is then no expressed object of the verb in TS. KS. The VS has a lect fac.; tad is the object and refers back to yad .of the preceding.

- eşa (MahānU. etat) te kāma TAA. MahānU.: kāmaitat te AV. etc. The TAA. comm. supplies ājyabhāgah; that on MahānU. havih, but the latter with etat is surely indefinite. The formula kāmaitat te occurs in a different context and is perhaps not really to be brought in here. In the same passage:
- esa (MahānU, etat) te manyo TAA. MahānU.
- §810. In other cases an indefinite neuter varies with a masculine which is equally indefinite, but personal. This occurs especially in negative expressions, where the meaning is 'no one': nothing':
- ahir jaghāna (PG dadarša) kam (AG. MG. kim) cana AG. PG. HG. ApMB. MG. 'The serpent has killed (seen) no one (nothing).' riam nātveti kim (GG. kaš) cana TB. ApS MS. GG.

- nakir (SV. na ky) evā (SV. evam) yathā tvam RV. SV. Wackernagel 3 p. 562 considers (na) ki (found only in SV.) a mere corruption. To us it seems clear that it is a deliberate variant, a neuter to RV.'s masc, formed on the analogy of the endingless neut. nomacc. of a stem nouns. See also §820 where both naka and RV. nakis are adverbial.
- yasmāj jātam na purā kim canawa VS.: yasmāj jāto na paro 'nyo (ŚŚ. anyo) astī JB ŚŚ.: yasmād anyo na paro astī jātaḥ PB.· yasmād anyan na param kim canāstī Vaīt.: yasmān na jātah paro anyo astī ('stī) VS. Substantive pronouns in equational sentences

§812. In introducing equational sentences, pronouns may be in the indefinite neuter singular without regard to the gender or number of the noun referred to, or they may agree in gender and number with the latter. Cf. §§730, 776, where other examples are quoted, and §826

5. Adverbial forms

§813. Related to the indefinite neuter are the numerous neuter forms used as adverbs; it is the indefiniteness of the neuter gender which makes it the favorite form of adverbs When forms of other genders are used adverbially, we take it that in principle they must have been originally definite, with ellipsis of some noun; altho, to be sure, there are such cases where it is difficult for us to suggest the noun to be supplied, and we may admit that such forms come to be used as stereotyped adverbs. Among the variants we find distinctively fem. as well as neut adverbs, varying with adjectives of any of the three genders, as well as with other adverbs.

- §814. We begin with the rare instances of fem adverbs varying with mase adjectives:
- ud enam uttaram (VS TS KS ŚB °rām) naya AV. VS TS. MS KS ŚB. Vait ApŚ MŚ Kauś; ud asmān uttarān naya ApŚ

- §818. And once a fem noun, in the dative (quasi-adverbial), varies with a neuter adverb:
- tam (MS. tan) mā devā avantu šobhāyai (MS °yi) TS. MS. TA 'Unto splendor' virtually equals 'splendidly'. See §487.
 - §819. Neuter adjective varying with fem adverb:
- upamam (SV. °mām) devatātaye RV. SV upamam goes with savah preceding; upamām must be an adverb.
- §820. In the rest both variant forms seem to be adverbial. The only clear case of masc-neut variation here concerns the Rigvedic nakis, formally a nom sing masc, but sometimes used adverbially; twice in the same verse SV. replaces it by naki, on which see §810 above: nakir (SV. Svidh. na ki) devā minīmasi (SV Svidh inī) RV. SV. Svidh. nakir (SV. na ky) ā yopayāmasi RV. SV
- §821. Once, álso, SV. substitutes nakih for RV. (nū) cit: nū cit (SV. nakih) sa dabhyate janah RV. SV.

- §822. We may mention also the following, which simulates a mase-neut variation with the forms kam: kim, altho of course kam cannot be, historically, an acc sg mase of the stem ka-prajāyai kam (AV, kim) amriam nāvrnīta RV AV
- §823. As to fem -neut variants, we find chiefly a group involving the equivalent adverbs pratarām and "ram (once samtarām: "ram): pra tāry agne prataram na āyuh RV MS. KS ApŚ: prātāry agne pratarām na āyuh TS

6 Pronouns referring to nouns of different gender

- §825. Pronouns which refer to a series of nouns of different genders may agree with the nearest noun in gender, or with the gender of the plurality of the nouns, or else they may be mase if the series includes both mase and fem nouns
- tās (ApMB ie) tvā vadhu prajāvatīm AV ApMB Preceded by yā oṣadhayo yā nadyo yānı kṣetrām yā vanā (ApMB yānı dhanvānı ye vanāh, so read) In AV tās follows the gender of the fems of the first pāda, in ApMB ie follows that of the nearest noun, vanāh (on which see §793), or is masc as including both masc and fem (see next)
- rohit kundrnäci golatiikä tä apsarasäm (VS te 'psarasäm) VS. TS MS
 KSA Since rohit is regularly fem, the fem pronoun is expected (with only fem nouns) The mase of VS is apparently due to taking rohit as masc (so VS comm.); with a series including masc and fem nouns, a masc pronoun is justified by usage (Renou, Gram p. 500).

- 7. Pronouns agreeing with antecedent or predicate noun.
- §826. When the antecedent and the predicate of a substantive pronoun are of different genders, the pronoun may agree with either (cf. §812).
- namas te brhate yat ta uttarato yat ta uttarah pakşah LS · namas te brhate yas ta uttarah pakşah AA · namas te brhate yas ta uttara bāhur yas ta uttarah pakşah SS brhat means the sāman of that name Sımılarly namas te rathamtarāya (rātham°) , and namas te vāmadevyāya (rājanāya) , see Conc

 HG: (yadı vṛkṣād yady antarıkṣāt) phalam abhyapaptat tad u vāyur eva ApMB The neuter tad of ApMB. HG refers back to phalam and keeps its gender, despite the masc predicate vāyur. The masc sa of AV. is doubtless to be explained by the gender of the predicate, altho apām stokah of the preceding verse may also have been influential
- striyah satīs tān (TA tā) u me punsa āhuh RV. AV TA N 'Those that are women, they declared to me to be men' The original makes the pronoun agree in gender with the predicate, TA changes it to agree with the antecedent
- §827. Somewhat similarly, an adjective epithet in the following variant agrees in gender either with the subject (Agni, so most texts), or with an adjoining noun—predicate of a different clause this time, but one which immediately precedes and is closely associated in TA, the text which makes this agreement.
- samprıyah pasubhir bhava (TB. Ap$ bhuvat, KS °yah pasubhih) MS
 KS TB Ap$ · samprıyam prajayā pasubhir bhuvat TA Subject is Agni in all, the formula purīşam ası precedes in TA and KS,

8 Compound nouns

§828. On the familiar use of neuter singular dvandvas as the equivalent of duals (or plurals) of any gender see §751. Peculiar is the case of the dual stem ahorātra, for the masc. or neut gender of compounds in -rātra, see Wackernagel 2, 1, p 40 Note that there is nothing in the context of the following variant to disprove that -rātrās and -rātre may be fem (which gender the word has at least in VS 14 30): ahorātrās (KS TA °trāni) te kalpantām VS KS ŠB TA, ahorātre te (TB me) kalpetām MS TB.

§829. Occasionally shift of gender is due to taking a form in one case as a karmadhāraya, then keeping the gender of the last member of the compound, and elsewhere as a bahuvrīhi, then agreeing in gender with the noun it modifies Thus:

ayakşmayā (KS. °mena) parı bhuja VS TS MS KS NîlarU Preceded in all by yā te hetir mīdhuşļama, haste babhūva te dhanuh, tayāsmān višvatas tvam (with slight variants). Since KS has fem tayā (referring to hetir) in pāda c, like the rest, the neut ayakşmena of pāda d can only be taken as a karmadhāraya, 'with non-disease' pīvoannāń (VS °nā, MS °nam, p p °nān) rayivrdhah sumedhāh RV VS MS AB. TB. AŚ ApŚ All texts but VS intend pīvoannān, a bahuvrīhi, 'he seeks men with rich food 'Mahīdhara, followed by Griffith, takes VS in the same way, calmly stating that the final n of the acc. masc is lost! Unless it is a phonetic variant or corruption (cf VV 2 §307, to which this should be added), it must of course be a karmadhārava. acc pl neut: 'he seeks rich foods' tatrām dahre (MahānU dahram) gaganam višokah (TA Poons ed °kam. v I °kah) TA MahānU višokah 'freedom from grief', coordinate with gaganam, which is modified by višokam 'free from grief'.

9 Nom. agentis (masc): nom actionis (fem or neut)

§830. Occasionally the same (or virtually the same) word is used either as a noun of agent (masc) or a noun of action (neut or fem. according to formation):

eşa vas tadınıācanah SS: eşa vah sadınıācanam AB. Comm on AB paraphrases by adhyāpanam and supplies karişyatı Better, 'he (shall be) to you instruction in what is right' SS, ' instructor in that'

sā (MS yā) prathamā samskṛtir viśvavārā (MS yajñe asmin) VS MS SB: sa prathamah samkṛtir viśvakarmā TS TB ApŚ. The latter make a noun of agent out of samkṛti

10. Substitution of one noun for another

§831. Sometimes the change of gender in an epithet is due to the substitution of one noun for another, altho the context is in general the same. Thus, as between mase and fem:

- avasṛṣṭā (TB. ApŚ. °tah) parā pata RV AV SV. VS TS TB. Vait. ApŚ. AG Followed by:
- śaravye brahmasamśtie (TS °tā) RV AV SV. VS TS. śaro brahmasamśtiah TB. ApŚ For śaravyā TB ApŚ substitute the synonym śara.
- ūrvam gavyam parişadanto agman RV KS ('surrounding it they penetrated into the prison-cave of the kine') · urvīm gavyām parişadam no akran AV (a far-reaching Verballhornung; Whitney, 'they have made for us a wide conclave rich in kine')
- gireh pravartamānakah RV. girer avacarantikā AV. Preceded by kuşumbhakas tad abravīt RV, karnā śvāvit tad abravīt AV. The fem gender of śvāvidh is otherwise unrecorded and is ignored by the dictionaries
 - §832. As between masc and neut:
- yam (AV. TS ApS. yat) te devī nirrtir ā babandha,
- pāšam (AV. TS. dāma) grīvāsv avicariyam (VS SB avicriyam, AV avimokyam yat),
- tam te (AV. tat te, TS ıdam te tad) vı şyāmy āyuşo na madhyāt (MS KS nu madhye, AV āyuşe varcase balāya) AV. VS TS MS KS ŚB, and the first in ApŚ MŚ Here the two synonyms are pāśa mase and dāman neut.
 - §833. As between fem and neut:
- yatheyam strī pautram agham na rodāt AG. SMB. PG. ApMB HG: yathedam strīpautram aganma rudriyāya MG. The latter has a far-reaching reconstruction; idam agrees with strīpautram
- §834. These cases, where the nouns to which the variant epithets apply are clearly expressed, are simple enough. More dubious are some cases in which, without change of the general context, an epithet changes its gender, apparently in agreement with nouns which in at least one form, and usually in both, are not expressed in the context at all. A simple instance, requiring no comment, is the following, in which the late RV. hymn 6.75 speaks of the bow as 'father of many daughters' (arrows?), bahvīnām fem, for which MS. substitutes 'of many sons', bahūnām masc (no one would want many daughters!):
- bahvīnām (MS bahūnām) pitā bahur asya putrah RV. VS TS MS KSA ApŚ.
- §835. In other cases the nouns denoted by the variant epithets are in one or both cases often uncertain Masculine and feminine.
- tram uttamāsy oṣadhe RV VS · uttamo asy oṣadhīnām AV The AV. 6 15. 1a repeats RV. 10 97 23 with change of gender, apparently referring to an unnamed plant with masc name (according to the comm palāša, but Kauś uses barley).

[ati dhanveva $t\bar{a}n$ thi RV. AV SV VS: dadhanveva $t\bar{a}$ ihi TA: nidhanveva $t\bar{a}n$ imi TA. The TA repeats the verse in the same context, once recording $t\bar{a}(s)$, fem, which seems to us to make no possible sense. We believe that it has merely lost final n by the phonetic process treated VV 2 §309, to which this variant should be added]

- §836. A special case under this heading is formed by an interesting group in which occur pronouns or adjectives referring (in the fem.) to a collective noun such as senā 'army', or (in the masc) to the individuals which compose the collectivity. Cf §715:
- indra āsām (AV MS KS eṣām) netā bṛhaspatih RV AV. SV. VS. TS. MS KS The fem pronoun refers to senāh 'armies', in the context, the mase to the men who compose them

11. Transfer of epithet

- §840. The preceding group of variants leads over naturally to those in which the change in gender is explained by the application of an epithet to different nouns in the context. These are of the same type as those classed under 'transfer of epithet' between various case forms, many of which, it will be remembered, show change in gender as well as case, these will not be repeated here. Transfer of epithet appears in the following variants between masculine and feminine forms:
- īdāno (KS °nā) vahnır (KS. °nım) namasā AV. VS VSK. TS MS KS See §399.
- añgāny ahrutā yasya (TS and vikāra of ŚB. yasyai) VS TS. KS ŚB. Followed by tam mātrā (KS tam devās, TS and vikāra of ŚB tām devāh) sam ajīgamam (KS acīklpan). The masc (original) makes the pronouns refer to the embryo (garbha) of the cow; the vikāra of ŚB contemplates the possibility that the embryo will be female (and belongs with §782) TS, on the other hand, contains a genuine and obvious 'transfer of epit' et', making the pronouns refer to the cow herself (who, to be sure, is referred to in the stanza only by second person pronouns).
- tad agnir animanyatām ayam (PG. 1yam svāhā) PG HG. The simpler, and presumably original, reading is ayam, referring to Agni, 1yam is difficult; Stenzler omits the word in translating and regards it as an intrusion, Oldenberg renders by 'N. N', apparently as standing for the name of the bride (the verse is spoken by the bridegroom); the comm. on PG makes 1yam agree with svāhā as n. pr., 'and this Svāhā (Agni's consort).'
- dvāro devīr anv asya viśve (MS KS viśvāh) AV VS. TS MS KS. The mase viśve is a coordinate subject, along with dvāro; in MS. KS. it becomes an epithet of the latter.
- tām tvam svadhām taus sahopa jīva ApMB.: tam svadhām akṣıtam tauh sahopajīvāsau HG. Most likely HG. is original: 'upon that (wave, ūrmı, which is) sweet drink (and is) inexhaustible live thou with these.' ApMB. makes the pronoun agree with svadhām.
- kasmaı (KS tasmaı) deva vaşad astu tubhyam VS. VSK MS KS. SB: tasmaı ca devi vaşad .TS. The voc masc refers to Prajāpati (or

- 'Ka'); the fem of TS to Pṛthivī (denoted by uttānāyaı in the preceding)
- garbham sravantam agadam akah (AŚ akarma) TS AŚ ApŚ garbham sravantīm agadām akarma ApŚ: ukhām sravantīm agadām akarma (KŚ aganma) KŚ MŚ The masc forms go with garbha, the fems with ukhā (which is clearly understood even when not expressed)
- apāsya ye †sınāh pāšāh KS Ap$ · apāsyāh satvanah pāšān Kau$ The fem refers to Nirrti, preceding, the masc apparently to the yajamāna.
- indrena dattam prayatam (TS dattām prayatām) marudbhih TS MS KS Preceded by ghṛtasya dhārām amṛtasya panthām (MS nā-bhim) The masc pples agree with the last word, the fems with dhārām
- mā hinsişur vahatum uhyamānam (ApMB † ūhyamānām) AV ApMB
 'Let them not injure the procession as it proceeds'. 'let them not injure the procession and her (the bride) that is being carried off'
- §841. In some of the above the 'epithet' is in one form more or less independent, in a couple of others it is quite distinctly so, that is not really an 'epithet' of another word at all (cf. §15).
- pratyaññ ud eși mānuṣān (AV.* °ṣīh) RV AV (both) ArS N Preceded by pratyañ devānām visah The RV mānuṣān = 'humans, men'. in AV sc visah that a form of the adjective tanṣa is required, and supplies ūrmibhih,

- yenā samatsu sāsahah (SV °hih, MŚ °hi) RV SV. VS ApŚ MŚ The original sāsahah is a verb form, in SV. it becomes an adjective epithet of the subject 'whereby (thou shalt be) conquering in battles'. In MŚ this adjective is made to go with the preceding manas.
- brahmādhıguptah (PG brahmābhı°, MG. brahmābhıgūrtam) svārā kṣarāṇı (PG surakṣītah syām, MG svarākṣānah, most mss svarārakṣānah) svāhā (MG omits) AG PG MG In MG. the first word is attracted into agreement with the preceding neuters (bhūtam bhaviṣyad uta bhadram astu me), in the others it goes with the 1st person subject
- dhṛṣāṇam (AV. °no, but Whitney translates °nam; AA dādhṛṣāṇam) dhṛṣitam (AV. °tah, but Whitney translates °tam) savah AV. AA. SS † The masc forms, if accepted, would apply to Indra, the subject of the preceding pāda, instead of to savah The passage is very troublesome
- §843. In the next (cf. §15), the 'epithet' is in one variant made an independent word, ampto modifies panthā(h), but MS. uses amptam as an independent noun, 'nectar':
- prānasya panthā amrto (MS °tam) grahābhyām VS. MS KS TB §844. Transfer of epithet, feminine and neuter:
- upasthāśānām mitravad astv ojah TS MS AS: upasthāśā mitravatīdam ojah KS In KS mitra° agrees with āśā, in the others with ojah. tebhir mā, (ApŠ tābhir no, ApMB tābhis tvā) devah santā nunātu MS.
 - ApŚ ApMB Preceded by śatam pantrā vitatā hy (MS. vitatāny) āsu (sc apsu) The pronoun refers to pantrā in MS, in the others to āsu (apsu)
- §845. The next may perhaps be classified as showing an original 'epithet' made into an independent word (§15); but the reconstruction of the secondary ApMB is very sweeping. It means 'shine thou for my foot-water (padya, neut)'. In the original, padyā is used as an epithet of the noun Virāj:

mayı dohah padyayaı vırajah (MG. adds kalpatam) AG. HG MG: mayı padyayaı vırajo dohah SG SS PG.: mama padyaya vi raja ApMB.

12. Phrase inflection

§846. In many cases variation in gender accompanies and signalizes the adaptation of old material to a new context. Sometimes several pādas, or even an entire verse, is thus readapted. For example, the Rigveda itself contains a verse which is used twice, once in a woman's charm against feminine rivals, and once in a man's charm for dominion and victory. The two verses are practically identical thruout, but the subject is feminine in one case, masculine in the other. Hence the variants:

asapainā (RV. also onah) kilābhuvam (ApMB. obhavam) RV. ApMB; followed immediately in both RV and ApMB by:

asapainah sapainahā RV AV: asapainā sapainaghnī RV. ApMB.

§847. Such a variation may properly be called a vikāra in the technical sense. Many of the variants here included are nothing but technical vikāras or ūhas; often they appear in the same passage, modulated according to different nouns, as in the following, where the AV. in a single hymn applies the epithets once to mitrāvarunau, masc, and once to (dyauh and) prthivī, fem:

jarāmriyum krņutām sammdānau (and one) AV. (both).

§848. We find the following variants of this sort; first some in which all three genders appear-
